

An aerial photograph of a campsite located on a grassy hill overlooking a large body of water. The campsite features several modern, dark-colored cabins with light-colored roofs, arranged in a row. There are also several RVs parked in designated sites, and a few cars. A dirt road winds through the campsite. In the background, there's a large body of water, likely a bay or estuary, with some industrial structures visible on the far shore under a clear blue sky.
