

Commissioners honor Lowell Ostrom as Senior Volunteer of the Month

Douglas County Commissioners Tim Freeman, Chris Boice, and Tom Kress, along with Douglas County Senior Services Department announced that Lowell Ostrom was awarded the Douglas County Senior Services Volunteer of the Month award for November. Kress was honored to present Lowell with the award at the Bistro Sixty Senior Dining Site in Reedsport earlier this month. Bistro Sixty Reedsport which is located inside the Lower Umpqua Senior Center on 460 Winchester Avenue in Reedsport.

“Dedicated volunteers like Lowell show up day-in and day-out to meet the needs of seniors through our Meals on Wheels program. This isn’t just an activity for him, he’s made it part of his personal community. We are very grateful to have him as part of the Douglas County Senior Services family,” remarked Kress, liaison commissioner to Douglas County Senior Services.

Food Service Worker Karen Robertson nominated Lowell as Douglas County Senior Services Volunteer of the Month.

She said, “Lowell started out as a temporary substitute helper, but that was twelve years ago! He is here every day and helps train new people. Lowell is willing to do whatever needs to be done. He is so very appreciated.”

Lowell saw a need 12 years ago when he was enjoying a meal at the senior center. He noticed that one of the regular volunteers was out and the dishes had started to pile up. He rolled up his sleeves and started clearing dishes. An Army veteran, he’s lived in Douglas County since 1979, and made a career as a refrigeration serviceman until 2007. Lowell has found a family at the Bistro Sixty Reedsport and pours his heart into volunteering there. When not volunteering at Bistro Sixty in Reedsport or watching NASCAR, he spends time in the country, especially traversing logging roads just enjoying God’s creation.

Lowell said, “I started as a diner, and then designated myself as a dish scraper. I’ve assisted in every role here and love serving as a driver now. I’m 75 years old and a lot of my family and friends and neighbors have passed on. Bistro Sixty has become a family to me.

Commissioner Tom Kress presents Lowell Ostrom with the November Volunteer of the Month certificate.

Lighted parade coming to Bandon

Bandon will celebrate Christmas on December 10 with the city’s Lighted Street Parade beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Christmas celebrations continue in Old Town Bandon Saturday, December 10th with the grand finale, Bandon’s Lighted Street Parade, scheduled to begin at 5:30.

The afternoon kicks off at 3 p.m. with a nog walk/cider stroll through Old Town. Many merchants will be providing cider, eggnog, wine and other refreshments along with many bargains for Christmas shoppers. Glasses for the Nog Walk will be available at the glass picnic shelter on the boardwalk from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

You also catch up with the choir singing carols at Coastal Mist at 4 p.m.

If you’re interested in being in the parade, it’s easy. You can light up yourself, your car, your truck, your bike, your horse, or your dog. We’ve had everything from log trucks to tiny tots participate, so it’s truly fun for the whole family. The more lights we have the more fun and magical the event becomes. Here’s a link to the registration page: <https://forms.gle/NCT9wcX8Q9tS-8gMV8>. For more information on the parade, call (541) 551-1663.

Don't drink and drive

This is a letter to the World... But is isn't. It is letter to all the people who "take that one more drink" ;and foolishly drive. Because you hit a power pole and caused a complete blackout it directly caused a tragic fall..which took the life of a very special person.

This person was well respected, loved by all, and a part of a family who are devastated and lost now. Such a useless death. When you made such a decision to drink and drive...you have no idea of the tragic outcome to people you will never know. THINK TWICE BEFORE YOU TAKE THAT EXTRA DRINK....but, for God's Sake... DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE!!!

Telling the truth

This afternoon via e-mail, I got an uplifting update from an organization aptly titled Assange Defense. Four major international media outlets (LeMonde, El Pais, Der Spiegel and The Guardian), along with The New York Times, all released an open letter refuting the U.S. government's case against one of the greatest journalists who ever lived.

For years I've been outraged and troubled by the predicament of Julian Assange. Regardless of how anyone might feel about him, the facts do not support the case against him. And the facts are: (1) Julian Assange is guilty of no crime; and (2) Despite all the skepticism Mr. Assange's work has been subjected to, never once has he been caught passing on misinformation or lies. And here's the real reason this poor man has been detained and tortured for so long.

The day Julian started hiding at the Ecuadorian Embassy in London, prior to his arrest, was in 2012. That's a decade he's been denied his freedom. All for exposing ugly secrets, held by those in power throughout the world. Matters pertaining to governments, to military mischief, trade deal treachery, human rights abuses, ad nauseam, long kept hidden, were exposed for all who cared to see. This Empire's brutality, its criminality, its psychopathy, had nowhere to hide under Julian's watch.

All of what Julian Assange published was information we, as citizens, have a right to know. But throughout recorded history, empires have had this nasty habit of killing anyone caught blowing their covers.

Wikileaks held up a mirror for the oligarchs, so they could take a good long look at themselves. The image reflected back on politicians, CEOs, the surveillance apparatus and so on, wasn't pretty. Their response is to make a martyr of this man, because this is what authoritarians do. They are criminalizing journalism, making this man an example for anyone who might be tempted to do real journalism like Mr. Assange. Because telling the truth is supposed to be the job of a journalist; keeping the public informed, doing the polar opposite of what we can expect from corporate media's jaw wagers.

People Shouldn't be Encouraged to Keep Smoking

By KIM MURRAY
InsideSources.com

There is a lot of focus on smoking in November because each year the American Lung Association spends the month focusing on lung cancer awareness and the American Cancer Society holds its annual Great American Smoke-Out. Strangely, during the push to quit smoking, there is no support for using safer alternatives for those who cannot give up smoking. Not only is there no mention of these known safer alternatives, but there is a misinformation campaign to discourage the use of safer alternatives.

Vapor products have disrupted the market as a consumer-driven product providing an alternative to smoking. There is no combustion involved, which means there is no smoke. Instead, the liquid in an e-cigarette is heated to create an aerosol with fewer chemicals than cigarette smoke. The vapor is inhaled by the user like a combustible cigarette. There is no tobacco in an e-cigarette. Because vapes often contain nicotine, which can come from tobacco or other sources, the Food and Drug Administration deemed vapor products to be tobacco products in 2016 and began regulating them.

After struggling for years to quit smoking, millions of consumers in the United States have switched to vapor products and no longer smoke. Rather than celebrating their success, the American Lung Association undermines the accomplishment of those who formerly smoked and told them they haven't really quit smoking.

Instead of campaigning for better enforcement of the laws prohibiting the sale of vapor products to minors, the American Cancer Society took the stance of completely ignoring the millions of adults (many of them parents) who used vapor technology to help themselves quit smoking. Previously, the ACS claimed that "switching to the exclusive use of e-cigarettes is preferable to continuing to smoke combustible products." After the 2019 surge in youth usage of vapor products, the ACS advised that e-cigarettes "should not be used to quit smoking." Despite a 50 percent reduction in youth e-cigarette use, they have yet to change their stance.

Cancer-related trade organizations are also opposing the use of vapor products for people who cannot quit smoking. They fail to educate the public on the reduced risks of vaping versus the long-known risks of smoking and do nothing to promote the principles of harm reduction.

The Oncology Nursing Society recently updated its position statement on vaping. Unfortunately, the ONS statement contains misinformation claiming vaping is as toxic as secondhand smoke. ONS also perpetuates the myth that nicotine vapor products caused vaping lung injuries, which we now know was caused by contraband vapor products containing THC (tetrahydrocannabinol) from cannabis, not nicotine.

The American Association for Cancer Research and the American Society of Clinical Oncology recently updated their 2015 policy statement. In 2015 they said that the "elimination of combustible tobacco products would dramatically reduce the burden of tobacco-related death and disease," and that they "support every effort to reduce the use of combustible tobacco," finding e-cigarettes "as potentially harmful, and potentially beneficial products in this regard." Yet, in 2022, their only focus is on youth, effectively driving use by adults who smoke away from the potential benefits of vapor products.

In the United Kingdom, Cancer Research UK found that e-cigarettes "are far less harmful than smoking" and that for people who smoke, "e-cigarettes are an option to help them stop." It is shameful that health groups in the United States lag so far behind their counterparts in the UK, who are helping people who can't stop smoking simply by suggesting they switch to safer alternatives.

More than 16 million people in the United States currently suffer from smoking-caused illnesses, with 480,000 dying yearly of smoking-related diseases. Tragically, 5.6 million children living today will die of smoking-related causes if the country doesn't continue to work to end youth smoking initiation.

More than presidents have called 1600 Pennsylvania home. The White House has been a kind of landlocked Noah's Ark over the years. The Lincolns had nanny goats. William Howard Taft kept a beloved dairy cow on the premises. Teddy Roosevelt housed an incredible 23 species indoors and out, including a lion and a badger. And there have been more dogs and cats than you can shake the proverbial stick at.

But for sheer strangeness, Calvin Coolidge outdid them all.

Though the flinty New Englander wasn't known for personal warmth, Silent Cal had a soft spot in his heart for critters. When word got out that the president and first lady Grace Coolidge were animal lovers, Americans flooded them with living, breathing gifts.

There were the obligatory canines, of course, so many that, "We always had more dogs than we could take care of," Coolidge later noted in his autobiography. They were nothing compared to tire baron Harvey Firestone's donated African pygmy hippo, a black bear sent from Mexico, and even two lion cubs, which the father of fiscal conservatism gave the less-than-cuddly names "Tax Reduction" and "Budget Bureau."

The menagerie grew so large that the White House press dubbed it the "Pennsylvania Avenue Zoo."

So, it was no surprise when Vinnie Joyce's gift was delivered to the Executive Mansion late in the fall of 1926. That animal was different. It was meant to be eaten. For Thanksgiving dinner, no less. But the would-be entrée didn't have wings and feathers. It was a plump raccoon.

Strange as it sounds today, Americans ate a surprising amount of raccoon meat in the early 20th century. You could even find it in some grocery stores. (This, it should be pointed out, was long before the animal became associated with rabies.)

Those with discriminating palates reported it tasted like a cross between a young pig and (what else?) chicken, though not as fatty as possum.

Little is known about Mr. Joyce of Nitta Yuma, Miss., or why he thought the 30th president would have a hankering for fresh coon swimming in gravy for his big feast. But this much is certain: He misjudged the recipient.

Coolidge took one look at the fat female raccoon and fell in love with her. He wasted no time issuing one of those presidential pardons that turkeys so famously receive at this time of year and quickly named her Rebecca.

The wily Procyon lotor (its formal scientific name) not only knew how to cheat the hangman but she was equally talented at wiggling her war into the first family's hearts. They grew so fond of her that she was given a collar engraved with "Rebecca Raccoon of the White House" that Christmas. She liked to nestle in the president's lap as he sat beside the fireplace at night.

But she was also a bit of a spoiled brat. She clawed White House furniture and clothing and loved gnawing her way out of her wooden crate, prompting frantic rescue missions by Secret Service agents desperate to avoid telling their boss they had lost his pet on their watch.

First lady Grace Coolidge, who was as vivacious and outgoing as her husband was cool and reserved, particularly loved showing off Rebecca to the public and press. Though the encounters didn't always go as scripted.

Take the 1927 Easter Egg Roll. All the screaming kids and flashing cameras got on Rebecca's nerves. When she clawed at the first lady, she was promptly taken inside.

Even the president himself wasn't exempt from her outbursts. Coolidge made a public appearance with his wrist wrapped in bandages one day. Someone asked what had happened. "Rebecca," was all the taciturn president said, tersely. That incident resulted in her being banished to what later became the National Zoo. But the exile didn't last long. In a week she was back at the White House.

The Coolidges decided Rebecca needed companionship. So, a male raccoon was trapped in Virginia and brought to Washington. The

J. Mark Powell

First Family named him Reuben. Not only did Cupid's arrows not fly, but Rebecca hated her suitor. The feeling was mutual. Reuben kept running away (once resulting in a nasty traffic jam on Pennsylvania Avenue) until he finally slipped away for good. Rebecca wasn't upset in the least.

The raccoon rode in the presidential limousine, tagged along on a family vacation to the South Dakota Black Hills, and was better behaved at 1928's Egg Roll.

However, as the Coolidges began contemplating their post-presidential life, it grew apparent there wasn't a place for Rebecca in it. They decided she needed to be with other animals once more. So it was sent back to the zoo in early 1929, this time for good.

That was one change too many, and Rebecca died a short time later.

It had been quite a ride, stretching from the backwoods of rural Mississippi to a comfortable spot inside one of the nation's premier mansions. And it is worth noting that Calvin Coolidge went to the grave himself not long afterward without having ever tasted raccoon meat. For Thanksgiving or otherwise.

While everyone can agree that the best thing for lung health is to inhale nothing but fresh (unpolluted) air, those who choose to use nicotine should be encouraged to switch to a safer alternative. Most people who smoke want to quit, with many trying all sorts of methods, including FDA-approved nicotine replacement therapies to cold turkey to hypnosis and acupuncture. While these methods work for some people, they don't work for everyone.

For people who can't quit smoking, there are two choices. Either society can look the other way while those who smoke get sick and die, or people who smoke can be encouraged to switch to a safer alternative. Encouraging them to switch is the right thing to do, and it's appalling to see public health groups choose to leave them smoking instead.

Bandon girls tip Red Devils in Winter Lake Classic

Bandon and Coquille played another thrilling contest on Saturday in Coquille’s annual tournament, with the Tigers knocking down clutch free throws in the fourth quarter for a 44-42 victory.

Olivia Thompson had 14 points and Katelyn Senn 13 and they combined to knock down five of their six free throws in the final quarter. Makiah Vierck added eight points for the Tigers, who improved to 3-0.

Holli Vigue had 15 points and Taylor Kelner and Alexi Lucatero eight each for the Red Devils, a young squad dominated by sophomores and freshmen.

“We are going to get better and better,” coach Marty Stallard said, adding that many of the players have been ill during the first two weeks of practice, making conditioning and instruction challenging. “It could turn into a very special group.”

Bandon coach Jordan Sammons noted how challenging it is to play in Coquille’s gym and how the teams over the past few years often have had their games come down to the wire.

“I’m super proud of my girls and their heart to pull out a tough win,” he said.

The tournament gave the schools a chance to continue their rivalry since Coquille has moved back up to Class 3A and they are not league rivals anymore.

On the opening day, Coquille topped Toledo and Bandon overwhelmed Siuslaw.

Lucatero had 16 points, Vigue 11 and Kelner and Trinity Blanton seven each in Coquille’s 55-38 win over Toledo.

Senn had 26 points and Thompson and Rachel Eickhoff scored seven each as the Tigers beat Siuslaw 61-4.

Bandon had opened the season with a 54-41 win at Myrtle Point on Wednesday, the first night games could be played. The Bobcats also are no longer a league rival for Bandon since they have dropped down to the Class 1A Skyline League.

Thompson had 17 points, Abby Weston 14 and Lizzy Stice 13 for the Tigers in their win over the Bobcats.

Bandon, ranked second in the preseason coaches poll for Class 2A now has a pair of big road games against two of the classification’s other top teams, visiting No. 3 Gervais on Friday and No. 1 Salem Academy on Saturday.

Coquille, meanwhile, hosts North Valley on Wednesday and Central Linn, the No. 4 team in Class 2A, on Saturday.

MYRTLE POINT 56, RIDDLE 5: The Bobcats dominated the host Irish on Friday to improve to 1-1 on the season.

Kenzie Robinson had 12 points and Grace Bradford 10 as coach Jennifer Sproul was able to get all her players extended time on the court.

Myrtle Point heads to the northeast corner of the state this week for the 1A Preview, facing St. Paul on Thursday at Nixyaawii High School before meeting Crosshill Christian on Friday and Pilot Rock on Saturday at Pilot Rock.

BULLDOGS WIN TWO: North Bend topped Siuslaw and South Umpqua on back-to-back nights last week to start the season with a 2-0 record.

The Bulldogs beat Siuslaw 49-10 on Wednesday. Ayla Riddle, Erica McClintock, Kailynn Taylor and Avery Pex all scored seven points in the win.

The next day, the Bulldogs beat South Umpqua 48-40. Lennon Riddle had 18 points, Ayla Riddle 16 and Carley Lucero 11. Tatum Kelly had 13 for the Lancers.

The Bulldogs suffered a one-point home loss to Hidden Valley on Saturday, 36-35, and host Toledo on Tuesday before road games at Gold Beach on Thursday and Waldport on Saturday.

PIRATES WIN OPENER: Marshfield beat visiting Douglas on Wednesday 53-25 before losing a pair of games to tough teams in the Madras Tournament over the weekend.

Astoria beat the Pirates 64-46 and host Madras topped Marshfield 57-22. Astoria is ranked sixth and Madras second in the first Class 4A coaches poll.

The Pirates visit Brookings-Harbor on Tuesday and host Creswell on Saturday.

POWERS 52, PACIFIC 25: The Cruisers opened the season with a win at Pacific on Friday in a nonleague game against their Skyline League rival.

Powers hosted Bandon’s junior varsity squad on Monday (results were not available) and face host Mapleton in the opener of the Sailors’ tournament on Friday.

Pacific, meanwhile, also lost to Camas Valley 36-17 in its opener and beat Riddle 42-16 on Saturday.

The Pirates are at Reedsport on Tuesday and also play in the Mapleton Tournament this weekend, starting against C.S. Lewis Academy.

Reedsport, which has a girls varsity team for the first time since the 2020-21 season, lost to Camas Valley 41-4 in its opener and hosted Marshfield’s JV team Monday (results were not available).

BOYS

Coquille boys open basketball season with wins in home tourney

Coquille’s boys basketball team opened the season with wins over Toledo and Bandon in the annual Winter Lake Classic.

Unlike past years, the tournament wasn’t a bracket format, but rather pre-scheduled games, with Bandon facing Siuslaw on the first night and Toledo facing Siuslaw the second night, since Bandon and Toledo are in the same league.

Coquille, now in Class 3A, is no longer grouped with the Tigers and Boomers.

The Red Devils pounded Toledo 80-34. Gardner Scolari led a balanced attack with 14 points, while Isaac Felton had 12, Canyon Luckman 11, Peyton Leep 10, Dean Tucker nine and Hayden GeDeros eight.

On the second night, Coquille beat Bandon 63-52.

Scolari and Hunter Layton each hit four 3-pointers while scoring 22 and 19 points, respectively, and Tucker added 13.

The Tigers, who suffered their first loss, got 17 points from Owen Brown, nine from Eli Freitag and eight from Sean Ells.

Bandon had picked up two wins earlier in the season, including topping Siuslaw 54-30 on Friday. In that win, Freitag had 23 points, Owen Brown 15 and Carter Brown 11.

“Our zone offense was vry unselfish and found a lot of open players knocking down shots,” coach Vince Quattrocchi said.

The Tigers beat Myrtle Point 60-

50 on the first night of the season.

Owen Brown had 24 points, Carter Brown 15 and Freitag 13 in that win as the Tigers fought off several challenges from the Bobcats.

“We have a lot to work on defensively,” Quattrocchi said, though he was happy for the first outing. “It’s a group of boys who haven’t really played together in a varsity contest.”

Andreas Villanueva had 20 points and Howard Blanton 12 for the Bobcats.

Bandon is at Gervais on Friday and Salem Academy on Saturday.

Coquille, meanwhile, hosts new Far West League for North Valley on Wednesday in a nonleague game and Central Linn on Saturday.

MYRTLE POINT 68, RIDDLE 25: The Bobcats followed their opening loss to Bandon with a nonleague win over Riddle, a team Myrtle Point will face later in league play in its first year in the Skyline League.

Logan Backman had 17 points and Villanueva 14 and four of their teammates added at least seven points in a balanced attack. Howard Blanton had eight rebounds and Backman had five steals.

Myrtle Point heads to Pilot Rock this weekend for the 1A Preview, where the Bobcats face St. Paul on Thursday in a rematch of their football semifinal loss, Crosshill Christian on Friday and Pilot Rock on Saturday.

NORTH BEND TAKES TWO: The Bulldogs beat Siuslaw and South Umpqua to open the season.

North Bend won the season opener in Florence 60-38 over the Vikings. Paulo Flores had 15 points and Jalen Riddle hit four 3-pointers and scored 12 in the win. Andrew Jensen-Norman had 20 points for Siuslaw.

A night later at South Umpqua, the Bulldogs won 50-38. Riddle had 14 of his 18 points in the second half and add six rebounds and seven assists. David Roberts contributed 12 for North Bend in the win. Jace Page had 22 for the Lancers.

New North Bend head coach Jasper Sawyer said the Bulldogs had great energy and toughness in the opening win. In the second game, on back-to-back nights, “We found a way to pull together and push through,” he said.

The Bulldogs lost their third game of the season Saturday, falling at home to Hidden Valley 42-32. They host Toledo on Tuesday and visit Gold Beach on Thursday and Waldport on Saturday.

DOUGLAS 39, MARSHFIELD 32: The Pirates, fielding an entirely new varsity team, fell at home to the Trojans on opening night last Wednesday.

“Considering we don’t return a single player from our roster last year, the acclimation may take a little longer than typical,” Marshfield coach Jesse Ainsworth said, adding the players have been working hard and a joy to coach as they work toward the Sky-Em season in the new year.

“We will be an entirely different looking team come January,” he said.

Marshfield is at Brookings-Harbor on Tuesday and hosts Creswell on Saturday.

PACIFIC 39, POWERS 33: The Pirates held off the visiting Cruisers in the fourth quarter Friday, finishing on a 7-1 run after Powers had pulled even.

Tucker Long had 15 points, Logan Knapp 13 and Josiah Selvey 10 for Pacific in the win.

“Powers made a great effort and got back in the game,” Pacific coach Lee Pestana said.

Rene Sears had 13 points for Powers, while Charlie Shorb had nine points and eight rebounds.

The two later will meet in Powers as part of the Skyline League season.

Pacific also was at Riddle on Saturday (results were not available). Powers is at Milo Adventist Academy on Tuesday and then plays in the Mapleton tournament this weekend, opening against the host Sailors on Friday.

CAMAS VALLEY 45, REEDSPORT 39: The Brave came up short in their season opener at Camas Valley on Friday.

Jay B Noel had 13 points for Reedsport and Myles Morgan, Tristin Carrie and Alex Dukovich scored eight each.

Riley Wolfe had 18 points for Camas Valley, which also won at Pacific 55-36 to open the season.

Reedsport hosts Pacific on Tuesday and Siuslaw on Friday.

Garcia-Silver places 17th in national meet

Marshfield senior Alex Garcia-Silver finished 17th in the championship race of the Nike Cross Nationals on Saturday at Glendoveer Golf Course in Portland.

Garcia-Silver, who won his second straight Class 4A state title for the Pirates and qualified for nationals by finishing fifth in the Northwest Regional meet, was second among Oregon runners behind Crater’s Tyrone Gorze.

Garcia-Silver finished the 5,000-meter race in 15 minutes and 20 seconds. He beat two of the other runners that topped him at the regional meet.

Aaron Sahlman of Newbury Park (California) won the race in 14:44 and Daniel Simmons of American Fork (Utah) was second in 14:51. Gorze finished third in 14:53. Weston Brown of Bozeman, Mont., who was second at the regional meet, was eighth in 14:56.

Newbury Park won the team title with 66 points, followed by Portland (Jesuit) with 152, Herriman (Utah) with 155 and Southern Oregon (Crater) with 171.

A total of 198 runners competed in the boys race.

As a junior, Garcia-Silver placed 21st in the regional meet, and did not advance to the nationals.

The individual title in the women’s race Saturday went to Irene Riggs of Morgantown, W.V., who finished in 16:40. That was 14 seconds better than Brooke Wilson of Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Kintetic, from Saratoga Springs, N.Y., won the girls team title with 81 points. Niwot of Colorado was second with 109.

The top Oregon team was Portland (Jesuit), which was 12th. Central Oregon (Summit) was 18th. The Summit group won the regional title, with Jesuit second.

Crescent Valley’s Emily Wisniewski was the top finisher from Oregon, placing 27th in 17:50.

Mac’s Run is Saturday at Sunset Bay State Park

The annual Mac’s Run, the final race in the 2022 calendar for the South Coast Running Club, is Saturday, Dec. 10, starting at Sunset Bay State Park.

The event includes 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer races, both looping through Shore Acres State Park. The longer race also includes a trek out to Cape Arago State Park.

The entry fee is $15 for running club members and $25 for nonmembers who sign up in advance. The race-day entry fees are $20 for members and $30 for nonmembers.

The race starts at 10 a.m.

For additional information about Mac’s Run or for upcoming events, visit www.southcoastrunningclub.org.

Bus Jam

bus, completely filling one school bus and coming close to filling another.

Stephanie Kilmer, who has volunteered for Bus Jam each of the 21 years it has been around, said seeing the gifts flow in was quite a relief.

“The ask has been overwhelming this year,” Kilmer said. “They’re struggling. There’s just not enough left in the paychecks after the essentials.”

Kilmer said through the years, she has seen Bus Jam save Christmas for many families, with that number climbing in 2022.

“We’ve been doing this long enough where people have had to decide whether to pay the heating bill or get presents,” Kilmer said. “This stretches it for those parents.”

In Coos Bay, the highlight of the day is when Bykes for Tykes showed up with a whopping 260 new bicycles that were donated to Bus Jam. The motorcyclists who support Bykes for Tykes raise money all year to purchase bicycles of all sizes for children.

It took nine pickup trucks overflowing with bikes to make the delivery to Coos Bay, with dozens of motorcyclists following behind.

In North Bend, several organizations brought collections of gifts. One donor gave close to 200 kites, another brought dozens of dart boards.

One of the biggest donors was the Three Rivers Casino, which came to Bi-Mart with a large van and an SUV loaded with toys and food.

For the last month, the casino has run a special where any guest who brought an item for Bus Jam inside received $5 in free slot play. That results in hundreds of toys and boxes of food being delivered to stuff the bus.

After all the gifts were collected, they were taken to the Boys & Girls Club where volunteers began the process of sorting and stacking the gifts in age groups for parents who will come Saturday to “shop” for Christmas.

Kilmer said the allotted time slots for Bus Jam filled up quickly this year, so the organizers decided to add 120 more slots to meet the growing need. Registration is open through December 8 at busjam.org.

Representatives from Three Rivers Casino and the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians unload gifts that were collected at the casino over the last month during Bus Jam on Saturday. The casino offered free play to any guest who brought in a gift to be donated to Bus Jam and administrators from the casino also pitched in money and bought gifts. The casino brought an SUV and a van full of food and presents.

Torres also has formed partnerships with other community organizations. She works closely with Alternative Youth Activities, a nonprofit that supports the education of students dealing with housing instability. It was Alternative Youth Activities that helped Wilson study for her GED, for example.

Despite the success of such community partnerships, they remain relatively sparse in other parts of Oregon.

In some cases, Ferrell said, “There may be fears around lines of authority, control of limited resources, or fears of being replaced.”

NEW MONEY, NO SILVER BULLET

In 2021, Congress included $800 million in the American Rescue Plan to help schools serve homeless students.

Of that, $7.4 million came to Oregon schools.

That comes on top of less than $900,000 Oregon receives in federal funding tied to the McKinney-Vento law — dollars that are exclusively doled out through competitive grants.

A greater number of school districts in Oregon were able to access that Rescue Plan money, and they could spend it more freely than McKinney-Vento funds.

Klamath Falls City Schools, for example, budgeted $13,500 to assist two students with housing over three years, records show. North Marion School District budgeted nearly $6,000 in prepaid debit cards and gift cards to help students purchase materials “necessary for students to participate fully in school activities,” such as shoes, clothing and uniforms.

“That was honestly kind of a miracle, a unicorn pot of dollars that gave us flexibility we have not ever had with school funding before,” Ferrell said of the American Rescue Plan funds.

In April, 92 members of the U.S. House of Representatives signed a “Dear Colleague” letter, urging the leadership of the House Education Committee to renew the $800 million in funding, which represents 1% of the federal education budget, for the fiscal year that started Oct. 1.

“Investing in a young person’s life will enable them to avoid chronic homelessness, intergenerational cycles of poverty, and pervasive instances of trauma,” the letter read.

Budget bills from both chambers of Congress requested increases to the program budget, but they are far less than the renewal the House members requested. Federal budget negotiations are expected to resume in December.

Duffield said increasing support for homeless students is a key component to improving their outcomes.

But other pieces are needed, too, she said. One is accountability — districts need to know their state is being vigilant about compliance with the law.

“Policymakers at the state and federal level are ultimately the ones who have the power to change this,” she said. “They can appropriate more dollars, they can require more oversight.”

Duffield also called for greater awareness about youth homelessness, and the kinds of obstacles students face when they are dealing with housing instability.

Often, she said, “these students aren’t visible because they are dealing with so much trauma.”

Bandon Christmas Lights Parade & Celebrations
3 pm, December 10th
Old Town Bandon

Christmas celebrations continue in Old Town Bandon Saturday, December 10th with the grand finale, Bandon’s Lighted Street Parade, scheduled to begin at 5:30.

The afternoon kicks off at 3:00 PM with a nog walk/cider stroll through Old Town. Many merchants will be providing cider, Eggnog, wine and other refreshments along with many bargains for Christmas shoppers. Glasses for the Nog Walk will be available at the glass picnic shelter on the boardwalk from 3 to 4:30 PM. You also catch up with the choir singing carols at Coastal Mist at 4 PM.

If you’re interested in being in the parade, it’s easy! You can light up yourself, your car, your truck, your bike, your horse, or your dog! We’ve had everything from log trucks to tiny tots participate, so it’s truly fun for the whole family. The more lights we have the more fun and magical the event becomes. Here’s a link to the registration page: <https://forms.gle/NCT9wcX8Q9tS->
