

Mayors, chamber endorse Public Safety Levy

By DEAN BRICKEY
For The World

COQUILLE — Every mayor in Coos County and the Bay Area Chamber of Commerce have endorsed the Public Safety Levy that Coos County Commissioners have placed on the May 21 Primary Election ballot.

John Sweet, Coos County commissioner, said the leaders of the Coos County Democratic Party also have endorsed the levy, which asks county voters to approve a five-year tax levy of 98 cents per $1,000 of assessed property value. County officials say the measure would raise $5.7 million the first year. The money would be dedicated to increasing the capacity of the Coos County Jail and hiring two new deputy district attorneys.

“One thing that I sense

Robert "Bob" Main

John Sweet

Sheriff Gabriel "Gabe" Fabrizio

has been under-discussed is the positive impact of the levy on people whose crimes do not warrant incarceration,” Sweet said. Our Parole and Probation

Department has significant addiction and behavioral counseling available, particularly to those whose crimes and behavior do not warrant incarceration.

Right now, the county has over eight times more people in Parole and Probation than in jail.” Sweet said the county Parole & Probation Department’s capacity is for more than 600 people, yet the staff is serving just a few more than 400. That’s because “the county cannot afford enough prosecutors to handle the level of criminal activity we are experiencing,” he said.

Guns, money, drugs recovered after arrest

The Coos Bay Police Department made an arrest and recovered a significant amount of cash, firearms, and suspected drugs after executing search warrants on 36-year-old Matthew Medeiros in Coos Bay.

In the afternoon on Saturday April 13, 2024, the North Coos 9-1-1 Center received a tip that a man was idling his car in the parking lot of the Boys & Girls Club of Southwestern Oregon in Coos Bay. The caller described that the man seemed unable to stay awake and inferred drugs may be involved.

Before officers arrived on the scene, the man fled the vehicle leaving a bottle of suspected drugs behind. After arriving, officers were able to track down and detain Medeiros. They found a taser and a large quantity of cash, which prompted CBPD to apply for and execute a search warrant on the vehicle.

The search yielded multiple suspected narcotics and four firearms, one of which turned out to be stolen. Upon executing a warrant on Medeiros’ home in Coos Bay, they discovered 21 firearms, a substantial load of cash, and substances suspected to be fentanyl powder, methamphetamine, and heroin. Officers also found property both suspected and confirmed to be stolen.

Medeiros was transported to Coos County Jail and held on a number of charges:

- Unlawful Possession of Methamphetamine
- Unlawful Possession of Heroin

- Unlawful Possession of Fentanyl
- Attempted Delivery of Methamphetamine
- Attempted Delivery of Heroin

- Attempted Delivery of Fentanyl
- 25 counts of Felon in Possession of a Firearm
- Felon in Possession of a Restricted Weapon

- Theft 1 by Receiving
- Oregon State Police and the North Bend Police Department aided the CBPD in this investigation. Anyone with more information is encouraged to reach out to local authorities.

Coast Guard Cutter Orcas decommissioned after 35 years of service in Coos Bay

The Coast Guard decommissioned the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Orcas (WPB1327) during a ceremony, Tuesday.

Rear Adm. Charles Fosse, the commander of the Thirteenth Coast Guard District, presided over the ceremony honoring the 35 years of service Orcas and its crews provided to the nation.

Commissioned on April 14, 1989, Orcas was the twenty-seventh Island-Class cutter to join the fleet.

Orcas has been stationed in Coos Bay, Oregon, since 1989 and is the sixth Coast Guard cutter to be stationed in Coos Bay since 1935.

The Orcas was a multi-mission platform that conducted operations to support search and rescue response, marine environmental protection, and national defense.

“From training allied nation maritime forces, conducting the largest-ever cocaine seizure in the history of the Pacific Northwest, and saving countless lives and hundreds of millions of dollars’ worth of property on the Pacific Ocean - Orcas has done it all,” said Lt. Brendan O’Farrell, the commanding officer of the Orcas. “This ship, one of the last of its kind, is an old American-made workhorse built to endure the harsh Pacific waves. I’m extremely proud and blessed to have served with the finest crew in the fleet.”

Vote Todd Vaughn for Oregon Senate Dist. 1

Oregon’s Senate District 1 stands on the cusp of renewal, and leading the charge is none other than candidate Todd Vaughn, a man whose roots are as deep as the forests he has dedicated his life to managing.

Todd Vaughn’s career as a hardworking logger is a testament to his understanding of Oregon’s lifeblood industries. His hands-on experience managing our state’s natural resources has bestowed upon him a profound respect for both the environment and the economic drivers that thrive within it. A vote for Vaughn is a promise to protect the majestic lands while bolstering the industry pillars that rely upon them.

What sets Vaughn apart is his unwavering commitment to the ideals of limited government and lower taxes—an ethos that resonates with all who yearn for the kind of economic growth that lifts all boats. He believes in a vision for Oregon where local businesses flourish unburdened by excessive taxation, and where policy fuels innovation.

Beyond his goals for economic resurgence, Vaughn’s policies are a resounding pledge to the sanctity of education. He envisions an Oregon where school choice is paramount, empowering parents to lead the way in their children’s educational journeys.

With Todd Vaughn in the Oregon Senate, he would embody the peak of competence, the beacon of republicanism, and the very embodiment of the state’s pioneering spirit. He would be a bulwark against the leftist agenda. For voters who seek to reclaim their voice in the corridors of power, and for those who desire leadership that is both assertive and profoundly in tune with the citizenry it serves, looking to Todd Vaughn’s clear-eyed direction is the way forward.

The choice is ours, and the time for decisive action is now. Together, with Todd Vaughn, Oregon can boldly stride into an era of unparalleled success.

Are we being lied too

All of a sudden Coos County is doubling the beds at the Jail. Why are they asking for more tax money? The levy hasn’t been voted on yet and there going to spend the tax money anyway. This is the prime reason I never support new taxes for county government. I just don’t trust them to tell us the truth.

Response to letter regarding Measure 110

In response to the Letter titled, to Letter: Measure 110 needs to be fixed. I concur that the objectives of Measure 110 are commendable. Opting for treatment over incarceration for individuals grappling with substance abuse issues is a more humane and effective approach. It’s imperative that we allocate resources towards rehabilitating drug users, empowering them to reintegrate as productive contributors to society.

The “war on drugs” traces back to the era of Richard Nixon in the 1970s, marking the widespread adoption of the term. However, it’s crucial to recognize the role of big pharmaceutical companies in fueling the current drug epidemic. Doctors were prescribing potent medications like OxyContin and Dilaudid, contributing to widespread addiction. Additionally, alarming practices such as the inclusion of opiates in products like Coca-Cola further exacerbated the issue. This accessibility underscores the reality that drugs remain readily available, with individuals finding ways to obtain them despite regulations.

The issue of drug-related deaths, especially among vulnerable populations like children, has persisted since the onset of drug usage. While Measure 110 may have brought attention to this problem, the question remains: is incarceration the most effective solution? Rather than simply penalizing individuals for drug use, especially those who aren’t committing crimes beyond consumption, perhaps a rehabilitative approach is more appropriate. Channeling resources into rehabilitation rather than incarceration could alleviate the strain on jails and prisons, while also addressing the root causes of drug addiction. It’s essential to reconsider our priorities and focus on strategies that prioritize healing and recovery over punishment, particularly when individuals haven’t committed crimes against others.

I believe the latter is not only more humane but also more effective in addressing the root causes of drug addiction. Rather than burdening our criminal justice system with non-violent offenders, resources would be better allocated to punishing those who pose a genuine threat to public safety. By prioritizing rehabilitation over punishment, we can work towards mitigating the harms associated with drug abuse while fostering a healthier, more supportive society for all.

Drew Farmer wants to set the record straight

This is Drew Farmer writing to address a misunderstanding regarding a recent article on Coos Bay’s Declaration of Emergency. It should not be construed, at all, that the declaration is an alternative to the Public Safety Levee.

The Declaration of Emergency is a push for temporary state support. This would require the sheriff’s office to request aid first from neighboring jurisdictions, which won’t have the ability, then to the state. The state will indicate wanting repayment; however, I maintain the belief that we can make the state whole through a legislative request. We’ve seen in the past where the legislature allocates funds for a special project in our district and I see no reason we couldn’t push for a similar situation in this case.

By contrast, the five-year Public Safety Levee is necessary if we want to keep our current level of service from the Sheriff’s office and DA’s office and will expand that capacity. If it fails, we can expect to see a decline in what services we still have. It would be far harder to replace that loss than it is to pass the levee now and remove it when future long-term funding opportunities are secured.

I want to encourage folks to support the Public Safety Levee. In this moment I do not see an alternative at the commissioner’s disposal if we want to expand our jail capacity and the DA’s staff to catch up on their backlog of cases. Certainly, we will lose more of what little we still have if the levee fails.

Drew Farmer

Drew Farmer will bring new energy to the commission

Time for new energy and fresh outlook on the Coos County Commission. Drew Farmer, a Coos County native, will bring his experience in the Navy and as a Coos Bay city councilor to bring innovation and transparency to the County Commission.

Vote to bring a fresh perspective into our Coos County Commission. Vote for Drew Farmer.

A good laugh

In reference to World story noting Rob Taylor and friends superimposing (fellow Republican) Representative Smith’s photo on a Chinese flag I’d like to remind readers that at the Coos Bay Boardwalk not so long ago Taylor and friends were marching young men hardly dry behind the ears with guns almost as tall as they were as a show of strength back and forth in from of a small crowd of supporters. I was there asking said supporters to see where the banners, Trump signs etc. were made. Carriers would laugh as we looked for the tags on those USA flags as well as other banners...didn’t find any made in America...not a one! Many carried made in China tags and others had no tags...perhaps removed. At any rate Taylor protecting us from the likes of Smith is also good for a laugh.

Please support the public safety levy

I strongly support the upcoming levy proposal entitled Support Public Safety that will be on the ballot this May. As I understand it, without passage severe revenue shortages will further restrict hiring in law enforcement and in the District Attorney’s office. As I read Facebook pages for Coos Bay Government and for the Sheriff’s Office, statistics for the number of 911 calls continue to rise and cite and release numbers are, too; there are simply not enough beds at the jail because there isn’t the staff to support full capacity. (While the jail will open another 49 beds due to re-hiring, 98 beds are still not enough.) Considering, too, the lack of prosecutors, our cities cannot function safely. I do not support levy and bond measures routinely, but in this case, I feel strongly that if we do not support this measure crime in our beloved southwest Oregon coast will remove one of the reasons we live here - a safe and inviting community in which to enjoy the great outdoors and the benefits of small town life.

Save your money, vote no on jail levy

The county’s proposed jail levy will make zero noticeable difference in the amount of flagrant crime and degeneracy in the county. While adding more jail beds would allow the county to hold a larger percentage of criminals in jail until they can make it to court, the criminals missing their court dates is not the problem. The problem is that even if they are eventually convicted, the vast majority of sentences are incredibly light, and those people are going to be back out on the street doing the exact same things almost immediately, anyway.

In short, the problem with the rampant petty crime is the state’s fault, and no amount of money you give the county is going to fix it.

What the proposed leavy would do is take a substantial amount of money out of the citizens’ pockets at a time when families are already struggling. You won’t notice any decrease in the problems that plague our community, but you certainly will notice the fact that you have less money available for yourself as a result of this tax.

Save your money, you’re going to need it. Vote no on Coos County 6-213.

OBITUARIES

Nathan Cramer Douthit

September 09, 1938 – April 16, 2024

We lost our treasured husband, father, grandpa, friend and renaissance scholar, Nathan Cramer Douthit, on April 16, 2024.

Nathan started life in Clarinda, Iowa with parents John Warren and Anna Douthit. After serving abroad during WW II, Warren moved his family to Central Point, Oregon. Nathan excelled at academics, played all sports, rode horses with his parents and worked summers in pear orchards and in the woods. After graduating from high school he joined ROTC and moved across country to earn a degree at Harvard. He followed his undergraduate degree with four years in the Marine Corps, retiring with the rank of Captain.

In 1963 he started graduate school at the University of California, Berkeley. A blind date led to his future wife of sixty years, Eva Hovde, newly arrived from Norway. After receiving his doctorate in American History, Nathan, Eva and son Randall moved to Coos Bay, Oregon, where Nathan taught at Southwest Oregon Community College until he retired in 1997 as Professor Emeritus of History and Political Science. The family enjoyed exploring back roads, hiking beaches and dunes and Nathan became interested in the rich local history of the south coast where he used to vacation with his parents every summer. He self published The Coos Bay Region, 1890-1944; life on a coastal frontier, as well as A Guide to Oregon South Coast History; traveling the Jedediah Smith trail. The latter was republished by Oregon State University, which also published his book Uncertain Encounters; Indians and Whites at Peace and War in Southern Oregon, 1820's-1860's. The copyright for the Coos Bay Region is now owned by the Coos History Museum.

Nathan also became passionately involved in developing the old Marshfield

Sun building on Front Street into a working printing museum where he loved to set type for his poetry and give tours to interested visitors and school groups.

In 1999, with the birth of Laurel, the first grandchild, Eva and Nathan moved to Portland. Ella completed the family in 2002. In addition to enjoying watching the children grow, Nathan took full advantage of Portland's cultural scene, attending plays, symphony and opera, but his favorite hang out was downtown Powells where you could find him searching for titles that explored the elusive concept of what it means to be human.

Nathan is predeceased by his parents and survived by his wife, Eva, his son Randall, daughter in law Sharon (Vojta) and grandchildren Laurel and Ella. We all miss him dearly but are so grateful for the good memories.

In lieu of flowers, please consider donations to either the Marshfield Sun Association or the Coos History Museum.

Measure 110 funding expands parent mentor program

A critical component of Measure 110 directed 70% of Oregon's cannabis tax revenue to SUD treatment and recovery, making expansions in care possible for organizations such as Morrison Child & Family Services.

The group was able to hire six additional parent mentors in Multnomah, Clatsop, Clackamas and Washington counties. The additional staff has so far helped 52 more people get 1-on-1 support with substance use and navigate the child welfare system. The new mentors will allow the program to reach 84 more clients at a given time.

The parent mentor program at Morrison Child & Family

Services began in 2005 and boasts 46 mentors across seven counties. Each mentor serves 12-to-14 clients and typically spends six to 12 months providing support.

Morrison parent mentor Matthew Porter said his clients often have a "lifetime of trauma," and the support he provides often includes joining court hearings and family decision meetings, maintaining relationships with parents during treatment or incarceration, connecting parents with community resources such as housing and recovery options, and guiding parents through the stressors of recovery while caring for their family. He emphasized the importance of empowering the client.

"We're just meeting them where they're at," Porter said. "They do the work, and we're just supporting them through it – it's a beautiful thing to watch."

Prior to the funding received through Measure 110, the organization's parent mentors had to wait for a referral from a case-worker to work with a client. It was a hurdle that often delayed support. Now, Porter said, "there is an advantage being a mentor through Measure 110."

In addition to getting referrals from the recovery community and community partners, now mentors can attend preliminary hearings, speak to a parent directly, and the parent can "self-refer" if they are interested.

One of Porter's clients has been going to a group SUD recovery program for six months, and, without prompting, recently expressed interest in trying inpatient SUD treatment. Porter can connect the client with a local residential treatment facility through a "warm hand-off."

In addition to its client-led philosophy, Morrison Child & Family Services intentionally recruits a diverse team to reflect the communities it serves. A large percentage of clients are from Black and Brown communities. The organization matches mentors who share child welfare and SUD experience, and also share cultural backgrounds. About half of Morrison's parent mentors are bilingual.

"Having someone who looks like them, who has gone through the system, the trust gets built faster, and that same person helping them find their voice – it's magnetic," said Belinda Kjensrud, peer supervisor at Morrison Child & Family Services.

For other information on the impact of Measure 110 funding, check out OHA's blog and the Measure 110 dashboard.

North Bend sweeps county titles

JOHN GUNTHER
For The World

North Bend's boys and girls used depth to sweep the boys and girls team titles at the Coos County Meet on Friday night, while several standouts won multiple events.

North Bend's boys scored 201 points to out-score Marshfield (156). Myrtle Point was third (62), followed by Myrtle Point (62), Bandon (42), Coquille (21) and Powers (7).

The Bulldogs had 172 in the girls meet to out-distance Coquille (105.5) and Bandon (90). Marshfield scored 75.5, Myrtle Point 54 and Powers 12. Both the Red Devils and Tigers limited their lineups slightly Friday night, saving athletes for the high-level Grants Pass Invitational on Saturday as each tries to build up toward possibly repeating as girls team state champions in Eugene in a few weeks.

The meet is the oldest annual high school track and field event in Oregon.

North Bend's boys won seven of the 17 events, but had plenty of depth to take the team title.

The Bulldogs' only double winner was the boys outstanding jumper of the meet, Miles Baxter. He cleared a new best 6 feet, 2 inches to win the high jump and also took the long jump, soaring 19-8 ½. In the triple jump, Baxter (39-6 ½) finished second behind teammate Landon Take-naka-Gaul (39-9 ¾).

North Bend also got a win by Wyatt Smith in the javelin (154-6). On the track, Jason Padgett took the 100 (11.28), Andrew Efraimson won the 300 hurdles (44.18) and Matix Hinzmann won the 3,000 (10:28.65) for North Bend.

The outstanding runner was Marshfield's Bodey Lutes, who won the 400 meters in 48.95 and also had a hand in both winning relays. Marshfield's quartet of Lutes, Carter McGriff, Joe Herbert and Quinton Kloster won the 4x100 relay in 43.38. The group of Herbert, Kloster, Chandler Wyatt and Lutes won the 4x400 in 3:28.20.

Marshfield also got wins on the track by Elijah Cellura in the 800 (2:11.31) and Donald Brice in the 1,500 (4:41.96).

Danner Wilson cleared a new best 15 feet to win the pole vault while Marshfield teammate John Parks was second clearing 14-6.

Myrtle Point's Mason Detzler was named outstanding thrower after dominating both of his events. He won the shot put by more than 10 feet with his winning effort of 54-4 and took the discus by 35 feet with his effort of 163-1. The Bobcats also got a win by Thomas Ferren in the 200 (23.75).

North Bend's girls also won seven events, including two victories each by Ellie Massey and Lauren Efraimson.

Massie won the 1,500 (5:00.64) and 3,000 (11:02.08) and shared outstanding runner honors with Myrtle Point's McKenzie Robinson.

Efraimson, meanwhile, took the triple jump (35-3 ¾) and 400 (1:03.49) and was second in her first effort running the 300 hurdles (51.48).

Massie and Efraimson also were on the winning 4x400 relay team with Emma Slade and Eva Jensen (4:21.37).

Jensen won the 200 (27.66) and Drew Hood won the 100 hurdles (16.70).

Coquille's Holli Vigue was named outstanding thrower after winning both the discus (127-10) and shot put (34-6 ¾) with new bests. She also was sixth in the javelin (100-8).

Melanie Lambson was outstanding jumper after winning the long jump (17-0 ½) and placing second in the triple jump (33-8 ¾) for Coquille.

The Red Devils also had the top two finishers in the loaded pole vault field. Reagan Krantz cleared 11 feet for the first time to win and Callie Millet cleared 10-6. North Bend's Abby Woodruff and Roxy Day both got over 10 feet, Day for the first time. Woodruff cleared 11 feet for the first time earlier in the week.

Bandon's Caitlyn Michalek won the high jump based on fewer misses after she and Coquille's Emelia Wirebaugh both cleared 4-8. Michalek was just edged out for the title in the javelin by teammate Katelyn Senn, with Senn throwing 120-0 and Michalek 119-5.

The Tigers also got a new personal best by Marley Petrey, who won the 300 hurdles in 46.03, and got a win by Safaa Dimitruk in the 800 (2:39.63).

Myrtle Point's Jadelin Warner won the 100 (13.72) and the Bobcats won the 4x100 relay with the team of Warner, Robinson, Milena Miller and Taelyn Farmer finishing in 52.73.

It was Reedsport's 11th win in a row and kept the Brave perfect in league play at 8-0.

Reedsport's game against Eddyville on Friday was postponed. The Brave are scheduled to host Siletz Valley on Tuesday and Waldport on Friday this week.

Bandon, which saw a six-game win streak snapped, was scheduled to face Toledo on Friday and Brookings-Harbor in a nonleague game Monday. The Tigers, 6-2, visit Eddyville on Tuesday and host Gold Beach on Friday this week.

Myrtle Point picked up a big win over Waldport 5-3 last Monday and beat Siletz Valley 9-3 a day later.

But the Bobcats, 5-4 in league play, fell 6-5 at Gold Beach on Friday and this week face Toledo in a big game Tuesday and are at Eddyville on Friday. Toledo, Reedsport and Bandon handed Myrtle Point its three league losses, all in close games.

Waldport is 6-3 and Myrtle Point 5-4, with Toledo at 4-4 and Gold Beach at 4-5. The league gets three automatic playoff berths. Three teams statewide also will earn at-large berths based on power rankings, but Myrtle Point, Toledo and Gold Beach would need to see their rankings jump significantly to have a chance for one of those spots.

SKY-EM LEAGUE: North Bend's losing streak grew to three games when Junction City beat the Bulldogs 9-1 last week. North Bend fell to 4-4 in league play heading into a busy week.

The Bulldogs had a doubleheader against Cottage Grove postponed from Friday to Monday (scores were not available).

SOFTBALL SKY-EM LEAGUE: Marshfield maintained its spot atop the league standings by beating Cottage Grove 5-2 in the Pirates' lone league game of the week.

The Pirates improved to 8-1 with three games to go — at home against Marist Catholic on Tuesday and a doubleheader at North Bend on Thursday.

Marshfield had to come from behind to beat the Lions, trailing 2-0 heading into the seventh inning. The Pirates scored two in the seventh to force extra innings and three in the eighth to win.

Makenna Johnson and Natalie Jadin each had two hits, with Johnson scoring one of the runs and Jadin driving in a run. Jocelyn Mulkey pitched the final three innings to pick up the win in relief, getting out of a jam in the fifth when Cottage Grove scored its two runs.

North Bend, meanwhile, lost its lone game of the week to Junction City 16-3, falling to 5-3 in league but still in second place behind the Pirates.

North Bend's doubleheader against Cottage Grove on Friday was postponed to Monday and the Bulldogs also host Hidden Valley on Wednesday in addition to the league season-ending doubleheader with the Pirates.

CLASS 2A-1A DISTRICT 4: Bandon edged Reedsport 8-7 and is in second place in the league season behind Toledo.

The Tigers face Eddyville at Toledo on Tuesday as part of a busy week this week. They also host Brookings-Harbor in a nonleague game Thursday and have league home games Friday and Saturday against Gold Beach and Toledo, respectively.

Myrtle Point is right behind the Tigers at 4-2 after beating Waldport 20-3 (scores of the Bobcats' game at Gold Beach on Friday were not available).

Myrtle Point hosts Toledo on Tuesday and faces Eddyville at Waldport on Thursday.

Reedsport's lone game during the week was the loss to Bandon. The Brave hosted Eddyville in a doubleheader Monday (scores were not available) and hosts Waldport on Friday. The Brave also hosts Sutherlin's JV team for a doubleheader Tuesday.

RED DEVILS IDLE: Coquille did not have any games during the week. The Red Devils are scheduled to visit North Bend's JV team for a doubleheader on Tuesday and visit Glide for a league doubleheader on Saturday.

The stairs are in one of the portions of the Cell Block 2A at the Coos County Jail, which opened Saturday, April 27, leading to an upper tier of rooms. The fencing on the upper tier is in place to prevent people from jumping or throwing items from above, Sheriff Gabriel "Gabe" Fabrizio said.

"The Public Safety Levy will add prosecutors, which will result not only in more people being incarcerated, but also in potentially more being assigned to Parole & Probation.

April 30 is the deadline to register to vote or to change party affiliation for the May Primary Election. The Coos County Elections Department will mail ballots to all registered voters by May 2.

County Counsel Colton Totland said commissioners directed county staff Jan. 16 to prepare a ballot title for the proposed levy. He said Sheriff Gabriel "Gabe" Fabrizio and Megan Simms, county finance director, collaborated on it.

Fabrizio announced this month the Coos County Jail would double its capacity to 98 beds on April 27. He called the expansion a "significant milestone, which will enable us to better serve our community and contribute to a safer Coos County."

Since Fabrizio was elected in 2022, he and his command staff have worked to replace corrections and patrol deputies who were lost to attrition, retirements, and better-paying departments.

Since the beginning of 2023, the Sheriff's Office has rehired 27 percent of overall staff, and these deputies have been trained at the state's Department of Public Safety Standards and Training Academy in Salem.

"The Coos County Sheriff's Office is excited about adding this additional jail space, which will assist the Sheriff's Office and local law enforcement agencies in combating crime within Coos County and beyond," Fabrizio said.

The jail's capacity had been just 48 beds, but on Feb. 12 the sheriff swore in the last corrections deputy needed to increase the inmate capacity to 98.

"This levy will open one more pod, requiring seven corrections deputies, two more assistant cooks and one more control-room operator," he said, "and two more deputy district attorneys."

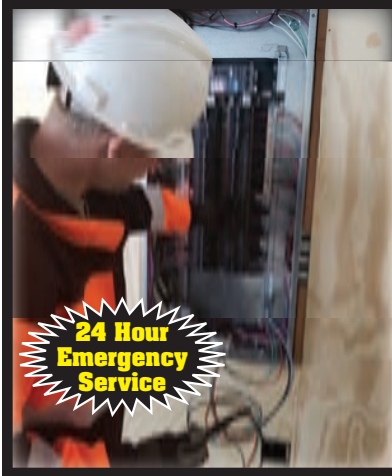

Tax funds received as a result of the levy would be placed in a restricted public safety fund that would be audited annually. Audit results would be made public, Totland said, adding that the levy, if voters approve it, would expire June 30, 2029. The levy would allow the sheriff to expand the jail from 98 to 147 beds and would add two county prosecutors.

County Commissioner Robert "Bob" Main said the county has a $4 million shortfall and that's why the commissioners are asking voters to approve the tax measure. The county's annual property tax receipts of $6 million "doesn't even cover the cost of running the jail," he said. "The general fund can't even survive keeping the jail open. In the past, taxes weren't raised because of revenue from timber receipts."

County Treasurer Megan Simms said the jail's annual expenditures total more than $7.8 million.

Sweet said he thinks "this is one of the most important actions that this board has proposed in the 10-11 years that I've been a commissioner." He said the district attorney's office is backlogged 1,400 cases. Even if suspects were prosecuted, he said, they likely wouldn't go to jail unless they were convicted of a serious felony.

If voters approve the tax measure, the owner of a property assessed at $200,000 would pay $196 per year ($16.33 per month) to support the jail and the district attorney's office, according to information prepared by Fabrizio and District Attorney Paul Frasier. A property assessed at $300,000 would pay $294 per year (or $24.50 per month).
