NEVER FORGET

Four planes.
Nineteen hijackers.
Almost 3,000 dead.

The numbers add up to the most devastating act of terror ever on U.S. soil. Sept. 11, 2001, was a searing jolt to the American psyche. That has dulled to a painful throb, 10 years hence. Families who suffered the wrenching loss of loved ones have adopted a quiet mission to do good. A nation riled to patriotic fury has cooled to a sober and determined march against evil. The world has changed so much and in so many ways, and the story continues to unfold.
