North Coast Express service kicks off

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Congresswoman Suzanne Bonamici and representatives from Senator Jeff Merkley and Ron Wyden’s offices gathered at the Sunset Transit Center in Beaverton on May 23, for the inaugural departure of the North Coast Express.

A pilot program from the Oregon Coast Visitors’ Association (OCVA), the express will offer two routes to the north coast departing from and returning to the transit center Friday through Sunday, aimed at giving day trippers and weekend visitors a vehicle-free way to access the north coast.

“I’m thrilled that there’s going to be a new and convenient transit option to get to the north coast without a car,” Bonamici said at the ceremony.

OCVA is partnering with ecoShuttle Charters and Tours of Sherwood to operate the routes, with 54-seat buses equipped with WiFi, charging ports and restrooms transporting customers. The two daily express routes will leave Beaverton at 9:15 each morning, with one heading to Tillamook County on Highway 6 and the other to Clatsop County on Highway 26.

The southern route through Tillamook County will first stop at the Tillamook County Creamery, before continuing north on Highway 101 to Astoria, with stops in Rockaway Beach, Cannon Beach and Seaside along the way. It will then turn around and make the same stops on its southbound trip, before returning to Beaverton, arriving at 9:15 p.m.

The northern route will first stop in Astoria before making the south bound trip on 101 to the creamery, with the same stops, and returning to Astoria before its nightly trip back to Beaverton.

Finn Johnson, OCVA’s Destina-

John Gardner, TriMet’s Director of Public Access and Innovation, Congresswoman Suzanne Bonamici, Travel Oregon’s Allie Gardner and Alanna Kieffer, owner of Shifting Tides, in front of the bus preparing to depart on the inaugural service of the express’s northern route.

tion Stewardship Manager, said that the buses on the coast would offer hop-on-hop-off service to passengers, allowing multiple stops in different communities for visitors, but that passengers would need to return to Beaverton on the same bus that transported them to the coast. Additionally, OCVA is partnering with the Tillamook County Transportation District to offer riders access to the district’s route network as part of their fare.

Johnson said that the service, which OCVA has committed to operating this year and next, is aimed at reducing the challenges faced by coastal communities during the busy tourist season, especially traffic congestion and the environmental impacts of personal vehicle use.

“Today we’re very thrilled to announce the launch of the north coast express, a new pilot service that’s going to make traveling to the coast without a car faster, more comfortable and more enjoyable than ever before,” Johnson said at the event.

OCVA’s Executive Director Marcus Hinz said that the shuttles had a combined 40 passengers booked for the second day of operations on May 24. Hinz said that the group was making a concerted advertising push for the service, especially focusing on people living near bus lines that serve the Sunset Transit Center with plans to reach out to area neighborhood associations soon.

At the press conference, after Johnson and Bonamici spoke, representatives from Merkley and Wyden’s offices spoke, as did TriMet’s Director of Public Access and Innovation John Gardner and Travel Oregon’s Allie Gardner.

Tickets for the service cost $34.99 and passengers can bring large items for an additional $10. The buses are ADA compatible, but Johnson asked that passengers with disabilities reach out ahead of time to allow staff to prepare for them.

Close call

TLT increase on track for runoff

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Barring a shift in ballots with missing or unverified signatures, the vote on a measure raising Tillamook County’s transient lodging tax will head to a hand recount before election results are certified on June 16.

Updated results from Tillamook County Clerk Christy Nyseth’s office released on May 29, showed that in the week following election day, ballots received by mail had narrowed the margin between yes and no votes on the measure to just 11, below the threshold of 17 votes that would trigger a recount.

Measure 29-183 seeks to increase Tillamook County’s transient lodging tax (TLT) rate from 10% to 14% and was advanced by county commissioners in response to a budget crunch in the county government.

A concerted campaign was mounted against the proposed measure by members of the lodging industry, who argued that the increase would negatively impact their already-tight bottom lines.

After the first round of vote results were released on May 20, election night, the measure had received 21 more no votes that yes, with more than 7,000 votes counted. By May 22, with more than 9,000 votes counted, the margin had fallen to 20.

Oregon statute requires that a recount be conducted in an election on a ballot measure if the margin between yes and no votes is less than one fifth of one percent of the total votes cast for and against the measure.

With 8,981 votes tallied as of May 29, the threshold for a mandatory recount was 17.9 votes, and 4,496 no votes had been cast, with 4,485 yes.

All ballots with verified signatures have now been tabulated, but those with challenged signatures or lacking signatures altogether can still be verified in-person by their caster until June 10. Nyseth told the Headlight Herald that there are 110 ballots with challenged signatures or unsigned envelopes.

Nyseth said that if that deadline passes and the margin is still below the threshold, her office will conduct an automatic recount prior to the certification date of June 16.

Results held in all other races across the county in the updated election results, including support for a bond for the Tillamook School District and an operating levy for the Neah-Kah-Nie School district.

NCRD welcomes new executive director

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Nehalem’s North County Recreation District greeted a new executive director in early May, with Justin Smith taking over the role from Barbara McCann.

Smith comes to the North County Recreation District (NCRD) from the Sunset Empire Parks and Recreation District in Seaside, bringing a background in aquatics and youth programming to the role, and said that he is excited for the opening of the district’s new pool facility in early July.

“It’s going to be huge,” Smith said, “I just feel like it’s going to bring dollars to this town in particular, dollars to the town of Manzanita and then just a place for the community to play.”

Smith was born and raised in a suburb of Sydney, Australia, and first came to the United States in his early 20s to work seasonally at a YMCA summer camp in Potosi, Missouri. There, Smith met his wife, and after a brief stint in Australia, the pair settled in the Kansas City area, where Smith worked as aquatics director for the local YMCA.

By 2015, yearning for a life closer to the water, Smith applied for the aquatics director position with the Sunset Empire in Seaside and made the move to the Oregon Coast.

During his time in Seaside, Smith rose to become director of programs, the second highest position at the district, and especially focused on expanding youth programs. Smith said that one of his proudest accomplishments in Seaside was the district’s purchase of the old middle school building, which was used to add infant and toddler programs and more than double the size of the organization’s youth offerings. Another point of pride from his time in Seaside was bringing the Seaside Kids youth sports program under the Sunset Empire’s umbrella and taking over coordinating its logistics.

As he worked in Seaside, Smith said that his curiosity had always been piqued by the NCRD, ever since a visit early in his time in Seaside while scouting locations for a surf camp in Oswald West State Park.

“I hear about this old pool in the basement, and back then we came, and we got a tour and everything; I just fell in love with this place,” Smith said. “I was like, oh, this is awesome.”

When the job opened last year, Smith said that he decided to throw his hat in the ring, and after his selection and a pre-planned trip to Australia, his first in a decade, Smith took over as executive director on May 8.

Smith arrives at an exciting time for the district, as its pool facility nears completion, with water going into the pools in the week before Memorial Day and staff training being organized for June. Smith said that he expects a soft opening will precede an official grand opening ceremony sometime in early July and that he plans to spend much of his time in the next year focused on the pool’s operations, including by seeking residents’ input through a survey this summer.

“I’d really like to just get this pool open, find a way to get a survey out there for the summer, maybe three months, see how much feedback we can get, re-shift gears and then focus on that space,” Smith said.

Smith said that beyond determining hours and coordinating programs, he expects that the addition of new parking near the aquatics center may lead to a shift in where people enter the district, which could necessitate a change in reception staffing.

Beyond that, Smith said that he hopes to work with the Neah-Kah-Nie School District to expand NCRD’s after school program for Nehalem Elementary students, potentially by hosting it at the school, and to take advantage of opportunities opened by the new pool to expand NCRD’s water safety training for students.

“I think there’s a way we can change that too and expand it, but it’s just going to come down to what does the school district want to see in that program,” Smith said.

Salmonberry Trail agency prepares for sunset

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

After agreeing to sunset their agency and roll it into the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department in March, members of the Salmonberry Trail Intergovernmental Agency (STIA) preliminarily approved a memorandum of understanding for that move on May 27.

That document will now be reviewed by the governing bodies of the various entities, edited as necessary and approved, while a charter for the committee, an agreement with the Salmonberry Trail Foundation and trail segment operating agreement are being developed.

The discussions come as the agency’s founding

agreement is set to expire at the end of September and the group looks for the best structure to help bring construction of the envisioned 82-mile trail to fruition.

The Salmonberry Trail Intergovernmental Agency (STIA) was founded in 2015 consisting of representatives from various stakeholders involved in the trail, including Tillamook and Washington Counties, the Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF), the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) and the Port of Tillamook Bay. STIA was created primarily to serve as a lease holder with the Port of Tillamook Bay, the owner of the rail line that fell into disuse after a 2007 storm, and its founding documents set up a ten-year timeframe for its existence.

Last fall, members of the agency began discussions on how to move forward once the agreement forming the agency expires at the end of September 2025. They agreed that transferring the lease to OPRD and forming a committee at the department to handle the trail’s governance while funding a staff position at the department would be the best path forward, and tasked Mike Cafferata, an ODF staffer temporarily assigned to the project, with fleshing out details of such a move.

In March, Cafferata proposed that the lease for the railway be transferred to OPRD and that the members of STIA plus the Salmonberry Trail Foundation form an advisory committee at the department to govern the trail.

In this formulation, the counties and ODF would serve as sponsors, performing the initial review of proposed segments in their bounds before partnering with cities or other entities proposing segments to present proposals to OPRD for final approval. Cafferata said that the counties and ODF would need to cosign agreements between OPRD and trail builders for segment leases and that OPRD would contribute experience and expertise. Each member of the committee will contribute funds to help pay for an OPRD staffer’s time spent in support of the trail.

At the May meeting, Cafferata presented the draft memorandum of understanding based on the March discussions. The memorandum included an introduction explaining the document’s purpose and agreements to formalize the various entities roles on the sponsor committee. Cafferata said that the memorandum incorporated the current planning and visioning documents that had been developed for the trail, to speed the process up.

In the memorandum, Tillamook County assumes responsibility for leading development of the coastal section between the city of Tillamook and the unincorporated community of Mohler, with ODF taking the lead on the canyons and rivers section and Washington County assuming responsibility on its side of the trail.

Leadership responsibilities will include developing maintenance plans for sections and providing discretionary funds to different projects.

The Salmonberry Trail Foundation would take the lead on promoting public-private partnerships in support of the trail, while the Port of Tillamook Bay would be ex-officio members, offering input on questions relating to the rail lease.

In addition to delineating these roles, the memorandum also included liability and indemnification sections borrowed from another trail, which are currently under review by the Oregon Department of Justice.

Cafferata asked that the member agencies review the document and submit any desired changes by June 6, at which point he will update the document and send an updated version to the member agencies for approval. Once the document is approved, STIA will send a letter to Oregon’s Surface Transportation Board, requesting that the railbanking agreement currently managed by STIA be transferred to OPRD.

Approval of that request will allow STIA to work with the Port of Tillamook Bay to transfer the lease from STIA to OPRD, finalizing the move and allowing STIA to officially sunset. The STIA board voted to extend STIA’s founding agreement through the end of 2026, in case the approval processes last beyond September.

While the committee members work on reviewing and approving the memorandum, Cafferata said that he would continue working on several other documents that will be needed to facilitate the changeover. These will include a charter for the sponsorship committee, an agreement with STF to facilitate their activities on the rails and a standard trail segment operating agreement for the groups that build the trail.

Tillamook Coast Partners with Leave No Trace

Launches Seven Principles for Responsible Travel

The Tillamook Coast Visitors Association (TCVA) is proud to announce a new partnership with the national nonprofit Leave No Trace, unveiling the Tillamook Coast Seven Principles—a local adaptation of Leave No Trace’s proven framework for responsible recreation.

This collaboration is a first-of-its-kind effort on the Oregon Coast to develop a tailored, place-based Leave No Trace ethic, reflecting the region’s distinct ecosystems, communities, and challenges. The principles are designed to educate and inspire both visitors and residents to care for the coast while enjoying all it has to offer.

“Visitors come here for the beauty, the wildlife, the waves, and the small-town charm,” said Nan Devlin, executive director of TCVA. “But with increasing popularity comes increasing pressure on our natural and human resources. These Seven Principles provide an easy, memorable way for everyone to help protect what makes the Tillamook Coast special.”

The Tillamook Coast Seven Principles:

1. Know Before You Go: Plan ahead, avoid peak times, pack essentials and put safety first.

2. Stick to Trails and Camp Overnight Right: Protect sensitive ecosystems by staying on designated paths and campsites.

3. Trash Your Trash and Pick Up Dog Poop: Litter and pet waste threaten both wildlife and water quality—pack it out.

4. Leave It As You Find It: Preserve tidepools, artifacts, driftwood and native plants for future generations.

5. Be Careful with Fire: Know local fire rules, keep beach fires small and safe and never bury coals in sand.

6. Keep Wildlife Wild: Observe animals from a distance and never feed them; leash pets to protect both wildlife and your furry friends.

7. Be Kind to Locals and Other Visitors: Respect private property, support small businesses, share space and help maintain the welcoming spirit of the coast.

The principles are the result of collaboration between TCVA, Leave No Trace, public land agencies, nonprofits, and local residents, ensuring that the guidelines reflect both ecological science and community values.

Leave No Trace Executive Director Dana Watts praised the initiative, “This partnership demonstrates leadership in sustainable tourism. Tillamook Coast is showing how local destinations can take ownership of their conservation message.”

The Tillamook Coast

Seven Principles will be shared through signage, social media, brochures, visitor guides, and educational programs throughout the county. TCVA also plans to work with local businesses to display the principles in storefronts, vacation rentals and hospitality venues.

TRACT Trail grand opening at Kilchis River Campground announced

For over a decade, the Kids in Parks program has connected kids and families to public lands nationwide through their principal initiative, TRACK Trails. Each TRACK Trail location is family-friendly and features a series of self-guided activities to turn visits into fun and exciting outdoor experiences. Best of all, participants can earn free prizes in the mail for tracking adventures at kidsinparks.com!

On June 5, 2025, Kids in

Parks and Tillamook County Parks will celebrate the grand opening of a new TRACK Trail at Kilchis River County Campground

The Kilchis River Trail is located at Kilchis River County Campground, 10500 Kilchis River Road, Tillamook Oregon has partnered with Kids in Parks, a program having over 200 TRACK Trails across 15 states, Washington, D.C., and the Qualla Boundary, comprising a national network of trails. Kids and families can hike, bike, canoe, play disc golf, and more, all while learning about the natural, cultural, or historical resources located at each site. Kids in Parks also operates a complementary parks prescription initiative, TRACK Rx, presently working with over 600 pediatric partners.

Kids in Parks began on the Blue Ridge Parkway, developed by the Blue Ridge Parkway Foundation in partnership with the National Park Service and the Blue Cross Blue Shield of North Carolina Foundation. As the program demonstrated easy implementation and effectiveness in getting children outdoors, Kids in Parks has rapidly expanded to other parks and public lands across the country.

“The network of TRACK Trails we have formed in parks and other outdoor agencies gives kids and families more options to get outdoors. To get ‘unplugged’ and get connected to the resources and special places that make this region so wonderful,” says Jason Urroz, director of Kids in Parks.

The grand opening celebration of the Kilchis River County Campground TRACK Trail will be on Thursday, June 5, 2025, from 11a.m. – 12 p.m. This ribbon cutting ceremony will be held at the Kilchis River Trailhead located near the restrooms at the northeast corner of the campground. The event will include snacks, brief presentations by guest speakers, ribbon cutting and a guided hike. Guests and participants are asked to park in the day use area number two located in the central portion of the campground between campsites #34 and #33.

June is Men’s Health Month

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Make Hangar B a state park

Oregon’s landscape is rich with natural beauty, but its heritage also rests in extraordinary human achievements—none more awe-inspiring than Tillamook’s Blimp Hangar B. Towering like a cathedral of timber on the Oregon coast, this historic structure is not merely a relic of the past, but a monument to American ingenuity, wartime resilience, and postwar community spirit. Yet today, it stands vulnerable. The time has come not only to save hangar B but to enshrine it within a new Oregon State Park—preserving its legacy while opening new doors to education, tourism, and local revitalization.

Constructed in 1942 as part of the U.S. Navy’s coastal defense program during World War II, Hangar B is one of the largest wooden structures in the world. At over 1,000 feet long and 200 feet tall, its soaring parabolic arches represent a marvel of wartime engineering—built entirely of wood to preserve scarce metals for combat. The hangar once housed K-class blimps used for anti-submarine patrols, forming a vital part of America’s Pacific defense strategy. In peacetime, the structure became a museum and community landmark, but decades of exposure have taken their toll. Without intervention, this irreplaceable piece of history faces decay—or worse, demolition.

Converting Hangar B and its surrounding land into an Oregon State Park is a visionary yet practical solution. Such a designation would provide the legal and financial framework needed to restore and maintain the site, while honoring its historic significance. It would join the ranks of other preserved military landmarks such as Fort Stevens and the Tillamook Air Museum, weaving Hangar B into Oregon’s broader historical narrative. And it would offer something unique: a space where architecture, aviation, military history, and environmental education converge under one awe-inspiring roof.

A state park designation would also invigorate the regional economy. Tillamook already draws visitors for its cheese, beaches, and scenic drives. Adding a restored Hangar B as a cultural and educational anchor could significantly boost tourism, attracting aviation buffs, history enthusiasts, school groups, and eco-tourists alike.

Time is wasting, let’s act now and save Hangar B.

GARDENING MATTERS

A visit to Chelsea

Since I discovered three years ago that BritBox streams the Chelsea Flower Show in London, I always set aside time in the third week in May to watch as many episodes as I can. I don’t try to livestream it because that would entail keeping track of Greenwich Mean Time. But that’s okay as the presenters and the experts are even more fun to stream at my convenience.

Chelsea is considered the best flower show in the world, and I saw why when Gary took me to visit the show about 12 years ago. I was amazed at the creative style of the garden designers in all sizes of gardens from houseplants to balconies to small gardens to large display gardens. And the garden designers have only gotten more and more creative since we were there. The BBC TV presenters give in-depth views and reviews of the gardens as well as behind-the-scenes development of those display gardens. Many of the designers have been entering for years in hopes of getting one of the prestigious gold or silver-gilt awards.

Many of the growers of specialty plants in the UK put on elaborate displays of their wares in the Great Pavillion. Orchids, day lilies, South African plants, alpines, alliums and poppies were all featured and in bloom. It can’t be easy getting the daffodils to bloom late and the amaryllis to bloom early so that they have the best presentations. But the growers are adept at doing just that.

GARDENING MATTERS

There are always new versions of plants, too, and I was intrigued by the David Austin Rose of the Year, ‘King Charles.’ It is a very pretty rose with a low petal count – ideal for our coastal summers. But the color is red-and-white striped! I look forward to this rose being available in the US in a couple of years.

Another fun new plant is a groundcover hydrangea called ‘Groundbreaker Blush.’ At a mature height of 12 inches and a spread of 24 inches, I can see this hydrangea becoming popular when it comes to the US. It starts blooming in July with white blossoms that become a rosy pink by November. Fully hardy, it likes moist but well-drained soil like most hydrangeas.

I always have a take-away with each episode, and on the first day, May 20th, they were showing how to create multiple “rooms” in a garden and how to draw the eye into the plantings. The presenters and experts also discussed the option of using very large plants in very small gardens for the most impact. The take-away was: Don’t be afraid to use big-leaved plants for dramatic effect. Just because the garden is small doesn’t mean the plants have to be. There is always the option of going up with trellises and climbing plants, too.

Having a very small garden, I paid rapt attention to the tips of the trade. Using only a few plants that are repeated throughout the garden helps draw your eye into the areas of those garden rooms. And using a color palette of pastels throughout the garden creates a sense of calm. Using a bright color palette of reds, oranges, and yellows makes the garden come alive with excitement. But there were fun gardens on display that incorporated all sorts of colors, too, from pastels to brights and everything in between.

Chelsea is not all about the plants, though. Designers came up with very creative ideas for pergolas, gazebos made of glass, and ways to deal with water runoff. The hardscapes were – in some cases – as interesting as the plants. Take the Hospice Garden with its wide paths that would accommodate those in wheelchairs or two people walking side-by-side. Its light gray color would not take interest away from a calming selection of plants.

As I walked the paths of my own garden after watching the show, I realized that I have used many of those tips already. It’s kind of nice to know I am doing something right even without a formal plan.

(If you don’t have BritBox streaming service, you can still get the feel of Chelsea along with a lot of information about the plants, designers and growers at <https://www.rhs.org.uk/shows-events/rhs-chelsea-flower-show>. It’s worth the visit.)

FENCEPOSTS

We recently ran into our neighbors the Klobases as they were leaving Tora Sushi after a nice lunch. I got a chance to ask Randy about a scuba-diving trip he took to Indonesia this spring. He spent two weeks diving in beautiful tropical waters under alternating sunny and rainy skies. Some of the highlights of his diving vacation were swimming with a pod of dolphins and a smack of jellyfish (yes, the name for a group of jellyfish is “smack”) and having a huge manta ray pass right next to him. Certainly, that’s a change from the sea life around here. Randy must have still been exuding friend-of-the-sea-creatures’ pheromones when he returned, however, because he attracted (and landed) an 11-pound spring Chinook on his first outing in Tillamook Bay this springer season. Kudos to Randy. Twenty-six attendees at the “Writers Read” event, May 23 at the Barbara Bennett Community Center, enjoyed a delightful evening. Eleven individuals who had been studying the art of writing under local author Butch Freeman for the last eight months did public readings of their work. Ranging from autobiographical to fictional, humorous to dark, outdoor adventures to indoor temperature control, the readings covered the gamut. It was apparent that the authors had worked hard to add details and polish their writings, and the results were excellent. They had even practiced speaking clearly and projecting well, helpful to those of us who are hard of hearing. What a lovely way to spend a spring evening; thanks so much to all who shared their essays. And hats off to whoever provided the refreshments as well; having cookies qualified it as a free date for the Steen household. I have heard from several Cape Meares residents about an outstanding event they attended last month at the Nestucca K-8 Valley School in Cloverdale. The Sitka Center sponsored a “Spring Keynote” gathering, free to the public. The evening kicked off with a stunning performance by the award-winning mariachi band from Forest Grove High School.

The key speaker, U.S. Poet Laureate Ada Limón, then took the stage. Limón, in her last performance after three years as U.S. Poet Laureate, read several of her poems, including one that is dedicated to NASA’s Clipper Europa mission and is engraved on the spacecraft on its way to Jupiter. Limón’s delivery was heartwarming and uplifting. Both performances, Limón’s and the band’s, received standing ovations from the large crowd. The seven individuals who attended from Cape Meares were so glad to have been in the audience. Tuesday, May 27, was the lowest tide of the year, at minus 2.2 feet (May 28 matched that). Several neighbors took the opportunity to explore the caves in the cape. Capt. Pete took our granddaughter Emma and her geologist friend, Heather, through the second-to-last cave in the cape, emerging to the south side on a rocky beach. Safety first: The trio all wore hard hats and timed their trip through the cave carefully, going 15 minutes before low tide and leaving after 15 minutes on the other side. What did they see over there? Starfish of all colors, rock crabs and sea anemones, plus agates and jasper in the rock bed. What an adventure.

Congratulations to Nestucca’s Class of 2025! The ceremony is slated for 7 p.m. this Friday night, June 6 at Nestucca High School. The address is 34660 Parkway Drive in Cloverdale. This is the last full week of school for students. They’ll be out for the summer at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, June 11. Don’t forget that Nesko Women’s Club is inviting “everyone” to help celebrate what would have been the late Barbara “Barb” Taylor’s 90th birthday also this Friday, June 6. Barbara was a longtime resident, businesswoman, and community servant who lived in Pacific City. Participants will gather on the beach at 5:30 p.m. In remembrance, we’re invited to bring a fresh flower stem to send out with the tide. Kiawanda Community Center serves Senior lunches at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesdays (June 3) and Wednesdays (June 4) for $3 (others may partake for $6). The address is 34600 Cape Kiawanda Drive in Pacific City. South Tillamook County Library’s story time happens at 3:30 p.m. on second and fourth Wednesdays, (June 11 and 25). All ages are welcome. These events promise “reading and singing and moving about.” Did you know that coloring can increase focus, relieve stress, and boost creativity? South Tillamook County Library will host an Adult Coloring Hour from 5-6 p.m. on the third Wednesday monthly (June 18); it’s open to anyone age 19 and up. The library is located off Brooten Road on Camp Street in Pacific City.

Hebo Fire Hall will host a game night (dice, board and card games) from 6-8 p.m. on the second Sunday, monthly (June 8). Everyone (of any age) is invited to meet new friends, reunite with old friends and build community while having a good time. The Fire Hall is located just north of the intersection of U.S. Highway 101 and State Route 22. It shares a parking lot with Nestucca Early Learning Center (formerly Cedar Creek Childcare). Meg’s Beachwood Bar and Grill will host a “Sexual Health Trivia Night” from 7-9 p.m. on Friday, June 13. “Tease your brain, win prizes and enjoy free appetizers (while supplies last)” at this fun event which is presented by Tillamook Community Health Centers. Beachwood Bar is located just west of the flashing stop light in Pacific City. For more information, call 503-842-3940. Let’s remember that Tillamook Serinity Club’s 11th Annual “Don’t Get High Tea.” It will include savory and sweet treats with specialty teas and will include a Silent Auction. It’s planned for 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 22 at Pacific Restaurant. The address is 205 Main Avenue in Tillamook. Admission is $40. Neskowin will have a fireworks show at 10 p.m.

on Friday, July 4. Viewers should gather in front of Proposal Rock. The event is entirely community funded. A tax-deductible donation can be made online. Go to NeskowinFireworks.com. Happy birthday this week to: Aleesha Baumgartner, Bill Chance, Monica Dorning, Violet Hale, Averie Hancock, Jessica Haslam, Maverick Josi, Cindy McKillip, Hadlee McKillip, Todd Peterson, Katarina Scott, Blake Slavens, Jill Slavens, Mike Streeter, Josh Thun, Addison Trent, Tami Whiteman, Mandy Wickham, Houston Woods, Nikolas Zeller and Tyler Zeller.

With Memorial Day behind us, the summer season is officially open. Here are a few of the signs for our little spot on the coast. The Oregon Coast Scenic Railroad is back in action, seven days a week. The first train arrives in Rockaway at 10:30, with an 11 a.m. departure time. The next arrival is at 12:30, with a 1 p.m. departure to Garibaldi. And beginning last weekend on May 31, the OCSR adds a third train on weekends, with a 3 p.m. departure time from Rockaway. Residents are no doubt familiar with the meaning of the whistles: one long blast means the train departs in five minutes, and three short blasts are the equivalent of the flashing “Don’t Walk” light at crosswalks: better hurry up.

With the train come hundreds of travelers, some arriving from Garibaldi, some waiting to board at Rockaway. One question many people ask involves scheduling a later return trip. The railroad is happy to do this, as are the businesses in Rockaway and Garibaldi. On weekends, the latest Rockaway departure is at 3 p.m., which corresponds to a Garibaldi return at 4 p.m.

Garibaldi, but we’ve learned that OCSR is developing a plan to install a lift at Rockaway. With our ADA ramp at the Wayside and of course David’s Chair at St Mary by the Sea, this will be much appreciated. Visitors have many questions about the railroad aside from schedule and cost. One common question involves taking the scenic railroad up the coast to Seattle. Sadly, that’s not in the cards for the OCSR, as the rails make an easterly turn just past Wheeler, with Banks the northern terminus. This reflects the heritage of the rail line, still owned by the Port of Tillamook Bay. Travelers looking for a train excursion to Seaside, take heart: the Amtrak Cascades line runs from Portland’s Union Station to Seattle’s King Street station. The full range of the Amtrak Cascades line is from Eugene to Vancouver, BC. For more information, browse to <http://amtrakoregon.com/schedule>. One fascinating piece of our coastal rail history: the original purpose of the Port of Tillamook line was to support the timber industry. Timber logged in the coast Range was transported by rail to the lumber mill in Garibaldi, of which the smokestack is the last remaining landmark. For a time, one of the main markets for our Coast Range timber was for use as railroad ties. Trees would be sawed to size in Garibaldi, then the lumber loaded back onto trains to Wheeler. If you’ve seen the dozens of wooden pilings in Nehalem Bay just opposite Wheeler, those are all that remain of a broad dock used to transfer lumber from the train to ships. One of the Caboos recently told me that for a period of several years, those railroad ties were shipped across the Pacific, where they were used to lay track for the Orient Express. If you’re a fan of Agatha Christie’s Hercule Poirot and his “little grey cells,” this is a wonderful bit of historic romance. The absence of daily trains was the primary cause for disappointment from folks who were staying in Rockaway Beach during our shoulder season, so its return is already making visitors happy. The second-greatest cause for disappointment, both in person and online, was the wintertime reduction in hours of the Pronto Pup, 602 US 101. Fans of this perennial state-fair classic (and there are many) will be delighted to learn that the Original Pronto Pup will be open this summer seven days a week, Monday — Saturday from 10 a.m. — 5 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. — 4 p.m.

BAY CITY
hrhpenny57@hotmail.com

There is a pet friendly garden, children’s garden and a host of incredible plants. Well worth the trip. The campground and restrooms at Al Griffin Memorial Park are now open. There are four RV spots with full hookups, eight tent sites and three hiker/biker sites (no vehicles). Bay City Public works has done a fantastic job of getting everything spruced up and looking great to welcome in campers. Special thanks to Mike at public works for always going the extra mile and putting in so much thought and effort into this venue. There will be five different artists featured in June’s artists of the month at the Bay City Arts Center, with the opening reception scheduled for Friday, June 6 from 5-7 p.m. Featured artists will include Avis Arthur, whose daughter Allison Arthur is sharing her mother’s caricature work in the upstairs gallery. Avis resided in Bay City in the 1950’s and 60’s and drew a series of illustrations called “Bay City Waitress”. In the main gallery featured artists are the Cloistered Crones comprising Robin Clear, Cheryl St. Pierre, Chris Williams and Christine Eagon. Each of these artists has a unique style and pieces on display will feature many different mediums and subjects. All these works will make for a fabulous show. There are several openings on committees within the city. The budget committee and the planning commission are both seeking and encouraging new members. The planning commission meetings are held the third Wednesday of the month at 5:30 in the council chambers. While these are volunteer positions, becoming a part of these groups gives residents an opportunity to not only serve and be involved in their community but also to aid in steering decisions made by the city that affect us all. Anyone interested can contact city hall, either in person, or by calling 503-377-2288 or the city’s website ci.bay-city.or.us Their website contains more information on these committees, and anyone interested is encouraged to attend the meetings. As Bay City grows, direction and input from community residents is vital and serving our town is a rewarding experience.

Jewell Maxeline Miller

writings including her novel “The Pear Orchard House”. After leaving Oceanside, Jewell and Urban moved to a small farm in Hebo before moving to Keizer to be closer to family.

Jewell lived a full and adventurous life only slowing to care for others, then fitting her backpack for another day of beach combing or securing her hair in a scarf and creating more art. Jewell’s active lifestyle began to slow and eventually she moved into Assisted Living in Keizer where she would live her last years. Jewell passed peacefully surrounded by family. She lived for her family, en-folding us all in warmth and humor. She is preceded in death by her daughter Karen Taylor and son Micheal

Miller and survived by her children, George Miller of Tillamook and Toni Bateman and husband

Randy of Silverdale, Wa. She leaves a legacy to nine grandchildren, seventeen great- grandchildren and was loved by countless family members and friends around the world.

A memorial service was held on May 31, 2025 in the Keizer Event Center, 930 Chemawa Road NE, Keizer, Oregon 97303. In lieu of flowers, please love yourself, your family and friends everyday just as she did.

ris, when his sister brought some girlfriends home prior to going to a ballgame. They were married two years later and spent the next 60 years together.

Lynda enjoyed working on craft projects, playing cards and board games, camping, and gardening. She received compliments every year on her beautiful flowers. Lynda had a great sense of humor and loved to tease. She had a beautiful smile that could light up a room.

Lynda was preceded in death by her brother Gary Aronson. She is survived by her husband Chester Morris Worthington, son Aaron Worthington, daughter Lisa Symons (Stuart), and three grandchildren Renee West (Tim), Ryan Symons, and Blake Worthington.

Cheryl Marie Lytsell Knotts

Oct. 2, 1949 - Jan. 24, 2025

family in the Valley.

After her children were grown, her husband’s employment gave them the opportunity to travel to China, Mexico, London, and Australia. Eventually she returned to the Coast (Bay City), where she retired. She enjoyed various hobbies and crafts activities throughout her life such as sewing, watercolor painting, collecting seashells, cooking, and most of all, she loved gardening. Each year, she was ecstatic about planting colorful, fresh flowers and watching them bloom as much as she could.

Cheryl loved her family tremendously and was a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, and aunt. All will deeply miss her loving heart, contagious laugh, and playful sense of humor.

Cheryl was an active member of her church in Tillamook for over 10 years. She enjoyed God’s word through her congregation, and she loved teaching children’s bible study and book club. Serving the Lord was especially important to her.

A celebration of life memorial service will be held at 11am on Saturday, June 7th, 2025, at Life Change Christian Fellowship (LCCF) Church located at 3500 Alder Lane, Tillamook, Oregon, 97141. All loved ones, friends, and family are welcome to attend and celebrate Cheryl’s life. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to Life Change Church at the address noted previously. Condolences can be sent to www.waudsfuneralhome.com/obituaries/obituary-listings. The family would like to thank Waud’s Funeral Home for their excellent care and dedication.

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN ACTIVITIES AND SOURCES OF FINANCING **

For the fiscal year 2025-2026, the Education Service District (ESD) has observed minimal changes in its activities and sources of financing, with the exception of the end to ESSER (Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief) funding. The overall approved budget for 2025-2026 is $268,191,574, a slight decrease from the adopted budget of $275,705,296 for the previous year, 2024-2025.

State and federal funding for early learning programs and Regional Inclusive Services has not met levels anticipated during development of the 2025-2026 budget, which is likely to result in further contraction of these crucial services. The ESD has prioritized maintaining current early learning activities, and planned growth and development initiatives have been deferred. Efforts are ongoing to seek adequate funding to support all services our students need.

The slight decrease in the overall budget reflects the adjustments made due to the end of ESSER funding and the reduced state funding for early learning programs. Despite these challenges, many of the ESD's other programs remain stably funded, and the agency remains committed to providing high-quality educational services and support to its districts and communities, ensuring all students have access to the resources they need to succeed.

Sammy’s Place seeks contractor for Thompson Springs

Sammy’s Place is a non-profit organization serving Oregon’s rural, coastal Clatsop, Tillamook, and Lincoln Counties. Based in Nehalem, OR we envision a welcoming coastal region where everybody has what they need to fully participate and thrive in their community of choice. Our lived experience shows that, while disability is a natural part of life, the Oregon Coast is not yet universally accessible. This means that not everyone can fully participate and thrive in our coastal communities. This is especially the case for people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. This drives us to create new opportunities within the coastal region so everyone can fully participate and thrive in their community of choice. We are currently doing this through our work at Thompson Springs where we are advancing affordable, accessible, homeownership modeling the principles of Universal Design.

Sammy’s Place is seeking a general contractor to join the development team and construct a 10-unit homeownership community called Thompson Springs in Nehalem, Oregon.

State Police announce fatal crash on Hwy 26

On Saturday, May 24, 2025, at 6:07 p.m., Oregon State Police responded to a two-vehicle crash on Highway 26, near milepost 31, in Tillamook County.

The preliminary investigation indicated westbound Toyota Rav4, operated by Fred Camino (64) of Seattle (WA), crossed the centerline for unknown reasons and stuck an eastbound Nissan Sentra, operated by Bassam Jabra Moussan (62) of Austin (TX), head-on.

The operator of the Toyota (Camino) and passenger, Ann Martinez (60) of Seattle (WA), suffered serious injuries and were transported to an area hospital.

The operator of the Nissan, Bassam Jabra Moussan, and passengers, Matthew James Moussan (34) of Vancouver (WA) and Whitne Daniel Moussan (30) of Davis (CA), all suffered serious injuries and were transported to an area hospital.

A passenger in Nissan, Michelle Marie Moussan (59) of Vancouver (WA), was declared deceased at the scene.

The highway was impacted for approximately five hours during the on-scene investigation. The cause of the crash is under investigation.

OSP was assisted by Banks Fire, Elsie Fire, Hillsboro Fire, Washington County Sheriff’s Office, and ODOT.

Nehalem Bay Health Center & Pharmacy launches Pathways to Equity Program

Nehalem Bay Health Center & Pharmacy (NBHCP) has launched the Pathways to Equity program, a new initiative aimed at expanding access to healthcare careers for students throughout Tillamook County. With a focus on equity and opportunity, the program is designed to support aspiring healthcare professionals by reducing barriers and creating a pipeline of local talent to serve the region’s growing healthcare needs.

Funded by the Future Ready Oregon workforce development grant from the State of Oregon’s Higher Education Coordinating Commission, Pathways to Equity provides scholarships, mentorship, and career exploration opportunities to students pursuing degrees or certifications in healthcare. The program’s long-term goal is to invest in the next generation of healthcare workers who will return to serve their coastal communities.

“At Nehalem Bay Health Center & Pharmacy, our mission is to improve the health and well-being of our community, and this program reflects that commitment,” said Gail Nelson, CEO of NBHCP. “By investing in local healthcare career development, we’re creating a foundation for long-term, community-based care across Tillamook County.”

This spring, six students from Neah-Kah-Nie High School were selected as the first recipients of the Pathways to Equity scholarship. All are 2025 graduates planning to pursue healthcare programs at Oregon colleges. Each has been awarded up to $15,000 to support their education, covering tuition, fees, and related training costs.

2025 Scholarship Recipients

- Payton White – Lane Community College, Dental Hygiene
- Kayla Erickson – Lane Community College, Nursing
- Madison Scott – Chemeketa Community College, Dental Hygiene
- Elizabeth Reyes Avalos – Tillamook Bay Community College, Nursing and Phlebotomy Certification
- Lilly Denning – Tillamook Bay Community College, Nursing
- Cleo Carla Friginal – Portland Community College, Nursing

“I would like to start off by saying thank you so much for this scholarship,” said recipient Payton White. “This means so much to me and will be such a big help with my future education and career in pursuing dental hygiene. I’m excited to return and give back to my local community, which has given so much to me.”

“For students pursuing healthcare careers, scholarships like these offer more than financial support — they provide access to opportunities that may not have otherwise been possible,” said Christy Hartford, Principal of Neah-Kah-Nie High School. “NBHCP’s generosity removes barriers for students in rural areas, helping to cover the rising cost of tuition and clinical training.”

Esther Troyer, Guidance Counselor, added: “From the school-based health center to job shadows and now scholarships, our partnership with NBHCP has been a game-changer. These students are taking the next step toward their dreams.”

The Pathways to Equity program reflects NBHCP’s commitment to building a stronger, healthier community by supporting local students in becoming tomorrow’s care providers.

Nehalem Bay Health Center & Pharmacy (NBHCP) is a nonprofit, federally qualified health center located in Wheeler, Oregon. NBHCP provides compassionate, team-based care that includes primary care, behavioral health, pharmacy, and wellness programs. With a focus on access, equity, and community well-being, NBHCP is committed to improving health outcomes for individuals and families across Tillamook County.

New law secures recreational access on public and private lands in Oregon

Governor Tina Kotek signed S.B. 179, ensuring long-term public access to recreational opportunities on public and private lands in Oregon. The new law closes a critical loophole in the Oregon Public Use of Lands Act, which protects landowners who open their land free of charge for public use.

S.B. 179 enhances the recreational immunity provisions by including “walking, biking, and running” to the list of recreational activities, and removing the sunset provisions from the 2024 legislative session bill. Back in 2023, the City of Newport vs. Fields’ decision undermined the protections in the Public Use of Lands Act and had sweeping impacts on recreation, forcing many municipalities, nonprofits, land trusts and recreation groups who open land for recreation to consider closing trails due to the threat of litigation and liability.

During the 2024 legislative session, COLT worked with a coalition of recreation advocates to pass S.B. 179, which amended the Public Use of Lands Act to provide temporary protections that ended in January of 2026. S.B. 179 from the 2025 legislative session removes the sunset and makes the new protections for recreational use on public and private lands permanent.

The passage of S.B. 179 means that Oregonians can continue to have access to trails across the state — including the more than 90 land trust properties open for public use.

“All Oregonians deserve the opportunity to get outside and access our recreational areas,” said Senator Floyd Prozanski (D- Eugene), “I am proud to have worked with our coalition of supporters to reach a more permanent solution in S.B. 179 that will keep trails open for Oregonians and tourists that visit our beautiful state.”

“From hiking to bird-watching, Oregon’s land trusts provide so many opportunities for Oregonians to get out and enjoy special natural places,” said Joe Buttafuoco, Executive Director of the Coalition of Oregon Land Trusts, “COLT and our members applaud the work of the Oregon

Free Fishing Weekend June 7-8

On Free Fishing Weekends, you don’t need a license to fish, crab or clam anywhere in Oregon. That’s no license, no combined angling tag, no endorsement needed (so no Columbia River Basin Endorsement, Rogue-South Coast Steelhead Validations or Two-Rod Validations are required).

Each year ODFW and its partners sponsor several free fishing events throughout the state. To find an event near you, and to check out other family fishing events throughout the spring and fall, visit our Take the family fishing page. This page also features everything you need to know to plan your own Free Fishing day adventures.

Remaining free weekends in 2025 are June 7-8 and Nov. 28-29 (Thanksgiving Weekend).
