After heated discussion, council denies towing appeal

By DAVID RUPKALVIS
For The World

After an emotional and sometimes tense debate, the Coos Bay City Council voted unanimously to turn down a protest over its decision to award a sole towing contract to Mast Brothers Towing.

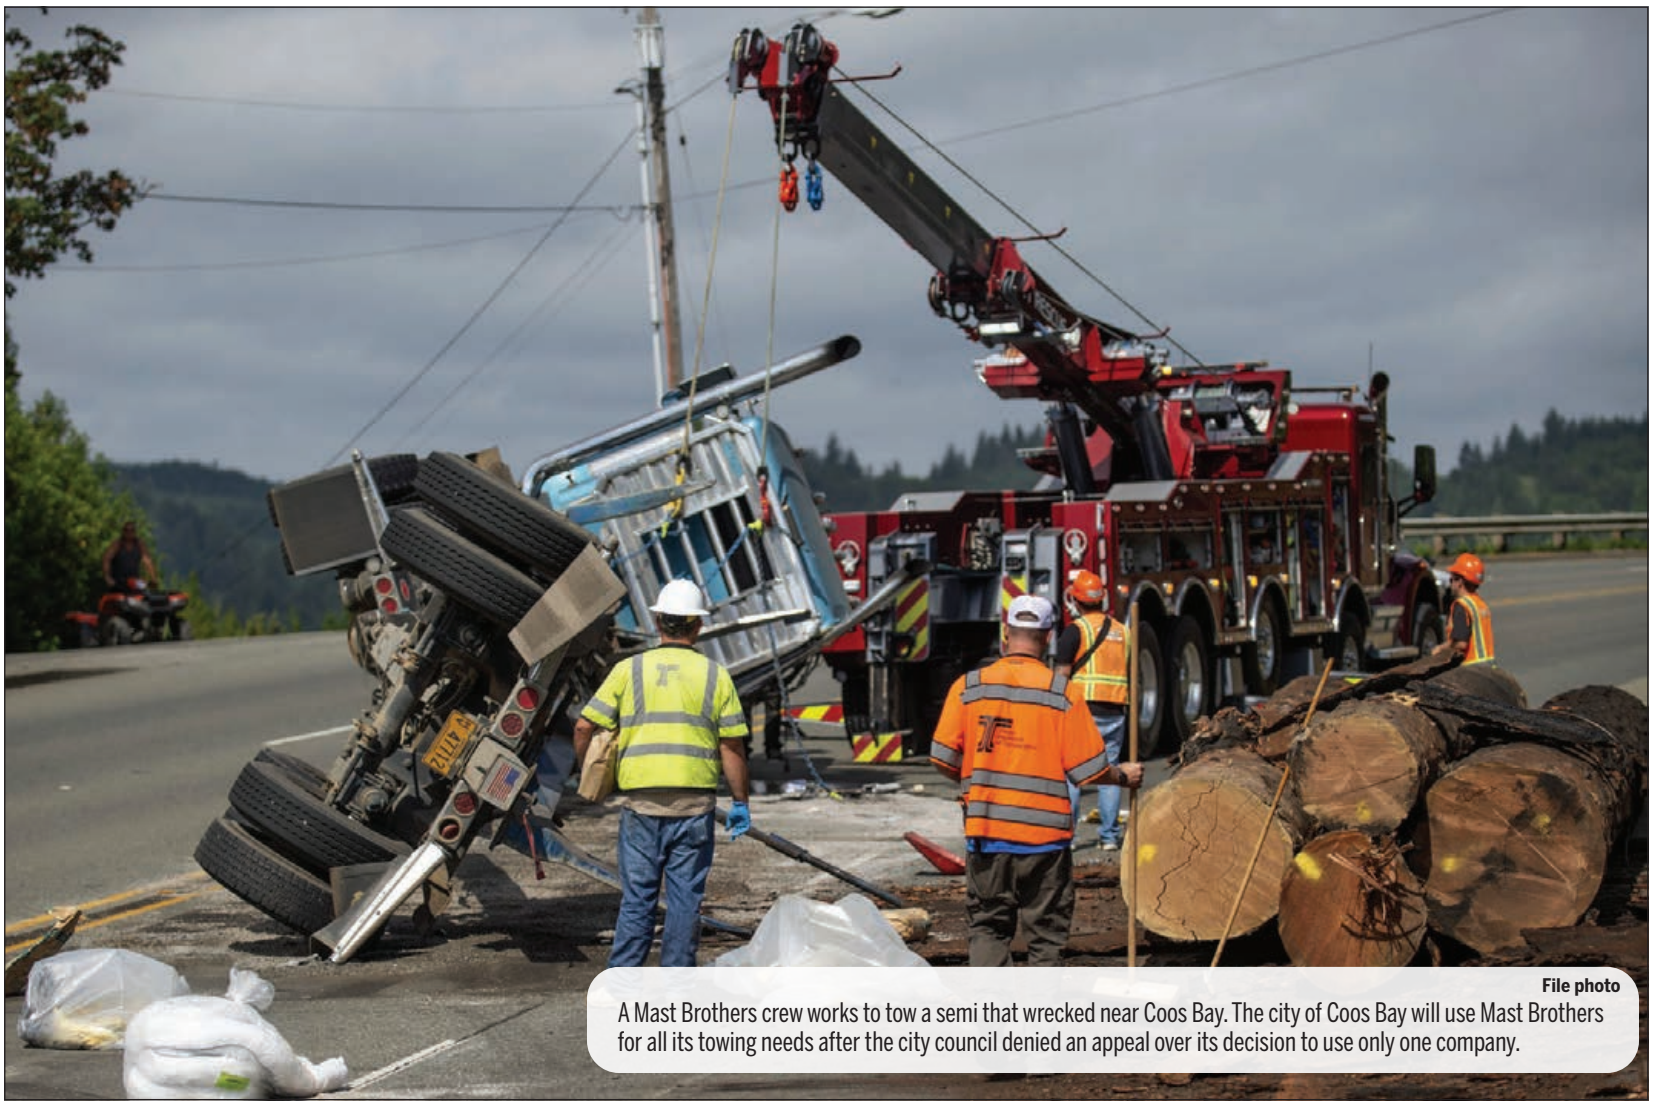

Tina Amatisto, who owns North Bend Towing, protested the decision, and the council was forced to reconsider the decision it made just two weeks earlier.

Amatisto told the council its decision was destroying small businesses like hers by taking away a significant portion of the towing work it had previously done.

"You guys are the people behind the city that should help us, not take away our business and our income and maybe make us close our doors," Amatisto said. "I'm a woman-owned business. Aren't you supposed to help women in business?"

For decades, Coos Bay used a revolving system for towing vehicles. Under that system, 9-1-1 dispatchers had a list of available tow companies, and when a vehicle needed to be towed, the dispatchers called the next company on the list. Under that format, all the companies were given the opportunity to do business with the city.

That changed a year ago when Police Chief Chris Chapanar asked the council to consider hiring only one company, and the city sent out a request for qualifications to choose the company. Based on the requirements of the RFQ, only Mast

A Mast Brothers crew works to tow a semi that wrecked near Coos Bay. The city of Coos Bay will use Mast Brothers for all its towing needs after the city council denied an appeal over its decision to use only one company.

Brothers Towing qualified and was chosen as the sole towing company for a year.

Earlier this year, during a second round seeking a towing company, only Mast Brothers and North Bend Towing turned in RFQs. After review, only the Mast Brothers had the qualifications the city required and was chosen again.

The big hang up with North Bend Towing was a requirement to have indoor storage to hold all towed vehicles for 30 days. The indoor space must be secured and must be available for vehicle owners to visit to collect their belongings.

"What you ask of us is kind of impossible when you're taking income away from us," Amatisto said. "How am I going to go get a building, how am I going to go get property? Even if I did do that, would you guys even give it to me?"

I doubt it.

"There's enough for everybody. It's been like that for 50 years. There was always a rotation. You guys have got to do something. It's going to kill us."

Celebrating a historic state title

Tuesday night was a time of celebration at Marshfield High School as the school's volleyball team got back together to be recognized as the first state championship banner for volleyball was unveiled at the high school gym. Volleyball became a recognized sport in Oregon 48 years ago, and the Marshfield volleyball team won the school's first state title in school history last year. The Pirates were the top-ranked Class 4A team in the state entering the state tournament. After overcoming a stiff challenge in the quarterfinals, Marshfield dominated the rest of the way, winning in straight sets in the semifinals and in the championship match against Cascade.

Council agrees to earlier meeting time

By DAVID RUPKALVIS
For The World

The Coos Bay City Council will move up its regular meeting time by an hour after the majority of people who voted asked for a 6 p.m. start time.

The council first brought up the issue during a work session three weeks ago, as several council members said an earlier start time would make it easier for community members to participate in meetings.

During the work session, the council asked the community to weigh in on whether to start meetings at 6 p.m. or 7 p.m.

The city received 38 responses, with 60% voting for a 6 p.m. start time and 35 percent saying to stay at 7. A small number asked for a different time.

"I would support 6 o'clock," Mayor Joe Benetti said. "It's not a huge response, but it gives us an idea of what the public thinks. One of the things that stuck out to me is if meetings start at 6, they will end at 9."

Councilor Stephanie Kilmer said she personally preferred the later start time but would be willing to move to 6.

"I think with the way technology has been mastered, it boils down to council," Kilmer said. "It's a lot harder for me to get here earlier, but the people have spoken."

"I agree with you, Stephanie," Councilor Lucinda DiNovo said. "I would prefer 7. But in the spirit of consensus, I would approve 6."

Councilor Sara Stephens was one of the councilors who asked for an earlier start time, and she reiterated it would be better for many people who might want to participate in a meeting.

"I think 6 o'clock is much more reasonable, especially for people who work all day and people who have small children," Stephens said.

After the discussion the council agreed to make the change.

City Manager Rodger Craddock said to change the meeting time, the council will need to change its council rules at the next meeting. The council also agreed to move the times for work sessions to 6 p.m., so all meetings will begin at the same time.

Alloro Wine Bar & Restaurant hires new sous chef

The Alloro Wine Bar in Bandon recently hired Madison Glazier as sous chef. Born and raised in Coos Bay, Glazier now calls Bandon home.

BANDON - Alloro Wine Bar & Restaurant has a new Sous Chef, Madison Glazier of Bandon, Oregon.

Born and raised in Coos Bay, Glazier began her full-time culinary career alongside her schooling immersion soon after joining the award-winning Alloro Wine Bar & Restaurant in Old Town Bandon.

Prior to Alloro, Glazier's previous experience was in a fast-food environment. She chose to transfer from Oregon State University, where she was majoring in psychology, to attend Auguste Escoffier School of Culinary Arts to pursue her culinary degree.

Glazier is two-thirds of the way through the culinary program while continuing her full-time employment at Alloro.

"Madison is successfully applying her knowledge from ESC and continues to excel in all areas of learning this business along with her unmatched organizational abilities, flavor profile enhancements and cooking skills," said Alloro Chef and Owner Susan Hayes.

"In addition, she continues her leadership growth and economic restaurant education, all while completing her culinary arts degree," Hayes added.

Glazier stated emphatically, "I couldn't be happier with where I'm headed. I hadn't thought about pursuing culinary as an education or career path until a few months after working and talking with Chef Susan in-depth about my potential future in not only the industry but at Alloro itself, and what that might look like."

Glazier said the obvious goal is, "Becoming Chef and learning as many elements of this trade as I can, while continuing my employment at Alloro."

She hopes that one day she can have her own restaurant, following in the footsteps of Chef Susan.

"We are excited to have Madison as part of our amazing team here at Alloro and look forward to her continued success," Hayes said.

Alloro Wine Bar & Restaurant, which is celebrating its 18th year as an established restaurant, is located at 375 Second St. SE, in Old Town Bandon.

Alloro offers award-winning French-Italian-inspired coastal cuisine, wine cellar, seasonal menus - locally farmed when possible, imported specialty ingredients and house-made pasta and desserts with year-round dinner service.

Advance reservations are highly recommended year-round due to limited seating space. Winter hours are 4:30 p.m. to last seating at 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. To make a reservation, call 541-347-1850. For more information, visit allorowinebar.com or the restaurant's Facebook or Instagram pages.

Alloro was named "Best Restaurant in Bandon" by Forbes.com, and is on the list of "10 Best Wine Bars in Oregon" by BestThingsOr.com. Boisesbest.com voted Alloro as the "Best Restaurant in Coos County."

Judith Ann Mogan Foundation commits to area youth

The Judith Ann Mogan Foundation selected Little Theatre on the Bay to receive $45,265 in funds to help build a 3,920-square-foot youth rehearsal space and program center. This includes backstage support areas like dressing rooms, restrooms, and a costume room. The Judith Ann Mogan Foundation is a non-profit organization committed to direct support and strategic partnerships that help develop successful citizens and vital communities in Coos County. The Liberty Theatre is home to LTOB, a non-profit organization whose mission is cultivating the arts in Coos County.

The Judith Ann Mogan Foundation is a relatively new non-profit with a very rich history in Coos County. It began in 1930 with the Al Peirce Lumber Company, a major employer along the Oregon coast. Their timberlands produced raw materials for wood products. The company's trucking business transported harvested logs to the mills where they were converted to lumber. Hilda Peirce and Judith Ann Mogan were strong supporters of programs and activities related to youth development and education. When the timberlands were sold, The Judith Ann Mogan Foundation was formed to perpetuate the legacy started by Al and Hilda Peirce, a gift that continues to lift the lives and voices of our community.

Little Theatre on the Bay is a non-profit organization that provides opportunities for community members of all ages to learn different aspects of theatre arts including etiquette, singing, performing, sound, lighting, and costuming. LTOB youth programs engage children from diverse backgrounds and encourage each child to find their voice and work collaboratively and creatively with their peers and mentors.

The Liberty Theatre, home to LTOB, was built in 1924 and began renovation in 2015 under the stewardship of LTOB. The Youth Theatre/Program Center is an estimated $800,000 expansion that enables LTOB to engage more young people in its creative community. The added space will support year-round productions, rehearsals, workshops, and classes in acting and choreography.

"These kids are finding their voices and surmounting difficult tasks like public speaking," says director, Aymée Pedder. "But most of all they come from diverse backgrounds and find common ground on stage while developing a character that is not their own. No wonder we call these kids our LTOB Stars!"

Ticket holders will witness the talent of LTOB Stars in their upcoming performance of Roald Dahl's Matilda, the Musical, coming to LTOB March 10-26, 2023. Tickets are on sale now at thelibrarytheatre.org.

The Judith Ann Mogan Foundation is a 501c3 non-profit organization committed to developing successful citizens and vital local communities. Through its commitment to youth and its strategic partnership and direct support of LTOB, the foundation helps ensure a healthy, engaging, and creative space for the youth of Coos County. Golf tournament raises funds for Bandon's food banks Bandon Crossings Golf Course hosted its annual Fill the Shelves Shamble on New Year's Day, Sunday, Jan. 1. The event raised $1,748 that was donated to Bandon Feeds the Hungry to be distributed evenly between the four local food banks.

The Fill the Shelves Shamble has been held on New Year's Day for the past 13 years. This year's event had 62 golfers participating in a two-person shamble format.

The local food banks that benefited from the fundraiser include Bandon Good Neighbors, Everyone At Table (E.A.T.), Bandon Senior Meals and Meals on Wheels, and the Restoration Center Food Bank.

"We like to do what we can to help," said Bandon Crossings Golf Pro Jim Wakeman. "Everyone had a great time and the weather was perfect."

The Bandon community has been generous in its donations to Bandon Feeds the Hungry. One hundred percent of all donations are distributed to the local food assistance programs.

Donations are tax-deductible and can be sent to P.O. Box 566, Bandon, OR 97411 or dropped off at Farm & Sea located on the waterfront in Old Town Bandon.

Marvin Ray Manes

November 17, 1935 - January 14, 2023

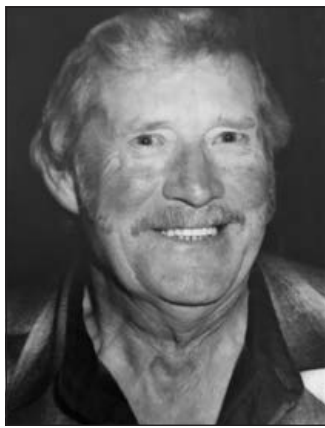

Marvin Ray Manes was born on November 17, 1935, in Stites, Idaho, and passed away on January 14, 2023, in Centralia, Washington, from complications of pneumonia at age 87.

He is survived by his wife, Carol, of 68 years and four children. William and his wife, Sue from Winlock, Washington and daughter, Teena from Kuai, Hawaii. A son, Allen and his wife, Sheila, from Salkum, Washington; a daughter, Pamie Bolt and husband, Bryan of Beaverton, Oregon; and a sister, of Blaine Washington. He and Carol shared four grandchildren; five great grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Marvin graduated from Stites, Idaho, in 1953, and in 1954 he married Carol Baker in Clarkston, Washington. He and Carol lived in the Clearwater, Idaho area until 1959, then moved to Bandon, Oregon, where they raised their family.

Marvin was a hard-working man with a great sense of humor. He greatly loved his family and enjoyed the time they spent together.

Marvin worked for the Rogge Lumber Company for 21 years and held the Head Sawyer position. For the first four years after leaving the sawmill, he owned log trucks; from there, he and Carol bought cranberry bogs and, for 27 years, raised berries for Ocean Spray.

Marvin and Carol were owners of the Style Shop in Bandon for 11 years, and during that time, they built Marv's Men's Wear.

Marvin loved to travel, and because of that, he learned to fly in North Bend at Coos Aviation. He later acquired three different planes and loved to fly.

In 2004 Marvin and Carol sold the cranberry bogs and relocated to Ocean Shores, Washington, to be closer to family. They stayed in Ocean Shores for 11 years, then moved to Centralia, Washington for better weather.

Marvin had his hobbies over the years, like fishing, hunting, flying, and traveling. If one presented itself, he was never known to turn down a good Cribbage game. But the most important pastime for Marvin was spending time with family.

Ruthena "Ruth" Marie Reu

October 2, 1930 - January 13, 2023

Ruthena Marie Reu was born in Bethune, Colorado on October 2, 1930, and died on January 13, 2023, at the age of 92. Ruthena left Colorado at the age of four with her parents during the dust bowl and settled in Newberg, Oregon. She was the youngest of nine children born to John and Lydia Weisshaar. She grew up and attended school in Newberg. At an early age she worked in the fields alongside her siblings picking strawberries. At home, she took care of the chickens. The family attended Zion Lutheran in Newberg where she was confirmed and later married.

Ruth married the love of her life, Irwin Eugene Reu, on June 12, 1949. They lived in Dayton, Oregon for a short time, then moved with their infant daughter to Eureka, California in 1950 where they lived before moving to North Bend, Oregon in 1960. Early in her career she worked as a bank teller and later a clerk at the Coast-to-Coast, Sprouse-Ritz and Bi-Mart stores in North Bend until her retirement in 1993.

Ruth was an active member of Faith Lutheran Church where she participated in the choir, the Lutheran World Relief quilting group, and women's Bible study groups, and later helped start the Cartwheels pre-school. Ruth enjoyed family picnics Sunday afternoons, walks on the beach, camping and time with her children. After Irwin's passing in 2000, Ruth moved to Salem, Oregon where she lived out her remaining years. She became an active member of Saint Mark Lutheran Church enjoying quilting and other church activities besides volunteer work in the community.

Ruth is preceded in death by her parents, John and Lydia; two brothers, Ben and Ruben; six sisters, Frieda, Martha, Erna, Emma, Anna, and Alvina; and her husband, Irwin. She is survived by her daughters and sons-in-law, Trudy and Bill Eisenbeis of Salem, Oregon, Pam and Rudy Hiley of Tulelake, California, Kathy and Scott Young of Pleasanton, California; and son and daughter-in-law, Paul and Andrea Reu of Colorado Springs, Colorado; grandchildren, Deryk Hiley, Mindy Hiley, Daniel Eisenbeis, Gretchen High, Courtney Grant, Lindsey Reu, Aaron Young and Zachary Young; and seven great grandchildren.

Ruth will be remembered by her infectious smile, her hard work, love of God and our Lord Jesus and an unending love for all her family.

Riley Clyde Adcock

April 10, 1933 - December 30, 2022

In Loving Memory of Riley Clyde Adcock. He was born in Quinter, Kansas on April 10, 1933 and died in Coos Bay, Oregon on December 30, 2022 at the age of 89.

He is survived by his brother, Sam Adcock of Omak, WA; brother, Owen Adcock of Malaga, WA; brother, Louie Adcock of Yakima, WA; son, Ben Adcock of North Bend, OR; grandchildren, Amber McHaffie & Jessie Macalam of Colusa, CA; and great grandchildren, Isaiah Macalam of Colusa, CA and Andrew Macalam of Woodland, CA; along with many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Agnes Adcock of Coos Bay, OR; his daughter, Jenny Nuetzmann of Albuquerque, NM; his parents, Clyde & Mary Adcock of Chelan, WA; sister, Mary Jane Adcock of Quinter, KS; brother, Mervin Adcock of Chelan, WA; brother, James Adcock of Malaga, WA; brother, Robert Adcock of Lopez Island, WA; sister, Elizabeth Driver of Medford, OR; brother, Merton Adcock of Wenatchee, WA; and his sister, Dora Meade of Chelan, WA.

Riley grew up in Quinter, Kansas in the 1930's, much like the book and movie "The Grapes of Wrath" because of the dust storms. Many of his relatives, including his mother, Mary, were brought up in the Dunkard Brethren faith, a German Anabaptist denomination, much like the Mennonites.

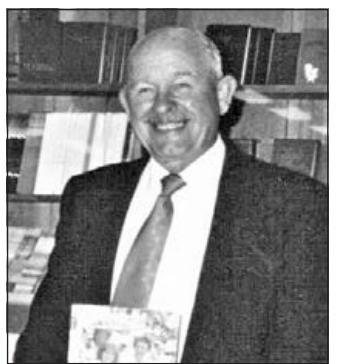

In 1937 his family moved from Kansas to Chelan Falls, Washington in a large truck along with their goats. After they got settled in Chelan Falls, his mother studied the Bible and was baptized as one of Jehovah's Witnesses.

On December 24, 1950, at the age of 17, Riley was baptized in a horse trough as one of Jehovah's Witnesses at the Chelan, Washington Kingdom Hall which was located in a rented section of Miners & Merchants Bank.

Another very happy occasion happened on May 4, 1953, when Riley married Agnes Adcock in Omak, Washington. Riley worked in various apple orchards, he also worked for the Great Northern Railroad for about 20 years and for the Biles-Coleman Lumber Company in Omak, Washington.

In July, 1963, Riley and his family moved to Nevada City, California, where he worked as a union laborer helping to build dams and other water projects. He also worked in the scrap metal business. Riley and Agnes later moved to Coos Bay, Oregon in June, 1991. He continued doing odd jobs and kept his scrap metal business going.

He liked to pan for gold, read western and historical novels, but he especially enjoyed reading Bible based publications, and attending meetings, preaching publicly, and socializing with his friends who he dearly loved.

A memorial service will be held at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses; 1810 Waite St., North Bend, OR on Saturday, January 28, 2023 at 1:00 pm by his son, Ben Adcock. For a zoom code or other information please leave a message at 541-756-5633.

DEAR ABBY
By Abigail Van Buren

SIBLING OF DECEASED BROTHER FLOORED BY WIDOW'S ACTIONS

DEAR ABBY: My brother passed away. He and my sister-in-law had a good marriage. A month after his funeral, my sister-in-law gave her kids their father's clothes, instructed them to go through them, keep what they wanted or sell or donate the rest. It has been barely a year. Now she's redecorating their house -- painting, taking down pictures and buying new furniture.

This bothers me greatly. I'm so hurt that everything is being changed. It's like she's trying to erase him -- all within one year! Should I ask her why everything is being changed and disposed of so soon? And should I feel so hurt about this? -- UNSURE HOW TO FEEL

DEAR UNSURE: Your former sister-in-law appears to be more pragmatic than sentimental, and there is nothing wrong with that. She knew her late husband could no longer use his wardrobe, and saw no reason to keep the items hanging in the closet. That she offered his clothes to her children was appropriate. That she is now making changes to the house is not unusual. People are cautioned not to make "important decisions" for about a year after a spouse passes, and your former SIL has wisely refrained.

If you want to ask her why she's changing things, do so in a non-accusatory way that won't offend her. I suspect that you are feeling hurt because you are still not ready to accept that your brother is gone forever. You might find it helpful to talk about it with someone with expertise in the grieving process.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nine years. While we were dating, he was kind, considerate and loving. After we married, he turned into a chronic complainer, something he later confessed he had been hiding while we dated.

He talks to me like I'm trash and then gets nice when he wants something. He complains about my grown children, my best friend and even if I leave for work a couple of minutes early. He is a miserably person. I cannot do anything to make him happy. I can't take this anymore.

He has taken the things away from me that I love -- flowers, gardening, pets, books, friends, etc. I'm ready to leave, but he has cancer and I'd feel guilty. He is clear right now, but it will come back.

I don't want to stay. Life is too short to live this way. He has a great support system with his family. They would take care of him. My health has been affected by him and his terrible attitude. What do I do? -- WORN-OUT WIFE

DEAR WIFE: What you do now is consult a lawyer, pack your bags and leave before he worsens. Do not expect your husband to be grateful for ANY of the efforts you have made on his behalf during the course of your marriage. During the time you were dating, he hid from you the fact that he was a verbal abuser. Now you know he was a fraud. Don't feel guilty for protecting yourself and reclaiming your life.

More in common

Well this was all predictable enough. Flying the Pride flag caused controversy. Who'd have thunk it? People are writing in complaining the city council capitulated to the radical Christian right. Well that should bring a balance because by flying the Pride flag they capitulated to the radical secular left.

The proper thing to do would have just to have said "NO". We fly the American flag because we are all Americans, the end. It's called neutral and centrist. But our city leaders are neither and that is the problem. Just take a close read of our mayor's statement. He believes the city has freedom of speech and woke speech is appropriate and worth fighting for. Some counselors truly believed this issue would cause no trouble. Other ones were much wiser. So we are paying the city attorney to research whether the city can fly the flag legally. Nice use of resources.

I have been running my small business here for 30 years and come across all types. There are many clients I believe to be gay. I say I believe because they come in and I call them things like Mike and Karen. They refer to me as John. We sometimes talk about life and a bunch of things we have in common but we don't discuss who we sleep with. Any more than I do with other clients I believe to be straight. So I can only guess.

The Pride flag flying crew are a tiny minority of a small minority. Just like the Christian flag bunch are. All the rest of us, gay, straight, black, white, Christian and atheist are simply humans who are sharing this time on earth together with respect and dignity for each other. With more in common than different.

It's the noisy trouble making fringes that are the issue on both ends and our city should yield to neither. Unless of course our elected officials are in one of those groups. Then they should step aside and let others lead.

Support school choice

It's hard to believe that it's been ten years since we enrolled our son in one of the Connections Academy statewide online public schools and now he's graduating high school this spring from Willamette Connections Academy!

Throughout the year, and especially during National School Choice Week (January 22-28) we share our family's story with others because we're grateful to have found an education option that works for our student.

Our son has learning disabilities and the local public school wasn't able to accommodate his needs, that's why we chose Connections Academy.

The lessons are customized to his learning style and he's also able to have one-on-one connections with his teachers plus a safe and engaging classroom environment where he can learn and socialize with his peers.

Our son is just one example of thousands of students who have succeeded through virtual public school. Sadly, there are many children who might benefit from this amazing learning option but are denied due to state laws limiting enrollment.

Just as not every school is a good match for every child, the same is true for students. Many may not be a good fit for full-time online learning, but families should have the choice.

I hope next year during School Choice Week we can celebrate more choices for Oregon students.

Columnist was wrong about Taylor

I disagree with this paper's editorial stance regarding giving Rod

Taylor "accolades" for "doing what he said he would do" as County Commissioner. I also reject the notion that "more than half of those who voted agree with his views".

First of all, he has been in office only two weeks, so how would one conclude "he has kept his promises" to the voters. Secondly, Mr. Taylor chose not to put his qualifications and platform in the Oregon Voters Guide, and many voters knew little or nothing about him beyond that he has a nice name, lots of signs, and that The World Newspaper kept putting his face on the front page. Your paper helped "legitimize" him, and you continue to do so even though he espouses fringe "conspiracy-theory" views, has no experience in running local government, and was photographed and videoed at the U.S. Capital during the January 6th insurrection, wearing his sidearm and "standing" with people who are now in jail for their criminal behaviors on that day.

Mr. Taylor's agenda to alienate Coos County from sources of funding, to eliminate social and health programs, and do to things in ways that fly in the face of reason and sound public policy frightens me and many other residents of Coos County. He should be listening, learning, and serving rather than pushing his misinformed personal agenda.

We have many people in our area with a wealth of knowledge regarding social, financial, health, forestry, agriculture, transportation, shipping, fisheries, and other issues. There are people with real knowledge and expertise, and Mr. Taylor would better serve his constituents (and I do not mean his cronies and friends) by availing himself of actual, factual information, listening to wise counsel from those who have special knowledge and expertise... listening and learning rather than forcing his personal "opinions" and misinformed agenda.

Regarding the issue of "home rule": Coos County has home rule already. In 1973, the Oregon Legislature enacted a statute delegating to all counties the power to enact local legislation on matters of county concern, greatly expanding their discretionary authority, and giving all Oregon Counties "home rule" by law.

The U.S. Commission on Intergovernmental Relations concluded that "Oregon counties have a greater degree of discretionary authority than counties in any other state." We already have "home rule", and Coos County does not need a "home rule charter" that would lock us into some "separatist agenda" of Mr. Taylor's design (and would effectively reduce the discretionary authority that Coos County currently possesses).

As voters and citizens of Coos County, we must educate ourselves and not be taken in by "Rod Taylors" who may try pushing destructive policy through ballot measures that are deceptively worded. I completely disagree with the editor's opinion that "we need more people like Rod Taylor in office."

Giving into Regression

I may live in Eugene now, but I need to respond to Joe Benetti's disingenuous and self-aggrandizing piece in which he explains rosily his capitulation to the regressive forces of Coos County on the flag policy "issue."

Let us remember that about one and a half years ago, I came to the city council to request a pride flag be flown. The city approved it. Next year, it flew at the boardwalk. Outside of right-wing echo chambers, it wasn't "divisive" at all. They made an issue of it based off of a very chauvinistic perspective that the pride flag was not representative of a community, but representative of a liberal agenda and shouldn't be flown.

They then pushed their counteraction by using an outdated supreme court case to say their flags had to

J. MARK POWELL'S HOLY COW! HISTORY

When America Was Terrified of Ketchup

By J. MARK POWELL
InsideSources.com

Your ancestors were once scared to death of a condiment. No, really, they were.

They were so afraid, in fact, we came within a whisker of losing our most beloved sauce. This was what happened when America was terrified of ketchup.

If you think that sweet goopy treat was born in the 1950s when Richie, Potsie and Fonzie slathered it on french fries at Arnold's Drive-in on "Happy Days," think again. Ketchup, (or catsup for the linguist purists among us), goes way back beyond that.

It's been around for ages, first popping up in America in 1682, though in colonial times it was made from mushrooms. Tomatoes gradually took over in the 19th century. An 1817 cookbook recipe included anchovies. By the 1850s, anchovies were out and sweetening it with sugar was in, and the product we know today began to emerge.

Civil War soldiers wrote home begging for it to break up the monotony of military food.

Ketchup in its different variations has been sold for centuries. Farmers who made it from their crops peddled it. Jonas Yerkes is believed to be the first American to bottle and sell the stuff.

H.&J. Heinz jumped into the market in a big way, unveiling its signature Heinz Tomato Ketchup in 1876, promoting it with the snappy slogan, "Blessed relief for Mother and other women in the household!"

By the 20th century, ketchup was mainstream. There were more brands than you could shake the proverbial stick at. But all faced the same serious problem. Ketchup had a limited shelf life.

The stuff rotted over time. Unscrupulous manufacturers hid it inside bottles made of brown, green or blue glass. Customers didn't know if their container held a contaminated condiment until they took it home and opened it.

Henry Heinz solved that problem by putting his ketchup in clear glass bottles. Though it cost a penny more than the cheaper colored glass, he figured consumers would pay extra to know exactly what they were getting. His gamble paid off, eventually forcing the entire industry to switch to clear glass.

But that solved only part of the problem. The bottling process involved fermenting tomatoes. As the 19th century drew to a close, fermentation increasingly produced explosions.

Yes, you read correctly. Bottles of the good ol' American ketchup mom kept in her pantry were blowing up!

Consider this 1895 New York Sun article: "A bottle of catsup exploded on the dinner table of a family at Michigan City, Indiana, recently, and force-knocked all the dishes off the table."

Or how about this Saint Paul Globe headline from 1903: "Bottle of Catsup Explodes in Her Hands: 12-Year-Old Girl Badly Cut By Flying Glass."

Ketchup was no longer delicious; it was potentially deadly.

Another factor was also to blame. Manufacturers were increasingly spiking the product with chemicals. Turn-of-the-century studies showed many even contained some form of antiseptic.

Dr. Harvey Wiley, head of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's chemistry division, enlisted young male workers to eat various preservatives and studied the results. Dubbed The "Poison Squad" by the press, they cataloged enough physical side effects (everything from headaches and heartburn to cramping and constipation) to fill a hospital.

The culprit was finally identified. Benzoates, the era's preservatives of choice, were making consumers sick as bottles were blowing up.

Hard as it is to imagine today, some folks wondered if ketchup sales should be banned altogether.

Once more, it was Henry Heinz to the rescue. A backer of transparency in the food industry, in 1906 his researchers found a way to make the sauce Americans craved without benzoates. The secret was going wild with twice as much salt, sugar and vinegar as before. Over the next two years, Heinz churned out 12 million bottles without one spoiling.

Heinz again gambled customers would be willing to pay more for a better product, and yet again he hit the jackpot.

The benzoate lobby (and there was such a thing) hit back hard. A nasty war was waged on the pages of academic journals. A blue-ribbon panel decreed benzoate safe if eaten in small amounts.

But Americans weren't buying it, either intellectually or fiscally. They voted with their pocketbooks. By 1911, Heinz and his preservative-free ketchup had won the day.

The fracas even played a role in the Food and Drug Administration's creation in 1906.

So, the next time you lift the bun off a burger or hoist a bottle over a hotdog, stop and remember Heinz, Dr. Wiley, the Poison Squad, and all others who made ketchup safe for democracy. You'd be eating mustard without them.

be flown, too. They pushed their flags, some that you mentioned. I pushed back, and in a very anti-fascist fashion. I pushed back by saying we should honor the victors against fascism in WW2: the United States, United Kingdom and Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Now that sounds alarming, and I meant for it to be because I wanted someone to actually pay attention to my opposition to them, but I don't think it's that controversial anyway.

Nonetheless, even after a pride flag flew with no counter-protesters in sight last June, you all cave in to the bigoted forces here, and betray the LGBT+ community and marginalized communities at large by stepping back and painting it as a "divisive issue" between two factions that you didn't want to get involved in. Wake up and see the writing on the wall about what kind of infestation is growing in the political circles of your county.

You got a putsch participant as county commissioner, and they're going to come for your council seats, too. You've not done anything significant. You made a few nice statements, put up a plaque and made some speeches. You've not delivered any fundamental change for the people of Coos Bay. You're not doing the right thing. You're giving into regression.

Myrtle Point boys win showdown in Skyline League

JOHN GUNTHER
For The World

MYRTLE POINT — In its first year in the Skyline League, Myrtle Point's boys find themselves on top of the league standings after a thrilling 48-46 win over visiting Elkton on Friday night.

"I'm excited," said coach Jamil Wynn after the Bobcats held off a late surge by the Elks, who also had come into the game with a perfect league record. "It's different (to be atop the standings)."

Myrtle Point had been among the smallest schools in Class 2A struggling in attempts to reach the playoffs in recent years. Now the veterans on those teams are thriving with the Bobcats in the Class 1A Skyline League.

Myrtle Point built a lead against Elkton with tough defense and then held on after the Elks surged late, trimming a 12-point deficit to two in the fourth quarter with 10 straight points.

The Bobcats didn't falter. Instead, Howard Blanton called for a screen, went around it and fed teammate Trace Edwards for a layin to push the lead back to four. Logan Backman added a pair of free throws and that was enough to hold off the Elks, who hit a bucket in the final second but ran out of time.

"This was our best team basketball win," Wynn said. "It was everything."

The Bobcats were unselfish on offense, with good passing inside and some key outside shooting by Edwards. They were even better on defense.

"We had good team rotation on defense — the best we've had all year," Wynn said.

They also were able to stay in front down the stretch even without point guard Andreas Villanueva, who fouled out early in the fourth quarter, after sitting most of the second quarter with foul trouble.

"We got big minutes from freshman Jake Sproul," Wynn said. "He held his own out there."

Blanton had 15 points for the Bobcats. Edwards added 12, Backman nine and Villanueva eight.

Edwards hit two of his three 3-pointers in the second quarter, helping the Bobcats to a 10-point halftime lead.

"Trace is playing the best basketball (of his career) on all ends — offensive and defense," Wynn said. "He's flying around and having fun."

"He is the engine to the basketball team."

and Gavyn Woody and Andrew Allen 11 each for Elkton.

Myrtle Point also beat Glendale 77-49 on the road Saturday to move to 6-0 in league with five games to go.

Also significant, the team has wins over North Douglas and Umpqua Valley Christian, two of the league's other top teams.

If the Bobcats can keep things going with a pair of the league's lower teams coming up on the schedule this week, they stand a good chance of winning the regular-season title or finishing second, which would put them straight into the Class 1A playoffs and into the league tournament at North Bend, where the league's top seed to the playoffs will be decided.

The Bobcats are at Powers on Tuesday and host Riddle on Friday. Next week they visit Camas Valley and Days Creek.

North Douglas and Days Creek, which the Bobcats beat in a nonleague game earlier in the week, and Elkton all are 5-1. Camas Valley is 4-2.

"We're having fun," Wynn said. "It's good to be on this end of things."

Myrtle Point girls roll, extend win streak to four

THE WORLD

Myrtle Point's girls basketball team won its fourth game in a row Friday, beating visiting Elkton 45-10 to improve to 4-1 in Skyline League play.

Freshman Bailie Detzler led the Bobcats with 15 points in Friday's win. Lexi McWilliam and Jakelynn Hermann added nine points each.

It's been a good stretch for a Myrtle Point team playing without two starters.

The Bobcats have built up momentum going into a big game Tuesday at Powers, which started the year with nine straight wins before losing three of its past four in league play.

Myrtle Point also hosts Riddle on Friday.

The Bobcats' lone league loss came to unbeaten North Douglas and they picked up a key win over Umpqua Valley Christian last week. Myrtle Point is tied in the loss column in the league standings with UVC, New Hope and Camas Valley and is in position for a second-place finish if it can beat New Hope and Camas Valley in the coming weeks.

Second place would guarantee the Bobcats a spot in the league tournament and a place in the Class 1A playoffs. The league's third through sixth place teams will end up in the league playoffs, needing a win to get into the Skyline tournament.

CRUISERS DROP TWO: Powers lost to two of the league's top teams over the weekend, falling at North Douglas 55-31 on Friday and then losing at home to Umpqua Valley Christian 62-40 on Saturday.

That left the Cruisers 3-3 in league play heading into the game with Myrtle Point and a game at Elkton on Friday.

Skylar Thompson had 24 points and KaiLey Jo Swenson eight against Umpqua Valley Christian. Kendyl Elias had 16 points for the Monarchs, who are 4-1 in league play.

Swenson had 11 points and Thompson 10 against North Douglas, which is unbeaten in league and got 23 points from Brooklyn Cyr.

PACIFIC FALLS TWICE: The Pirates weren't able to sustain the momentum from their first Skyline League win last week, losing both their games over the weekend.

Days Creek edged the Pirates 35-31 and New Hope Christian topped Pacific 52-29.

RED DEVILS WIN ONE: Coquille fell to the top two teams from the Far West League's south division, but beat the third-place club in a possible look-ahead to the league playoffs during a busy week.

The Red Devils had a second-half rally come up short in a 36-31 loss at Brookings-Harbor on Wednesday.

Coquille scored just 10 points in the first half and trailed 20-10 before chipping away at the lead in the second half. Holli Vigue had 13 points for the Red Devils while Ashlyn Schofield led the Bruins with 14.

Coquille bounced back with a 45-33 win over visiting Cascade Christian on Friday. Trinity Blanton had 17 points in that win, while Vigue added nine and Lexi Lucatero seven.

But the offense went flat against Lakeview on Saturday, especially in the second half when Coquille had just one basket in a 54-22 loss to the Honkers, the same team that eliminated the Red Devils from last year's Class 2A playoffs.

Unbeaten Lakeview is in first place in the south division and Brookings-Harbor second. The Bruins almost beat Sutherlin, the north division leaders, on Saturday, with the Bulldogs prevailing 52-49 in overtime. Sutherlin also is unbeaten in league with a big showdown at Lakeview coming up on Saturday.

Coquille, meanwhile, plays the other three teams from the south division this week, visiting Rogue River on Wednesday, hosting St. Mary's on Friday and visiting North Valley on Saturday.

The Red Devils are second in the league's northern division and would host the third-place team from the south if they stay in that spot through the regular season.

MARSHFIELD 56, COTTAGE GROVE 43: The Pirates built a big first half lead and cruised to a road win Friday for their seventh victory in a row and second to start league play.

Marshfield improved to 12-4 overall heading into its bye in the Sky-Em League schedule on Tuesday. The Pirates have a big home game Friday against Marist Catholic.

JUNCTION CITY 51, NORTH BEND 24: The Bulldogs fell to 0-2 in the Sky-Em League with their road loss on Friday.

North Bend has lost five straight overall and hosts Cottage Grove on Tuesday before its bye in the first half of league play Friday. North Bend hosts Marshfield next Tuesday.

BANDON 44, ILLINOIS VALLEY 19: The Tigers kept their hold on first place in the Valley Coast Conference's south division with a road win over the Cougars heading into a big week with three games.

Bandon improved to 7-1 in league with their fifth straight win and host second-place Oakland on Tuesday. The Tigers also face Gold Beach at Pacific High School on Thursday and hosts Toledo on Saturday. The neutral site for the Gold Beach game follows the first meeting between the schools, which also was at a neutral site in Grants Pass.

Oakland is 7-2 in league play after beating Reedsport 47-12 on Friday, but lost to the Tigers 45-33 when the teams met in Oakland. Reedsport, still looking for a win, hosts Waldport on Tuesday, visits Illinois Valley on Thursday and hosts Lowell on Saturday.

Gold Beach, which fell to Waldport 35-23 on Friday, hosts Illinois Valley on Tuesday and Oakridge on Saturday.

BOYS COQUILLE TAKES TWO: The Red Devils won two of their three games against teams from the Far West League's south division, sandwiching wins over Brookings-Harbor and Lakeview around a loss to defending state champion Cascade Christian.

The Lakeview win on Saturday was Coquille's sixth game this season decided by one or two points (another was an overtime loss), with the Red Devils edging the Honkers 55-53 when Hunter Layton made a contested layup with five seconds to go.

Dean Tucker scored 15 points for Coquille, while Zach Farmer added 12, Layton 11 and Hayden GeDeros nine. Farmer and Gardner Scolari each made a pair of big free throws in the final quarter.

Trevor Owens had 24 points for the Honkers.

Coquille won at Brookings-Harbor 62-48 with Tucker and GeDeros scoring 13 points each and Layton 12. Josh Serna had 25 for the Bruins.

On Friday, Cascade Christian topped Coquille 76-41 on the strength of a season-high 12 3-pointers — five by Cannon Anderson and three by Drew Hall, who each scored 23 points. Farmer had 12 points and Layton 11 for Coquille.

Coquille is 4-3 and third in the Far West League's north division behind 6-1 Douglas and South Umpqua, which both came from behind to beat the Red Devils.

COTTAGE GROVE 72, MARSHFIELD 54: The Lions topped the visiting Pirates on Friday, handing Marshfield its second straight loss to open Sky-Em League play. The game was the first of the league season for Cottage Grove.

JUNCTION CITY 63, NORTH BEND 32: The Bulldogs fell to 0-2 in league play with their road loss to the Tigers on Friday.

North Bend also came up short in a nonleague game at Hidden Valley on Saturday, 66-59, the fifth straight loss overall for the Bulldogs.

BANDON 67, ILLINOIS VALLEY 56: The Tigers used a zone defense to hold off the Cougars after Illinois Valley took an early lead at home.

"The boys played well for driving three hours on a bus," Bandon coach Vince Quattrocchi said. "I'm proud of how they played together and didn't let the pressure get to them."

He credited Illinois Valley for keeping the game close.

"It was a battle," he said.

Eli Freitag had 18 points and Owen Brown 11 for Bandon in the win. Colton Siewell added eight. Brendyn Bruner had 17 points and Daniel Polk 15 for Illinois Valley.

Bandon improved to 6-3, third in the Valley Coast Conference south division behind unbeaten Gold Beach and one-loss Oakland, their next two foes (Oakland at home on Tuesday and the Panthers at Pacific on Thursday). Illinois Valley is fourth in the division at 5-5.

Gold Beach beat Waldport 70-32 on Friday to keep its league record perfect. Oakland beat Reedsport 46-18.

POWERS LOSES TWO: The Cruisers lost both their weekend games to two of the Skyline League's top teams, falling 68-33 at North Douglas and 70-33 to Umpqua Valley Christian.

Charlie Shorb had 10 points and Rene Sears nine against North Douglas. Logan Grant had 23 for the Warriors.

Shorb had 16 and Braden Bushnell 10 against UVC. Sean Simonson had 21 for the Monarchs.

Powers is 1-5 in league play.

PACIFIC DROPS PAIR: Pacific's boys played better Saturday but couldn't keep up with visiting New Hope Christian in an 80-46 loss, coach Lee Pestana said.

The Pirates also lost their Friday game, 56-14 to Days Creek, and continue to seek their first Skyline League win of the season. They will be on the road for both games this week, at Camas Valley on Tuesday and Umpqua Valley Christian on Friday.

SWOCC women come from behind to beat Portland

The Southwestern Oregon Community College women's basketball team used a strong second half to beat visiting Portland 59-50 on Saturday and split its two games for the week.

The Lakers trailed the Panthers 25-23 at the break but outscored Portland 16-13 in the third quarter and 20-12 in the fourth to earn the victory.

Gillian Roybal had a huge game for the Lakers, making 8 of 15 3-pointers on the way to scoring 26 points. Skylar Willie added 10 points and nine rebounds and Jaci Powers had eight points and 10 rebounds.

SWOCC hit nine of 12 free throws in the win.

On Wednesday, the Lakers fell to host Umpqua 66-48, with the Riverhawks taking an early advantage by outscoring SWOCC 20-12 in the first quarter.

Powers had 12 points, Roybal nine and Kylie Monet Fletcher-Gilbert eight. Willey had 10 rebounds.

At 3-3, the Lakers are fifth in the NWAC South Region heading into their first half bye in the schedule Wednesday. Lane is a perfect 5-0 and Clackamas and Linn-Benton are 4-1 with Umpqua 3-2.

SWOCC is at Clackamas on Saturday and hosts Linn-Benton on Feb. 1 before playing six of its eight games in the second half of the schedule on the road.

MEN

SWOCC's men weren't so fortunate during the week, losing both games late, including one to Portland at the buzzer Saturday.

The Lakers couldn't hold on to a second-half lead on Wednesday, when the Lakers fell to Umpqua 82-76. SWOCC led 38-31 at the break.

Onwaja Thomas had 21 points and nine rebounds for the Lakers in the loss. O'shen Cazimero added 13 points and Zach Jefferson had 12. Thomas and Merrick Sherwood, who had eight points, each grabbed nine rebounds.

On Saturday, Thomas hit two free throws to give the Lakers a lead in the final seconds, but Josh Lincoln made a layup at the buzzer to give the Panthers a 70-69 win.

Sherwood led the way on offense for SWOCC, hitting seven of 10 3-pointers and four of five free throws for 25 points. Thomas added 13.

The Lakers didn't shoot well, at 11-for-54, but did make 11 3-pointers. The Lakers also had just six turnovers, to 12 for Portland.

Lincoln had 27 points for Portland, which shot just over 50 percent overall and won despite making just one of 10 3-pointers and nine of 19 free throws (SWOCC was just 16-for-24 from the line).

The Lakers missed a chance to take a big step up in the standings before the late flurry of road games.

SWOCC and Portland both are 3-3 in the jumbled South Region standings. Clackamas is 3-1 and Umpqua, Linn-Benton and Chemeketa all are 3-2. Clark and Mount Hood are 2-3 while Lane has just two, but that victory coming against league-leading Clackamas.

The following information applies to you only if you are a bona fide tenant occupying and renting this property as a residential dwelling under a legitimate rental agreement. Before the new owner can require you to move, the new owner must provide you with written notice that specifies the date by which you must move out. If you do not leave before the move-out date, the new owner can have the sheriff remove you from the property after a court hearing. You will receive notice of the court hearing. PROTECTION FROM EVICTION IF YOU ARE A BONA FIDE TENANT OCCUPYING AND RENTING THIS PROPERTY AS A RESIDENTIAL DWELLING, YOU HAVE THE RIGHT TO CONTINUE LIVING IN THIS PROPERTY AFTER THE FORECLOSURE SALE FOR: • 60 DAYS FROM THE DATE YOU ARE GIVEN A WRITTEN TERMINATION NOTICE, IF YOU HAVE A FIXED TERM LEASE; OR • AT LEAST 30 DAYS FROM THE DATE YOU ARE GIVEN A WRITTEN TERMINATION NOTICE, IF YOU HAVE A MONTH-TO-MONTH OR WEEK-TO-WEEK RENTAL AGREEMENT. You should contact the new owner if you would like to stay. If the new owner accepts rent from you, signs a new residential rental agreement with you or does not notify you in writing within 30 days after the date of the foreclosure sale that you must move out, the new owner becomes your new landlord and must maintain the property. Otherwise: • You do not owe rent; • The new owner is not your landlord and is not responsible for maintaining the property on your behalf; and • You must move out by the date the new owner specifies in a notice to you. The new owner may offer to pay your moving expenses and any other costs or amounts you and the new owner agree on in exchange for your agreement to leave the premises in less than 30 or 60 days. You should speak with a lawyer to fully understand your rights before making any decisions regarding your tenancy. IT IS UNLAWFUL FOR ANY PERSON TO TRY TO FORCE YOU TO LEAVE YOUR DWELLING UNIT WITHOUT FIRST GIVING YOU WRITTEN NOTICE AND GOING TO COURT TO EVICT YOU. Oregon lawmakers move to end sale of flavored tobacco products

Late last week, the Oregon legislature introduced HB 3090 which would end the sale of menthol cigarettes and all other flavored tobacco products, including cigars, hookah, e-cigarettes and smokeless tobacco.

The bill introduction comes on the heels of a new report by the American Cancer Society noting over 26,000 Oregonians will be diagnosed with cancer in 2023, and an estimated 8,400 will lose their lives to the disease. Smoking causes 30% of all cancer deaths in this country.

The following statement can be attributed to Jamie

Dunphy, Oregon director of government relations for the American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network (ACS CAN):

“With a new year and new legislative session comes a new opportunity for Oregon lawmakers to prioritize the health of Oregonians over tobacco industry interests and bottom line. Ending the sale of menthol cigarettes and all other flavored tobacco products would be a huge step in that direction.

“Menthol, mint and other candy- and fruit-flavored tobacco products are a key part of the tobacco industry’s strategy to addict our youth, Black, LGBTQ and limited-income communities. Research shows that flavors drive the unprecedented increase in youth tobacco uptake, with 81% of kids who have ever tried tobacco started with a flavored product.

“On behalf of cancer patients, survivors, and all impacted by tobacco use, ACS CAN thanks chief bill sponsor, Rep. Lisa Reynolds, Sen. Elizabeth Steiner, and Sen. Bill Hansell and Rep. Hai Pham, and urges House and Senate members to start the new year with a commitment to support this legislation and prioritize public health over the tobacco industry’s wallet.”

Towing

From A1

Diane Rich was brought in to help Amatisto make her appeal, and she told the council it was violating federal Small Business Administration standards by not hiring North Bend Towing, since it was a woman-owned business. The SBA guidelines encourage government agencies to use businesses owned by women, minorities and veterans, when possible.

“Where does it say get the biggest company and give them all the business,” Rich asked. “You are supposed to break it down for small businesses to compete because we are capitalism. What capitalism does is feed the smallest first. What you are doing is Socialism, not capitalism, and I refuse to allow that to happen in my county.”

Rich said the city was violating the Federal Procurement Integrity Act or FAR and could face legal challenges by not including women-owned businesses in the process.

“You have created a monopolistic contract, you have violated the FAR,” Rich said. “What say you.”

City Attorney Nate McClintock responded, saying the city has every right to choose the vendor with all the qualifications.

“I’ve had the opportunity to review the appeal and listen to Ms. Rich’s speech,” McClintock said. “I wouldn’t dare contradict her on federal contract rules because she apparently is expert on that and I am not. The problem is the city of Coos Bay is not governed by the FAR or any other federal contract at this time. The city of Coos Bay has contract rules that are created by the state of Oregon.

“The bottom line is her premise the FAR applies to the city of Coos Bay is nil because we’re not contracting with a federal agency or department, and we’re not using federal funds. Looking over the application, it seems like every contest they have here is with FAR, and my recommendation is you deny the appeal.”

Before the council considered the issue, more than a dozen people spoke out in public comment, all of them opposed to the city’s decision to hire Mast Brothers. The speakers represented several different tow companies in the region. Susan Taylor told the council it looked like a decision was made before it even heard the results of the RFQ at its previous meeting. “It makes me so distrusting of our city government and what it’s doing,” Taylor said. “Just the good old boys club.”

Gayle Farrell told the council it should not be in the business of picking winners and losers.

“I was here last week, and heard the whole meeting from beginning to end,” she said. “I felt there was certain people who were favored and people who weren’t. There were winners and losers, and you’re picking them unfairly.”

One tow company owner said the city’s move immediately cut 25% of her business, and has made it difficult to just stay in business. Another said all he wants is a fair chance to succeed.

Robert Smith, who drives a tow truck, said his job helps people, and the city’s decision does not.

“I get to get up every day and work. I get to help people,” Smith said. “This is not helping the community, this is not helping people. You’re taking money out of my pocket, all because you want one company to save a couple minutes on dispatch time. Let’s just stay to the list.”

Councilor Lucinda DiNovo asked Chapanar to explain why the city wanted one company, and why Mast Brothers was the only one with the correct qualifications.

“One, it was response time, but mainly it was efficiency in our dispatch centers,” Chapanar said.

“Our dispatchers were having difficulty contacting tow companies, looking for them to respond. Particularly about vehicles and motor homes, we were not only getting a delayed response, but we were getting refusals, multiple times.”

Chapanar said companies were refusing to tow for multiple reasons: the inability to tow due to equipment issues and shortage of staff.

In addition, the Legislature passed House Bill 3124 that required cities to hold towed vehicles for 30 days and make them available to owners, and many companies could not meet that requirement.

When the city decided to do an RFQ, it reached out to other cities and learned many were using sole companies. The RFQ Coos Bay put together was based on what was needed in the city. After evaluating the proposals returned, the chief recommended Mast Brothers in large part because it could tow and store many vehicles.

“You’re talking small businesses,” Chapanar said. “We’re a small police department as well. We have a small dispatch center. We dispatch for nine agencies, and we receive over 7,000 calls for service a month. We generally have two or three dispatchers. If we’re lucky, we have four on. Our dispatchers are just overworked and there’s an inability for them to pout someone on hold, wait for a tow company to say ‘we can’t take the call’ and start the process over. This would happen multiple times.”

Since the city went solely to Mast Brothers, Chapanar said the response time has been around 20 minutes, and there has not been a time where a second company was needed.

While Chapanar was speaking, Rich interrupted several times, forcing Mayor Joe Benetti to ask her to stop. A frustrated Rich eventually got up and walked off.

When the council began discussing the issue, all those present said they were empathetic, but they felt the process the city used was fair.

Councilor Drew Farmer said his career in business has shown him that a company that meets the requirements deserves to get the business.

Benetti had similar thoughts, “Tina, when you were up here two weeks ago, I asked if you met the RFQ, and you said no,” Benetti said.

As the council was discussing the issue, those in the crowd repeatedly interrupted, disagreeing with statements being made.

“We listened to your comments, now we’re asking the questions,” Benetti said. “If you’re not happy with the process, you can leave. This is not a debate.”

Councilor Stephanie Kilmer said she understands the challenges women in business have, and she feels for all small businesses trying to survive.

“I agree we should attempt to help all our businesses in the community,” Kilmer said. “I do want you to know this is a hard decision but because of the information that was provided to council, that was a decision we made.”

DiNovo had similar thoughts.

“I think it’s different when we’re in the situation where comments are being made that it’s a good old boys club and we’re not being equitable,” DiNovo said.

“Especially when it’s two women, and one on line (Sara Stephens). Where I struggle is we are trying to do what’s best for the city. We’re trying to do it for the response time and all the things that were mentioned a year ago and tonight. For me the decision was made because we have limited funds, and we’re trying to be responsible. That’s why we went with one company.”

After the discussion, Farmer made a motion to deny the appeal and DiNovo seconded it. The vote passed 5-0 with Councilors Rob Miles and Carmen Matthews absent.

First responders rescue stranded motorist

On January 16 at 11:53 a.m., the Coos County Sheriff's Office Dispatch Center received a report a vehicle stuck in flood waters on Fishtrap Road near the intersection of Fat Elk Road, just east of the city of Coquille. The caller advised dispatch the driver was stranded in the flood waters and unable to get out.

Coos County Sheriff's Marine Deputy Brian Kent responded to the location along with members from the Coquille Fire Department and Myrtle Point Fire Department. Upon arriving on scene, first responders located a silver Ford compact car which had driven deep into the floodwaters on Fishtrap Road. The vehicle had stalled on the flooded road near fast moving water, which was rushing towards the Coquille River making it hazardous for the driver to get to safety.

First responders were successful in removing the driver from the vehicle and getting the individual to dry ground. The driver was examined by medical staff on scene and ultimately released without injury.

Mast Brothers Towing responded to the location and recovered the vehicle from the flood waters without further incident. The sheriff's office would like to thank all first responders who assisted in the rescue: Coquille Fire Department, Myrtle Point Fire Department and Mast Brothers Towing. The sheriff's office would like to remind travelers during the rainy season to avoid roads which are flooded as you may miscalculate the depth of the water. There may also be substantial damage to the roadway obscured by flood waters. Please find an alternate route when flood waters are present.

First responders lead the driver of a Ford compact car to safety after the car got stuck in floodwaters, leaving the driver stranded.

Abandoned vehicles towed from South Spring Road

In early January, several reports were made to the Coos County Sheriff's Office and Coos County Road Department of vehicles being left abandoned or parked in the roadway on South Spring Road in Barview.

Deputies responded to the area and observed over six vehicles abandoned or parked in the roadway, restricting traffic flow to one way and making it difficult if not impossible for fire personnel and ambulance crews to respond to the area if needed in an emergency situation.

Deputy Robert Baker took time to speak with residents in the area and informed them why the roadway needed to be clear of hazards. Deputy Baker also tagged several vehicles for tow while in the area. As per Sheriff's Office Policy, the vehicle owners were given several days to come retrieve and move their vehicle to an acceptable location.

On January 18, several members of the sheriff's office, along with Mast Brothers Towing responded back to South Spring Road in Barview to remove any vehicles which had been previously tagged for tow and had not been moved out of the roadway. As a result, four vehicles were removed by Mast Brothers Towing, thus restoring two way vehicular traffic and emergency vehicle access. Two more vehicles are due to be towed from South Spring Road in the coming days.

The Coos County Sheriff's Office had four vehicles towed off of South Spring Road last week after the vehicles were found to be blocking the roadway.

The Marriage Sense and Soul Class 10-11:30 am, every Saturday through March 25th Unity by the Bay

A new 10-week class is being offered at Unity by the Bay in North Bend, beginning January 21st, based on the book The Marriage of Sense and Soul by Ken Wilber.

There is arguably no more critical and pressing topic than the relation of science and religion in the modern world. Science has given us the methods for discovering truth, while religion remains the single greatest force for generating meaning. Yet the two are seen as mutually exclusive, with wrenching consequences for humanity. In The Marriage of Sense and Soul, one of today's most important philosophers brilliantly articulates how we might begin to think about science and religion in ways that allow for their reconciliation and union, on terms that will be acceptable to both camps.

Ken Wilber is widely acclaimed as the foremost thinker in integrating Western psychology and the Eastern spiritual traditions. His many books have reached across disciplines and synthesized the teachings of religion, psychology, physics, mysticism, sociology, and anthropology, earning him a devoted international following. The Marriage of Sense and Soul is his most accessible work yet, aimed at guiding a general audience to the mutual accord between the spiritual, subjective world of ancient wisdom and the objective, empirical world of modern knowledge. In pointing the way to a union between truth and meaning, Ken Wilber has created an elegant and accessible book that is breathtaking in its scope.

This class will be held on Saturday mornings beginning January 21 and runs through March 25, 10 am until 11:30am. Cost will be on a love-offering basis; all are welcome. Unity by the Bay is located at 2100 Union Street in North Bend. For more information, call 541-751-1633.
