Criminal investigation leads to hundreds of animals seized from West Coast Game Park Safari

BY NATE SCHWARTZ Editor

In a search warrant execution that lasted four days and involved more than eight agencies, animals were finally relocated from West Coast Game Park Safari. The roadside zoo has long drawn complaints and regulatory citations culminating on May 18 with 310 animals living in subpar conditions being seized and sent to more reputable facilities and sanctuaries for specialized care.

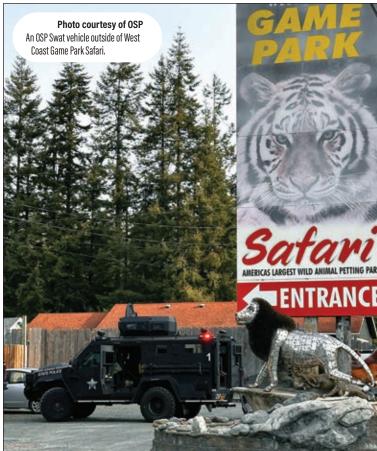

Citations for the tourist trap go back years, with more recent violations being documented by U.S. Fish and Wildlife and the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). In 2023, they were found to have violated the Big Cat Public Safety Act after allowing guests to pet a young jaguar.

In August 2024, the USDA handed out 19 citations for a variety of offenses. Some included a negligent lack of veterinary care for the animals, as their contracted vet only worked two days a week and with a limited purview of animals. The facility was generally understaffed otherwise. Several enclosures were not up to code and had conditions considered unfit for the animals. Trash, feces, and food waste filled many of the already small enclosures, some with Foreign Wars Post 3440 provides community, camaraderie, and common purpose to Bandon vets

BY NATE SCHWARTZ

This Memorial Day, The World Newspaper would like to highlight the efforts of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3440 in Bandon. The Frank C. High Medal of Honor Post aims to give a sense of purpose and camaraderie to veterans of oversees conflicts through community service and engagement.

Affectionately known as 'The Post', VFW 3440 was formed in February, 1936, by its now-namesake Frank C. High, along with a group of 26 other veterans. High served in the Army during the Philippine-American War, and was granted the Medal of Honor along with 21 of his fellow scouts for their actions between May 13-16, 1899, when they charged across a burning bridge to flush out 600 heavily entrenched enemy combatants. The Post was renamed in his honor in 2018.

In addition to maintaining Bandon's Veterans Memorial and the flag at the city's entrance, and serving as the city's Honor Huard, the Post also commemorate those who've served by distributing flags to the city's three cemeteries during remembrance holidays. But this is just the start of what the group contributes to the community.

Just this year, the Post participated in the 2025 Day of Service in which they adopted the portion of Highway 101 North of Bandon and held a trash cleanup and cookout. They awarded students at Harbor Lights Middle School who participated in the National VFW Patriot's Pen scholarship essay contest with certificates and notebooks, with Isla Vosburg-Sullivan winning the contest. They also organized and participated in roll through of Bandon for National Vietnam War Veterans Day on March 29.

Their community service draws them support from many local organizations and businesses. This Memorial Day weekend, Bandon Fisheries Warehouse held an allages Run to Remember fundraiser for the Bandon VFW. Community members chose a 1-mile Fun Run or more challenging 3-mile course to show support for local veterans. Earlier this year, they accepted a $2100 donation from Bandon's Rotary Club, raised through the proceeds from their Veterans Golf Tournament.

On Memorial Day itself, the Post held a parade, along with remembrances and honors at the aforementioned Veterans Memorial wall. The day was finished with a barbecue back at the Post on Bates Road. In fact, the Post's Canteen Bar and Grill is open five days a week, from 4-7 PM Sunday, Monday, Tues, and Thursday, with late opening until 9 PM on Fridays. Anyone is welcome to come, not just veterans and their families, with proceeds continuing to support The Post and all it does for the community.

For more information on how VFW 3440 helps its community of veterans and beyond you can visit their official website at: vfw3440.org

Level Up At Your Library

By JENNY BROWNFIELD and EMILY CHURCH Coos Bay Public Library

Summer is here and that means it's time for this year's FREE summer reading program at the Coos Bay Public Library (CBPL). This year's theme is "Level Up at Your Library!" and our staff at CBPL have been hard at work planning games, experiences, and challenges to make this summer the stuff of legends. Many of us have fond memories of summer reading programs and the prizes we earned, but there is more to these programs than free pizza. Each year students experience what's known as the summer slide; those who do not continue to actively learn and practice their skills over the summer lose much of the previous year's learning. For those students in grades 3-5, this loss of school-year gains is significant, averaging a loss of 20% for reading and 27% for math

One way to help prevent your child from losing their hard-earned academic progress is to embrace opportunities for them to stretch their math, reading, and science muscles throughout the summer. The Coos Bay Public Library wants to help prevent summer slide by offering an enticing menu of programs that keep your child's mind engaged. One way we do this is through the summer reading program, which offers much more than just books!

This year's summer reading program kicks off with a special event on June 17 from 10:00am - 12:00pm at the library. With cake and games, this free event promises to be a smash hit for all ages! While you're there, pick up your summer reading game piece and start earning prizes for reading books and using other library resources. With unique challenges for kids, teens, and adults, everyone is invited to join the game this summer and earn spectacular prizes including gift cards, games, and CBPL swag.

The kickoff party is just the first of many free events planned for the summer. On June 18 from 5:30pm -7:00pm the library will host a finance-focused family game night: "Making Moo-La". Children ages 5-12 are invited to practice math and teamwork skills with their families during this fun educational activity. Learn how to run a farm and solve problems with a team while enjoying delicious pizza and drinks!

On June 26 from 10:30am – 11:30am children ages 4-14 are invited to take part in a LEGOTM TMBuild It! Challenge. Using LEGO™s from the library collection, competitors will complete a series of engineering challenges to be evaluated by a panel of judges. The builder who wins the most challenges will take home a copy of Monkey Palace, a LEGO™ board game.

July brings a plethora of fun programs including Book Explorers for tweens, an all-ages Bollywood-style Indian celebration, another family game night, and a visit from the Oregon Museum of Natural and Cultural History's newest family learning adventure: Power Play for the Planet. Additionally, CBPL will be hosting several events at Mingus Park starring regional superstars such as Jay the Magician, samba-reggae percussion group Samba Ja, and folksong and puppeteer sensation Red Yarn.

The fun doesn't stop there! As the summer wraps up this August, the Creature Teachers will bring exotic animal ambassadors to the library for a fun learning event that includes a meet and greet with the animals. Internationally acclaimed Danish American juggler and comedian Henrik Bothe (pronounced "Bota") will perform an all-ages physical comedy show before we wrap up the summer reading program in mid-August with our annual Splish Splash, Summer Bash pool party at Mingus Park.

As you plan your summer schedule, we invite you to let CBPL's free summer reading program help you make lifelong family memories while avoiding summer slide. Whether you choose to earn prizes through our gamified reading challenges or join the party for any of this summer's free events, CBPL's summer reading program will level up your summer with both fun AND learning. Ready to click START? Some events may require registration, so check early and often to avoid the FOMO. View these programs and many more on the CBPL website under "Classes and Events" or by typing in this address on your web browser:

exposed sharp points that endangered the inhabitants. And there are many animals that suffered. The facility's chimpanzee, George, was housed alone since 2023, likely causing great distress for an otherwise incredibly social species. Countless animals were visibly malnourished, from big cats to the capybaras. In a 2016 investigation, it was found that two bears, Sugar and Spice, were shot by staff after peacocks escaped and entered their enclosure, enraging them. A dead tiger was found in a freezer containing meals for other animals.

The long list of negligence and malpractice in caring for the animals culminated in the execution of multiple search warrants beginning May 15. Veterinary staff from the Oregon Humane Society, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, and Oregon Department of Agriculture were on hand to evaluate and feed the seized animals. The operation continued through May 18, when many of the animals were finally transported.

Though many will get a new lease on life in properly run facilities, such as Wildlife Safari in Winston, OR, some were already too far gone for transport. A chicken, kinkajou, and camel had to be euthanized on site due to being in terrible health.

According to a release from Oregon State Police, "One camel was diagnosed with multiple serious medical conditions and suffering. Onsite veterinary staff determined the animal's condition was sufficiently grave and treatment or transportation would likely result in death.'

Further details remain under wraps pending the conclusion of a lengthy criminal investigation that is likely to continue indefinitely given the scope of the violations and the sheer number of animals involved. No arrests have been made as of writing, but the park will remain closed and the public has been asked to avoid the facility until further notice.

"After years of brazenly flouting bare minimum animal welfare laws, West Coast Game Park Safari must finally face up to the suffering it inflicted on scores of animals it kept confined in filthy, decrepit enclosures," said PETA's Senior Director of Captive Wildlife, Debbie Metzler in a statement. "PETA is calling for this hellhole to be permanently shut down, the survivors to get the care they desperately need, and everyone to avoid roadside zoos as if lives depended on it, because they do."

Oregon State Police conducted the operation in conjunction with the aforementioned Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, Oregon Humane Society, Oregon Department of Agriculture, as well as the Coos County Sheriff's Office, Coos County District

Attorney's Office, Oregon Department of Justice, and the IRS Criminal Investigation

Bobcats and Brave will be home in baseball playoffs

Myrtle Point and Reedsport host baseball playoff games on Wednesday and Powers will have its first-ever softball playoff game at home on Monday as the postseason begins for those sports.

North Bend will be on the road in Pendleton on Tuesday after edging Phoenix 2-1 in the Class 4A play-in round Thursday to advance to the 16-team bracket.

Myrtle Point and Reedsport both have first-round byes in the Class 2A-1A baseball playoffs.

The Bobcats, who shared the district title with the Brave for their league crown in 63 years, host the winner of a Monday game between Gaston and Lowell.

Reedsport hosts either Crosspoint Christian or Regis, who also play Monday.

The quarterfinals, for the winners of the second-round games, will be held Friday.

Myrtle Point held off the Brave 5-4 last week in a game to decide the district's top seed to the playoffs. The Bobcats include one player from Pacific, catcher Logan Knapp, in a cooperative partnership between the two schools.

In Class 4A, North Bend is the No. 10 seed and travels to face Pendleton, which had a perfect league record while winning the Eastern Oregon League. If the Bulldogs beat the Buckaroos on Tuesday, they would travel to Junction City for the quarterfinals on Friday.

Marshfield missed a chance to be in the playoffs when the Pirates fell to Stayton 7-1 in the play-in round Friday. Marshfield had a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning before Stayton tied the game. The Eagles scored six runs in the sixth to pull away.

In the Class 2A-1A softball playoffs, Powers played Kennedy at home Monday, the team's first-ever postseason effort (results were not available by press time). If the Cruisers win, they travel to Clatskanie on Wednesday.

Coastal republicans oppose bill to establish the Elliott State Research Forest

Salem, Ore. — Recently, Senate Bill 147 A received a work session in the Joint Subcommittee on Natural Resources. Coastal Republicans, Representatives Boomer Wright (R-Coos Bay) and Court Boice (R-Gold Beach), opposed the bill, which would transfer 83.000 acres of the Elliott State Forest from the State Board of Forestry to the State Land Board with the provision that it be designated for research. The Elliott State Forest, located in Coos Bay, was founded in 1930 and is Oregon's first State Forest.

"When you don't manage your forests properly, you get wildfires," said Rep. Boice. "Due to the State Board of Forestry's management of forests like the Elliott State Forest, Coos This process has been one County has gone nearly 40 years without any major wildfires. Now, with the transfer between agencies and the designation of the Elliott State Forest as a research forest, responsible forest management is under threat, putting thousands of acres and Oregonians on the south coast at risk – not to mention the tremendous loss to our Common School Fund."

Oregon State University was originally set to manage the research forest. However, OSU backed out, citing differences between the State Land Board, Tribal Nations, Counties, timber companies and other stakeholders.

"It is time for the Elliott Forest mismanagement to stop and give these trust lands back to our children.

mistake after another and has shown government bureaucracy at its best," said Rep. Wright. "The environmental non-profit for-profit organizations have supported and pushed their agenda of forest mismanagement of the Elliott over our children's education, safety from wildfires, and costing rural communities good-paying jobs that put food on their tables, clothes on their backs and roofs over their heads. Oregon State University seems to be the only sane member of this idiocy and said NO to the project feasibility, and so should the legislature."

SB 147 A passed out of the Joint Subcommittee on Natural Resources and is now headed to the House floor for a vote

Oregon overdose deaths have gone down, but they're still high

By MIA MALDONADO Oregon Capital Chronicle

Overdose deaths in Oregon went down 22% in 2024, the Oregon Health Authority announced Friday, May 16.

The decrease in overdose deaths follows a nationwide trend of declining overdose deaths. In 2024, there were about 80,400 drug overdose deaths in the country 26.9% fewer than the 110,000 overdose deaths in 2023, according to data from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

While strengthened substance use treatment infrastructure, naloxone distribution and education, prevention programs and changes in fentanyl supply are contributing to the decrease in overdose deaths, Oregon's overdose deaths rates are still too high, Oregon Public Health state epidemiologist

Dr. Dean Sidelinger said in a news release.

Substance use and overdose deaths remain a public health crisis in Oregon. The 1,480 overdose deaths in Oregon in 2024 were still more than overdose deaths rates during the pre-pandemic years.

"We must continue to work together to keep people safe and build treatment and recovery support for people struggling with substance use disorder," Sidelinger said.

The state of Oregon aims to decrease overdose death rates by investing in:

- Save Lives Oregon Harm Reduction Clearinghouse: This program is working to respond to the fentanyl crisis. It provides more than 360 agencies and organizations in Oregon with no-cost naloxone, infection prevention and wound care kits.
- · Opioid treatment programs: There are 27 opioid treatment programs in Oregon, two medication units and four mobile units. Oregon also expanded telehealth for medications for opioid use disorder.

- · Increasing residential treatment capacity: The state of Oregon is developing 260 beds dedicated to substance use disorder services and 41 beds dedicated to
- Peer support systems: Under these programs, individuals in Oregon use receive support, guidance and encouragement from individuals who have experience with recovery.
- Regional Networks: Funded through cannabis tax revenue and the Drug Treatment and Recovery Services Funds which networks provide harm reduction, housing, substance use disorder services.

- withdrawal management. struggling with substance
- · Behavioral Health accounted for $414 million between 2022-2025, these screening and assessment, treatment and employment

A. Notice of Automatic Stay. The entry of the Order imposes an automatic stay against most collection activities. This means that creditors generally may not take actions to collect debts from the Knutson Companies or the Estate Property, or attempt to exercise control over assets of the Receivership Estate. For example, while the stay is in effect, creditors cannot sue, garnish, assert a deficiency, repossess property, or otherwise try to collect from the Knutson Companies or from assets of the Receivership Estate. Creditors who violate the stay may be required to pay actual damages, costs, and reasonable attorney fees incurred as a result of the violation.

I have chosen to honor Holy Trinity Catholic Church with three photos and a story this week as they recently celebrated their last service in the church (first photo) as they prepare to demolish the structure and build a new church.

In 1983 Holy Trinity celebrated 100 years as a parish, and the second photo was taken in August of that year as priests and parishioners gathered in Bandon to celebrate the 100 year anniversary. Pictured, from left, in 1983 are Rev. Puccinelli, North Bend; Rev. Pius, Coos Bay; Joy Flaxel, North Bend; Archbishop Power, Portland; Tony Poderis, Bandon; Rev. Vandehey, North Bend; Rev. Dale Waddill, Bandon, and Rev. Allen Kennedy, former Bandon pas-

The church that sat on the hill above the First National Bank (now the Masonic building), in the third photo, was destroyed in the Bandon Fire of 1936. From 1891 until 1909 Bandon was a mission to the church in Marshfield.

"In 1909, Bandon was again assigned a resident priest. He was the Rev. Charles Keveny born in New York and ordained in Portland. It was Father Keveny who changed the name of the church from 'Mary, Refuge of Sinners' to the present name of "Holy Trinity." He also built a two story rectory which stood east of the present rectory on the side of the hill."

Interestingly, about this time, the City of Bandon decided to straighten the street that goes up the hill toward the Catholic Church. The City asked the church for an easement across some of the church property for a street right-of-way, but the request was refused. Even though the issue went to court, the church prevailed, and as a result the street follows the same crooked path it did when Bandon was first settled in the Holy Trinity was featured at the Tuesday, May 20, Meet and Greet at Bandon Fisheries Warehouse, with seating opening at 11:30 and the talk beginning at noon. Several members of the congregation shared stories about the "church on the hill," said to be Bandon's first church.

Bandon made the national news this week, and sad as the story was, many felt it was long overdue.

A lengthy criminal investigation by the Oregon State Police led to search warrant service at West Coast Game Park Safari south of Bandon where over 100 local, state and federal partners gathered on Thursday morning to begin the lengthy process of evaluating and caring for an estimated 300 animals at the game park.

A second press release was issued Friday, which said that "a complete inventory and forensic assessment of animals is continuing today and seized animals will be transported to appropriate, reputable facilities where they will receive specialized veterinary care. The preplanning for the operation accounted for the relocation of all seized animals.

"Veterinarians and staff with the Oregon Humane Society, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, and Oregon Department of Agriculture evaluated animal welfare on scene. This assessment included an animal's physical condition, food quality, water supply, sanitation, enclosure conditions, and care sufficient to preserve their health and well-being.

"Animal care has been a primary consideration during the investigation. During initial assessments on Thursday, one camel was diagnosed with multiple serious medical conditions and suffering. Unfortunately, humane euthanasia was the appropriate action," said the

As of Friday, no arrests had been made at the Park, which has been owned by the Tenney family for many years.

An article in the Statesman-Journal reported that the big cats (lions, tigers and bears) had been shipped to a sanctuary in California. A reporter for the paper had done an investigation into the violations that had occurred at the facility since 2016, including a dead tiger kept in a freezer for months, other animals found dead, sick and starving and never examined by a vet, rotting food and rat droppings.

The paper reported that a 2016 inspection report said two bears named "Sugar" and "Spice" were shot after a car backfired in the parking lot, causing a flock of peacock to disperse and land in their enclosure. The peacock agitated "Sugar" and an employee shot the bear due to concerns she would escape and hurt someone. They fired a second shot to make sure she was dead, the report said, and it hit "Spice." The employee shot him again to end his suffering, said the article.

During my years at Western World, which ended with my retirement in 2004. I had visited the park on a number of occasions at the request of the late Bob and Mary Tenney to photograph new arrivals, and it is clear that conditions have deteriorated over the years as I never saw anything remotely like has been described in the news and police reports.

This past week has been unusual in a lot of ways, but none as much as the deaths of eight people from Bandon or with ties to the community.

I learned that Brad Sinko, 61, died in mid-March after a lengthy illness. He was a nationally known cheese maker who worked for Face Rock Creamery. His local survivors include his wife Sarah and a son, Max. His parents were the late Joe and Karen Sinko.

Tommy Fraser, 70, a member of the Fraser family who owned a restaurant and bar here for many years, died Sunday night after battling a brain tumor. Among his survivors are his wife Marcia and son, Trenton, and brothers, Greg and Pat, and sister, Jerene Shaffar. A graveside service at Holy Trinity Catholic Cemetery is being held Thursday for family and close friends.

Long-time Bandon resident who had been a member of the Bandon Rotary Club for 40 years, Chuck Salt died last week at the age of 95. He and his late wife Lorna were active in the community. His survivors include two sons.

Marian Gant, a long-time resident of Bandon and wife of Tom Gant, died last week at the age of 94. Additional survivors are two sons, Gary and Steve, and their families.

Travis Howard, son of BHS graduates Tom and Sandy Peters Howard, died of an apparent heart attack last week at the age of 52. He was principal of Eagle Point Middle School and had worked many years as an administrator in the Coos Bay School District. Travis was a graduate of Myrtle Point High School where his father served as superintendent for many years. His survivors include his wife, Jayna.

Joe Summerlin, 62, who had been part of the Dragonfly Nursery crew for the past two months, died in a wreck Thursday night south of Port Orford.

Old-time Tiger sports lovers will remember long-time Marshfield teacher/coach Jess Moore, who officiated high school sports for many years. Jess died in March at the age of Many Bandon residents will remember Helen Haffner, 87, who died recently. She owned a home on Croft Lake Road that had been in her family for years, and was well known for her blueberries. Friends lovingly remember that she was also known for her fashion choices which included rubber boots and jogging pants. She moved from the area several years ago to Kirkland, Wash., to be near her son, Dan.

And now for some good news. For the third straight year, the Bandon High School Band, under the direction of Dave Weston, won the 1A-2A state championship band competition, held last week on the Oregon State University campus in Corvallis. Oakland High School placed second and Elgin High finished third. If someone will share the names of the band members with me, I will publish them next week.

I understand that negotiations between the Bandon Education Association and the school district are ongoing, and no agreement has been reached A teacher said that there has been no offer from the district, although a meeting is tentatively scheduled for May 29, which he said is open to the public.

There is still no date as to exactly when the new retail pharmacy will open at the Southern Coos Hospital and Health Center, although construction work has been completed, and it is fully staffed, with approval from the Board of Pharmacy, DEA and federal agencies.

Although the hospital was notified late last week that the Oregon Health Authority had approved the plans, key players were to meet Monday to work out the next steps to get the pharmacy open, according to CEO Ray Hino. "We are racing against time on the Rite Aid closure on May 22, and still may not make it. We are giving it everything we have," said Hino.

Patients of Rite Aid are advised to obtain a 90-day supply of their drugs, if possible, to tide them over until the new pharmacy opens at the hospital as we understand the Bandon Community Pharmacy, affiliated with Coast Community Health Center, is not taking new patients.

The annual Blessing of the Fleet, first established in 1989, was held on Monday, May 26, at 9:30 a.m. at the Riverwalk Amphitheater, near the glass picnic shelter at the Port. Hosted by members of the Bandon Ministerial Association, the ceremony honored those who have been lost at sea, those who make their living on the ocean, and all military veterans. Following the ceremony, local clergy and members of the U.S. Coast Guard cast flowers and wreaths into the mouth of the river, while reading aloud the names of those lost at sea.

Grants fuel community-driven solutions across region

South Coast nonprofits share $178,524 to make progress on pressing challenges

EUGENE, Ore. -Nonprofits tackling the South Oregon Coast's most pressing challenges are receiving a boost. Oregon Community Foundation has distributed new grants to organizations making progress on housing, childcare, hunger, substance abuse, arts and culture, and those serving immigrants, refugees and others. In all, OCF's Community Grants program is investing $178,524 in the work of 11

South Coast organizations.

Local Voices, Local Impact One of those nonprofits is Star of Hope Activity Center, which provides services to people with intellectual and developmental disabilities in Coos and Curry counties.

'Coos County has the highest rate of unserved individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities in the state of Oregon," said Stacy Dewater, Quality of

Oregon

Community

Foundation

Life Manager. "We are answering the call to close the gap in services. We believe that people with disabilities have the same rights and opportunities as everyone else."

Funding from OCF's 2025 Spring Cycle of Community Grants is flexible, allowing organizations to invest the money where it is needed most. Statewide the program has awarded $5,629,398 to 241 nonprofits serving urban and rural communities.

"All over our state, Oregonians are working to make their communities better, and we rely on them to point the way to solutions and innovative ideas," said Marcy Bradley, OCF's Chief Community Engagement and Equity Officer.

"Flexible operating funds through our Community Grants show the trust and respect we have for our local communities," Bradley said. "We're grateful to our donors for making this possible and to our nonprofit partners for their deep knowledge and desire to improve the lives of all Oregonians.'

For 28 years, OCF's Community Grants program has supported nonprofits, Tribal organizations and government agencies in all 36 counties of Oregon. The 2025 Spring Cycle prioritized nonprofits that are culturally specific, culturally responsive or small rural.

Breaking down the grants statewide:

• Nearly 3 in 4 of the nonprofits receiving grants serve low-income communities.

- · Nearly half serve communities that are Black, Indigenous or people of color.
- Grants went to 26 nonprofits that support Oregonians who are homeless, at risk of becoming homeless or in need of affordable housing. Another 30 of the nonprofits receiving grants support immigrant or refugee communities. Twelve more fight hunger.
- For 127 of the nonprofits receiving funding, this is their first Community Grant from OCF

Proposed federal SNAP cuts would leave Oregon families hungry, governor and senators warn

By JULIA SHUMWAY Oregon Capital Chronicle

Oregonians will go hungry if congressional Republicans plow forward with plans to cut the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program and shift costs to states, senators and Gov. Tina Kotek warned on Tuesday.

Kotek and Oregon Sens.
Ron Wyden and Jeff Merkley joined a press call Tuesday with three other Democratic senators and the head of a Vermont anti-hunger group to discuss proposed cuts to SNAP, the food benefits used by 42 million Americans and more than 700,000
Oregonians.

Congressional Republicans on Monday night unveiled a plan to cut federal SNAP spending by at least $230 billion, mostly by shifting costs to states. But states including Oregon can't afford those shifts, Kotek said.

"We just do not have the kind of money that it would take to maintain the program at the current level if these cuts go through," Kotek, also a Democrat, said. "It will just not happen, and people will go hungry in Oregon."

The details of congressional Republican's budget reconciliation proposal arrived just before Wednesday's release of Oregon's May revenue forecast, which state budgetwriters will use to craft the next two-year budget. Lawmakers are bracing for a downturn tied to tariffs, federal funding cuts and economic instability.

The federal proposal means that the taxes Oregonians pay to the federal government will not return to the state to help their neighbors in need, Kotek said. Kotek, who started her career as a policy advocate for the Oregon Food Bank, said she saw firsthand what it means for people to skip meals to afford rent or medicine and knows how fragile food security is for many.

"When you cut SNAP, you're not cutting bureaucracy," she said. "You're cutting a child's dinner. You're cutting their breakfast. You're cutting their family's dignity."

Every dollar spent on SNAP generates another $1.50 to $1.80 in economic activity at grocery stores, farmers' markets and other local businesses, Kotek said. Without that money, stores could close and people could lose their jobs.

Merkley said Oregon stands to lose about $400 million under the proposal to shift costs from the federal government to states. And Wyden decried potential cuts to SNAP and Medicaid as a "double whammy" for health care.

About 1.4 million

Oregonians are covered by Medicaid, or the Oregon Health Plan. Republicans proposed instituting work requirements and withholding funding from states like Oregon that cover health care regardless of immigration status and cover genderaffirming care.

"The combination of less food assistance for seniors and kids, and then Republican cuts in Medicaid, is a prescription for a sicker America," Wyden said. "What we're talking about is health care 101: You need access to food to be healthy, and you need access to timely healthcare when you're ill."

Southwestern Oregon Community College offers free GED® and Adult Basic Education this summer

By LINDA LEE Country Media, Inc.

Southwestern Oregon Community College (SWOCC) is providing a significant opportunity for local residents this summer by offering free GED and Adult Basic Education (ABE) classes.

These tuition-free courses are designed to equip individuals with the necessary skills to successfully pass the GED exam and to enhance foundational skills for entry into college or various career training programs.

By enrolling in these classes, students can forge a direct pathway towards higher education, specialized training and in-demand jobs within the region. The college emphasizes its commitment to serving as a crucial link for Oregonians seeking to advance their education and employment prospects without a high school diploma.

Classes will be held live and in person at SWOCC's Coos Campus in Coos Bay and its Curry Campus in Brookings, ensuring accessibility for students across the region.

Recognizing the diverse needs of its community, SWOCC will also offer these valuable classes via the Zoom platform, providing a flexible learning option for those unable to attend in person

The GED test has a rich history, originating in 1942 during World War II to address the educational needs of returning service members. Initially established for veterans in 1945, civilian access followed in 1947.

Since then, the GED has undergone several revisions to align with the evolving demands of higher education and the modern workforce, ensuring it reflects the knowledge and skills expected of high school

Oregon's High School Equivalency Program, overseen by the Higher Education Coordinating Commission's (HECC) Office of Community Colleges and Workforce Development (CCWD), administers the GED® process statewide. This program offers individuals aged 18 and older the chance to earn a GED credential, opening doors to new opportunities.

It's noteworthy that while school districts and other organizations may offer GED preparation for students as young as 16, SWOCC's free summer program focuses on adults seeking to gain their high school equivalency. The HECC supports these initiatives across Oregon's 17 community colleges, various community programs, and over seventy testing sites.

The summer term for these GED and ABE classes will run from June 23rd to August 14th, with sessions scheduled Monday through Thursday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Interested individuals are encouraged to register for orientation and classes by visiting:

https://swoccapce.org/ For any inquiries, the Adult & Pre-College Education department can be reached via email or phone at: apce@socc.edu 541-888-1593.

This free program represents a vital opportunity for residents of Southwestern Oregon to invest in their future and achieve their educational and career goals.
