

Intoxicated driver arrested after striking Umpqua Community College Softball Team bus, killing two

By NATE SCHWARTZ

On their way back to Roseburg after playing in North Bend, the Umpqua Community College (UCC) softball team was struck by an intoxicated driver at 9:56 PM on April 18. The driver, Johnathan Dowdy, 32, now faces a long list of felony charges including manslaughter, assault, and reckless endangerment.

Dowdy's Chevy Silverado swerved into the path of the team bus as it carried 10 people east on Oregon Route 42, near milepost 23, according to OSP press releases. Two of the bus passengers were killed on the scene. Jami Strinz, 46, was the team's coach and was driving at the time. Kiley Jones, 19, was a freshman who played first base.

"Kiley Jones was a standout athlete with a heart for her teammates and a contagious smile. She was a leader who brought energy to both the softball and soccer fields. Kiley was the light that shined anywhere she went," stated official UCC communications.

"Coach Jami Strinz was a mentor and a champion of creating opportunities for students beyond the softball field. Jami empowered each player to lead in their own way, grounded in her belief in personal growth, team unity, and the strength of women as professionals. Her legacy continues through the community she inspired, as she touched many throughout the world."

The rest of the team was transported for emergency medical services, along with Dowdy, who was arrested on release the evening of April 21 and taken to the Coos County Jail. The full list of his charges, via OSP communications, is below:

- ORS 163.118 Manslaughter in the First Degree (X2)
- ORS 163.175 Assault in the Second Degree (X3)
- ORS 163.165 Assault in the Third Degree (X5)

Wild Rivers Land Trust: protecting Southern Oregon's natural treasures, hires new executive director

By LINDA LEE
Country Media, Inc.

Along the rugged and breathtaking southern Oregon coast, a dedicated organization is working tirelessly to ensure the region's irreplaceable lands and waters remain forever wild and abundant.

The Wild Rivers Land Trust (WRLT), spanning from Reedport to Brookings, operates on the fundamental belief that a thriving environment, a prosperous economy and the unique rural coastal culture are inextricably linked.

This non-profit, charitable organization acts as a guardian for the natural spaces that both people and wildlife depend on for clean air, fresh water and healthy habitats across Coos, Curry and southwestern Douglas counties. The service area encompasses a vast 2.3 million acres.

By forging partnerships with willing landowners, WRLT helps working farms, forests and ranches safeguard their legacies for future generations through various conservation tools.

At its core, a land trust like WRLT acquires land or conservation easements, which are legal agreements that restrict development and protect specific conservation values. These values can range from preserving vital natural habitats and ensuring water quality to maintaining scenic vistas and guaranteeing land remains available for farming, forestry, or outdoor recreation.

WRLT collaborates closely with landowners, engaging in real estate transactions that sometimes involve purchasing property interests or accepting their donation. Crucially, the Land Trust also diligently stewards and monitors land already under its protection, striving to bring lasting conser-

More details emerge in North Bend runway excursion

By NATE SCHWARTZ

Following the HondaJet that skipped off the runway of Southwest Oregon Regional Airport on April 7, more information has come to light about runway excursions in that particular model of plane.

According to a report by Aviation International News (AIN), this is the 20th time a HondaJet has run off of the runway, with 8 of those incidents coming after 2023. In fact, the incident in North Bend was one of two excursions to take place that same week. On April 9, a similar HondaJet overran the runway at Naples Regional Airport in Florida. There were no passengers on the flight and the Washington loves a leaker. An “unidentified source” who’s willing to spill the beans and dish on his boss or colleagues. Sometimes, the motivation is revenge, settling the score for an old wrong, be it real or imagined. Other leakers do so for reasons of conscience, believing the public needs to know what’s happening behind the scenes.

It brings to mind one unidentified official who long ago disagreed with his boss. And what he did to inform Americans about it played a big part in the buildup to the Revolutionary War.

This is the story of the Hutchinson Letters Affair.

Britain had an increasingly nasty problem on its hands in the early

HOLY GOW! HISTORY: Who Blabbed to Ben Franklin?

1770s. For nearly 150 years, the mother country and its Province of Massachusetts Bay colony had enjoyed more or less tranquil relations. However, things had recently soured.

The colonists said it was grossly unfair that a heavy round of taxes was imposed on them for London’s fiscal benefit, not theirs. Despite paying those taxes, the people of Massachusetts had no voice in Britain’s Parliament, and they were growing increasingly upset about it.

That, in turn, upset the Brits, who felt the colonists were acting like spoiled, ungrateful children.

The tipping point came in 1773 when the infamous Tea Tax was imposed. It was the last straw for many of Massachusetts’ tea-sipping British subjects.

And that’s when things got interesting.

The previous December, Benjamin Franklin had received an unusual packet in the mail. He was living in London where, among other things, he served as Deputy Postmaster of North America.

To put it in 21st-century terms, someone inside the very top levels of England’s government had gone rogue and wanted Franklin to know what was secretly going on behind closed doors. The packet contained about 20 letters privately sent to a top aide to Britain’s prime minister by Thomas Hutchinson, the Massachusetts colony’s royal governor, and other local officials.

Franklin couldn’t believe his eyes. The letters framed matters in a way that intentionally misled Parliament. They also suggested Massachusetts’ colonial government should be overhauled to give the royal governor more power. Worse still, Hutchinson wrote that the colonists should never have the full rights in America that were enjoyed back in England, calling for “an abridgment of what are called English liberties.”

Franklin forwarded the letters to Boston with clear instructions that they not be printed or publicized. He added, however, that they could be quietly shared with Patriot leaders.

However, those brilliantly conniving second cousins, John and Samuel Adams, made sure the correspondence reached The Boston Gazette.

When the letters were published in June 1773, the public in New England reacted with the ferocity of a nuclear blast. Hutchinson was burned in effigy on Boston Common. The outcry was equally intense when word reached the other side of the pond.

From Beacon Hill to London’s fashionable salons, Britons and colonists alike speculated about which insider had leaked the letters. One suspected source blamed another, even leading to a duel between two men. That was when Franklin said enough was enough.

On Christmas Day 1773, he published a letter admitting that he had forwarded the letters to Boston. Franklin was hauled before the Privy Council, royally chewed out, humiliated, and fired from his lucrative Deputy Postmaster gig.

Back in Boston, the revelations from the letters helped stoke the anger that climaxed with the Boston Tea Party.

You know what happened from there.

So, who was the 18th-century resister inside Britain’s government who actually leaked the letters? There’s a wide cast of possibilities. Several historians point a finger at Thomas Pownall, Hutchinson’s predecessor as royal governor. Others blame John Temple, another colonial official. Temple claimed he knew the true culprit’s identity but refused to name him since doing so “would prove the ruin of the guilty party.”

Whoever he was, his secret went to the grave with him, but its effects are still felt today.

Letters to the Editor

Failure by police

I am an investigative journalist reporting stories about missing persons and cold-case murders in Coos and Curry Counties.

I have over 27 years of experience as a police officer and detective, including five years as the Chief of Police in Port Orford, Oregon, and as the Chief of Police for the Burns Paiute Tribe in Burns, Oregon. Additionally, I have over 15 years of experience as a licensed private investigator in Oregon. I am a seasoned investigator, and my credentials can be verified through the Department of Public Safety Standards and Training. Missing and unsolved murders are my focus. I don’t take money and provide family members with all the information I gather on their case.

I have numerous cases I am investigating. One of these cases involves the disappearance of Joy Dee Shields, age 18, who went missing on May 30, 1986.

I am reaching out to the Coos Bay community for assistance. I contacted the Coos Bay Police Department to request a copy of this 40-year-old case, which they are legally obligated to provide to the public. However, I was informed that I couldn’t obtain a copy of the report because it is still under investigation. I replied by pointing out that this case is 40 years old, and there is little expectation that their agency will ever solve it. They have not solved this case in four decades. They have already failed.

It appears that Coos Bay Chief of Police Chris Chapner, City Manager Nicole Rutherford, and the Coos Bay City Council do not want the public to access this case. As an investigator, I seek out anomalies in investigations; this response to a trained and experienced investigator raises suspicions. What are they hiding?

I then reached out for reports from Coos County Sheriff Gabe Fabrizio. I was told they couldn’t find any reports. They assisted in that investigation; there should be reports. Another Anomaly. What are they hiding?

I sent my second request for the report to the Coos Bay Mayor, and on April 14, 2025, I received a response from the Coos Bay Attorney. He wrote: “This is to inform you that multiple searches have been made over the course of a number of years in an effort to locate the file material pertaining to this matter”. Joy Dee Shields, an 18-year-old child snatched from the Coos Bay City streets on May 15, 1986, has only been known as missing person case P8601852.

In Curry County, another case involves the disappearance of Melvin Eugene Halbert, who was arrested by the Brookings Police on May 19, 2000. He was taken to the Curry County Jail and subsequently vanished. He wasn’t reported missing until March 25, 2013. I contacted the Brookings Police Department and provided them with additional evidence sufficient to warrant an investigation.

Apparently, Brookings Police Chief Kelby McCrae, City Manager Tim Rundel, and the Brookings City Council feel that a missing person case is just that. What are they hiding?

Another case involves Gary Harper and Lee Luoma, who left Pitches Tavern at 10:30 PM on 09/08/1976 and disappeared. It has been implied that the Port Orford Police Chief immediately arrested them, took them somewhere, and disposed of them. They have never been seen again.

During my investigation into the disappearance of Luoma and Harper, I was contacted by Abbey Jarden, a relative of Gary Harper, who is independently investigating the case. I am helping her with her own investigation of her lost relative.

Throughout my career, I have always held dear this bible verse, Luke 15:3-6: “What man of you, having a hundred sheep, if he has lost one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the open country and go after the one that is lost until he finds it? And when he has found it, he lays it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he comes home, he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, ‘Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep that was lost.’”

BAH elections

The upcoming May 20 election is critical for the future of Bay Area Hospital. I urge you to vote for Dr. John Uno, Brandon Saada, Kyle Stevens, and Simon Alonzo—candidates who support a local solution rather than leasing our hospital to Quorum.

Quorum is not a healthcare provider like PeaceHealth or Providence—it’s a management company. While it boasts one 4-star hospital in Oregon, the majority of its other facilities have received much lower ratings. Worse yet, Quorum has a troubling record: it has closed most of the hospitals that it’s owned, and it’s been cited in other states for discontinuing promised services, illegally overcharging patients and insurers, operating without proper oversight, and multiple health code violations.

The deeper concern is Quorum’s majority shareholder—Golden Tree, a private equity firm. And private equity has one mission: maximizing profit for investors, not providing quality healthcare. If Quorum takes control, Bay Area Hospital—and our community—will be at their mercy. This is not the future most CB/NB residents want.

The current Board thinks that merging with a larger company will ensure financial stability, because only larger corporations have the resources to compete in today’s markets. Yes, there’s a national trend toward corporatization, but that doesn’t mean it’s right for this community. Big corporations often provide worse service at higher costs, shifting the burden to consumers while funneling profits elsewhere.

Bay Area Hospital doesn’t need to be sold off to survive. With a change in leadership and administration, clear planning, and strong financial management, it can recover. Concerned Citizens for Bay Area Hospital, a local PAC, supports exploring a regional health system that could cut costs—like bulk supply purchasing—while keeping care in local hands.

The current letter of intent with Quorum would gut local oversight. We must reject that path.

Vote for Uno, Saada, Stevens, and Alonzo—leaders who will fight to protect our hospital, our care, and our community. Let’s keep healthcare local.

Coos Bay

BAH future

On May 20, voters have a chance to change the course of Bay Area Hospital’s future. I strongly encourage you to vote for Dr. John Uno, Brandon Saada, Kyle Stevens, and Simon Alonzo—candidates who support a local solution and oppose merging with Quorum.

Quorum is majority-owned by Golden Tree, a private equity firm whose sole purpose is to extract profit—not to serve patients or communities. If Bay Area Hospital is leased to Quorum, we lose control, and our healthcare decisions will be made by people with no ties to our region.

Bay Area Hospital doesn’t need a private equity takeover. It needs leadership with strong, practical management and financial skills. With the right team, we can turn things around locally. Sadly, poor leadership has already driven away profitable services, and hospital management has twice hired CFOs with questionable track records.

The Hospital Board has two key responsibilities: approving major decisions, like partnerships, and hiring or removing the CEO. It’s time to reevaluate both.

Since CEO Brian Moore took over in 2019, his decisions have hurt the hospital. His time at St. Mary’s-Corwin Hospital in Colorado saw the loss of core services and a sharp decline—an all-too-familiar story. His resignation allowed that hospital to regain its strength, and now we face a similar situation.

At BAH, Moore oversaw the failed rollout of the EPIC medical records system, which resulted in millions of dollars in lost revenue—losses we can’t recover. He blames COVID-19, but the mismanagement started before and continued after. Programs like MOMs and Home Health have been cut, and the Behavioral Health unit was nearly eliminated until the County stepped in.

Now, the Board says a Quorum contract would protect “core services,” but they haven’t defined what those are.

We deserve transparency and responsible leadership. Vote Uno, Saada, Stevens, and Alonzo to keep healthcare local and accountable.

Judy Moody

A call for partnership, not polarization

I want to be very clear: I do not represent the labor union, Bay Area Hospital’s board, or any outside group. I’m running for office because I believe in our communities — and I believe in honest, cooperative solutions that protect access to care for everyone across the South Coast.

That’s why I’m concerned about how quickly a proposal — whether good, bad, or in between — has become a lightning rod for outrage instead of an opportunity for dialogue.

Let’s be honest: our healthcare system is facing real challenges. Bay Area Hospital is in crisis. Small rural hospitals are stretched thin. Patients and staff are caught in the middle.

We should be using this moment to talk about ideas — not shutting them down before they’re even fully understood. Whether it’s a health district model, a regional cooperative, or something entirely new, we need to ask: How can we work together instead of competing for survival?

A regional partnership — if done transparently and collaboratively — could mean shared resources, stronger services, and long-term stability for everyone, not just one hospital. But only if rural voices are at the table, not overruled.

This is not about annexation. It’s not about taking control. It’s about creating alignment where we’re all stronger together — protecting our local identities while cooperating for our shared future.

We’re at a crossroads. We can treat each other as rivals — or we can become partners in designing a healthier future. The choice isn’t between Bay Area Hospital or Bandon, Coquille, Gold Beach, and Reedsport. The real choice is: division or collaboration.

Let’s stop drawing battle lines. Let’s start building bridges.

BLM issues nearly $28M to Western Oregon Counties from timber revenue

The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has distributed more than $27.7 million in timber revenue payments to 18 western Oregon counties.

The payments are supported by the timber harvested from public lands and support local services, including emergency response and education, according to a release from the BLM.

“The BLM is working to protect our national and economic security, as directed in President Trump’s order, by immediately expanding American timber production,” BLM Oregon/ Washington State Director Barry Bushue said. “We manage more than 2.4 million acres of some of the world’s most productive forests in western Oregon, and are committed to supplying a reliable, secure, and resilient domestic supply of timber, while providing jobs and other support to local communities through timber production.”

Land Trust

vation benefits to local communities.

The roots of WRLT trace back to the year 2000, when a group of passionate residents established the Elk River Land Trust with a shared vision of conserving the land along the Elk River. Their initial goals was to involve communities in preserving the natural world for a healthier, more sustainable planet and remains the driving force behind the organization today.

Recognizing the growing need for their services, the land trust expanded its reach in 2014 and 2018, bringing its conservation expertise to more people and communities along the southern Oregon coast.

A significant milestone for the organization came in August 2019, when WRLT achieved full accreditation through the Land Trust Accreditation Commission, a nationally recognized body that rigorously reviews land trust operations.

The distinction, held by just over four-hundred land trusts nationwide, has not only strengthened WRLT’s internal practices but has also fostered new partnerships and facilitated further land acquisitions. Accreditation provides landowners, donors, conservation partners and the wider community with the assurance that Wild Rivers Land Trust operates under the highest standards of land conservation.

Looking to the future, the Wild Rivers Land Trust envisions a southern Oregon coast defined by clean water, abundant salmon runs, sustainable working lands and thriving rural communities. Its mission is to conserve and sustain the natural, scenic and working lands as well as lands of historic, cultural, or archaeological value, through collaborative efforts with communities and landowners along the Wild Rivers Coast.

The generosity of donors is the lifeblood of the Wild Rivers Land Trust’s conservation work. In return for this support, WRLT provides the assurance that the region’s natural wonders will endure for generations to come, working to instill a shared passion and care for the land and waters within the communities it serves.

In recent news, the Wild Rivers Land Trust announced the appointment of Amy Knapp Pettit as its new Executive Director.

Pettit emerged as the top candidate from a strong pool of applicants, bringing with her two decades of experience in agriculture and land conservation as well as deep roots in the southern Oregon coast.

Raised in Curry County on the Knapp Ranch in Langlois, Pettit holds an Agricultural Business Management degree from Oregon State University.

Her career has taken her to Alaska, where she managed the Marketing and Development team for the State of Alaska Division of Agriculture for ten years before becoming the Executive Director of the Alaska Farmland Trust in 2015. Under her leadership, the Farmland Trust experienced significant growth, doubling its protected areas and establishing strong relationships with major foundations.

In March 2022, Pettit was appointed as the State Executive Director for the USDA Farm Service Agency in Alaska, a position she held until the recent change in administration. Now, Pettit is eager to bring her skills and experience back to the Southern Oregon Coast.

“It feels like a full circle moment to have all of this come into alignment and I am delighted to get to immerse myself back into the community that raised me,” Pettit said.

The Wild Rivers Land Trust board and staff express their confidence that Pettit’s connection to the region, her extensive knowledge of land conservation, her demonstrated fundraising abilities and her passionate leadership style make her the ideal person to lead the organization into the future.

The organization would also like to extend its sincere gratitude to the former Executive Director Ann Schmierer for her invaluable service as interim executive director during the recent transition.

South Coast athletes stand out in Meet of Champions

JOHN GUNTHER
For the World

Myrtle Point's Thomas Ferren had two individual wins and helped a relay squad to a victory and several other local athletes had big marks in the 4A-1A Meet of Champions at Sweet Home on Saturday.

The meet brought together many of the top athletes from the western part of the state in the four smaller classifications.

Ferren edged Reedsport's Thomas Morgan in both the 100 and 200. In the shorter race, Ferren ran 11.10 and Morgan 11.20, with Marshfield's Carter McGriff seventh (11.43).

In the 200, Ferren ran 22.72 and Morgan 22.73. Siuslaw's Wesley Nicholls was fourth (22.95), North Bend's Noah Bustamente sixth (23.08), McGriff seventh (23.09) and Siuslaw's Raymundo Brito Xilot eighth (23.14).

In the 4x100 relay, Ferren teamed with Cash Miller, Brody Ligons and Evin Warner to finish in 43.50, edging Marshfield (43.62). Siuslaw was fifth (44.41).

Marshfield won the 4x400 relay with the squad of McGriff, Chandler Wyatt, Jake Day and Bodey Lutes running 3:29.08. Siuslaw was third (3:37.33), North Bend fifth (3:40.61).

Siuslaw's Clayton Wilson

won the 3,000 (8:38.58), with Marshfield's Jaxson Stovall third (8:59.39) and Siuslaw's Henry Stone fourth (9:00.10).

In the field, North Bend's Myles Baxter had another big personal best in the high jump, clearing 6 feet, 6 inches to win the event. Siuslaw's Kale Jensen was second, clearing 6-2.

Their places were reversed in the long jump, with Jensen winning (20-10 1/2) and Baxter finishing second (20-10). Siuslaw's Will Johnson was third (20-4) and Marshfield's Wyatt sixth (19-1). Johnson won the triple jump for Siuslaw with a new best 44-7 1/2.

Among other boys running events, Siuslaw's Nicholls was third (51.24) and Marshfield's Wyatt eight (52.16) in the 400, and Siuslaw's Jensen was third in both the 110 hurdles (16.66) and 300 hurdles (41.00).

In other field events, Siuslaw's Caleb Gray was second in the javelin (155-1) while teammate Joel Sissel was sixth in the shot put (45-11); Marshfield's Quinton Kloster was second in the pole vault (13-0), with Bandon's Noah Brown and Siuslaw's Will Johnson tying for third (12-6) and Siuslaw's Justice Allen sixth (12-0).

Coquille's girls had a pair of winners, including a new meet record from freshman Ella Henthorn in the 3,000. Henthorn set a new personal best with her time of 10:25.22 while North Bend's Ellie Massey was second with a new personal best of her own (10:44.13) and Siuslaw's Allison Hughes was seventh (11:20.26).

Henthorn (4:49.34) and Massey (4:54.28) also both had personal bests in the 1,500, finishing third and fourth behind winner Daisy Lalonde of East Linn Christian (4:47.94).

Coquille's Emelia Wirebaugh also had a new best winning the triple jump by soaring 35-1 in the triple jump. She also finished fifth in the high jump, clearing 4-10.

Bandon's Marley Petrey won the 300 hurdles with a time of 46.41. Teammate Giada Moore was third (47.28), Marshfield's Rylee McNally fifth (48.36) and Siuslaw's Aidell Cadet eighth (49.05).

Several other South Coast girls were runners-up, including Makenna Vierck of Bandon in the 100 (12.55) and 200 (26.14). Marshfield's Jordyn Mickelson was second in the shorter event.

Vierck, Petrey and Moore also combined with Claire Briggs to finish second in the 4x100 relay (50.38). Marshfield was eighth (52.20).

Coquille had a trio of second-place finishes in the field.

Bay Area tennis teams net successful week

JOHN GUNTHER
For the World

North Bend's girls tennis team had a busy week, beating Thurston and Springfield while losing to Marist Catholic and St. Mary's of Medford.

The Bulldogs topped Thurston 6-2, getting singles wins by Raegan Farm, Aubrey Moore and Kamryn Van Elsberg and doubles victories by the pairs of Grace Clark and Olivia Smith, Amelia Peck and Caroline Friedrich, and Darrah Windham and Cadence Moore.

The same singles and doubles combinations won in a 6-0 win over Springfield the same day.

But Farm was the only North Bend player to win in the matches against Marist Catholic and St. Mary's.

North Bend's boys split four matches with Thurston, getting singles wins by both Isaac Adams and Myles Picatti.

They were shut out by Springfield and St. Mary's.

Marshfield's girls swept Springfield and split their matches with Thurston.

Against Springfield, Gwyn Button, Helena Blood and Caroline Knutson won singles matches, while Reanna Mathias and Mallory Edd, Olivia Conde and Chloe Runn, and Azura Beckett and Olivia Hoffman won doubles matches.

Against Thurston, Ashley Rodriguez-Gutierrez won a singles match and Mathias and Edd, Button and Knutson, and Conde and Run won doubles matches.

Marshfield's boys lost to both Thurston and Springfield 4-2.

Against Thurston, the Pirates got singles wins by Jestun Moen and Mikal McGowan.

Against Springfield, Moen and Blake Powell won singles matches.

This week, North Bend hosts both Marshfield and Creswell on Wednesday and Ashland visits the two Bay Area schools Thursday. Marshfield is at Junction City on Friday.

The baseball teams from Reedsport and Myrtle Point continued winning last week heading into their key second matchup this week.

The Brave remained perfect in Class 2A-1A District 4 at 6-0 by beating Bandon 10-0 and edging host Toledo 9-7. Reedsport hosts Eddyville on Tuesday before a big home game against Myrtle Point on Friday.

Reedsport won the first meeting with the Bobcats 2-1 in Myrtle Point.

Runway

pilot and plane emerged unscathed.

This wasn't the case here in North Bend, where social media posts have given us a clearer indication of the scale of the injuries. In a YouTube video covering the incident by user 'blancolirio' which has surpassed 200 thousand views, one commenter claimed to be on the flight.

"I was one of the passengers in this accident. We touched down. I felt the brakes come on briefly after touch down. After that it was absolutely nothing and into the water we went..." said user 'johnbill7968'. "After the hero pilot narrowly threaded the needle and steered us off to the right between the runway lights and a building. Both would have killed us if we hit them."

Johnbill7968 went on to defend the pilot, thanking him for his calmness under pressure and commending them for what they said are 40,000 hours of flight time for the veteran pilot. Apparently, the passengers have been involved with a construction project in the area and have been making that same trip on a weekly basis for around 6 months with the same pilot.

Johnbill's comments indicate that they had a broken leg, and ligaments that needed reconnected. The pilot reportedly had a broken ankle and was badly bruised.

In a Facebook post from another passenger's partner, Kasandra Leavitt, we got further detail. She states that her husband Andy has been making the flight from St. George Regional Airport for a 'the past few years'. When she didn't receive a customary text saying he had landed, she began to worry. Those fears were confirmed when she got a call from her son in law who was also on the flight.

"He had borrowed a phone to call, because both his and my husband's phones were missing, somewhere in the ocean. I was relieved to hear his voice, but obviously concerned that my husband wasn't on the other end. Austin assured me that Andy was ok- but that he was having a hard time breathing & couldn't talk," recalled Leavitt.

She describes that the landing itself was 'flawless', but that the plane would not slow down on the tarmac and that it was clear they'd end up in the water. Similar to Johnbill's comments, she was grateful for the pilot and his experience.

"Our pilot, Dean, is a seasoned veteran. 50 years experience. My son in law, Austin was sitting in the second chair up front. They were both applying the brakes as hard as they could. Dean expertly maneuvered the plane between towers, a building and barricades - which if any of them were hit, would have certainly led to an explosive outcome," wrote Leavitt.

Despite the quick thinking in the moment, Andy Leavitt still sustained a litany of injuries. According to the post, 6 broken ribs and a fractured knee cap.

Her post, along with Johnbill's comments, commentary from blancolirio's youtube video, and the AIN report, indicate that the excursion was cause by brake troubles. This is hardly the only case in which this model of HondaJet has had brake failures, and therefore the crash is more a question of manufacturing issues than pilot error.

Despite that, both social media posters were grateful everyone escaped with their lives, and thankful towards their long-time pilot.

Dowdy was already on police radar after his license was suspended following another DUI in January of 2025, when police approached his car on a poaching warrant. Officers reported Dowdy had slurred speech and the smell of alcohol on him, and he was charged in March, with further court dates scheduled for early May.

The UCC community, reeling from the incident, held a memorial and moment of silence at their baseball games on Thursday, April 24. This was the UCC Softball program's inaugural season.

"We are deeply saddened to confirm that one of our student-athletes, Kiley Jones, and one of our coaches, Jami Strinz, lost their lives in the accident. Additional staff and students remain in hospitals in Eugene and Portland. UCC hearts are breaking with this news, and we ask the community to keep the families and all of those affected in their thoughts and prayers," said UCC President, Dr. Rachel Pokrandt.

"These individuals were cherished members of our campus—an exceptional student-athlete, and a passionate and talented coach. Our entire community is grieving this tragic loss, and our heartfelt condolences are with their families, teammates, and loved ones. We ask that you keep them in your thoughts and offer privacy for the families during this difficult time. Support services are available to all students, faculty, and staff. Please join us in holding space for grief and reflection as we honor these individuals."

A UCC Softball support fund was set up through the school, anyone inclined to donate can do so at the link below:

I have now received the salary information, which shows that starting salaries range from a high of $48,818 in Coos Bay to a low of $42,620 in Bandon. Both Reedsport and Port Orford-Langois, with similar size and demographics, offer higher starting salaries ($45,480 for Reedsport and $45,113)

The narrative for top salary information showed that Bandon was second from the bottom at a top salary of $71,551, with Coos Bay offering the top salary at $82,339. However, the graph that was provided showed that Bandon ranked tenth out of 10 districts.

The BEA and the School District are currently in negotiations, with the BEA seeking a 15 percent salary increase for the first of a three-year contract, with COLAs the second and third years.

The League of Women Voters school board candidate forum, originally scheduled for May 8, has been cancelled because an insufficient number of candidates agreed to participate. The League is pursuing videotaped individual interviews with the candidates and will post them on their YouTube page once available, according to Abigail Bok, LWV representative.

After many years in the making the Port of Bandon has completed the first phase of the parking and public space project at the Bandon Fisheries Warehouse along the Coquille River on First Street. The finished project provides smooth and safe ADA access to and from the former fish processing plant, along with adjacent features such as local art, native plantings, wind breaks and seating for the public to relax and enjoy the waterfront.

“The project is a major improvement from what it was before,” said Port President Reg Pullen, “and brings more renewal to our developing waterfront, not only by providing orderly circulation for cars and pedestrians but also by being multi-purpose, creating space for people to relax and enjoy the surroundings.”

Port Director Jeff Griffin noted that “the finishing touches of the seating berm with native plants, the positioning of Washed Ashore's Finnian sculpture, and the sturdy planks to support picnic tables, local art, and historic nautical equipment are all close to being finalized in the adjacent space."

The construction timeline for improvements at Face Rock State Scenic Viewpoint indicates they were to begin mobilizing the site April 24, with construction to span roughly a month, with the reopening date of May 24. The state's plan is to keep the beach access stairs onsite open for local foot traffic; however restroom and parking facilities will be unavailable while work is completed," said Nick Schoeppner, manager of Bullards Beach State Park.

The project will enhance visitor experience at Face Rock by repairing and overlaying the existing parking area, adding additional parking, replacing the existing end of service life restrooms with an entirely new facility, adding electrical service to the site and enhancing accessibility by bringing curb cutouts, the restroom, parking spaces and picnic facilities up to current ADA standards.

Saturday, May 3, is the Puffin Welcome Celebration. At 10 a.m. at Coquille Point overlook, SEA will provide scopes and interpretation regarding the seabirds and other animals preparing for the nesting season. At 1 p.m. at the Bandon Library's Sprague Room, SEA has invited Katherine Luscher with Bird Alliance of Oregon to give a seminar on puffins.

The Meet and Greet for last week, Tuesday, April 22, was all about Earth Day, with a presentation from a Master Gardener at noon, plants for sale, vendors and live music at Bandon Fisheries Warehouse.

April 29 will feature the popular new business, Bandon food Tours, hosted by Charis McGaughy and Laureen Robertson. McGaughy is retired from the Coos Bay School District where she served as superintendent.

Bandon School Superintendent Shauna Schmerer will present the May 6 program.

Michael Ray Crow

July 4, 1948 – April 14, 2025

Michael Ray Crow, age 76, of North Bend, passed away on April 14, 2025, after a long, remarkably courageous battle against ALS. He was born in 1948 in Eugene, Oregon to Richard E and Charlene A Deadmond Crow. His Funeral Mass will be held on Wednesday, April 30th at 2:00 p.m. at Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, 2250 16th Street in North Bend.

Michael spent his childhood in Anchorage, Alaska where he helped his family build their home. This impacted his career choice later in life. In high school Mike was an academic scholar. As an All-State football player and All State wrestler, he led his teams to several state titles. In his senior year, Senator Ted Stevens nominated him to West Point. Instead of that career path, Mike had another plan for his life, which was to become an architect.

In 1968, at University of Alaska, Mike met Dawn Dufour. They were married in 1972 and moved to Oregon for Mike to pursue studies at the University of Oregon. After he graduated with a master's in architecture in 1976, he designed their dream home. Together, he and Dawn built their home on the Oregon Coast where they would raise their two children, Briana and Ryan.

Mike fulfilled his dream of starting his own architecture business in Coos Bay and later expanded throughout Oregon and California. Soon after, he formed a partnership with his lifelong friend from Anchorage, Steve Clay. Together, they purchased the old Hub Department Store, a landmark in Coos Bay. Mike and Steve completely renovated the building, and through a prodigious process they also achieved its status in the National Register of Historic Places. With pride, and a sense of accomplishment, they then located their business, Crow/Clay & Associates, AIA, in the penthouse of the Hub.

Mike enhanced the coastal communities and beyond with many architectural and design projects. He was involved in thousands of projects over his career. Some of Mike's favorite and most notable, besides the Hub, include: The Mill Casino, Coos Bay Visitor's Center, and the Benbow Inn in California.

Mike also directed and designed hundreds of architectural undertakings for the Coquille Indian Tribe, as well as for the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians. Throughout Oregon and Northern California, he worked on multiple port projects and with various school districts. In addition to the Hub, Crow/Clay & Associates did many historical restorations. The Timberline Lodge, The Brewer Building, The Chandler Hotel, The Sturdivant Building, and the John Jacob Astor Hotel were among the most significant.

When not designing something, Mike loved riding Harley Davidson motorcycles with Dawn. They traveled to Glacier National Park in Montana, over the Rocky Mountains to St. Louis, Missouri, toured the Grand Canyon, and Utah Parks. Also, Mike and Dawn were committed fans and season ticket holders, attending all home games and traveling outside the state to support Oregon Duck football.

One of life's greatest joys was spending time with family. Mike shared his love of the outdoors with kids and grandkids, exploring the beach, the bay, fishing holes, and the family cabin in Lakeside. He overflowed with love for his family, so it was natural to use his innate design skills to beautify their lives with creative projects done for them, and with them.

Influencing all his accomplishments was a devout faith that he lived out with integrity and kindness. He faithfully served his Holy Redeemer Catholic Church community as Administrative Council President, Mass Lector, and designing the bell tower.

Mike is survived by his wife of 53 years, Dawn; daughter and son-in-law Briana and Paul Song; grandchildren, Ryann and Parker Song; sister and brother-in-law, Susan and Bill Yarbrough; sister-in-law, Kathi Crow; brother-in-law, Daniel Dufour and his wife Candace; and many nieces and nephews.

Mike was preceded in death by his son, Ryan Crow; parents Richard and Charlene Crow; and brother, Richard Crow Jr.

Friends and family are encouraged to sign the online guestbook at www.coosbayareafunerals.com and www.theworldlink.com. Arrangements are under the care of North Bend Chapel, 541-756-0440.

Carlene Minnie Henson, born March 5, 1943, in Alton, IL, passed away in Coos Bay, OR, on April 14, 2025, at 82, due to age and dementia. Growing up on a farm, she loved the outdoors and riding horses. Carlene left school in the ninth grade to support her mother and siblings, working various jobs before marrying James Ira Henson, whom she met at age 19 at a bible study. She offered compassionate care in skilled nursing and group homes, then moved into the accounting office to provide financial management for transitional home residents for over 20 years.

Coos Bay City Council hears presentation on Economic Development Plan

By NATE SCHWARTZ
Editor

At the Coos Bay City Council joint work session on April 22nd, consultants from ECONorthwest gave a presentation for the Coos Bay Economic Opportunities Analysis (EOA) and Economic Development Strategic Plan (EDSP). The economic analysis and public policy research firm was brought on thanks to a $50,000 grant from the Ford Family Foundation.

“An Economic Opportunities Analysis is something that’s mandated by state statute, and so this work will help inform updates to our comprehensive plan. The EDSP is the way that we’ll implement the work of the analysis,” said Alena Schnarr, the City of Coos Bay’s Economic Revitalization Administrator.

“This has been a really fun project. We started late summer/early fall [2024] and we developed a project advisory committee with 12 stakeholders in town, including two of our city councilors. Stephanie Kilmer and Sara Stephens, among other regional partners.”

Through their own meetings, focus groups with relevant industry connections, and circulating public surveys the advisory committee has helped inform what the City can do to help bolster businesses and economic development.

ECONorthwest consultants Scott Goodman and Brittany Bagent were on hand to present their findings, with Beth Goodman chiming in via Zoom.

Economic Opportunity Analysis

The EOA presentation started with an overview of the City’s buildable land inventory. Starting with all vacant land that is zoned and available for development, the analysis rules out sections that are undevelopable, such as FEMA Regulatory Floodplains and areas with high landslide susceptibility. What is left shows that there is very little land left in the zoning areas ready to develop, around 67 acres worth, mostly in commercial and industrial zones. This analysis does not include residential land inventory.

Demographic analysis shows that populations in the area have generally plateaued. Coos Bay is below the county and state averages in multiple areas: income, population of BI-POC residents, and college graduates. Coos Bay is younger than the rest of Coos County, but still older than the state average.

Rents and vacancy rates for office and retail spaces are maintaining near pre-pandemic levels, along with the number of small businesses in the area. The six largest employment sectors of the area’s economy according to a 2022 study are government, health care, retail, waste management and remediation services, food and accommodation service, and transportation and warehousing. The average wage in Coos Bay is $49,653 a year, which is higher than the County average at $47,758.

According to that 2022 data, Coos Bay has lost around 400 jobs since 2007, with the biggest losses in the transportation and warehousing sector, but with gains in the healthcare sector. Beth Goodman gave recommendations for increasing jobs, starting with the much-discussed Port of Coos Bay’s expansion project. ECONorthwest, with data from the Port of Coos Bay, estimates thousands of jobs could come out of the development.

Mayor Benetti shared his concerns for job creation in the area, expressing that commercial development ties hand-in-hand with increasing housing stock.

“Without appropriate housing we can’t fill the jobs. It’s like the chicken and the egg thing here. Without housing for employees it’s a constant problem,” said Benetti. “I know that I hear people all the time that are looking for employees, can’t find employees, and it’s all over.”

Beth Goodman agreed with the Mayor that housing is a huge part of the area’s economic development issues, and recommended re-zoning or increasing the City’s Urban Growth Boundaries.

“Personally, I’m feeling this strikes home pretty heavily. There’s not a lot of growth. We need people to come in and start new businesses, to reinvigorate the spaces that are available currently. There is vacancy, there’s need for improvement in our downtown and in our commercial spaces. I think this is a call to action to our community that we need to do it ourselves,” said Councilor Carmen Matthews, who expressed frustration that so much of the development relies on the Port’s expansion.

Economic Development Strategic Plan

The EDSP attempts to take that data and turn it into actionable plans for the area’s economic growth, as pointed out by Bagent.

“Rather than just dump you all with a list of dozens of programs or best practices to consider, this will be a really targeted list of prioritized things for staff, council, and partners to implement on over the next

5 years,” said Bagent.

This starts with a vision statement as something to inspire and guide action, which as ECONorthwest wrote it is:

“Coos Bay will be a thriving place where people of all ages want to live, work, invest, and visit. Coos Bay will support a variety of well-paying jobs that leverage its geographic assets, community collaboration, and local culture.”

The goals that ECONorthwest put forward for the City to work on over the next 5 years are as follows:

- Strengthen and diversify the local economy
- Align land use and infrastructure with economic priorities
- Develop a skilled and inclusive workforce
- Make Coos Bay a destination to live, work, invest in, and visit
- Foster strategic partnerships and regional collaboration

The trick is developing the policy to support all of these goals holistically. ECONorthwest and the City will use this guideline to make actionable plans to use in the near future. To help contribute to the data and feedback they will use to make those plans, there is a survey available to those who want to participate at:

Beachwalkers wanted for coastal observation and seabird survey team

On May 10th, 2025, the Coastal Observation and Seabird Survey Team (COASST) will deliver a training session in Bandon, OR from 10am to 4pm. COASST participants help make a difference for the environment by collecting data on beach-cast carcasses of marine birds on a monthly basis to establish the baseline pattern of beached bird mortality on North Pacific beaches.

Through an interactive, hands-on workshop, trainees will become acquainted with the custom COASST field guide, Beached Birds, and have a chance to try out their newly acquired identification skills on seabird species common to the North Pacific. The COASST training provides participants with the tools to monitor for potential changes in the marine environment and promote stewardship of local marine resources.

COASST is a citizen science project of the University of Washington in partnership with state, tribal, and federal agencies, environmental organizations, and community groups. COASST believes residents of coastal communities are essential scientific partners in monitoring marine ecosystem health. By collaborating with community members, natural resource management agencies and environmental organizations, COASST works to translate long-term monitoring into effective marine conservation solutions. Currently, nearly 800 participants survey beaches in Washington, Oregon, California, and Alaska.

The training session will be held at The Barn (1200 11th St SW, Bandon, OR 97411). Participants need no prior experience with scientific data collection, just a commitment to survey a specific beach at least once a month. There will be a short break in the middle of the session for lunch, so please bring your own sack lunch, or money to purchase food in the area. A refundable kit deposit is requested to take home survey materials, and deposit scholarships are available.

For more information and to reserve your training spot, call COASST at 206-221-6893 or email coasst@uw.edu. More information on COASST at coasst.org

Join the Coastal Observation and Seabird Survey Team (COASST), and make a difference for the environment!

COASST participants collect monthly data on beached carcasses of marine birds to establish the pattern of bird mortality on North Pacific beaches. Data collected helps address important marine conservation issues. No prior scientific experience is needed!

Beach surveys are best when conducted in groups of 2 or more — so please come with a partner in mind or in tow! The training is free, but we do ask for a $31 refundable survey kit deposit to take the materials home.
