Commissioners face questions over election integrity

By JULIE AKINS
For The World

Coos County Commissioners were confronted this week by a handful of residents who claim the 2020 election results were fraudulent and who support, according to their comments, a lawsuit against 12 Oregon counties, including Coos, and Secretary of State Shemia Fagan filed after the 2020 elections.

And it wasn't long before things got emotional.

Commission Chair John Sweet threatened expulsion from the meeting if the group claiming election fraud did not stop blurring out while others attempted to speak.

"If you continue, I'll have you removed from the meeting," Sweet said when an opponent to the narrative of a stolen election attempted to testify.

David Jennings said of the lawsuit, "The people making these claims don't like democracy." His statements were met with boos and jeers.

Meantime, The 13 plaintiffs in the case, continue to claim the refuted theory that the 2020 election was stolen. According to the lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Portland, Clackamas, Washington, Multnomah, Lane, Linn, Marion, Jackson, Deschutes, Yamhill, Douglas, Klamath and Coos counties and Fagan fueled "a profound crisis of confidence that constitutes de facto voter suppression and disenfranchisement."

The Secretary of State last week, on October 28, filed a motion to dismiss based on lack of evidence, wrong jurisdiction and failure to prove their point of failure to provide a certificate in connection

Empty Bowls to fight hunger

Hundreds of people came to Southwestern Oregon Community College on Saturday to help fight hunger in the region at the Empty Bowls fundraiser. At the event, people selected one bowl handmade by a local potter and then went inside to receive soup donated by several local restaurants. All of the proceeds are donated to local food banks that feed those in need.

Drazan fights against single-party rule

By WILL CHAPPELL
Country Media

In the last week of the campaign, Christine Drazan has pitched herself as a balancing force against the continued single-party control of Democrats in Salem.

Speaking at a press availability on Tuesday, November 1, Drazan said that Democratic policies have focused on large population centers to the detriment of rural areas of the state, while failing to produce positive results for either.

Drazan acknowledged that Democrats are likely to maintain control of the state house and senate, but said that she would work across the aisle to ensure that all Oregonians are represented in Salem.

She pledged to work to bridge the divide that has formed between rural and urban areas in the state. She said she would work to address the homelessness crisis in Portland, while also taking action on rural issues.

Drazan said that on the campaign trail she had met many business owners who said Oregon did not offer a competitive environment for businesses.

Thus, a primary focus for Drazan, should she be elected, will be the repeal of rules and regulations that she says are overburdening businesses in the state.

Drazan also emphasized that she will focus on reinvigorating Oregon schools, which she said have become too enmeshed in identity politics.

"It is critical to me that our schools be outcome driven," Drazan said. She said that she would reinstate graduation requirements as a first step in that direction.

Drazan cited kindergarten and first grade curriculums that devote time to questions of identity as causes for lagging literacy scores among elementary students in the state. She also said that she would continue to work towards reducing carbon emissions if elected governor.

But she pledged that she would remove onerous burdens from Oregon families in favor of technological solutions to the problem. She pointed to continued operation of dams that have been at risk of closure under Kate Brown's administration as one such solution.

Volunteers with Oregon Bay Area Beautification will help clean up Marshfield Pioneer Cemetery.

Come spend a couple of hours with the Oregon Bay Area Beautification (OBAB) group and celebrate Veteran's Day to help honor and beautify the nearly 100 Veterans and other burial plots in the historical Marshfield Pioneer Cemetery at the Marshfield High School. The 2nd Saturday cleanup will be on Saturday, November 12, the day after Veteran's Day.

Volunteers will meet at the Marshfield High School, located at 750 Ingersoll Ave, Coos Bay, near the Cemetery Gate and sign in at 12:30 p.m. The clean up effort is from 1-3 p.m. Join volunteers as they help remove invasive plants from further destroying the gravesites, some over 100 years old. Learn more about local history and the veterans from US wars since the Civil War that reside there This wonderfully located piece of Coos County history is the final resting place of Coos County pioneers and historic figures. This family friendly volunteer event will involve invasive plant removal and trimming shrubs. Bring work gloves, gardening tools, water, rain/sun protection, and proper yard work attire. Kids with adult supervision welcome! Teenagers over 15 years old without adult supervision are welcome too, but only if you have a release form signed by your parent or guardian. You can contact OBAB for a release form. OBAB schedules cleanups on the second Saturday of each month in the Coos Bay, North Bend, and Charleston area. There will be no project for the month of December, and regular 2nd Saturday cleanups will resume starting January 14. Register for Coos County master gardener volunteers

The Coos County Extension Service is offering a 6-week Master Gardener training course beginning January 12, 2023. Master Gardeners are volunteer educators who share safe, effective gardening practices with the community through Plant Clinics, garden seminars and involvement in plant sales and community booths. Training for the program comes through OSU professionals and local experts who offer research-based information to help gardeners, or wanna-be gardeners, increase their gardening enjoyment and knowledge. On the agenda are classes on soils, compost, plant diseases, botany, entomology, bees, and much more. Training participants will receive a copy of Sustainable Gardening: the Oregon and Washington Master Gardener Handbook, plus detailed handouts. To become an OSU Extension Master Gardener Volunteer, participants must attend all the training sessions, pass an open-book exam, and volunteer 40 hours of service to the community from mid-February through the end of October. Cost of the 6-week training is $150, $50 of which is refunded upon completion of the program requirements. All of the courses will be held at the Extension Service office in Myrtle Point. Classes are held every Thursday, from 9 am to 4 pm. This year there will also be a Saturday pruning field trip class on February 4, 2023 in Coquille. Those interested in particular topics, but not in taking the full training, may attend classes on a drop-in basis. Cost for individual classes is $10 per half day, or $15 for both the morning and afternoon sessions. Class size is limited, so early application is recommended. Request an application packet by calling the Extension Service at 541-572-5263, ext. 25240 or 25299, or visit <https://beav.es/5No> to register online (must register online to pay by credit card). Applications must be received by Dec. 16. For more information, contact Master Gardener Coordinator Samantha Clayburn at 541-572-5263, ext. 25299.

Oregon State and partners to receive $4.2 million to study stressors facing Dungeness crab, other marine life under climate change

By MICHELLE KLAMPE
Guest Article

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration has awarded Oregon State University and its research partners $4.2 million to investigate how multiple climate change-related stressors are impacting marine ecosystems off the coast of Oregon, Washington and Northern California.

The researchers will focus on two key species: Dungeness crab, which plays a significant economic and cultural role in Indigenous and other coastal communities and is considered the most valuable single-species fishery in Oregon; and krill, which are tiny crustaceans that play a critical role in the ocean's food web and serve as a bellwether for ocean health.

Both species are facing threats from multiple stressors, including ocean acidification; low oxygen conditions, also known as hypoxia; marine heatwaves; increasing ocean temperatures; and harmful algal blooms.

The goal of the new project is to better understand the direct and indirect impacts of those stressors and help commercial fisheries and state and Tribal resource managers prepare for the changes ahead, said Francis Chan, the principal investigator. Chan is a marine ecologist and director of the Cooperative Institute for Marine Ecosystem and Resources Studies at OSU's Hatfield Marine Science Center in Newport.

"We know that the climate is changing, and it is impacting our marine resources," Chan said. "This work is all about how we can best position the Dungeness crab fishery to be more resilient to these changes. At the conclusion of this work, we hope to have answers to help fishermen and managers get to a climate-ready fishery."

The work will focus on the northern California Current, the span of waters along the West Coast from Washington to Northern California, including NOAA's Olympic Coast National Marine Sanctuary and longstanding Tribal fishing areas.

Researchers will use existing and new ocean data, ocean and climate models, laboratory experiments and fisheries management evaluation techniques to learn more about the relationships between the different stressors and the potential cascading impacts that may result.

"We are connecting the dots on key pieces of innovative ocean research, including observations from undersea autonomous vehicles, AI-driven analytics of ocean food webs and state-of-the-art climate models," said Jack Barth, executive director of OSU's Marine Studies Initiative and an oceanographer in the College of Earth, Ocean, and Atmospheric Sciences.

project is the integration of Traditional Ecological Knowledge, which is the accumulation of Indigenous science, including information, practices and beliefs about relationships and environmental functions, including all elements, species and processes within ecosystems.

Siletz Tribal member and TEK specialist Samantha Chisholm Hatfield, an assistant research professor in the Department of Fisheries, Wildlife, and Conservation Sciences in OSU's College of Agricultural Sciences, will lead that aspect of the project.

The work will include interviews with Tribal members to better understand changes to shellfish populations and ocean patterns that Tribal members have orally documented over multiple generations.

with voting machines which the secretary denies. Fagan also denied any such crisis of confidence.

In fact, opponents of the lawsuit claim it's those who continue denying accurate election results who are undermining confidence.

Several members of the public who support the lawsuit appeared before the Coos County Commission on Tuesday, November 1, in support of the claim. Resident Denesa Rains who told the commission she fears the county is not taking elections seriously enough, also expressed "fear for the nation."

Rains cited a haunted house being set up in the county building and claimed staff used tax dollars and time to create it and that it's inappropriate at a time when people need to focus on elections. "There's a lack of transparency here."

"We did it all on our own time," said Coos employee Mike Hagens who talked about the fun he and his crew had creating the haunted house for children in the boiler room at the county building.

"Not a penny of tax payer money was used. We bought everything ourselves and did it after our shifts or on weekends," he told the commissioners, reiterating that the haunted house did not interfere with their work. "Staff was in the building to deal with emergencies."

Hagens discussed the value of connection and service to the community in his defense of their haunted house.

Resident Rod Taylor maintained his support of Rains and concerns about election results and claims some with in the employ of the county are in support of a "globalist plan to push people out of rural communities."

County Commissioners didn't comment on the testimony on Tuesday.

However, elections officials in Coos and throughout Oregon maintain that mail in ballots are generally considered very safe and accurate. According to the MIT elections lab the fraud rate is 0.00006%.

To put that into context, according to MIT, it amounts to such a low rate it isn't enough to be a meaningful statistic, something in the ballpark of one mistaken ballot every six or seven years.

As of now every state offers some form of mail in ballot and eight states—California, Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Vermont and Washington—allow all elections to be conducted by mail.

The practice dates back to the Civil War so soldiers could vote on the battle field.

Physics and Astronomy Lecture: “You Are What You Eat”

Southwestern Oregon Community College welcomes Dr. Drake Mitchell, Chair of Physics at Portland State University, as part of the Physics & Astronomy Lecture Series for his talk, “You are what you eat: The physics of how diet influences biological function”.

The lecture will be held on Thursday, November 10, 2022, at 7 pm in Umpqua Hall, the new Health and Science Technology building, on the Coos Campus (1988 Newmark Ave., Coos Bay) and is free for everyone.

Dr. Mitchell's talk will explore the physics behind important biological functions such as sight, taste, smell, muscle movement, and nerve impulses that are all initiated by receptor proteins embedded in membranes. Each of these activities begins when a protein that spans a biological membrane undergoes a change in shape, in response to a specific chemical or physical stimulus. The physical properties of the membranes which surround these receptor proteins can have a profound effect on their functional efficacy. These physical, or matrix, properties depend on the composition of the membrane, which is often a reflection of the fat and oil in our diet. Certain matrix properties are largely determined by the balance of saturated lipids (Crisco, lard), polyunsaturated lipids (fish oil, flax), and cholesterol in the membrane. The discussion will examine the general interplay between membrane composition and receptor function and structure with a particular focus on how these matrix properties alter both receptor function and stability.

The lecture will be live streamed for those that cannot come to campus. Access the live stream via our website or at this link: <https://livestream.com/swocc/physicsandastronomy2022-23>.

For more information please contact Dr. Aaron Coyner, Associate Professor of Physics, at 541-888-7244, aaron.coyner@socc.edu. To learn more about physics and engineering degrees at Southwestern visit <https://physics.socc.edu/>.

Community Websites Team Up to Raise Money and Help Rural Oregon

Community Website Partnership supports EIGHT rural regions in Oregon serving over 300,000 rural Oregonians through community websites that enhance local projects, increase equity and accessibility, provide vital emergency event information, and promote volunteerism.

Everyone is welcome to Trivia Time: Give a Little Kindness happening both in person, in Coos Bay at the Coos Bay Public Library, and virtually, Zoom links will be sent out to those who purchase tickets. There are still tickets (virtual and in-person, solo or team) available for attending Trivia Time: Give a Little Kindness on Sunday, Nov. 13th from 3-5PM. Drinks and snacks will be provided. Purchase tickets online or at the door: <https://partnership.betterworld.org/events/triva>

Quality Trivia will host our Trivia Time. It's a team-based, pub-style quiz with a wagering component. We do it both in person, AND online with Zoom, so you can play with friends around the world, and now in-person too on November 13th! <https://qualitytrivia.com/>

Community Websites like SouthCoastConnects.org serving Coos County, IllinoisValleyWeb.org serving the Cave Junction region, and ConnectDouglasCounty.org provide access to local events, volunteer matching, news, resources, and, when needed, emergency info about wildfires, tsunamis, or other natural disaster events. Community Website Partnership's network of websites serving rural Oregon also offers a free Directory and advertising services that help local businesses and nonprofits reach wider audiences and build visibility across the state.

The Community Websites have been critical in helping under-resourced areas of Oregon stay informed during Covid-19, recent wildfires, and community recovery efforts. Community Partnership's websites are viewed by more than 180,000 people a year and have been identified as a "trusted source of information" in rural Oregon. Here at Community Website Partnership, we aim to serve rural Oregonians to be informed and resilient and achieve our mission to strengthen rural communities by bringing people together through technology. So far, we've raised $300,000 to help over 10 regions across rural Oregon be more connected, informed, and engaged locally to make their communities better. However, our work is not done. Currently, rural Oregon communities need our help more than ever because of the challenges due to the pandemic, isolation, and lack of resources for rural communities. Our goal is to raise $5,000 this fall to engage rural youth, provide vital, local emergency information when wildfire, tsunami, or floods strike, and to increase volunteerism.

To do this important work in rural Oregon, Community Website Partnership is hosting an event and auction, Trivia Time: Give a Little Kindness, on November 13 in Coos Bay.

Oregon Coast Aquarium Receives Sustainable Oregon Award

The Oregon Coast Aquarium (OCAQ) has received an annual Sustainable Oregon Award from the Association of Oregon Recyclers (AOR) in recognition of its continued sustainability efforts.

The Sustainable Oregon Awards, formerly known as the Recycler of the Year Awards, recognize individuals and organizations who demonstrate significant accomplishments in sustainable materials initiatives, recycling and waste prevention, and other elements of materials management in Oregon.

Accredited by the Association of Zoos and Aquariums, OCAQ puts ocean advocacy and sustainability at the forefront of its mission, modeling conservation efforts and green practices both internally and externally.

The Aquarium has an established committee to help pave the way for green progress: OCAQ's Green Team empowers staff and volunteers in environmentally-centered planning, and consults with facilities, such as Thompson's Sanitary Service, to guide sustainable choices Aquarium-wide.

Alongside dedicated recycling efforts, OCAQ utilizes high efficiency pumps, electric tools and LED lights throughout its premises, and composted food waste from the Aquarium café supplements its soil, sustaining Oregon-native flora.

OCAQ collaborates with local organizations to bolster collective sustainability efforts. In partnership with the Surfrider Foundation's Blue Water Task Force, OCAQ tests the water quality of local beaches every week, and thanks to the City of Newport and the Economic Development Alliance of Lincoln County, the Aquarium will soon host electric vehicle charging stations.

"Our vision is to lead by example through continuously growing our green efforts," said OCAQ President and CEO Carrie Lewis. "It's up to all of us to help conserve marine life and ecosystems, and each day, we take another step forward in doing our part. We are honored to accept this award, and we wholeheartedly thank the Association of Oregon Recyclers."

Is this a Trick or Treat for who?

Dede Murphy has deceived the voters of Coos County. She stated in her presentation in the North Bend Council room at the Coos County League of Women Voters forum that she was going to have two couriers for ballot pick-up at the county drop boxes for our Nov. 8, 2022 election. I saw only one man pick up at several drop boxes on Monday Oct. 31, 2022 (I have pictures).

Dede has also been discouraging observers that have been signed up by Dede via email. She is calling off paid staff on days there is no ballot processing but not notifying scheduled observers who have driven to the courthouse to observe during their scheduled shift. I spoke with several people that drove from Hauser and the Fairview area that were turned away Mon. Oct 31, 2022. Dede’s appointed deputized courier is a boyfriend of a clerk’s office employee. Fraternization at the county level is thick and should be reviewed by an ethics committee.

Our county commissioners approved a haunted house going on in the basement of the same building as our election, during daytime work hours, Mon. Oct. 31. This is not appropriate during an election when security should be heightened. They installed metal detectors and a security guard at the front entrance of the county building at taxpayers’ expense, while all the other outside doors were not secure. In my opinion they should not have held a haunted house at the courthouse during the day when legal proceedings were taking place, but at a different location during off-work hours.

Election integrity is paramount to our county and our nation. This fact is not being taken seriously by Dede Murphy and other people at our county leadership level.

We need help

KCBY just reported on how the Coos Forest Protection Association will be handing out 150 propane stoves, with full propane tanks to clients of the Devereux Center. The reasoning behind this is because 6/10 “landscape fires over the last year were related to transients”. Here is the part that KCBY chose to ignore. Most, if not all of those fires were started by criminals with long arrest records and active warrants. I am sure there is a way to have the local police departments research who started those fires.

I would like to find out who came up with this brilliant idea. A few days ago, “transients” burned down a house in empire. A few weeks ago, transients burned a mattress by Walmart. Along with the 6 “landscape fires” mentioned in the article. This means someone tried to figure out what could have prevented these fires from happening. The solution they came up with is that if those people had these stoves, the fires wouldn’t have happened. Really? You want to give criminals who have proven they do not care about obeying laws some stoves? That’s your solution?

Once again, they found grant funds to pay for this half brained idea and of course, there is a better solution. Find grant money to pay for opening up more beds in the jail. That way these criminals are in jail serving time for their crimes and warrants instead of being in the woods starting fires! Why do our local governments continue to ignore the fact that most of the problems in our county would be addressed if the jail had enough beds to house everybody with warrants and the people caught committing crime? When will the citizens of the county start holding our elected officials accountable for their actions and inactions? Stop letting our “leaders” waste time and resources on stupid projects like this one until they are willing to put all of their effort into giving us a safe place to live. All of our elected officials are guilty of not protecting us. Vote every one of them out.

Cover the issues

When it comes to local news, what would it take for you to cover the brinkmanship between our local agencies better? It will be a net positive for us -- more accurate reporting -- and for you with more views, more ad revenue.

Case in point: Reporting of the City of North Bend vs Coos County Airport District Kerfluffle has been largely focused on an individual TSA officer doing his duty and getting in trouble for it, when in fact that trouble need never have happened.

On April 14, 2022 a little after midnight, our 911 call center got a report from the airport TSA that needed police attention. It was a TSA test, which they are obligated to run periodically.

Laster, a much reported but rarely printed letter from the city dated July 19, 2022 references this incident as a “false report” -- which it was because it was a TSA test -- and in the next paragraph makes it clear that he views this as a problem with CCAD’s policy, not an individual.

“...At 12:09 on April, 2022, the Coos North 911 Dispatch Center received a false report...”

“I recognize the Federal Aviation Administration (“FAA”) and TSA require airports to test operational procedures...I am unaware of any requirement to make a false report”

The airport district choose to escalate this and bring the incident under review, causing the TSA employee to be placed on Administrative Leave.

Months later, local candidates running for office started getting press in our local paper and on cable news with references to the letter yet never printing the letter. (Thank you, KEZI, because I downloaded the letter from their October reporting.)

But this brinkmanship has a load of interesting questions.

Why did the airport escalate the TSA incident when all parties knew it was a test from the get go?

Why is airport requesting law enforcement service bids from some agencies but not North Bend?

Why did airport require city rent payments during the pandemic?

Why won’t the airport return ownership of Senior Center to the city?

Hospital board deserves support

The Bay Area Hospital District Board of Directors have done nothing but support the hospital by volunteering their over 200 collective years of experience in the health and finance industries.

This recall effort is a disruption during a time of financial recovery for the organization, who, like most hospitals in the post COVID world, are facing unprecedented challenges keeping the nursing staff necessary to provide patient care and incurring huge expenses to pay the travelers needed to give treatment to our community.

Recently, I read a document that insinuated that the hospital board or management may have had something to do with the theft of signature documents for the proposed board recall.

These insinuations have no basis in fact and are both insulting and hurtful. I am proud to support each and every member of our board and I have the privilege to see the thought, vision and consideration of every decision made behind the scenes, with great care by every board member being taken for each decision to result in the improvement of the collective health of our community.

The funds donated to support this board recall were donated entirely by out of area unions or people who support them.

These people are NOT the ones who will experience the consequences of any loss of services that our community may suffer as a result of damage the hospital will surely suffer due to the actions of these out of area people.

This is YOUR hospital. YOUR family may one day need services that they will be forced to seek out of the area.

Please think of the continuity of care for our community as you carefully make your decisions at the polls. Check the facts. Don’t rely on the opinions of others who are not as invested in our community as we are!

Check the facts. They speak so much louder than the inflammatory perspective that is out there in writing and in the conversations of those hired to inflame your emotions with untruth to get you to support this recall effort.

J. MARK POWELL'S HOLY COW! HISTORY

By J. MARK POWELL
InsideSources.com

It’s been a bungee jump of a year in American politics. Last spring, the GOP seemed poised to ride a Red Tsunami in the coming mid-term elections. Democrats rallied over the summer and appeared to have regained momentum. This fall, however, there was a Republican resurgence with the prevailing winds now apparently blowing in their direction.

And political pollsters were right there every step of the way telling us how this seesaw campaign season was playing out. They’re so ubiquitous, you can’t swing a dead cat without hitting some new poll result.

Love them or hate them, they are impossible to ignore. Americans are addicted to soothsayers whose algorithms tell us with what vox the populi is about to speak.

Until, of course, they get it wrong. Consider 2016. On Monday, Nov. 7, many pollsters were predicting Hillary Clinton would win the presidency by a comfortable margin. On Wednesday, Nov. 9, they were frantically wiping egg off their faces.

But nothing can compare to polling’s great failure, the Mother of All Missed Calls, the 1948 presidential election.

It was supposed to have been a no-brainer. After all, Democrats had won control of Congress in 1930. Franklin Roosevelt was elected president in 1932 and then re-elected, and re-elected, and yet again re-elected. For nearly 20 years, Washington was their personal playground.

Until 1946, when Republicans seized both houses of Congress in a ballot box romp. Then the GOP turned its sights on Harry Truman.

Poor Harry. FDR would have been a hard act for any politician to follow. But a sizable number of Americans felt the Man from Missouri simply wasn’t up to the job. Tom Dewey was one of them.

The 46-year-old Republican governor of New York was viewed by many as a president in waiting. He had challenged Roosevelt in ’44 and had run a surprisingly close campaign. Dynamic and handsome (though his dark mustache had prompted GOP socialite Alice Roosevelt Longworth to dub him “the little man on the wedding cake”), his rich baritone voice sounded great on the radio.

“Dewey will be in till ’57,” one national news magazine confidently reported, taking for granted he would win 1952’s election before 1948’s was even held.

Putting money on a Truman victory was a sucker bet. Poll after poll backed that up. But there had been earlier warning signs that the new science’s methodology was still a work in progress. Its most famous flop was a much-ballyhooed 1936 survey by “Literary Digest” magazine predicting Republican Alf Landon would defeat FDR in a landslide. (The Kansas governor carried only Maine and Vermont.)

With Election Day 1948 nearing, all three of America’s leading pollsters — Crossley, Gallup and Roper — agreed Dewey would win in a breeze.

They were all wrong. Truman narrowly eked out the biggest upset in presidential history. It was close; but close was good enough. A grinning president couldn’t help holding up a copy of the Chicago Tribune (which was so certain of a Republican sweep it had gone to press before all the votes were counted) whose iconic headline blared “Dewey Defeats Truman” for photographers.

Historians have dubbed 1948 an utter fiasco for political polling. So, just what went wrong?

Plenty. For starters, interviewers were allowed back then to pick their own respondents without demographic screening first. Talk to too many Democrats or too many Republicans and the results were skewed.

There was also bad timing. As George Gallup Jr. later recalled, “We stopped polling a few weeks too soon.” That’s right; Dewey seemed such a lock to win many pollsters simply didn’t feel the need to waste resources confirming what everyone knew was going to happen.

Finally, there was the FDR Factor. The leading pollsters of the era had cut their teeth during the New Deal’s long run. Roosevelt was a deeply polarizing figure with people either passionately loving or furiously hating him.

But in 1948 not only was Roosevelt gone, but there were also four presidential candidates: Dewey, Truman, Dixiecrat Strom Thurmond and Progressive Henry Wallace. Their old “what do you think of him?” approach simply didn’t work in that dynamic. Taken together, those problems combined to create a perfect storm for wildly off-the-mark forecasts.

It was such a disaster that Harry Truman became the patron saint for underdogs everywhere. “Look how he was underrated in ’48!” they still note with a whiff of desperation. Political pros have a rule of thumb that says whenever a candidate invokes Harry Truman in the closing days of a campaign, that candidate will have an unhappy election night.

And so it’s ironic that the candidate who proved pollsters wrong by pulling off the greatest come-from-behind win of all time is now a St. Jude for political lost causes.

Scammers Posing as Sheriff’s Office Staff

It makes its rounds every few months. The phone rings, it is answered and the person on the other end of the telephone identifies themselves as a law enforcement officer and tells the person that they have missed jury duty, failed to pay some fines, or they have a warrant for their arrest. Eventually, the caller states it can be cleared up by paying fees or fines in the form of Western Union, pre-loaded debit cards or gift cards.

HANG UP! IT IS A SCAM!

The Sheriff’s Office has been receiving calls from members of the community reporting they have received such calls from people claiming to be Lt. Brad O’Dell or other names of employees with the Sheriff’s Office. It is critically important for our community to be aware of these tactics and to share them with their friends and family members, especially those who may be vulnerable to falling victim to the scams, such as the elderly members of the community. A sample of the scam phone call can be found here: <https://tinyurl.com/yde96686>

“It is important for retailers to inform their staff members about the scam and to ask them to be watchful for people who may be making the transactions in relation to the scam,” said the actual Lt. Brad O’Dell. Posting information about these scam tactics at cash registers or check-out points may also be helpful.

Law Enforcement will not call people to let them know they have a warrant, rather they will make personal contact.

If you believe you have fallen victim to this scam, please contact the Douglas County Sheriff’s Office at 541-440-4471.

Shop Small Saturday coming soon

The Coos Bay Downtown Association invites the community to attend Shop Small Saturday on Saturday, November 26, in downtown Coos Bay. The event will start at 10 a.m. and run all day with specials and door prizes at participating downtown businesses.

Shop Small Saturday encourages shoppers to support their neighborhood businesses and to embrace the day as a holiday shopping tradition. Shoppers who spend $100, or more, in the downtown district between November 11 and November 26, can turn in their receipts from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Jennie’s Shoes on November 26, for a beautiful Marshfield District commemorative mug. Shoppers can also purchase a mug for $10. A limited supply of the collectible mugs will be available, so don’t miss out!

American Express first launched Small Business Saturday on the Saturday after Thanksgiving in 2010 to encourage people to shop small and bring more holiday shopping to small businesses. 90% of consumers surveyed said Small Business Saturday has had a positive impact on their community. A visit to a family owned shop or a meal at a local restaurant not only support our local economies, it promotes more vibrant communities.

The Coos Bay Downtown Association promotes Coos Bay as an attractive place to live, work, and visit by continually enhancing the quality of life in the downtown area. Come to downtown Coos Bay and shop, eat, mingle, and explore!

Marshfield claims first volleyball state title

JOHN GUNTHER
For The World

SPRINGFIELD — Marshfield's volleyball team had a target on its back almost all season with the top ranking in Class 4A.

The Pirates withstood all challenges within the classification and on Saturday night they made that No. 1 ranking stand up with their first state title, downing Cascade in straight sets 25-14, 25-23, 25-16.

"We are so ecstatic to be the first (volleyball team) to put up a banner," Marshfield junior Gracie Peach said of the school's tradition of hanging title banners in the Pirate Palace. "We've worked so hard for this."

Peach and fellow junior Paige MacDuff, as well as senior Kate Miles and sophomores Tatum Montiel and Ava Ainsworth have been building the Pirates toward state contention the past few years. The addition of transfer Bridget Gould, another junior, from North Bend and the emergence of sophomore Alie Clark as another middle blocker helped build the Pirates into a squad that didn't lose a match all season against a Class 4A foe. The Pirates finished 24-3 overall — the losses coming to teams that finished third in Class 3A (Sisters), fifth in Class 5A (Crater) and sixth in Class 6A (Roseburg).

"It's a surreal moment," said Marshfield coach Tammie Montiel, who has led the Pirates nearly two decades. "I'm super proud of them."

"I knew going into the season, this was our goal and our dream. Just to have it come to fruition, I am so happy for the players and the town of Coos Bay."

Once the Pirates got to the state tournament at Springfield High School and survived a tough quarterfinal match, they cruised to sweeps of Baker and Cascade in the semifinals and championship match. And aside from the second set Saturday night, the scores weren't particularly close.

After cruising through the first set, Marshfield built a 20-12 lead in the second before the Cougars came storming back, eventually tying the set at 22. But Gould had a clutch kill to the corner and two Cascade errors gave the set to the Pirates.

The third set also was tight early until a big serving run by Ainsworth gave Marshfield an advantage and all the momentum to close out the match.

"Coming into the tournament, we were really nervous," MacDuff said. But she added the Pirates overcame the nerves with their challenging quarterfinal win over Crook County on Friday and soared from there.

"We had a strong team," she said. "We're all really good together."

"To sweep (Cascade) is really good."

Garcia-Silver sets Class 4A cross country record

JOHN GUNTHER
For The World

EUGENE — Marshfield senior Alex Garcia-Silver matched the feat of the school's greatest distance running legend and also stamped his name in the state history books Saturday.

Garcia-Silver became the first repeat state champion for the Pirates since Steve Prefontaine and also set a new record for Class 4A on the state course at Lane Community College during the state cross country championships.

Garcia-Silver won the 5,000-meter race in 15 minutes and 22.2 seconds. The old Class 4A record of 15:35 was set in 2007 by Phoenix's Elliot Jantzer, like Garcia-Silver a two-time winner.

Garcia-Silver pulled away from Juan Diego Contreras of The Dalles over the final two miles, ultimately winning by 19 seconds.

"My goal was to feel comfortable the first mile and go hard," Garcia-Silver said, adding that he knew running fast was going to be difficult without other runners pushing him all the way. He was glad to have Contreras close for a while.

"I hoped he would go out with me as long as he was willing," Garcia-Silver said. "The rest was on me."

The Marshfield senior said he was happy with his time, adding "winning a championship is always good."

Prefontaine won his titles in 1967 and 1968.

"I think it's really special and it's good to contribute to history," Garcia-Silver said of joining Pre as a two-time winner.

Contreras led The Dalles to the team title in a tight race with Philomath. The Dalles finished with 57 points and Philomath 60. Crook County was a distant third with 142 and Marist Catholic got the final trophy with 164 points, just ahead of Baker (167), Marshfield (169) and Hidden Valley (171). Marist Catholic had gotten the one 4A at-large berth to the state meet, a new feature this year, after finishing behind Cottage Grove and Marshfield at the Sky-Em League meet.

"It's unbelievable," Contreras said. "Once we made the switch to 4A (this fall) the goal was to be state champions."

Leo Lemann was fourth for The Dalles while Vincent and Egan Ziegenhagen came in 18th and 19th and Kayden McCavic was 23rd for the Riverhawks.

Contreras said he was hoping to stick with Garcia-Silver as long as possible, but his individual finish was secondary Saturday.

"For me, the team title is more important," he said.

Contreras finished in 15:41, while Jaden Owens of Cottage Grove was third (16:16), followed by Lemann (16:22) and Ben Hernandez of Philomath (16:26).

Marshfield's other runners in Saturday's race were Jaxson Stovall, who was 35th (18:05); Elijah Cellura, who finished 39th (18:10); Corbin Reeves, who was 49th (18:17); Talon Thomas, who was 69th (18:42); and Gavin Stovall, who was 73rd (18:50).

CLASS 4A GIRLS: North Bend's Ellie Massey and Sara Slade both had strong races as individuals

Saturday.

Massey was the first runner from the Sky-Em League to cross the finish line, placing 19th in 20:59, a big personal best. Slade was 27th in 21:16.

Kyla Potratz of Phoenix was the individual winner in 18:47 and La Grande had the next three runners — Cecilia Villagomez, Emily Tubbs and Brooke Perry — and won its first team title.

CLASS 3A-2A-1A GIRLS: Bandon wasn't able to repeat as state champion, placing seventh in a team race won by the combined Enterprize/Wallowa/Joseph squad. Siuslaw was third in its first year after dropping down to Class 3A.

Enterprise had 63 points, Oregon Episcopal 84, Siuslaw 95, Union/

Powers, Myrtle Point Pirates, Red Devils ousted from football playoffs advance in football Powers surged into the Class 1A six-player football semifinals, dominating visiting Eddyville 59-6 on Saturday.

The Cruisers meet the combine Spray/Mitchell/Wheeler team in the semifinals on a neutral field that had not been announced by press time. Spray/Mitchell/Wheeler beat Siletz Valley 60-12.

Rene Sears had three touchdown passes for the Cruisers — 11 yards to Lane Jones, 13 yards to Alex Mahmoud and 20 yards to Talon Blanton.

Mahmoud also had a touchdown pass of 5 yards to Sears and had touchdown runs of 1 and 30 yards.

Jayce Shorb also had a 1-yard touchdown run for the Cruisers and both Jones and Mahmoud returned interceptions for scores.

"The defense really came through with several turnovers and some great tackling," Powers coach Kayne Pedrick said.

MYRTLE POINT 66, SHERMAN/CONDON 8:

The Bobcats advanced to the eight-player quarterfinals with their home win Saturday.

Logan Backman had five touchdown passes in the win and backup quarterback Jake Sproul threw two more while playing the second half with Myrtle Point far ahead.

Andreas Villanueva was on the receiving end of four of the touchdown passes and tight end Howard Blanton caught two of them and also forced a fumble that led directly to another Myrtle Point score, a run by Troy Warner. Logan Clayburn had one of the touchdown receptions on passes by Sproul.

"Both the offense and defense played great today," coach Ryan Miller said.

The Bobcats forced a few first-half turnovers that led to points.

Myrtle Point, the No. 5 seed, will get a chance to avenge one of its regular-season losses when it visits Crane in the quarterfinals. The Bobcats lost a 44-42 shootout to Crane in the season opener.

The South Coast's two football state champions from last fall — Marshfield and Coquille — both were eliminated in first-round matches on the road Friday. Bandon also lost on the road.

Marshfield lost to Scappoose 26-6 in the first round of the Class 4A playoffs, on a windy and rainy night that led to 13 fumbles by the two teams — all in the first three quarters.

Marshfield had the first chance to score, but missed a field goal and Scappoose ran for an 85-yard touchdown on the next play.

The Indians scored another short touchdown to take a 14-0 lead before Marshfield got its only score on a short touchdown run.

Scappoose added two field goals and another touchdown in the second half to pull away.

Scappoose will play top-ranked Mazama in the quarterfinals after the Vikings topped Seaside 49-6 on Saturday.

The team Marshfield beat in the championship game last year also lost, with Marist Catholic falling to Gladstone 21-20 at home in Eugene.

Coquille, meanwhile, was shut out at Dayton, 45-0 in the first round of the Class 3A playoffs.

The Red Devils were the Class 2A champions last fall and made it into the playoffs with a shutout win over St. Mary's in the regular-season finale, but then were shut out in the first round of the playoffs.

Dayton will play another Far West League team in the quarterfinals, facing South Umpqua, which beat Yamhill-Carlton 34-21.

One other Far West League team won Friday, with Cascade Christian beating Ontario 52-20, but both St. Mary's and Lakeview lost, the Crusaders 28-0 to Santiam Christian and Lakeview 43-0 to Kennedy, the team Coquille beat for the Class 2A title last year.

In the other Friday games involving the South Coast, Bandon fell to host Regis 14-2, ending a promising season for the Tigers, while Gold Beach beat visiting Taft 12-6.

Bandon had finished third in the league, but came up short on the road in its first season playing the nine-player format now used in Class 2A.

Gold Beach, which had played eight-man the past few years, extended its season with the home win after finishing second in the league and now will be on the road against Colton in the quarterfinals.

The Vikings beat Toledo 50-0.

North Bend, Marshfield lose in girls soccer playoffs

The girls soccer teams from North Bend and Marshfield were eliminated from the Class 4A playoffs with first-round losses on the road Wednesday.

North Bend lost at Scappoose 5-0 and Marshfield fell to Hidden Valley 7-0.

Both Bay Area clubs had won play-in matches to reach the playoffs after the Bulldogs were second and the Pirates third in the Sky-Em League.

It was Marshfield's first-ever trip to the soccer playoffs.

Sky-Em champion Marist Catholic, the top seed, beat

Mazama 5-0 in the first round and 2-0 in the quarterfinals Saturday.

The Spartans host North Marion in the semifinals Tuesday after the Huskies eliminated Scappoose 2-0.

The other semifinal has Hidden Valley hosting Gladstone after the Mustangs followed their win over Marshfield with a 1-0 victory over La Grande and Gladstone beat Newport by the same score.

With the girls teams out, the South Coast soccer season is over. Both Coquille and Gold Beach lost in the first round of the Class 3A-2A-1A boys playoffs last Tuesday.

Bandon’s other finishers were Marley Petrey in 23rd (20:40), Safaa Dimitruk in 61st (22:22), Lilly Iverson in 63rd (22:32), Cassie Kennon in 65th (22:51), Ema Roper-Cockerham in 79th (23:49) and Haley Williams in 86th (24:11).

Siuslaw was led by Alison Hughes in 12th (20:06). She was followed by Corduroy Holbrook in 14th (20:13), Maya Wells in 26th (20:50), Adylin Holbrook in 35th (20:59), Jane Lacouture in 47th (21:45), Abigail Jones in 52nd (21:50) and Addison McNeill in 60th (22:17).

Coquille’s Ada Millet, who qualified as an individual, finished 57th in 22:13.

CLASS 2A-1A BOYS: Bandon just missed a trophy, placing fifth behind first-time champion Knappa, Union, Heppner and Stanfield/Echo, which was five points in front of the Tigers.

Damian Avalos did earn a podium finish for Bandon, placing ninth in 16:52. Heppner’s Trevor Nichols won in 16:10.

Gold Beach’s Gianni Altman placed seventh (16:38).

CLASS 3A BOYS: Siuslaw won its third straight title, placing all five scoring runners in the top 20 to finish with 52 points, comfortably ahead of runner-up Valley Catholic, which had 75.

Siuslaw’s strength is in the team, said seniors Sam Ulrich and Kyle Hughes, who were fifth and sixth to lead the Vikings.

“The term iron sharpens iron definitely helps,” Ulrich said.

“It’s a unique environment,” added Hughes. “We all build each other up. We’re not competing against each other.”

That made the difference in what was expected to be a tight team race.

“I’m really proud of how our team did,” Hughes said. “We pulled it out.”

Ulrich finished in 16:38.7 and Hughes in 16:42.8. They were followed by Brayden Linton in 13th(17:15), Jacob Blankenship in 18th (17:38), Dylan Jensen in 20th(17:45), Camden Linton in 43rd (18:30) and Kale Jensen in 49th (18:45).

Santiam Christian’s

Benjamin Bourne was the individual winner, finishing in 15:57.2.

BIG SCHOOLS: Crater’s Tyrone Gorze set an all-time course record winning his second straight Class 5A title in 14:37, leading the Comets to their fifth title in six years. Crater had five of the top 10 finishers.

Crescent Valley’s Emily Wisniewski repeated as Class 5A girls champion and Summit won its 14th straight girls team title in its return to Class 5A after four years as a Class 6A school.

Jesuit swept the Class 6A titles and had the boys individual champion, Jacob Nenow.

Lake Oswego’s Ana Peters won the girls race a year after her sister Kate did the same thing.

no losses to Class 4A schools (they, too, lost to Sisters, as well as to eventual Class 3A champion Valley Catholic, which beat Sisters in the semifinals and Burns in the championship match, and Class 5A Silvertown).

Cascade swept both its matches Friday, over Henley (25-10, 25-17, 25-9) and Mazama (25-19, 25-15, 25-19).

But in the championship match, the Cougars had no answer for Marshfield’s varied offense and tough play at the net that led to numerous spikes by the Cougars being either slowed at the net, returned to Cascade or finished on the floor as stuff blocks.

Tatum Montiel finished the championship match with 11 kills and Gould had nine for Marshfield. MacDuff added four. Ainsworth did a good job distributing the ball, finishing with 22 assists, and also had two kills of her own.

Peach, Marshfield’s libero, had 11 digs and Miles had nine digs and five blocks.

The Pirates also were tough on the service line, with 10 total aces, including five by Montiel.

When the match ended and awards had been presented, a big Marshfield crowd that made the trip north celebrated with the players on the floor while Tammie Montiel searched for the right words to summarize the championship.

“To do it with this special group (is amazing),” she said, adding that she would be happy to have any of the players as daughters, not just her actual daughter Tatum.

If not for a big comeback Friday morning against Crook County, a program with a long pedigree in state tournaments, Marshfield wouldn’t have made it to championship night.

After the Pirates won the first set 25-19, the Cowgirls won the next two by matching 25-21 scores. Marshfield won the fourth set 25-17 but fell behind in the final set 5-1 before recovering and ultimately pulling away for a 15-8 win.

The players gave a lot of the credit to assistant coach Brea Mosieur for a pep talk she gave after Crook County went up two sets to one.

“We knew we had to (come back),” Peach said. “We turned our game faces on and kept going.”

Once they had completed the comeback against Crook County, the Pirates dominated the Baker team that had knocked them out of both the volleyball and basketball playoffs during the last school year, winning 25-12, 25-12, 25-4.

“We had all the emotions out from the morning game,” Tammie Montiel said. “We were able to play relaxed.”

When the Pirates do that, they play well.

The head coach said she had confidence in the players even in the midst of the deficit against Crook County.

“We had practiced all week long on scenarios where we were down and had to come back,” Tammie Montiel said. “We were able to put that into play.”

“This team is able to turn a switch when it needs to. It’s not just one of them — any of them could have made the play to turn it around.”

As if to illustrate her point, she noted that only Tatum Montiel and Gould were chosen by the coaches for the all-tournament team, with Gould the only unanimous selection. Cascade had four players on the first or second team and Crook County three.

The team took the selections in stride.

“We all decided the blue trophy was way more important than any individual accolade,” Tammie Montiel said.

With Miles and fellow emotional leader Devin Plummer the only seniors, the Pirates appear to be in great shape for another run in 2023. But they won’t take it for granted, MacDuff said.

“I think we can come back and do it again,” she said. “But we have to keep fighting and not get too cocky.”

“We need to come back and keep playing hard,” added Peach, explaining that the Pirates needed to take things one point at a time.

Over the weekend, that philosophy resulted in the team’s first state title.
