Peace and Hope

By STEVEN DUCLERCQUE
For The World

Good morning to all today. My name is Steven, and I am the writer of the Peace & Hope Poetry series. A series of 5 books I've had published.

The World newspaper is letting me start this article and I plan to share my story and poetry with you. I chose to use my poetry because poetry doesn't lie. It comes from the heart. So please share yours with me. Every week I plan to add at least one poem and short story chosen from those sent in. Send them to peaceandhopepoetry101@gmail.com

To start this off I'll go with my first and last Christmas. 1973.

Michael "my brother and I had been sent from our mother to a family to be adopted. I was 5, Michael 3. We flew to Reno from Texas. The shock was not so bad for me as I had already been in Maryvale home for youth several times and understood I was a disposable child. Michael became withdrawn. I didn't know it then but was soon going to lose him also. Anyway, the poem I have today is the First and last Christmas by Peace & Hope Poetry. It's from my first book, Big Boys dont Cry. I hope you like it. Send comments to my email I'd love to hear them. May even add them in my next article.

THE FIRST AND LAST CHRISTMAS 1974 by Steven D.

This is the First Christmas I'll never forget.

It was the best we have ever had yet.

An hour before we ate like kings.

Now this evening we see our dreams.

It was a shock with presents everywhere.

My jaw dropped and I just stood there.

To this day the memory still shines.

As the only joy I'll ever find.

There were toys and clothes and food everywhere.

And the joy I felt made me think they cared.

The girls were ecstatic, and so was I.

While Michael sat in his corner and cried.

My mom lied to me and so did this jerk.

Cause the life of a slave is nothing but hurt.

But in 74 my life was a dream.

Too bad it was the last my heart would sing.

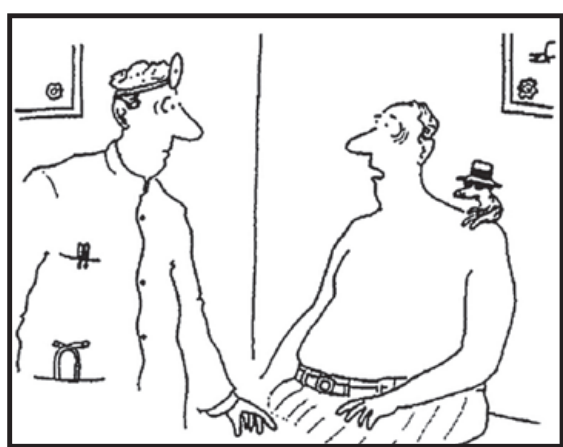

From book 1 of 5 "Big Boys dont Cry" by Steven D.

My books are for sale on Amazon but I sell signed copies. If interested in one, contact me at my email at peaceandhopepoetry101@gmail.com Peace & Hope to you. And share your smile. It makes the world a kinder place.

Steven Duclercque can be reached at peaceandhopepoetry101@gmail.com and PeaceandHope Poetry on Facebook.

Steven Charles Spooner

December 18, 1948 – December 8, 2023

A Celebration of Life will be held for Steven C. Spooner, 74, of North Bend, on Monday, December 18, 2023 at 2:00 p.m. at the North Bend First Presbyterian Church, 2238 Pony Creek Road in North Bend, with Pastor Eric Lindsey presiding.

Steve was born on December 18, 1948 in Portland, Oregon. He was fortunate to be adopted at birth by Willard and Emma Lou Spooner. Steve passed away on December 8, 2023, after a courageous 12 year battle with Parkinson's disease.

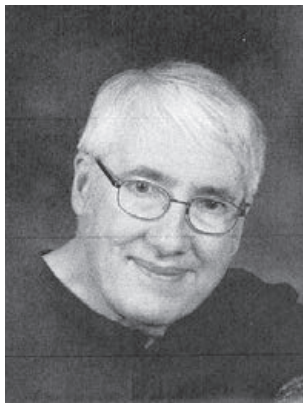

Steve grew up and attended school in North Bend. He married Diane Evans in 1972 and they had two daughters, Jeri Lynn and Katherine, before divorcing. He married his high school sweetheart, Yvonne LaClair, on June 7, 1980, and they were blessed with a son, Shawn Charles Spooner. Steve was a loving husband and father, enjoying and supporting all of Shawn's activities and endeavors.

Steve was an extremely talented man – musically, mechanically and artistically. He held several jobs utilizing his mechanical skills. He worked for the City of North Bend Street Department for 25 years until his retirement in 2010. He was a lifelong "Car guy" and spent many happy hours working on cars and drag racing.

Steve was a long time member of the North Bend Presbyterian Church, serving faithfully in many capacities.

Steve is survived by his wife of 43 years, Yvonne; son, Shawn (Cody Taylor); daughters, Jeri Twinn and Katherine Thomas; sisters-in-law, Jeanne Lloyd (John) and Mary Ann Becker (James); sister, Susan Buckingham; and his special cousin, Laurie Carl (Mike). He also leaves behind nieces and nephews who were an important part of his life.

Steve's family is grateful to all of the loving caregivers and to the wonderful support received from South Coast Hospice throughout this journey. Memorial contributions may be made in Steve's name to South Coast Hospice, 1620 Thompson Road, Coos Bay, Oregon 97420. Friends and family are encouraged to sign the online guestbook at www.coosbayareafunerals.com. Arrangements are under the care of North Bend Chapel, 541-756-0440.

Dick was born March 10, 1941 in Tillamook, Oregon, where he attended school also.

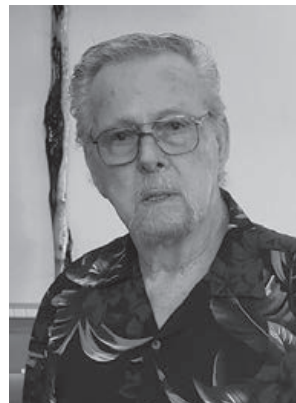

Dick helped build mills in his early years until he got the passion of driving semi-trucks for 52 years. His other passion for racing cars took hold for several years. He also loved NASCAR and attended many races.

Dick is survived by his wife, Ruby of 37 years; sister, Ileen; brothers, Russell and Debbie James and Steve and Lori James; son, Robert and Lalanya Sparkman; grandsons, James and Brandon Sparkman; many nieces and nephews; and numerous cousins.

He was preceded in death by his father and mother, Chancy and Zora James; sisters, Chanda James, Betty Cole, Janie Weekly, Arlene Porth and Sheila Boice; brothers, Verlon, Sonny, Frank and Jack James.

May Mark Bishop rest in eternal peace, his memory a source of comfort to those who knew and loved him.

Mark was born June 11, 1952 in Coos Bay to Norman Lee and Ester June (Benedict) Bishop. He peacefully passed away on December 4, 2023 in Coos Bay.

Southwestern Oregon Community College in 1973. Mark served nearly 3 years as a loader operator in the Army National Guard of Oregon.

His career included roles at Weyerhaeuser, Co., and a significant 17.5-year tenure at Sause Bros, working as a Dayman Oiler and Cook, before retiring early due to chronic lymphocytic leukemia.

A Word, Please: The comma

By JUNE CASAGRANDE

“You know, I don’t think I have the authority to change the outcome.” That single line from former vice president Mike Pence’s book “So Help Me God” contains what Pence reportedly told investigators is a serious punctuation error: the comma.

Pence was talking with Donald Trump on Christmas Day 2020 when he told the then-president either “You know, I don’t think I have the authority” or “You know I don’t think I have the authority.” According to ABC News, Pence told investigators looking into the Jan. 6 insurrection that what he really said was the no-comma version: that Trump knew that Pence didn’t believe he had the authority to change the outcome of the presidential election. But either Pence or one of his editors stuck a comma in there, changing the meaning of the sentence and offering a perfect example of just how important commas can be.

Commas have a number of jobs. They can separate coordinate nouns, like “We have a cat, a dog and a hamster.” They can separate coordinate adjectives, like “Our cat is cute, cuddly and playful.” They can separate whole clauses that are connected with a conjunction, like “Our cat is cute, but our dog is cuter.” They can set off a direct address, meaning when you call someone by a name, which is why “Let’s eat, Grandma” means something quite different from “Let’s eat Grandma.” They can separate non-restrictive information, which means clauses that don’t influence the meaning of the noun: “The man, who was driving, was drunk” means there was just one man, but “The man who was driving was drunk” means you’re singling out the guy behind the wheel from some other guys.

In Pence’s book, the comma is doing yet another job: setting off an introductory clause. Here’s an example of how commas do this: “Because everyone is usually here on the first Tuesday of every month, we hold our meetings then.” The main clause of that sentence is “we hold our meetings then.” All the stuff that comes before it is just an introduction to the main clause, which is set off with a comma.

Punctuating introductory phrases and clauses isn’t an exact science. For some short introductory phrases, the comma is optional: “On Tuesday we have a meeting” and “On Tuesday, we have a meeting” are both acceptable.

But Pence’s sentence isn’t one of those the-comma-makes-no-difference situations. Instead, a comma changes the meaning. With a comma, the “you know” is an aside. The main clause, in that case, would be “I don’t think I have the authority.”

Without a comma, the main clause changes. It becomes “you know,” and the stuff that follows becomes an object of the main clause. The sentence then means: You know (that) I don’t have the authority.

It’s both interesting and, in this case, unfortunate that English lets you drop the word “that” in some cases. For Pence, a simple “that” in the sentence would have prevented any doubt that his point was that Trump knew Pence’s position.

There’s a term for this: the zero relative. And it’s very standard in English.

“I know you want more cake” means “I know that you want more cake.”

“Wanda got the job she wanted” means “Wanda got the job that she wanted.”

“The movie we saw was great” means “The movie that we saw was great.”

In every case, you have the option of dropping the relative pronoun, “that,” without losing any meaning. But do so with caution, because your sentence might be less clear without it.

The lesson here is to choose your words and your punctuation marks carefully. A comma can change your meaning entirely, and the relative pronoun “that” can help ensure that your reader understands what you mean.

HOLY COW! HISTORY:

Handling a Hostage Crisis, 1904 Style

By J. MARK POWELL
InsideSources.com

Americans were appalled when Hamas seized 240 hostages during its October 7 attack on Israel. Among the hostages were several Americans, and the White House says there are seven Americans — one woman and seven men — still unaccounted for.

People old enough to remember the Iranian hostage crisis or the Patty Hearst story know the political kidnapping of Americans is nothing new.

Consider, for a moment, how Washington handled an international hostage crisis in 1904.

Of the many odd people who’ve wandered into American history, Ion Perdicaris was among the strangest. His father immigrated from Greece in the early 1800s and married into a wealthy South Carolina family. Then, he doubled his fortune by investing in gas works up North.

Perdicaris was born into the lap of luxury in 1842. When the Civil War began, he hopped on a ship to Athens, handed over his American passport, and became a Greek citizen, hoping that would spare his family’s Southern property from destruction.

He eventually settled in Tangier, Morocco. There, he built a mansion called the “Place of Nightingales” filled with exotic animals. He studied Moroccan culture (which he loved), partied, wrote books, frequently went to New York on business, and even seduced a married Englishwoman — who left her husband and settled into Perdicaris’ mansion with her four children.

Fast forward to 1904. Morocco was led by a 26-year-old sultan who ruled like a tyrant at the head of a corrupt government. To say Morocco was a mess was putting it mildly. Sensing vulnerability, Britain, France and Germany came sniffing around, hoping to expand their empires. Which is where Mulai Ahmed er Raisuli enters the story.

Raisuli was the 33-year-old leader of a tribal confederacy bent on overthrowing Morocco’s government. Part pirate and thief, part heroic revolutionary, he was a Robin Hood combination of good and bad rolled into one. But on May 18, 1904, he bit off more than he bargained for. Raisuli’s men kidnapped Perdicaris and his stepson, demanding $70,000 in ransom (about $2.25 million today).

President Teddy Roosevelt went ballistic. How dare a terrorist kidnap and hold a U.S. citizen hostage! (Because Perdicaris was so well-known in New York and the South, it was mistakenly assumed he was a U.S. citizen.)

Teddy dispatched seven battleships with hundreds of Marines. Their mission: If Morocco’s government didn’t end the hostage crisis pronto, the Marines would seize the customs houses, which bankrolled that nation’s economy. If Perdicaris was killed, they were to find, attack and destroy Raisuli’s gang.

As the warships steamed across the Atlantic, someone in the State Department stumbled upon an inconvenient fact: Perdicaris was a Greek citizen, not an American. Never one to let details stand in his way (this was, after all, the president who said, “I took the (Panama) canal zone and let Congress debate”), Teddy charged ahead as planned. Raisuli thought Perdicaris was an American when he seized him; that was good enough for the White House. (In fact, Washington kept Perdicaris’ nationality a secret for 29 years after the kidnapping.)

With the warships nearing Morocco, Washington furiously worked behind the scenes for a peaceful resolution. Britain and France pressured the sultan to give in to Raisuli’s demands. It looked like bloodshed would be avoided. But there was a problem.

1904 happened to be a presidential election year. While all this was going on, the Republican National Convention was underway in Chicago. Delegates were ho-hum about Teddy’s re-nomination. (Remember, the country had inherited him after McKinley’s murder three years earlier.) There was little excitement about the coming fall campaign.

Then, eight words changed everything.

After making a big show of flexing America’s military muscle, Teddy feared he would look weak accepting a peaceful settlement. Knowing Morocco’s sultan was about to meet the kidnapper’s demands, Secretary of State John

J. Mark Powell

Hay sent a bluntly simple communique to America’s ambassador in Morocco: “This government wants Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead.”

When the message was read to the convention, the delegates went wild. This was the famous Teddy Roosevelt they knew, the cowboy who had charged up San Juan Hill with guns blazing. Now, he was displaying courage and guts again, standing tall in the face of terrorism. The country rallied behind him as “Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead” became a national catchphrase.

So when Raisuli, who was very much alive, released Perdicaris unharmed on June 21, the message was clear: Teddy had triumphed over the bad guys. Roosevelt sailed to re-election that November.

It’s easy to dismiss this episode as a comedic farce. No one was harmed, the U.S. wasn’t out anything but the cost of the coal to send its battleships across the Atlantic, the sultan was overthrown four years later, and Perdicaris and Raisuli even became friends during their time together.

But there was a serious side to what history now calls the Perdicaris Incident. When lives are at stake, Americans respond positively when a president displays courage. And while people cheer saber-rattling, they also expect our leaders to seize every opportunity to peacefully end a crisis.

Perhaps most important, nobody messed with Teddy Roosevelt again for the remainder of his presidency.

Washington can learn a lot today from that crisis back in 1904.

July 17, 1944 – December 7, 2023

John Eugene Patterson, 79, passed away in Portland, Oregon on the evening of 7 December, 2023. John was born July 17, 1944 in Sacramento, California to Charles and Faye Patterson. He grew up in Paradise, California and graduated Paradise High School in June, 1962 and immediately joined the Navy. After serving 3 years as a Boiler Repairman (BET-3) aboard the U.S.S. Isle Royale (AD-29) John sought adventure and excitement and moved to Oregon in 1965. John eventually landed in Lakeside, Oregon where he met his wife, Helen Frizzell and married on August 12, 1973 and settled in North Bend.

John was a master mechanic, welder and fabricator and worked for many years in various shipyards and mills throughout Coos and Douglas County as well as some time in the Alaskan Aleutian Island chain. John was most well known as being on the sand dunes in his sandrail or in his garage tinkering on small projects. John loved working in their garden and teaching his grandchildren how to work on cars, wood working, fishing and anything else that was hands-on. He also spent much of his free time taking walks at Ferry Road Park with his beloved dogs Lucy and Tommy. He was a huge family man that enjoyed the company of friends and family, and was always willing to lend a hand in any situation.

John is survived by his wife of 50 years, Helen Patterson; sons, Travis (Melinda) Patterson of Mountain Home, Idaho and Weston (Jessica) Patterson of Coos Bay, Oregon; stepson, Boyd (Rebecca) Frizzell of Keizer, Oregon; grandchildren, Adair (Dane) Rowinski, Bradley Frizzell, Daniel (Melinda) Frizzell, Christian (Rachael), Brayden, Antonio, Bradley and Echo Patterson; as well as 1 great grandchild; sisters, Charlene Read and Patricia Moak, brother, Michael Lindstrom; brother and sisters in-law, Michael Frizzell, Linda Goodroad and Jo Frizzell; special nephew, Chris Mollier; as well as other nieces, nephews, cousins, and other family members. John was preceded in death by his father and mother; brother, Galen; and granddaughter, Madison.

A celebration of life was held Friday, December 15, 2023 at 2:00 pm at Coos Bay Chapel 685 Anderson Ave. with Pastor Mark Schiro officiating. Cremation rites have been held at Ocean View Memory Gardens Crematory, Coos Bay under the direction of Coos Bay Chapel. 541-267-3131.

As I See It:

By MARY SCHAMEHORN

The first story I am sharing this week is something I had not previously heard of, and it's hard to even envision. A front-page article in the Oct. 1, 1925, Western World explained how two Bandon men, John Nielson and L.J. Radley, with G.E. Trott of Coquille, presented their story of asking the federal Department of the Interior to put Bandon's two rock islands -- Table and Cove Rocks -- on the market at a public auction.

They had a plan. "Their plan, which they say may take several years to mature, contemplates the construction of steel bridges, connecting each rock with the mainland and each other.

"The ultimate purpose is the erection of a summer resort on the islands somewhat similar to the Cliff House (first picture) at San Francisco.

"They frankly stated that they did not have the funds necessary to spend $25,000 to $50,000 in erecting the bridges, but they were sure that capital could be induced to improve the islands, with possibly a quarter of a million expenditure, if the government would place them on the market.

"Their application to have the islands offered for sale is with the department at Washington but has not been acted upon.

"Petitions from other sources have also been filed asking that the rocks be declared a permanent government reserve as nesting places for birds."

And it seems obvious that the latter plan prevailed.

But can you close your eyes and imagine a stately structure built atop Table Rock ... with a steel bridge leading to Eighth Street.

The Cliff House was built in 1863; enlarged in 1868; blown up in 1887; burned down in 1894; rebuilt in 1896; burned again in 1907, and rebuilt one more time in 1908.

In 1977 the National Park Service acquired the property to become part of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. The NPS rehabilitated the historic Cliff House in 2005 to return it to its original neoclassical design.

The second story comes from the April,

20, 1925, issue of Western World.

"Billy Moore" (second picture) is the name of a new towboat that will soon handle log rafts and do other work on the local river for the Moore Mill & Lumber company, taking the place of the Sampson.

"The hull for the Billy Moore was built by Herman Bros. at Prosper and is considered as good as wooden hulls can possibly be built. It is about three times as large as the Sampson, but, for the present, will use the 65 h.p. Diesel engine that is now in the Sampson.

"A distinctive feature of the boat is that, with the exception of the engine, it was built here. The hull was built by Herman Bros., the rudder, shoe and bow irons by York & Co. (third photo, located just east of the first Chappell Service Station on 101 across from the present Face Rock Creamery site), the patterns and castings were cast at Rogers Foundry and all of the machine work has been done by Bandon Iron Works. Between 600 and 700 pounds of brass castings are used. The engine will be taken from the Sampson and installed in the new hull sometimes next week."

I received a note a couple of weeks ago, and should have written this sooner, but I had misplaced the information.

An anonymous business owner has expressed what a lot of us feel.

"Over the years we have witnessed the local drunks and druggies living on the streets of Bandon as they beg for money from working folk who supply them with money for drugs and alcohols. They are slowly killing these beggars with kindness and allowing them to dump on and destroy what Bandonites work so hard to maintain. It is a vicious cycle of enabling their self-destructive ways."

The email was accompanied by a poster that read, in part: "Don't kill with kindness. Don't give to people begging on the street; Give to charity."

"The message we are sending to townspeople is asking them to give to local charities who can actually help people that want to be helped."

As secretary of the hospital board I attended the party for Southern Coos Hospital and Health Center employees Saturday night at Lori Osborne's Farm and Sea Warehouse. It was a great event!

After we had eaten, CEO Ray Hino handed out awards to deserving employees and gifts to many of the employees, through a ticket drawing.

Chris Cox, an information systems analyst in the IT department, was named non-clinical Employee of the Year; Denise Ebenal, an infection control nurse, was named clinical Employee of the Year.

Speaking of Saturday night, I missed the lighted parade, but from the photos, it looks like there were some grand entries.

I saw a notice this week of yet another Bandon business for sale. The listing was for the Rolling Pin, located in the former Shindler Drug Store building adjacent to McKay's Market. The restaurant, bakery and coffee shop business is for sale for $699,000. I am not sure who owns the building where the business is located.

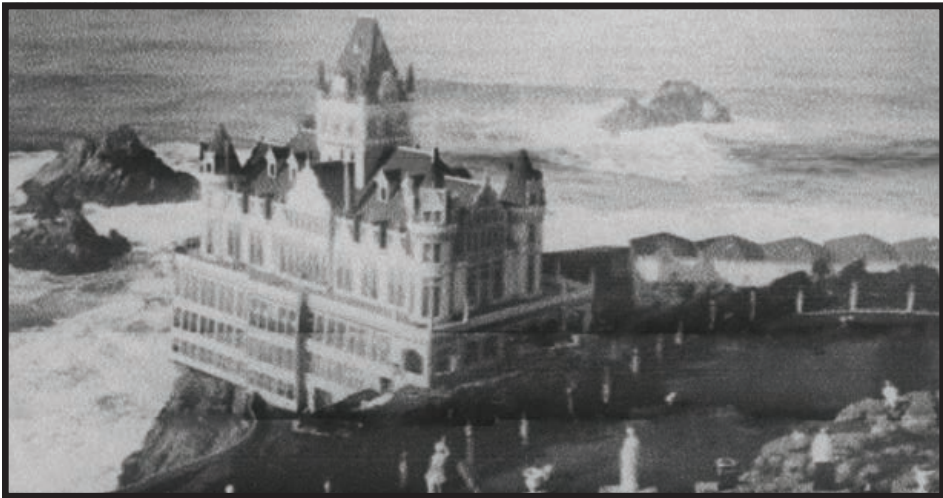

They first opened in Old Town before Covid, and the Rolling Pin has grown steadily in popularity.

The Bandon Chamber's Shop Bandon event is going on this week, Dec. 10 through Dec. 17. "People are urged to save their receipts, and for every $25 spent, you will receive a cookie cutter of your choice from the Bandon Visitor Center, open 11-3 daily. Bring in $150 worth of receipts and you will receive a one-of-a-kind Coquille River Lighthouse cookie cutter," said a chamber spokesman.

Utilities, groceries, pharmacy, contracted services, and service station purchases are exempt. Call 541-347-9616 for information.

CORRECTION: A friend told me that Bruce Spencer, who was one of two who appealed the Gravel Point development project, was the son of Harry and Trish Spencer. According to a relative, that is not true. I understand that Doug Spencer, who has been a member of the city's budget committee is, in fact, their son.

As far as Gravel Point is concerned, the city council voted to hold a de Novo (a new) hearing rather than a hearing on the record, but a date has not yet been set.

People are reminded that there will be a traditional sit down holiday meal on Christmas Day (Monday, Dec. 25) at The Barn/Community Center, thanks to Jane Ujhazi and her crew of volunteers. Dinner will be served from 1 to 4 p.m., and will include roast turkey and all the trimmings.

If you aren't able to come out, just call by Dec. 20 so your dinner can be delivered to you. Phone numbers to call are Carrie Foster at 541-260-5048 or Rosey Enderle at 907-723-0846.

A press release from the Coos County Sheriff's Office reported on yet another case of lost mushroom pickers. On Dec. 5, around 11:45 p.m., Neal Wisegarver 47, and Jeffrey Burns, 62, were located in the Whiskey Run area north of Bandon. The call had come in about 5 p.m. that the two men had not made contact after dark.

Deputy Freerksen responded to the area and conducted an initial search. The Coos County Search and Rescue Coordinator Deputy J. Gray was contacted due to poor weather conditions and low visibility in the area.

Shortly before midnight, deputies made verbal contact with both men, who were cold and wet but otherwise unharmed.

The Sheriff's office again "emphasized planning and preparing for recreational activities, especially when conducting them after the sun goes down."

Oregon DMV sent out a press release this week indicating that thousands more Oregonians are now eligible to get back driver's licenses suspended because of unpaid traffic violations. Gov. Tina Kotek ordered mass clemency for the Oregon residents, building on an order from her predecessor, Gov. Kate Brown, that forgave more than 8,000 Oregonians in the same situation a year earlier. Kotek's order forgives more than 10,000 more people whose driver's licenses were suspended only because they didn't pay fines related to traffic violations, such as speeding or parking tickets. The remission order does not apply to people whose licenses were suspended because of traffic crimes, such as driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Bandon Municipal Court Judge Gary Milliman sent us an email Sunday to say that while the remission order did impact people in Brookings and Port Orford, where he also serves as judge, he did not believe anyone from Bandon was on the list.

He added that the Oregon Judges Association was not consulted by the Governor's office regarding this matter, and had no role in determining who is on the remission list.

Coming events: Plastics Recycling, Dec. 20, 4 to 6, Sprague room at Library; Billy Smoothboards Christmas for local families, Dec. 20, 4 to 7; Bandon Playhouse auditions for Radium Girls, Dec. 11-12-13, 6 p.m. Sprague Theater, City Park.

The next brush and yard debris removal event for January 2024 will be held beginning Monday, Jan. 8, when Bandon Disposal will pick up piles of brush and yard debris of up to a maximum of 5 cubic yards at no cost.

Christmas Village

storage and transforming an entire room in their East Side Coos Bay home into an old-time Christmas village.

Robert Edwards Sr. and Robert Edwards Jr. said the family started collecting the Department 56 Christmas displays when Robert Jr. was just a child in the 1980s. They continued collecting the Christmas items for about two decades before Robert Jr's mother (Robert Edwards Sr. late wife) passed away.

For many years the Christmas decorations sat unused. Edwards Sr. remarried and Edwards Jr. lived out of state. But this year, with Edwards Jr. in town for the holidays, the two decided to embark on setting up the elaborate display.

"It brings back lots of memories. I love it,"

Edwards Jr. said.

He said it took him a full 24-hours to set everything up.

The Christmas village includes a penguin sled, nativity scene, Santa's workshop, a hospital, hotel and many other buildings, street lights, trees and more.

The pieces have individual power sources that can be connected to one another. When they are all connected, it comes together to bring the village to life.

The father and son said it's a fun example about how individual families celebrate the holidays.

Edwards Sr. said he enjoys looking at all the pieces in the Christmas village.

"We've got it all. There's just so many interesting little things to look at," he said.

The father and son said they have also have been enjoying showing the holiday display to neighbors and friends.

Festival of Trees

businesses and non-profit organizations who purchase and decorate trees for the auction.

The 2023 event included 29 fully-decked out trees and wreaths sponsored by local businesses.

The event raised more than $42,000 for rotary programs, including Gifts of Literacy, Shelter Boxes, Kids Hope Center, and End Polio Now.

Nine trees that were purchased at the auction were donated back to the community. These trees were then donated to Coquille Indian Tribe community members.

"It is great to be able to assist our members, of course," Tribal Chair Brenda Meade said in a press release. "But what makes this such an awesome event for us to be a part of is that it helps both our Tribal members and our neighbors in the community. This is the Potlach spirit at work."

Coquille Tribal Council member Jackie Chambers said she has now seen the beauty of this giving event from both sides.

"I was a recipient of a donated tree about 12 years ago. Now, I get to help bid on and give the trees away. This is a truly wonderful program and I'm proud that the Tribe is a big part of it," Chambers said.

Rotary event coordinators Proett and Bailey said they are happy for the support of the Coquille Tribe and the tribally-owned Mill Casino for hosting the event.

"The Tribe has been such a great partner and supporter of the event for many years. The money raised goes right back into our community through grant requests with the Rotary Coos Foundation and enriches the lives of all of us in Coos Bay, North Bend and Charleston," the Rotary members said.

The Chamber Minute:

I love stories so let me share a special one with you!

After several days of maneuvers in bad weather, a US Navy battleship confronted problems in the dark. A lookout reported to the bridge, describing a light he saw off the starboard bow. When the Captain realized the two vessels were cutting a collision course, he sent a message, “we are on a collision course. Advise you change course 20 degrees”. The distant light flashed a return message, “advisable for you to change course 20 degrees”. The battleship captain sent, “I am a captain! Change course 20 degrees”. “I am a seaman second class, you had better change course 20 degrees”. The enraged captain sent, “I am a battleship, change course 20 degrees”. Came the reply, “I am a lighthouse”. The battleship immediately changed course. Effective leaders know how to change course in the face of those lighthouse realities.

You are all leaders, whether it is in the family, business or community. Leaders who were faced with more change and opportunity this past couple years and will see more challenges in 2024. The main opportunity is the mutual support of our friends and neighbors. In the Chamber we call that networking. So as we face lighthouse realities together, how can you help? What is your unique talent? Your Chamber has a spot where you, and only you, have the ability to make things happen. If it's not to be you, then whom are you willing to let determine our community's future? Personally, I'd rather be part of the solution and I believe you would too.

The Bay Area Chamber of Commerce, remember our business is helping your business. And like us on Facebook.

registration to me so I could walk across the bridge. It was very memorable.”

From there, Kyndal walked down the coast line through Astoria, Seaside, Tillamook, Pacific City, Lincoln City, Newport, Florence and Reedsport, to name a few. He made it to Coos Bay the second week of December.

During his time in Coos Bay, Kyndal visited Shore Acres Holiday Lights, and met with many local community members. He was planning to do volunteer work with the Devereux Center, as well as take part in a “Walk with the Mayors” mental health discussion.

Kyndal said he changed his life around while being incarcerated. He decided he wanted to spread the word about mental health and recovery by walking his way to all corners of America.

He started his journey on Jan. 1, 2022. He has already walked from Florida to Washington, and is now making his way down to San Diego.

The mental health advocate said he is met with support by most everyone he interacts with.

“Everybody’s affected by mental health and so many people are affected by recovery. So the support has been through the roof,” he said.

It’s hard to pinpoint certain highlights of his journey.

“Every town has its own memories. I meet so many amazing people and every day is new,” he said.

Kyndal’s social media handle is “A Walking Testimony.” He has gotten about 20,000 followers on Facebook over the course of his trek across the country.

He gives regular updates about his whereabouts, and what he’s been getting up to, as well as reminding everyone; “Never forget that You Matter and We Do Recover!” on social media.

As of Dec. 12, 2023, Kyndal reported he was 55 months drug free. He had walked more than 4,100 miles, and was on his 441st day walking all corners of America for mental health awareness and recovery.

To learn more about the walk across America, follow Kyndal on Facebook at “A Walking Testimony” or visit www.kyndalray.com.

productivity and making nearby habitats thrive,” film narrators said.

It also attracts birds and marine mammals from across the globe to its’ waters, and is unlike anything else on the Oregon Coast.

Members of the public were invited to watch the free short film on Dec. 7, as well as ask questions and learn from a lineup of distinguished panelists. The event was sponsored by Oregon

State University’s Marine Studies Initiative.

Organizers of the free film screening said they wanted to bring the greater marine science community together and amplify the voices of this part of the coast - from Oregon’s leading oceanographers to commercial fisherman.

Those who missed the screening can access the film for free on Oregon State University’s YouTube Page by typing in, ‘Heceta Bank: Oregon’s Hidden Wonder.’

Hearing tests are always free. Hearing test is an audiometric test to determine proper amplification needs only. Hearing Aids do not restore natural hearing. Individual experiences will vary depending on severity of loss, accuracy of evaluation by our Consultant, proper fit, and the ability to adjust amplification. Pursuant to terms of your purchase agreement, the aids must be returned within 30 days of the completion of fitting, in satisfactory condition for a full refund.
