

North Bend Main Street announces huge grant for businesses at summer kick-off

By NATE SCHWARTZ

On Tuesday, June 10 the City of North Bend's Main Street program (NBMS) held a summer kick off beneath the huge North Bend mural to announce their selection for a grant program that will be equally huge for local businesses. The almost $200,000 awarded by Oregon Main Street's Revitalization Grant (OMSRG) program will help 11 of those businesses with façade upgrades and compliance with ADA accessibility and building codes.

"We wanted to give appreciation to the volunteers, program supporters, and member businesses. We wanted to do a summer kick-off to recognize them, and it was a great opportunity to announce our

SWOCC Launches Diesel Mechanic Program to fill workforce gap

Southwestern Oregon Community College (SWOCC) is rolling out a new Diesel Mechanic Technology Program this fall. The program will enroll fifteen students fall term, bringing high-skill, hands-on training to individuals ready to power up careers in one of the region's highest-demand trades.

Coos Bay business owner Terry Cheyne created the program and brings more than thirty-five years of experience in diesel technology and shop management. A Marshfield High School graduate and Universal Technical Institute alum, Cheyne returned to Coos Bay in 2016 to launch his successful mechanic business, Cheyne's Truck & Marine. He's now ready to turn his focus to teaching.

"I plan to structure this program like a job all the way through graduation. Students will learn all aspect of the business, not just turning wrenches," Cheyne said.

The program combines lectures and hands-on lab training to prepare graduates for careers in trucking, maritime, forestry, fleet services, rail and agriculture. Each term will build on skilled learned, increasing in experience and complete truck maintenance and repair. Ultimately, students will earn an Associate of Applied

North 40's new owner revives closing restaurant

Giving back to the community that helped bring it back to life

By NATE SCHWARTZ

The turn of the year was a rough one for North Forty's new location. When the Rose-burg-based brewery opened their second taproom right on the main thoroughfare of North Bend they missed something essential in the North Bend vibe. With a $19 burger one of the menu's cheaper options, and difficult-to-source ingredients throughout, it became painfully clear that they misunderstood the working-class ethos of their audience. To the point that be on time, we are taught.

Promptness is, after all, a virtue.
But one time, being late paid off spectacularly for one tardy student. And we are all the better today for it. Here’s how it happened.

George Dantzig was a math whiz. We’re talking scary smart with numbers. Growing up as a kid in the 1920s, long before personal calculators were ever

HOLY GOW! HISTORY: A tardy student turned genius dreamed up, he figured out difficult problems the old-fashioned way with pencil, paper and brainpower.

Dantzig was born into a family of Jewish academics.
(His parents met as college students at the University of Paris. His dad went on to become a mathematician and his mom a linguist at the Library of Congress.) George followed in their scholastic footsteps.
He earned his undergrad and his master’s degrees in mathematics and physics, then did a two-year stint as a junior statistician at the incredibly fun-sounding Bureau of Labor Statistics.
But academia still tugged at his heart, and by 1939, he was back in the classroom, this time at the University of California-Berkeley.

Dantzig had a reputation for being a diligent student, often studying far into the night. One particular night late in the year, he worked longer than usual, and he overdid it. The result was the same crisis college students still experience today.
He overslept.
Throwing on his clothes as fast as he could, he dashed across campus, thinking he might at least catch the final portion of his statistics class and explain what happened to his professor.
But when Dantzig entered the room 30 minutes late, it was empty. Two math problems were written on a blackboard.
Figuring it to be the homework assignment, he dutifully copied them down and returned to his room.
“They were a little harder than usual,” he acknowledged later, but he jumped into both with his usual scholarly gusto. In fact, he did little else but work on them for the next few days. When the homework was finished, he turned it in, along with a sheepish apology for having missed class.

A while later, there was a knock on his door. Dantzig opened it to find his instructor, Professor Jerzy Splawa-Neyman, bubbling over in nervous excitement.
“That wasn’t a homework assignment,” he said. The professor had written out two of the most intricately complex unanswered problems in the field. Their solution had evaded researchers for decades. “And you just solved them both!”
It was an accidental success, and it launched Dantzig’s amazing career. His discoveries had major benefits, both practical and academic. They helped shape the course of modern mathematics and had a profound influence on early computer research. If you’re reading this story online, Dantzig was one of the people whose work helped make that technology possible.
He put his talents to use in the U.S. Army Air Forces during World War II, where he served in planning and logistics. Eventually becoming a professor at Stanford, his work was used to develop tools that revolutionized the optimization of large-scale systems.
The capstone of his career

J. Mark Powell

came on Oct. 18, 1976, when President Gerald Ford presented him with the prestigious National Medal of Science.
It was a long and distinguished academic journey that not only yielded many valuable results but also inspired hundreds of future researchers.
And George Dantzig owed it all to oversleeping and mistaking those two examples of unsolved problems on the blackboard for homework.

A Word, Please

By JUNE CASAGRANDE
Guest column

At a time when people refuse to believe doctors, journalists and anyone who says we went to the moon, everyone accepts the AI industry’s claims about AI. It’s genius. It’s going to revolutionize life as we know it. It’s going to render all us workers obsolete so we’ll be unemployed and homeless but at least we’ll be wowed by TikToks of Jennifer Lawrence talking through Steve Buscemi’s face.

First on the chopping block, they say: editors and writers.
Like me.
To check the ETA of my bleak future, I asked ChatGPT to write a grammar book in the style of June Casagrande.
The software cheerily obliged, promising to “channel my inner June Casagrande and create a grammar book that’s fun, fierce, and friendly — just like ‘Grammar Snobs Are Great Big Meanies.’” Minus the cash advance for me, of course. Minus even the cover price of two books I wrote that another AI program literally stole, according to an Atlantic magazine database.
The ChatGPT book begins: “Let’s face it: grammar has trust issues. Not because it’s sneaky or complicated — though we’ll admit, it has its moods — but because you were probably introduced to it by someone who thought diagramming sentences was a fun Friday activity. Spoiler alert: it wasn’t.”
Smooth, well-structured, accessible. At first, the writing seems impressive. But wait, “trust issues”? ChatGPT meant that people don’t trust grammar, which itself is a little off. But to “have trust issues” means to be incapable of trusting others. So the first sentence doesn’t make sense.
The word “complicated” is also odd. Being complicated doesn’t undermine trust, exactly.

“Spoiler alert” means something you have yet to learn, not something you learned decades ago. Then there’s “we’ll admit.” Who’s “we”? This isn’t an article in a sassy magazine in which the writer is speaking on behalf of the editorial staff. This is a book by just one author — an author who has written five books and over 1,000 columns without once writing in the plural first person. (Nice job channeling me, ChatGPT.)
“We” appears a lot in the first few pages, like after saying grammar has a bad reputation, adding: “We’re going to clear that up.” Then, while talking about the voice in your head that makes you fear grammar, adding:
“To that voice we say: shut up.” Check every book on your shelf and you probably won’t find a single one written in the plural first person — and definitely not if the book has just one author.
Then, this “intelligence” gets even less intelligent by switching to the singular first person a few pages later: “I’m going to give you the tools you need.” ChatGPT’s manuscript contained lots of illogical statements, like the example sentence “My cat screams at 3 a.m.”, the assertion that verbs are “the Beyonce of grammar” (with no explanation why) and, my favorite, this bit about comma splices: “Grammar says, ‘not today, Satan.’” ChatGPT got facts wrong, too.
It said the “are” in “We are never getting back together” is a linking verb. It’s not. It’s an auxiliary verb.
I could go on. But in the middle of writing this column, and I swear this is true, I was given a freelance assignment to revise a short video script written

June Casagrande

by AI and to “make it sound more natural.”
The script wasn’t just unnatural sounding. It was illogical, misguided and utterly clueless about what to focus on.
It boasted at length about an AI writing program that could take “P.R. pitches” and instantly transform them into newspaper articles.
That might sound great to P.R. firms making the pitches, but this script was promoting a technology to benefit newspapers and their readers — oblivious to the fact that journalism doesn’t mean printing whatever P.R. firms want.
I rewrote the whole script, emphasizing the important work reporters do and how the new AI tools could support their journalism. The editor who assigned me the project wrote back, “Your version is SO GOOD” (emphasis hers).
I’m still reeling from the irony.
A human writer did an objectively better job than AI at writing advertising copy to promote ... an AI writing program.
So the next time you hear tech billionaires boasting about AI products destined to change life as you know it, remember their own words: Not today, Satan.

award money for the grant,” said Stephanie Wilson, NBMS Executive Director. 76 main street programs throughout the state vied for their slice of over $10 million in available funds. In a highly contested grant cycle, North Bend was one of only 35 recipients selected showing the scope of the work that needs done and the robustness of the City’s application process. “There was a thorough process where businesses had to get price quotes, and do a pre-application with the whole breakdown of the project that they wanted the grant to cover,” described NBMS Vice President Barb Dunham. “All of that was gathered and submitted on behalf of the businesses.” NBMS acts as the applicant to the state program and is essentially a passthrough for the funds as they will go to the sub-applicants for their designated projects. According to Wilson, multiple recipients will be able to open their businesses in the first place thanks to the help reaching code compliance. It will also grant huge accessibility upgrades for many businesses, making them more welcoming for residents of all kinds. The $196,024 state grant will be matched by over $84,000 in funds through the city’s ‘Stronger Spaces’ initiative, which focuses on supporting local businesses thrive through help with compliance and safety. “We’re three years in and we are ecstatic, like Barb mentioned, we are small but mighty and all about community engagement, so any reason to get our community partners together and have a great time,” said Wilson about the kickoff party. “We just want to recognize those that make our program possible, and show that we are invested in assisting historic properties with preservation, and that we’re here for the long haul.” North Bend’s downtown is full of aging buildings, and grants like this help to preserve that historic charm while also bringing revitalization and modern amenities to the area. The OMSRGs are distributed through Oregon Heritage, a division of the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department. Throughout the now 10-year life of the program, 59 communities have been able to take part in stimulating the vitality of their businesses. This includes Reedsport who, through multiple grant cycles, have been able to help 16 properties make the upgrades they need to keep up. “Vibrant downtowns don’t just happen,” Oregon Main Street Coordinator Sheri Stuart said. “They take the collective efforts coordinated by local main street organizations to achieve a community’s vision based on short- and long-term goals. The OMSRG is an important tool to help strengthen local economies by activating underused spaces while preserving and leveraging a community’s heritage.”

Tuition and fees increased by 2.63%, and housing rose by 3%, based on policy, the Higher Education Price Index, and the Consumer Price Index. Billing credits increased by 500 after declining in prior years due to enrollment trends. Each budget increase aligns with the college's strategic priorities. Contractual and mandatory costs for services and contracts continue to rise with operational expenses. State funding tied to outcomes doubled for 2025–26 compared to 2024–25 and will increase each fiscal year. The college is exploring new programs and degrees to serve community students. In 2025–26, a new diesel technician program will launch, funded by federal, state, and local agencies.

SWOCC Program

Science in Diesel
Mechanic Technology.
Initially housed in a repurposed ambulance bay in Umpqua Hall, the program is the first step in a larger vision. Over the next two years, the college will design and build a new four-bay diesel shop facility on the Coos Bay campus.

SWOCC and the SWOCC Foundation are working together on grant funding and private donations to support this expansion, aiming for completion in 2026 or 2027.
The limited-entry, competitive program is open for applications

through July 24.
Interviews will be held in August and classes begin Sept. 15. A limited-entry format means students must apply and interview to be considered for the program. Classes will run weekday afternoons and simulate a real job environment, complete with uniforms and professional expectations. More details are available at

Bandon WESTERN WORLD

TheWorldLink.com/community/bandon

As I See It

By Mary Schamehorn

Although I can't find the article about the first picture, I know it was taken some-time in the late 1970s or early '80s. Jim Franks, owner of the garbage franchise at the time, and standing near the truck, had attempted to drive across my platform (across from the present Face Rock Creamery) with the weight of the truck dropping it part way into Ferry Creek. I remember like it was yesterday because I could not drive into my house for weeks until it was repaired. Bandon Police Officer Marc Johnson, back of the truck, was off-duty that day but came to lend a hand.

The second photo of pot-holes in the area across from Bandon Fisheries Warehouse was taken in December of 1983, which gives you an indication of what things looked like in that area over 40 years ago.

The third picture is the Bandon High School vault, which was all that remained of the high school after the arson fire in January of 1974. Recently, the Bandon History Museum was given a card file of students, who attended school here in the 1920s and '30s, saved from the vault. It was interesting to thumb through the files and see the school records of my mother and my father, both of whom were born here.

The Bandon High School Class of 2025 graduation ceremony was held Saturday afternoon in Otis K. Murray Court. Top scholars were valedictorians Cayleigh Holman*, Nena Minkler*, Sloane Moore*, Madeleine Pahl's*, Peyton Simonds*, Jacob Weston* and the salutatorian Maya Tull'es*.

Other members of the class were Keanan Anderson, Emma Bemetz, Isaac Braithwaite, Alex Butler, Jarrett Butler, Kefrin Clampitt, Owen Donovan, Madeline Greenlee, Brynn Hindman, Theo Hernandez, Jason Huerta, Wyatt James, Jacob Jindra, Camden Kappa, C.J. Kilcoyne, Michael Mallory*, Felicia McMillen, Teagan Montgomery; Sydni Napier, Tanner Norris, Alea O'Neill, Angel Ramer, Tian Robertson*, Tyler Saechao, Donald Scott, Mikeal Sisco-Esqueib*, Danica Smith, Griff Smith, Hunter Smith, Jovan Taylor, Kaniyah Turner, Makenna Vierck, Payton Vining, Haley Williams and Brooke Zumwalt.

Those with stars by their names were recognized as National Honor Society members for achievements in four areas: scholarship, service, character and leadership.

A list of the honors and scholarships awarded to the class will appear in a future column.

Although local physician Dr. Hank Holmes recently prevailed in his unlawful termination suit against Coast Community Health Center, he is urging community members to continue to support the clinic, which faced potential closure several months ago.

Dr. Holmes won a settlement of $418,750 from Coast, which was founded in 2009 by 65 volunteers who wanted to ensure locals had access to primary care. Adapt Integrated Health Care of Roseburg is working to keep the local clinic operating. He said he was fired on a pretext immediately after raising concerns about the quality of patient care and potential illegalities.

Holmes said that it really was the community's clinic, but "the town lost its clinic because of a lack of oversight."

In speaking with him about the suit, Holmes said that people could Google thelundreport.org and go to "Doctor Urges Community to Engage with Troubled Bandon Safety Net Clinic," to read the article.

Holmes told me he was "a spokesman representing the most senior, capable and committed staff in each discipline. Emily Reinig DO, Hal Lowry MD and myself were the providers in our group. Others were Leesa Cobb, Rosemary Bean RN, Ivy Wagner LCSW, DSW and Lena Hawthorne RN, who was manager of the school-based health programs. All are very respected, mature, proven and deeply committed to career work addressing the community's severe medical challenges," said Holmes.

At last week's council meeting, I presented a proclamation claiming June 2 Bandon High School Band Day, in honor of the band winning the state 1A/2A band championship for the third straight year.

Members of the band, under direction of Dave Weston, include Jacob Bowman, Theodore Brooks, Georgie Brown, Jonah Brown, Noah Brown, Jessica Burg, Oliver Burg, Brooklin Butts, Brodey Cassoday, Jobe Castro, Bradley Cook, Tyler Eickhoff, Hailey Felton, Angela Ford, Max Forrester, Giada Gaughan; Liam Helgeson, Elliot Jannsen, Rylen LaPlante, Uriah Legutki, River Lewis, Michael Mallory, Shane McGuire-Korp, Felicia McMillen, Nena Minkler, Sloane Moore, Sebastian Newby, Madeleine Pahl's, Beckett Pahl's, Cody Robison, Mariah Rodgers; Bridger Schwenninger, Noah Schwenninger, Tyler Senn, Jackson Simonds, Peyton Simonds, Willow Stuberg, Jack Taylor, Zoe Thomas, Josie Thompson, Sunny Thompson, Reggie Turner, Eli Vineyard, Xzavier Wales, Aiden Wallace, and Jacob Weston.

Bandon native Will Shindler, 69, died from a heart attack in Eugene June 2. The sixth child of Franz O. and Patricia D. Shindler, he was predeceased by his parents, brother Mickey, and sisters Catie and Sarah. He is survived by his brother Bo Shindler, and two sisters, Mary Shindler and Rachel Hernandez.

Active in sports, he was fullback for the Tigers his senior year under Coach Dick Sutherland. He played the piano and enjoyed entertaining. A talented actor, his performance in the role of King Herod in Jesus Christ Superstar for a Little Theatre on the Bay production in the 1970s was memorable.

At a recent city planning commission meeting, questions were asked about the state of the permits for Grocery Outlet and the Gravel Point development. Planning director Dana Nichols, who has resigned effective this month, said that if the permit for Grocery Outlet were not pulled by mid-May (which it wasn't), the project would expire.

As far as Gravel Point is concerned, entitlement phases are complete, and the developer has begun submitting preliminary utility plans for staff review.

Now is the time to clean out your garage and home and bring your unwanted household hazardous waste chemicals to the free collection event at Beaver Hill Transfer Site, Saturday, June 21, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. No industrial or commercial wastes will be accepted.

I've learned that the cement building under construction next to the hot dog stand, and north of the Loft, on Bandon's boardwalk is the new Port of Bandon offices, with public restrooms and facilities for transient boaters.

The Bandon Fringe Festival will offer 14 performances over three days, June 27-29, sponsored by the Sprague Community Theater and Bandon Playhouse.

The festival features 14 events, including drama, music, storytelling, mixed-media, dance and performance art by local and touring performers. Among the performers will be Corrie Gant, presenting a one-woman, one-act play "Tales from the Kitchen Table." Other presenters include a mixed-media staged reading from the new book by photographer Susan Dimock, and a show with Bubble Man Louis Pearl, who has toured the globe making bubble magic on stage. Enjoy local and touring musicians and dancers, such as singer-songwriter Lindsey Bellefeuille, and world music ensemble Malinka, and a comedy "A Pirate Named Shirley," written and directed by BHS student Tyler Eickhoff.

Tickets are available for individual performances or you can purchase a fringe festival pass for all shows. Visit BandonEvents.org for details.

The festival offers live entertainment with the option to attend one, or multiple events, allowing for varying ticket prices and scheduling.

work of the Bandon School District. In a time when many school systems across the country are grappling with tough financial decisions, our district has to create a positive educational experience for our students while working within a very limited budget. I was truly amazed when I did my own research and looked at the numbers, that they have accomplished what they have.

Based on cutting corners, they've leaned in - with creativity, dedication and determination. The schools remain safe and welcoming, and most importantly, the district has worked to ensure that not a single person has been laid off. That's not easy. It's not just budgeting -- it's a moral commitment to the people who make our schools function every single day. Of course, there's a long road ahead. The district wants to pay teachers more, they are the heart and soul of schools. That goal is difficult to reach -- not because of a lack of will, but a lack of resources. The Bandon School District does more with less, finding ways to stretch every dollar without sacrificing quality or people. That takes leadership. That takes heart. So, let's give credit where it's due. And let's keep working together -- as a community -- to advocate for the funding our schools need and our educators deserve."

The June 17 Meet and Greet program will feature the 1914 Bandon Fire, presented by Jim Proehl, representing the Bandon History Museum.

Bandon Police Chief Cory Dhillon will be the speaker at the June 24 Meet and Greet, and is expected to be accompanied by several of his officers.

Meets and Greets are held at Bandon Fisheries Warehouse, with seating opening at 11:30, food available, and the program starting at noon.

Don't forget the ribbon cutting at the hospital's new retail pharmacy on Wednesday, June 18, at 4:30 p.m., at the clinic, followed by the chamber mixer at 5 p.m. in the lobby of the adjacent hospital.

The GBA and the chamber will host the wine and art walk on June 20.

The Coastal Memory Walk, a fundraiser for the Alzheimer's Foundation, is Saturday, June 28, from 9 a.m. to noon, with people gathering at City Park. Registration fee is $20. For information call Mary Evans at 541-347-7502.

Janet Christine Gehlert

February 13, 1938 – May 15, 2025

Janet Christine Gehlert was born on February 13, 1938 to John and Ina Nelson in Coos Bay, Oregon. She and her brother Jack spent childhood living next door to their cousins, sharing countless hours swimming up the Millicoma River and running wild along the beach. These moments spent outside instilled in Janet a love of the outdoors and the beauty of nature. During her 87 years, she hiked many trails, slept in many tents, kayaked and swam in scores of lakes and rivers, identified hundreds of birds, planted thousands of flowers, and spent many hours skiing on cross country trails. Mother Nature will miss her. Janet’s career as an English teacher took her to Medford, San Francisco, Seattle, Tucson, and finally back to Coos Bay in the late 1970s. Teaching students, especially those who struggled with dyslexia, was her life’s passion. She encouraged her pupils to read books beyond the required texts. Janet believed a person shouldn’t exist on heavy duty classic novels alone. Reading for fun always “counts” because there is forever something new to learn and be inspired by. The student in us will miss her. Janet devoured books like a child does ice cream! If she found someone who had read the same book, she could spend hours discussing the author and story. Therefore, when Janet found out she was to be a grandma, she was thrilled to have a captive audience! The best pictures with the two were of Janet holding her granddaughter Abby and reading to her. For Janet, her granddaughter was the light of her retirement years. Abby will miss her.

Janet and her husband Gary retired from education and moved to Sunriver, OR in the 1990s. There she met like-minded sewing machine wizards. Janet had always been an excellent seamstress and the quilting group in Sunriver was the perfect outlet for her creativity. Over the years, Janet made beautiful quilts, placemats, napkins, and wall hangings for family and friends. Her sewing machine will miss her.

Janet later built a house in Bend, OR and lived amongst wonderful neighbors until moving to Portland, OR to be closer to family. She passed away peacefully on May 15, 2025 at her home with family by her side. Her daughters will miss her. Janet was preceded in death by her parents, her brother Jack Nelson, and her husband Gary Gehlert. She is survived by her daughter Jennifer Worthen Kifer/Chuck Kifer, her daughter Sarah Worthen Wolf/David Wolf, granddaughter Abby Wolf Holcomb/Kade Holcomb, her great grandson Cayman Holcomb, and her dog Kira.

Evelyn Matticks

Evelyn Matticks, age 85, of Bandon, Oregon, passed away peacefully on May 14th, 2025, at Brookdale Senior Living in Albany, Oregon. Born in Madera, California, Evelyn lived a life full of love, laughter, and grace.

A devoted wife to Harold Matticks. She was a beloved mother to Colleen, Dean, Kim, and Darian; a proud grandmother to eleven grandchildren; and a joyful great-grandmother to eight. Her happiest moments were spent surrounded by family, especially her grandchildren, who brought endless joy and light to her days.

She was known for her gentle humor, kind spirit, and deep love for flowers, gardens, reading, shopping, and adventures—especially Alaskan cruises. She never passed up a piece of good chocolate or the chance to share a laugh.

A celebration of Evelyn’s life will be held on Saturday, June 28th, 2025, from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at the gazebo in Don and Ann Davis Park in Newport, Oregon. Friends and family are invited to gather in her memory. Following the service, her ashes will be lovingly spread nearby – a peaceful farewell for a beautiful soul.

Evelyn’s love will continue to bloom in the lives of all who knew her. She will be deeply missed and forever remembered.

In Loving Memory of Janet Lorraine Conger (Peterson)

October 8, 1936 – August 16, 2024

Janet (Peterson) Conger went to Heaven on August 16, 2024, after a long 3-year battle with Dementia/ Alzheimer’s. She passed away quietly in an assisted living/memory care home in Troutdale, Oregon, where she resided since February, 2021.

Janet was born October 8, 1936 in North Bend, Oregon to parents Roy and Lorraine Peterson. She was raised in Reedsport, Oregon with her very close younger sister Jo. She graduated from Reedsport High School in 1954. After graduation Janet attended Good Samaritan School of Nursing and then began her career as a Dental Assistant.

On March 20, 1960 Janet married Dennis Conger, who was also from Reedsport, OR. They were married for 27 years and had two sons. Timothy was born in Seattle, WA (Sept. 14, 1961). Then they moved to Roseburg, OR for a number of years before settling in Portland, where Michael was born (May 14, 1972).

Janet had a passion for music, singing and dancing. Her favorite tunes were from the 50’s and 60’s. She played the piano and even sang in a church choir. Janet loved the older classic hymns, had a strong Christian faith and passed on those same beliefs to her two sons.

Janet loved to travel. Her vacations took her to Hawaii, Portugal, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Singapore, the Caribbean and multiple trips to Mexico, but she always had a very special place in her heart for Reedsport, Winchester Bay and the Oregon coast. Janet also enjoyed games, reading, watching sports, and bowling.

She loved music concerts, festivals, social gatherings and family reunions. During Janet’s later years, she truly enjoyed spending time with Michael and her two grandsons and always looked forward to their visits and vacationing together.

Janet is preceded in death by her parents Roy and Lorraine Peterson, brother-in-law Ken Adams and her son Michael Conger. She is survived by her son Tim (Debbie) Conger, sister Jo Adams, niece Samantha (Norm) Adams, daughter-in-law Julie Conger and grandsons Cole and Caden, and a loving family of cousins, nieces and nephews.

Janet’s Urn was placed near her mother Lorraine at Dunes Memorial Chapel in Reedsport, Oregon.

She is at peace in Heaven, under GOD’s care, and with all those who have gone before her. Janet’s memory will forever live on within our hearts.

Curtis Roy Nichols

July 3, 1934 – May 29, 2025

Curtis Roy Nichols was born July 3rd, 1934 in Modesto, California to Milton Roy and Eva Mae Nichols. He graduated high school in Vacaville and has a college degree from Solano College. He worked two summers during high school helping build the Pacific Crest Trail in California. He also completed the Professional Summer at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Submarine Design.

Curt passed away on May 29, 2025 peacefully at home surrounded by his immediate family.

He started his distinguished 36-year ocean engineering career for the Department of Defense at Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, California in 1953 as a sheet metal apprentice. He moved to the Design Division which later developed into highly classified design concepts for deep submergence submarine operations and associated simulators.

During this time, Curt and Anita took a cross-country motorcycle trip, ran two marathons in Napa Valley, participated in the Mare Island Whale Boat Rowing team, and traveled to Mexico multiple times with friends blue water fishing for marlin and other species.

They moved to Oregon after his retirement in 1989 and as he said – they were ready to boogie. He continued his recreational life as an avid fisherman, hunter and competitive weightlifter. They made an annual springtime fifth wheel camping trip for 10 years to Texas and many fun camping trips and holidays to Cape Blanco and eastern Oregon with friends. He and Anita have had loyal Labrador retrievers throughout their life.

Curt charged full speed ahead with not only his career and also his recreational activities. He was very innovative and creative. They met a lot of long-term friends at the local gyms where they worked out. In 1997 Curt established a State, National and World record for single lift bench press for his age group. He lifted 369.2 pounds. Within the first year of moving to Oregon, Curt got involved with the Southwest Oregon Chapter of the Northwest Steelheaders Association. He served as president for 2 years and was very instrumental in developing the local volunteer salmon and steelhead hatcheries. He worked with State and the local community to build the fishery to what it is today. Curt and Cliff Lance were very well known and popular for their Oyster Bar at special events. He was a member of the Tioga Mountain Men organization. Another hobby was building fishing rods and tying flies. He also created artistic metal and wood pieces, including furniture for their home. Curt loved to play the guitar and sing with fellow honky-tonkers.

Curt was a family guy, a true patriot and well respected by many. Curt leaves behind many long term and cherished friends from both his highly interesting career and retired life along with their beloved dog Bessy.

Curt leaves behind his lovely wife of 52 years, Anita Nichols, three children; Larry and (Donna) Nichols, Lynda Nichols and (Mike Hatten), and Anna Nichols; along with several grandchildren and great grandchildren. A life celebration will be scheduled later this summer.

You may perpetuate Curt’s fishing legacy with donations to the South Coast Anglers Step Association in North Bend, Oregon. Also, to the United States Naval Undersea Museum Foundation in Keyport, Washington at <https://navalunderseamuseum.org>.

Arrangements are under the care of Coos Bay Chapel, 541-267-3131. Family and friends are invited to sign the online guestbook at www.coosbayareafunerals.com
