Tillamook Chamber awards businesses, citizens, projects in Community Awards Banquet

Hilary Dorsey
headlightreporter@countrymedia.net

The Tillamook Area Chamber of Commerce held their 78th Annual Community Awards Banquet and fundraiser Saturday, Jan. 18, at the Tillamook County Fairgrounds. The theme this year was “A Night in the Swiss Alps.” Every year in January, hundreds of community members come together to celebrate the businesses, people and projects that enhance the livability of Tillamook. The community makes the nominations. A committee is then put together, comprised of past winners and Mayor Suzanne Weber, who then review the nominations and make their selection.

According to Justin Aufdermauer, president and CEO of the Tillamook Chamber, they had a record attendance this year of about 375 people and raised over $42,000.

Award winners

After a dinner composed of different entrée items such as chicken, salmon, pasta and more, a live auction took place. After the auction, the award winners were announced.

The Business of the Year award was given to Zwald Transport, Inc. The company provides reasonable wages and started the truck driving program at Tillamook Bay Community College.

Siblings Nick Zwald and Heather Taksdal used to play office when they were kids.

“It’s pretty cool that we’re living our dreams right now,” Taksdal said. “I want to thank our grandparents for their farm roots in the dairy industry.”

Taksdal also thanked her dad for having the determination to start the trucking company in 1979. Taksdal thanked customers for partnering with them and expressed gratitude to employees. Small Business of the Year award was given to Salty Raven after a huge applause and cheering by those in attendance. Salty Raven promotes the downtown area and local art.

“I feel really blessed that we’ve formed a home here and just everything that you guys have given back to me,” said Seasons, co-owner and artist behind the majority of the designs of Salty Raven. “I feel every effort was supported.”

Seasons thanked everyone who bought her book “Flock

Manzanita man rescued from heavy surf at Netarts Bay

Tillamook County Communications District 911 received a call from a boater in distress in Netarts Bay at 1 p.m. Monday, Jan. 20. The lone occupant, a 72-year-old male from Manzanita, was pulling crab pots while not under power in an 18-foot Alumaweld Stryker in rough waters when he was washed up and became grounded on the sandbar and was taking on water.

According to the Tillamook County Sheriff’s Office, before rescuers could get to the vessel, it capsized, throwing the boater into the water, who was wearing a personal floatation device.

The Sheriff’s Office, along with Netarts Oceanside Fire Rescue and the US Coast Guard, responded and launched rescue craft. Netarts Oceanside Fire had four individuals on two jet skis. They were the first on scene and had lost sight of the boater initially but were able to locate and remove the boater from the water to shore. Division Chief James McCamman said waves were 10-12 feet high.

McCamman said he presumes the man was dealing with hypothermia as he was in the water for half an hour but was conscious and alert at the time of rescue. The man was pulled from the water at 1:45 p.m.

The man was transferred to ambulance and transported to Tillamook Regional Medical Center for treatment of minor environmental related injuries.

The vessel remains precariously capsized and grounded on the sandbar at this time due to unsafe weather as the U.S. Coast Guard makes plans for its recovery.

Tillamook County Sheriff’s Office assisted Netarts Oceanside Fire Rescue, Adventist Health Ambulance, U.S. Coast Guard, Oregon State Police and Tillamook 911.

Icy condition force highway closure on U.S. Route 6

Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) closed U.S. Route 6 around milepost 33 due to multiple vehicles driving into ditches, jackknifed trucks and several crashes Tuesday, Jan. 14. The highway, which runs between the metro area and the coast, was closed for around two hours.

At 11:40 a.m., Tillamook

County Emergency Management reported the highway was open but urged extreme caution while traveling across summit. The temperature was 28 degrees and more snow had been expected. Local weather guru Gordon McCraw said cool, unstable northwesterly flow pushed scattered showers over the area.

The summit was a skating rink.

SNAP: Oregon AG sues Trump administration

Oregon has joined 15 states and New York City in a lawsuit to stop the Trump administration from eliminating food assistance for nearly 700,000 Americans.

According to a release from Oregon Attorney General Ellen Rosenblum, the lawsuit challenges a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) rule that would limit states' ability to extend food stamp benefits in places where jobs are scarce. The coalition of state attorneys general is urging the court to declare the rule unlawful and issue an injunction to prevent it from going into effect on April 1, 2020.

"The food stamp program (known as "SNAP") has helped vulnerable Oregonians for over 40 years," Rosenblum said. "It is hard to fathom why the federal government wants to punish thousands of adults in some of the most employment-impacted areas of our state—people who may not be able to find jobs—by taking away their access to food."

More than 21,000 Oregonians who currently receive benefits could lose them beginning April 1, under the Trump Administration's plan.

While the federal government pays the full cost of SNAP benefits, it shares the costs of administering the program on a 50/50 basis with the states, which operate the program. Congress amended SNAP in 1996 to introduce a three-month time limit on SNAP benefits for unemployed individuals aged 18 to 49 who are not disabled or raising children.

Congress believed that states were best positioned to assess whether local economic conditions and labor markets provided reasonable employment opportunities. The law allows a waiver of the three-month limit for areas where data is presented by the state demonstrating that the area lacks sufficient jobs.

In a declaration filed with the lawsuit, the director of the Self Sufficiency Program for the Oregon Department of Human Services, Daniel Haun, explained that as of November 2019, Oregon had 347,941 households, for a total of 586,781 Oregonians, who receive SNAP benefits statewide. Of these individuals, 21,886 Oregonians are potentially affected if this rule goes into effect. Their average food benefit ranges from $166-$186 per month.

Over the last 24 years, Congress has maintained the criteria for states to obtain waivers, and allowed states to carry over unused exemptions. It has reauthorized the statute four times without limiting states' discretion. Shortly after President Trump signed the 2018 Farm Bill into law, USDA issued a proposed rule announcing these changes. The USDA received more than 100,000 comments—the majority expressing strong opposition from a broad range of stakeholders. Regardless, USDA issued the final rule.

In the lawsuit, the states argue that the new rule:

- Contradicts statutory language and Congress's intent for the food-stamp program
- Raises healthcare and homelessness costs while lowering economic activity in the states

- Amends the law for arbitrary and capricious reasons
- Violates federal rulemaking process

In addition to Oregon, New York (lead) and Washington D.C. (lead), the participating states include California, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Virginia, along with the City of New York.

The lawsuit was filed in United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

Credit union supports local law enforcement

National Law Enforcement Appreciation Day was Jan. 9. In an effort to focus community attention on local heroes, TLC, a division of Fibre Federal Credit Union celebrated Law Enforcement Appreciation during the first full week of January. All week, TLC accepted donations for the Oregon Fallen Badge Foundation.

On Jan. 9, branch staff delivered "copcakes" to all local police, sheriff, and state patrol offices as a token of appreciation for the officers' service. For a small donation, staff members opted to wear "Back the Blue" badge stickers and dressed in black and blue clothing.

At the end of the week, TLC raised a total of $250 for the Oregon Fallen Badge Foundation. The foundation pays for the costs incurred by a line of duty death memorial service, including those associated with the planning, preparation, and execution of the ceremony, and provides support for the survivors of a fallen officer.

White-tailed deer die-off in Blue Mountains due to EHD

Tests conducted by Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (ODFW) veterinarians confirmed that Epizootic hemorrhagic disease (EHD) is responsible for the die-off of an estimated 2,000 white-tailed deer in eastern Oregon. The EHD outbreak impacted white-tailed deer on the western face of the Blue Mountains from Milton-Freewater to the Pilot Rock area.

According to ODFW, EHD losses are not uncommon in Oregon and is not expected to have long-term effects on the deer population size. Mule deer in the area were not documented to be affected by the EHD outbreak.

Wildlife biologists first learned about the white-tailed deer die-off in late fall when landowners began reporting dead deer, the tests showed. Tissue samples for testing and lab results later confirmed EHD as the cause of death. Surveys in December showed fewer white-tailed deer leading to an estimated potential loss of 2,000 deer from the disease.

ODFW is still determining if deer tags for the fall 2020 seasons need to be reduced or hunts cancelled in the units affected (Walla Walla, Mt Emily, Ukiah). Hunters will be informed of any changes by April 15 so they will have time to change their controlled hunt application choices before the May 15 deadline.

ODFW said EHD is a seasonal disease that can occur during the late summer and fall months. It is different than Adenovirus hemorrhagic disease (AHD) which can occur year-round. EHD is transmitted by biting midges known as "no-see-ums" or gnats. These breed and live in small pools of warm, stagnant water; even in pools as small as a hoof print filled with water.

According to ODFW, as deer gather at these water sources, they may become exposed to infected biting midges. However, freezing temperatures can kill off insects that transmit the disease. EHD is known to have existed since the 1890s and is found in most of the United States with the exception of the extreme Northeast and the Southwest.

Meat from animals affected by EHD is still consumable and the disease is not transmittable to humans, ODFW said. However, experts recommend thoroughly cooking any meat taken from animals harvested from an infected area.

Another View of the Linn County Lawsuit

Recently, the Linn County jury determined that the State had indeed breached a long-standing contract with the 13 plaintiff forest trust counties. As Mr. Yamamoto wrote in his op/ed - What the

Linn County Lawsuit Really Means: "The 1941 Forest Acquisition Act created the idea of Greatest Permanent Value (GPV) to mean managing these forest trust lands to return timber revenue to the Counties, taxing districts, and the Oregon Dept. of Forestry (ODF). It was in 1998 that the Board of Forestry decided to change the definition of GPV, and for the last 20 years, timber revenue suffered while the State instead prioritized going far above the mandates of the Federal Endangered Species Act and directing funds to increasing recreational opportunities."

As noted, The Forest Acquisition Act was written in 1941, when the volume of logging was much less than it is today. By 1998, the logging in Federal lands was greatly reduced so that state and private lands had to pick up the slack. This was due to the NW Forest Plan being created in 1994. Before 1994, logging on federal lands was over 50% of the total timber production volume. Logging on state lands was less than 5%. After the NW Forest Plan, state and federal lands logging were at about 10% but private timber industry logging now rose to about 75% (U.S. Forest Service, Oregon Department of Forestry). The Oregon Department of Forestry had to change the view of its forests to help support the growing population of Oregonians who were moving here because of our beautiful state and the accessibility of outdoor recreation. This has become very apparent in the last decade in Tillamook County as evident in the number of people who come to the coast to fish, surf, crab, kayak, or just enjoy our beautiful coastal beaches.

I do not blame the counties for trying to get more money for their needed repairs. Hwy 101 is in need of constant attention because of the amount of traffic it receives. Bridges need to be replaced and as Mr. Yamamoto stated, we have 3500 culverts that need to be upgraded or replaced by bridges to improve fish passage. In North County, a culvert had to be lowered for Neahkahnie Creek that ran under Hwy 101. A very lengthy and, I assume, very expensive project. But as stated above, the state only logs less than 10% of our forests. Part of the revenue earned goes to run the department and the rest is divided amongst the counties. But what about the monies from the logging industry?

In 1995, the timber industry paid over $75 million dollars in taxes. By 2005, they had dropped to $10 million (Oregon Legislative Revenue Office). They currently pay $2.70 per acre harvesting tax. They pay no income tax. This harvesting tax goes to the Department of Forestry who turns around and supports the timber industry's advertising. (There was a really well done three-fold brochure circulated recently about the merits of the timber industry.) Why the change? About this same time, timber companies decided to sell out to Wall Street. When a larger company buys a smaller one, they do it for a reason: more money for their shareholders.

New year, new focus, new strategy

Nan Devlin

There's a shift happening in the tourism industry.

In 2014, the Tourism Advisory Committee, Economic Development Council and the county commissioners developed three benchmarks for measuring the work of its new tourism organization, Visit Tillamook Coast. Those benchmarks were focused on growth and included yearly visitor spending (an industry standard measurement of how and where people spend money), increase of the Transient Lodging Tax (TLT), and brand awareness. These grow because of effective promotion and a good economy. It was the right decision at the time; everyone wanted the TLT to foster economic vitality. And it has, increasing each year. Off-season numbers have grown nearly 100% since 2014, a significant measure of economic improvement.

Over the past 20 years, especially since the recession began to ease and the economy improve, people started traveling more — a lot more. In some places (such as in Europe), it has created "overtourism," which means having more visitors than a destination has the capacity to manage.

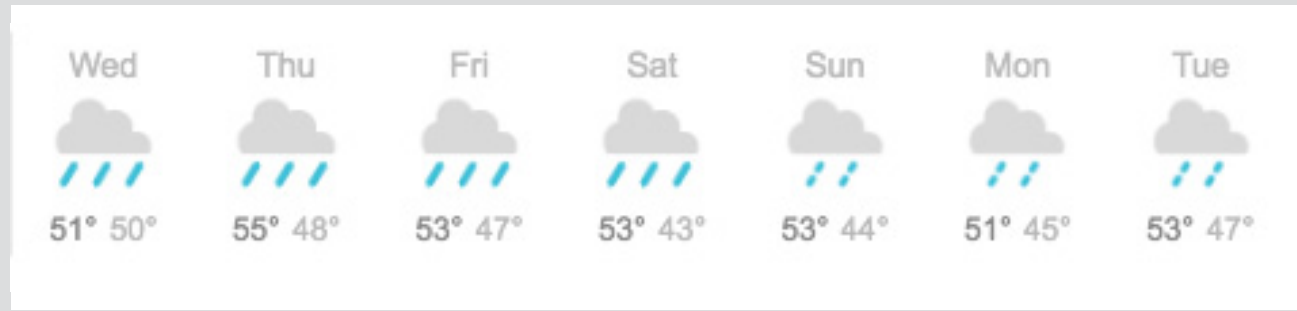

That has not yet happened here in Tillamook County, although it may seem that way in August! However, that does not mean we just sit by and let overtourism happen. After all, Oregon's North Coast has always been one of the most visited regions in the state. That's why Visit Tillamook Coast and the Board of County Commissioners, along with many community members who provided feedback, have refocused efforts from growing tourism to managing tourism.

There are other tourist destinations, particularly places in Europe, that we can thank for addressing these issues 20 years ago, and we can learn from their work. My own experience in graduate school was focused on sustainable tourism, and I had the good fortune to work with researchers and practitioners specializing in that area.

In early 2019, the county contracted with a tourism consultant, David Buerle of Future iQ, who has worked extensively with Travel Oregon and other destinations. Mr. Buerle is internationally known for destination management expertise and provided a way for the commissioners to effectively use the TLT for facilities development. Visit Tillamook Coast has worked with Future iQ previously through two of Travel Oregon's Destination Management studios, including the North Coast Tourism Management Network, for which we are the coordinating agency.

Also in early 2019, as Visit Tillamook Coast was preparing to become an independent 501(c)(6) organization, I recommended we revise how we measure and think about success. It's not just about growth; it's also about community and stewardship. Our new tourism board worked with us to develop a three-year strategic plan focusing on destination management. In consultation with the county, Travel Oregon, industry experts and our board, we have changed how we are measured for success. We call it the "Three R's."

Return on Investment: This will measure annual visitor spending, as it is a reflection of the economy and business health. This is a statewide report commissioned by Travel Oregon for each county. But we will dive deeper into how county businesses are impacted; as an example, what percentage of revenue is driven by visitors vs. by locals. I think people will be surprised at the revenue impact visitor spending has on local services. This measurement will be about the value tourism brings to our economic vitality.

Return on Relationships: This will measure deliverables that foster partnerships, help with workforce training and business assistance, community funding, and other programs that benefit our county. Examples are sponsorships, advisory services, Guest Service Gold and Certified Interpretive Guide training, and our tourism grant program, which over the last five years has awarded $500,000 to organizations and businesses.

Return on Responsibility: This also is measured by deliverables, but is primarily a long-term effort because it's about affecting visitor behaviors (and in some cases, local behaviors) about stewardship, volunteerism, and providing information that helps encourage people into caring for our coast, whether they are Oregonians or from a far-off land. One visible way we will do this is through wayfinding and interpretive signage, which gives communities the opportunity to share with visitors the things we care about: our landscape, waterways, beaches, forests, farms, culture and community. We will coordinate our stewardship messaging efforts with the North Coast Tourism Management Network, a collaboration with Clatsop County and Travel Oregon, which is taking a regional approach to destination management.

In summary, we are here to support our tourism-related businesses and community organizations that bring so much benefit to our county in tax base, employment, stewardship and planned development. But we're refocusing on how we do that. And I'll be measuring effectiveness along with the community.

Warren piece: Why we cover hard news

Joe Warren
Publisher

It's our job to bring you the news of the day whether it's delivered on social media or chronicled on the pages of our weekly newspaper, the Headlight Herald. It's been our goal since the first paper rolled off the presses back in 1888 in Tillamook County.

Last week we published two fatal crash stories with photos both online and in our weekly paper. It's something we cover when these events happen because it's news.

My heart goes out to the families and friends of those involved in these horrible accidents. I lost my older brother to accidental death, so I have a little idea what these families are going through.

I would rather fill the Headlight Herald pages with news of state championships, or news of the fair breaking records for attendance. And we do, but sometimes tragedy strikes and we have to cover it.

A quick check with our sheriff last week and he said they have responded to something like 18 vehicle accidents in the past month or more. He and his deputies have been very busy on our roads this winter.

When covering hard news stories like crashes, we do follow the policies we have in place that allow us to present the story in a professional manner, giving the readers a true picture of the event. We do screen the photos we use to ensure no graphic images are published.

It's important and helpful to emergency crews to let people know when a road is closed or there is a situation where it's best to void the area. That's where social media comes in play. When a road is closed, people want to know why, when they hear or see an emergency crew set up on our roads they want to know what happened.

It's also important to recognize that running stories and photos of crashes makes people think and drive more carefully.

With all the bloggers and so-called information websites out there today simply passing on what they have heard or reposting what someone else has shared, it's become even more important to get the facts and story straight. The people of Tillamook County have turned to the Headlight Herald to do just that. It's our job.

Lately, we have been questioned why we run photos of crash scenes with stories. The use of photos is sometimes the best way to describe an event. They compose an image we can't always make with words. They help tell the serious nature of life and death. And they show how important it is that we have invested our tax dollars in public safety.

It's our ethical and journalistic duty to deliver you the news, not some watered-down version or censored report. That's why we often times dig deeper than what is released or presented to the community by public agencies and other outlets.

We will never be able to please everyone with our coverage. That is unrealistic. But, we can do it in a professional and informed manner. That's our obligation to you, the reader, and that's what we will continue to do.

Also, about this time, I saw a dramatic increase in the amount of logging done in our county. The sides of the Neahkahnie range are now almost completely clear cut. The hills behind Wheeler the same. Rockaway has had almost all of their watershed cut.

As I said earlier, I am not against these counties wanting more money to improve the living condition of their residents or the fish that migrate up their streams. But I have to ask myself why haven't the logging companies been asked to pay their fair share? I know that their corporate headquarters want a return on their investment, like we all do, but is it fair that all the money is taken away from the counties? I don't mind paying my taxes because I know it funds all the services that provide me with a nice place to live. Why shouldn't logging companies do the same? I don't have a solution for this dilemma but I imagine if people put their heads together, something could be found. Maybe just asking the timber companies to start funding county projects, like replacing our culverts?

One more thing stands out in Mr. Yamamoto's letter. He stated that the number of wood processing mills dropped from 360 in 1988 to 172 in 2017. I respond to this by first saying it is a sad fact of American capitalism right now. A Walmart, Costco, Home Depot goes in nearby and it has the effect of closing the smaller local stores. It is happening all over America. During the time that sawmills were closing, lumber production rose from 35 million board feet in 1990 to 90 mbf in 2016 (data from Western Wood Products Association.) Another thing I have observed in my time on the coast is the number of logs being shipped overseas. This also has grown immensely in just a short amount of time. I have always felt that this was a crime against our logging industry at home. Why take away a huge number of jobs from people who would have milled these logs to send the lumber overseas? Was this also caused by the corporate takeover of our lumber industry?

I don't have any answers to this problem. What I think should happen is that we somehow work to negate the polarization of timber vs environmentalists, which is just a reflection of the polarization that is happening in the United States right now, to somehow meet in the middle so both sides win. As Mr. Yamamoto stated, it will be awhile as this case goes up through the courts, so might we use that time to find other solutions?

Kelvin Philip Horine Jr.

July 6, 1937 - Jan. 16, 2020

Kelvin Philip Horine Jr. of Hebo, Oregon died on Jan. 16, 2020 at age 82. Waud's

Funeral Home is handling the arrangements, and a service will be set at a later date.

Jeanette Marie Riutta

April 24, 1937 - Jan. 9, 2020

Jeanette Marie "Sisty" Riutta, beloved teacher, sister, aunt, cousin, and friend, passed peacefully from this life on Jan. 9, 2020.

Born in Astoria, Oregon to John and Ida (Utterberg) Riutta on April 24, 1937, Sisty - as she was known to all family and friends alike since childhood - was the youngest and last surviving member of her large generation of the Astoria Riutta family.

Raised and educated in Astoria, she pursued further studies at Oregon College of Education (now Western Oregon University) in Monmouth, Oregon, from whence she received the teaching credentials that would set her on a decades-long career as an elementary school teacher in the Neah-Kah-Nie school district.

However even though she established a home in Rockaway, and later for a time in Manzanita, Sisty never really left Astoria. Returning each weekend for years on end to oversee the household, and later provide care for her older bachelor brothers and an elderly uncle, Sisty divided her busy life between her students, and her family and friends.

An avid lover of animals, she had many dogs in her life over the years, but she never ceased to mourn for the last, her beloved shih-tzu Suki, after whose passing she never shared her life with another.

In retirement, she became ever more house-proud, and spent much of her time decorating her home, in her garden, doing a little traveling, and spending time with friends and family. As her health began to decline, she returned to Astoria to live out her final years at Clatsop Retirement Village.

Sisty is survived by two sisters-in-law, Rayona Riutta (widow of Richard) and Elli Riutta (widow of Roger), as well as numerous nieces, nephews, cousins, and many friends. Her sisters Sylvia (Nelson) and Dolores, and brothers, Edward, Eli, Emil, Ervin, Ernest, Gilbert, Richard, and Roger all preceded her in death.

A service of remembrance will be held at 11:30 a.m. on Feb. 15 at Clatsop Retirement Village in Astoria. Interment will be private. In lieu of flowers, the family requests remembrances be made to Community Home Health & Hospice, Longview, Washington, or to the Clatsop County Animal Shelter.

Judge rules clean energy ballot measures can move forward immediately

Renew Oregon

Two clean energy ballot initiatives will move forward after a Marion County Judge ordered the Secretary of State to allow the measures to proceed. Judge David Leith ruled Thursday, Jan. 16, Initiative Petitions 48 and 49 satisfy the constitutional "single-subject" requirement for initiatives and legislation.

Contrary to the conclusion by Secretary of State Bev Clarno, Judge Leith found the measures encompass a single subject - a transition to renewable energy power system, with labor and equity provisions included in the measures connected to that subject to guide the transition.

"We are pleased to be moving forward on these initiatives," said Eric Richardson, a co-chief petitioner for the initiatives and executive director of the Eugene/Springfield NAACP, in a press release. "Oregonians are demanding bold action to reduce pollution and protect the climate, and this November they will have that chance at the ballot box."

Richardson said these initiatives provide not only a target for 100 percent clean electricity, but also a blueprint for the transition, so it creates good-paying jobs with benefits and prioritizes communities in need of investment.

An attorney for plaintiffs Richardson and Tera Hurst, executive director of Renew Oregon, made oral arguments in Marion County Court on Jan. 16 opposite an expensive private attorney hired by the Secretary of State after the Department of Justice declined to defend her. The Judge's ruling is a permanent injunction, allowing the initiatives to move forward without delay.

"Nearly half of Oregon's electricity is created by burning dirty fossil fuels like coal, and that's simply not in line with our environmental values as Oregonians," said Chrissy Reitz, a mom and former nurse from Hood River, who is a co-petitioner on the measures. "Now we'll have a chance to change that at the ballot box

David McCall announces run for county commissioner

David McCall filed to run for Tillamook County Commissioner Position No. 2 on Friday, Jan. 17. McCall is a Bay City councilor and Tillamook County's Solid Waste Program manager. He will focus on important local issues such as: housing, quality services, recycling and sustainability, infrastructure repair and emergency preparedness.

"I have a wide range of experiences and I want to use my knowledge to serve Tillamook County residents," McCall said in a press release. "I believe we need to better integrate the traditional roles of forestry, fishing and farming with tourism."

McCall said tourism has been growing faster than the support structures needed to support it. Each of these industries has an important role to play, but we need to work together to be successful.

"As commissioner I will continue to promote transparency and collaborative efforts that benefit our community," McCall said in the release. "Far too often decisions are made within a vacuum, and local residents are left wondering what happened."

McCall has been active within the Democratic Party on local and state levels, as well as in Hungary. He helped organize the Tillamook Farmers Market, serving as president of the board for three years. In Bay City, he has played an integral role in advancing emergency preparedness in the community.

McCall coordinates the activities of the Master Recyclers, a group of about two dozen volunteers who strive to make a difference in their community. If you have taken your recycling to the Manzanita or Pacific City transfer stations, or brought in hazardous waste at a collection event, chances are that you have interacted with him.

McCall has earned several awards, including: Recycler of the Year (Association of Oregon Recyclers, 2017); Golden Bung Awards (North American Hazardous Materials Management Association, 2016, 2017 & 2018); Agent of Change Award (North American Hazardous Materials Management Association, 2015); Professional Achievement Recognition (Minister for the Environment, Hungary, 2012); Strategic Advisory Board (Junior Achievement Magyarország, 2006); and Service Recognition Award (American Chamber of Commerce in Hungary, 2004).

McCall is a member of the Solid Waste Association of North America (SWANA), the North American Hazardous Materials Management Association (NAHMMA), the Association of Oregon Recyclers (AOR), and has HAZWOPER and ACS-100 certifications.

McCall and his wife Éva have been married for 25 years. Their daughter, Julia, graduated from the University of Oregon with a major in dance and is currently dancing in Budapest, Hungary. McCall speaks fluent English, Hungarian, German, and enough Russian to order four cups of tea.

Stay tuned to hear about

McCall's campaign kickoffs, as well as other opportunities where he hopes to meet with residents and businesses throughout the county.

Josh Brown announces candidacy for Tillamook County Sheriff

The Committee to Elect Josh Brown is proud to announce Josh Brown's candidacy for Tillamook County Sheriff in the 2020 Election.

Brown began his career with the sheriff's office in 2004 as a volunteer in the jail. In 2005, he was hired as a full-time corrections deputy. During his time in corrections, he attended the Field Training and Evaluation Program (FTEP) and trained many new deputies in the jail in addition to his normal and extra assigned duties.

In 2012, Brown transferred to the patrol division and was assigned to the contract position at Sandlake Recreation Area. During his time at Sandlake, he enjoyed building strong relationships with partner agencies. He was recognized by the US Forest Service Law Enforcement Division for his part in a volatile and dangerous situation that was resolved quickly and without incident. After four years of Sandlake patrol, he moved into regular patrol where he currently serves as a senior patrol deputy and senior trainer.

Brown is a certified instructor in Standardized Field Sobriety Testing (SFST) and Emergency Vehicle Operation (EVO). His certification as an instructor in these fields has given him the opportunity to become a part time instructor at the Department of Public Safety and Standards Training (the Police Academy). He enjoys travelling to Salem and take part in training recruits from all over the state of Oregon. He also organizes and trains deputies and officers locally as part of the Tillamook County Law Enforcement Training Team.

Brown has been a Tillamook County Fair Board member since 2016 and loves the community involvement that the responsibility has offered. He was recently voted in as vice president of the board. He was also a youth sports volunteer coach through the YMCA and the High School for more than 10 years.

Brown and his wife, Kelli, have been very happily married for 25 years and have four kids together, ranging in age from nine to 24. Both Brown and Kelli are proud to be members of the Tillamook County Pioneer Association and are lifelong residents.

In addition to many ideas Brown plans to bring to the sheriff's office, he will treat the community and the staff with the respect and fairness they deserve, have an open line of communication with both staff and community, will strive to create more proactive policing, and will uphold our constitutional rights.

Interim Sheriff Jim Horton recently announced his candidacy for sheriff in December. Horton has occupied the position of Tillamook County Sheriff since Aug. 1, 2019, when he was appointed Sheriff by the Tillamook County Board of County Commissioners upon Sheriff Andy Long's retirement. Sheriff Long recommended him to be appointed sheriff. Horton's appointment was due to his diverse expertise in law enforcement practices, stewardship of public funds, and the ability to manage and lead our first-rate Sheriff's Office staff.

Visit Tillamook Coast awards more than $100,000

Since 2015, VTC has funded more than $500,000 in community projects

Tillamook County, Oregon, Jan. 19, 2020—Each year, the Tillamook Coast Visitors Association (Visit Tillamook Coast) provides $100,000 in grant funding for tourism-related projects. This year, the organization received 23 applications totaling nearly $180,000. The applications were carefully reviewed, scored and ranked by the board of directors of Tillamook Coast Visitors Association. Thirteen of the applicants received full or partial funding, for a total of $100,299.

Recipients include Food Roots, North County Recreation District, Oregon Coast Scenic Railroad, Tillamook Estuaries Partnership Explore Nature Series, Tillamook History Alliance, Tillamook Chamber of Commerce, Garibaldi Maritime Museum, Friends of Netarts Bay (WEBS), Lower Nehalem Valley Trust, Kiawanda Community Center, Tillamook Bay Community College Foundation, Art Accelerated and Three Arch Inn.

"Grant submissions included a wide variety of projects, and with so many submissions — more than ever for a single grant round — much discussion took place in the decisions to award funding," said Nan Devlin, executive director of Tillamook Coast Visitors Association. "We would like to have given every applicant funding to do their projects; however, we are encouraging organizations to re-apply when the 2021 grant round opens later this year."

Since 2015, Tillamook Coast Visitors Association has awarded more than $500,000 in funding to county businesses and organizations.

Poll results say Oregon drivers feel comfortable driving in winter conditions

PEMCO Mutual Insurance released poll results Monday, Jan. 13, that showed many Northwest commuters feel that they are more skillful than other drivers in icy or snowy conditions. Northwest drivers have retained their confidence for driving in less-than-ideal situations.

The most recent poll from PEMCO finds about half of Washington and Oregon drivers think they are more skillful than other drivers. Men tend to be most confident: 54 percent claim to be more skillful snow and ice maneuvers than other people on the road. In comparison, fewer than 30 percent of women say the same.

Comfort levels behind the wheel remain steady as well: 56 percent of Oregon drivers claim to be comfortable on the road in wintry conditions, the poll revealed. Only 15 percent of Northwesterners overall said they are very uncomfortable driving in winter weather.

According to the report,

Northwest residents have mixed feelings about how cities should make winter driving safer. About 67 percent of the residents surveyed said they thought it is appropriate for cities to use some salt to make the roads safer, while 48 percent favored its usage over other alternatives. On the other hand, 40 percent of Oregon residents said salt is more harmful to the streets than alternatives, and in Portland, nearly 24

Woodstoves, chimneys emit particulate pollution like wildfire

Breathing smoke from burning wood in chimneys and woodstoves can harm a person's health, and several cities and counties stand ready with grant dollars to help people switch to better forms of primary heating. New data shows the annual particulate levels from these heating sources rival that of a wildfire.

"As Oregon faces a week of very cold weather, Oregon Environmental Council hopes everyone in the state stays safe and warm," said Environmental Health Director Jamie Pang. "We know many of our residents rely on the affordability of woodstoves and chimneys as primary or secondary sources of heat, but we found the comparison to wildfire smoke important to share for homeowners who can afford better sources of heating."

The data comes from the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality, which shows that 12.8 million pounds of dangerous particulate matter, known as PM 2.5, can leave Oregon woodstoves and chimneys each year. That's more than half the amount of pollution from the 2017 Sonoma County wildfires, which burned 110,700 acres and emitted an estimated 20 million pounds of PM 2.5.

"As we close 2019 and look toward meeting our health and climate goals for the near-term and future decades, Oregonians can make changes in their homes and support policies to protect our air quality and environment," Pang said. "One big opportunity is to phase out the use of woodstoves and fireplaces and commit to cleaner ways of heating, and creating ambience, as a way to improve Oregon's air quality and save our climate."

Federal tax credits and local grants in some Oregon communities are available to help individual households make this important change.

Wood smoke is toxic

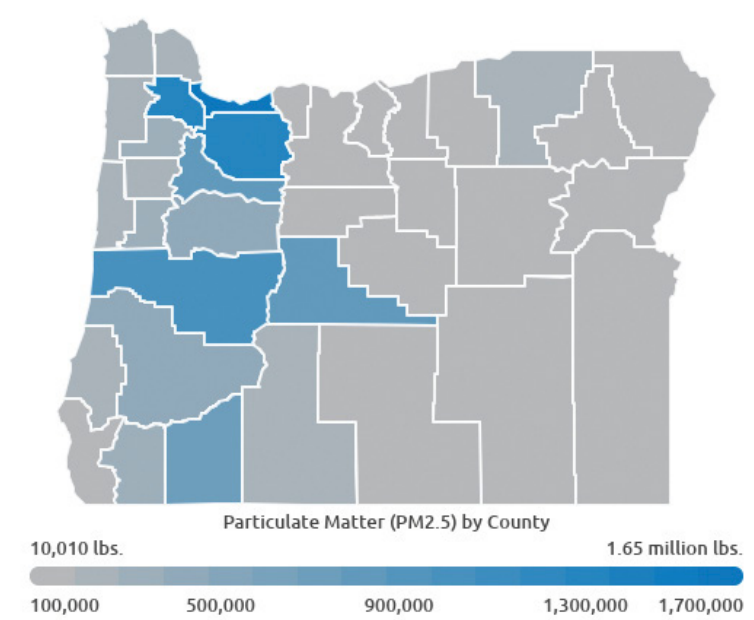

According to the Environmental Protection Agency, just one hour of burning 10 pounds of wood generates 4,300 times more carcinogenic PAHs (polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons) than 30 cigarettes.

Wood burning in Oregon is both a major source of "black carbon" which is contributing to climate change, and particle pollution (in particular PM 2.5), which is a pollutant so small, it can enter a person's bloodstream. Other pollutants emitted by burning wood include: nitrogen oxides, sulfur oxides, dioxins and toxic gases such as formaldehyde, benzene, polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons, acetaldehyde, and acrolein. Inhaling woodsmoke can lead to eye irritation, respiratory illnesses, bronchitis, and asthma, among other

Up In Smoke

The heatmap below indicates the Oregon counties emitting the highest levels of particulate pollution, known as PM2.5, in a given year. The Oregon Department of Environmental Quality calculates the combined emissions from all 35 counties equals 12.8 million lbs. of PM2.5.

things. Specifically, burning wood is the dirtiest form of energy production compared to other heating devices.

Let's visualize: Emerging data from Oregon DEQ estimates that 12,791,821 pounds of PM 2.5 is released throughout the state from wood burning. This data will be submitted to the Environmental Protection Agency's National Emissions Inventory. Click on the interactive map for more information.

Oregon DEQ Funding Has Increased to Help Individual Households Phase Out Woodstoves

OEC encourages people to decrease the amount of wood burned in a home, if it is not a primary source of heating, and to switch to a cleaner heating system if possible.

Congress recently extended the $300 tax credit for replacing an older wood stove with one that is EPA-certified to be 75% efficient, until December 31, 2020. OEC encourages Oregonians to take advantage of grant funding and tax credits.

Visit OEOnline.org for tips on how to minimize the harm from burning wood.

Tillamook wrestlers face top team in state

The Tillamook High School wrestling team is headed to Sweet Home to face the number one team in their state conference on Wednesday night. The Cheesemakers are currently number three in the running.

The last time Tillamook battled Sweet Home was in 1985 for a 36-30 Mook win.

The wrestling team recently traveled to Redmond for the Oregon Wrestling Classic, where all the toughest teams in every classification gather to see who comes out on top. Friday's pool rounds were smooth sailing, with the Mooks besting McLoughlin 67-12, Philomath 52-27, and Estacada 63-17.

Finishing first in their pool set Tillamook up as the third seed in the championship bracket.

The quarterfinals saw the Cheesemakers topple Ontario 60-24, moving the team into the semifinals against second-seeded La Grande, who was later crowned tournament champions. Tillamook dropped the semis 12-66 against La Grande, securing a third-place match with Baker that ended 52-26.

TAPA presents Elvis has left the building

The stage is set. The actors have rehearsed. The music has been chosen and it is completely Elvis, of course. Now all that is needed is an audience to enjoy the show.

The Tillamook Association for the Performing Arts (TAPA) is happy to present Elvis Has Left the Building, written by V.Cate and Duke Ernsberger, a comedy about the disappearance of Elvis Presley in the winter of 1970. The play is set in the office of The Colonel, Elvis' manager. No one can find the King of Rock n' Roll and he must be found.

The Colonel is played by James Merrit, a newcomer to the TAPA stage but not to theater. His secretary, Trudy, is Sandra Koops, who will be recognized by many as a TAPA veteran. Jason Hovey is cast in his first acting role ever as Roscoe, the office boy. Edward Egging is making his TAPA debut playing The Colonel's friend Candy after a long absence from the stage. Rounding out the cast is Whitney Wilks, a second timer at TAPA, playing ace reporter Jill Tanner. Ann Harper is directing her fourth play at the Barn Community Playhouse and is pleased with the result. She is sure audiences will like it, too.

Performances for Elvis Has Left the Building are on Fridays and Saturdays at 7 p.m. and Sundays at 2 p.m. starting with the Opening night Gala on Jan. 24 and goes through Feb. 9. The Barn Community Playhouse is the red barn located at 1204 Ivy Avenue in Tillamook, Oregon. Tickets are available online at TAPA's website, tillamooktheater.com or may be ordered by calling the box office at 503-812-0275.

WELLNESS

Eating out and eating well

Dusti Linnell, PhD,
OSU Extension Service, Tillamook
and Lincoln County

Anne Goetze, RDN, LD
Oregon Dairy and Nutrition Council

Eating out is something we all do. A 2019 survey found that 56% of Americans either dine-out or order-in 2-3 times each week (Truth About Dining Out ?)(We don't want to start a sentence with a number)10% choose these options 4 – 6 times per week and 6% do so every day. This includes everything from ordering and eating at a restaurant, drive-through dining, and meal delivery. There are so many reasons why: most people say it is just easier, some say the food is higher quality, others dine-out to spend time with family and friends.

Tillamook County Wellness is celebrating Eating Well for the first few months of 2020 as part of our Choose Well campaign. With this blog post, we are here to help you eat well by choosing well when you eat out. Since we all do it, let's make the most of it!

The Dietary Guidelines for Americans show us that most Americans typically do not get enough vegetables, dairy, whole grains and even fruit. While most get too much sugar, fat, salt and too many calories. Using MyPlate as your guide, even when you are eating out can help you choose well. A simple way to approach food choices is to think about the food groups pictured in MyPlate. When you order, think about what you've already eaten that day and what you might eat the rest of the day. What's missing? What can you choose so that at the end of the day your virtual MyPlate will be balanced and full, but not overflowing.

Here are a few tips for things to think about when you order in any restaurant:

My Personal Pizza

Number of servings: 1
Time for preparation (including preparation and cooking): 25 minutes

- 1/2 english muffin
- 1 1/2 Tablespoons spaghetti or pizza sauce
- 1 Tablespoon grated cheese
- 4 Tablespoons chopped vegetables, fruits, and/or cooked meat

- Directions
1. Preheat oven to 400 degrees.
 2. Lightly toast English muffin.
 3. Spread with spaghetti sauce or pizza sauce.
 4. Add cheese and pizza toppings of your choice.
 5. Bake 5-7 minutes until muffin is lightly browned and cheese is melted.
 6. Allow to cool slightly before eating.
 7. Refrigerate leftovers within 2 hours.

- Notes
- Try a variety of fruits and vegetables such as onions, bell peppers, mushrooms, pineapple, and tomato.
 - Add cut up cooked meat like chicken or sausage.
 - Try whole wheat English muffins for added fiber.

- Boost fruits and veggies.
 - o Ask for extra veggies.
 - o Add or substitute red, orange, or dark green vegetables whenever you can. Try arugula or spinach instead of lettuce, even on a burger.
 - o Get the most from side dishes. Try green salad, fruit, corn, beans, or vegetable soup.
 - o If you are going to eat dessert, choose pie, cobbler or other food where fruit is the main ingredient.
- Increase whole grains.
 - o Ask for whole wheat sandwich bread, burger buns, tortillas or pizza crusts.
 - o Look for deli salads with grains like bulgur, quinoa, wheat berries and even brown rice.
- Add dairy.
 - o Add a slice of cheese to a sandwich or burger.
 - o Grab a carton or bottle of milk.
 - o Enjoy a bowl of chowder.
 - o Choose yogurt or a yogurt parfait.
 - o Order a latte. Reduce added sugar.
 - o Instead of soda, order milk, 100% juice or unsweetened iced tea with lemon.
 - o Skip the cookies, or have just

- one.
 - Here are some ways you can put these tips into action in restaurants all over Tillamook County:
- Going out for chicken teriyaki? Ask for extra veggies and pea pods in your stir-fry or on the side. If you have rice, ask for brown rice.
- Craving that delicious macaroni and cheese? Great! Order a cup of tomato soup to go with it and get half of the macaroni and cheese in a to-go box for tomorrow's lunch.
- Having a pepperoni and cheese pizza? Add peppers and onions. Order salad to eat with the pizza.
- Are you hungry for an awesome burger? Enjoy it, but request extra pickles, lettuce, tomato, or onion. You could also order a small or kid size burger and a salad. Make it a cheeseburger.
- Ask your favorite coffee drive-thru for a mocha that is half-sweet.
- Going out for a burrito? Request extra pico de gallo and whole beans swapped out for refried. Need more dairy? Order extra cheese. Too many calories? Skip the rice.

- Is it barbeque day? Don't skip the coleslaw. Made with cabbage and carrots, coleslaw counts as a vegetable.
 - Grabbing a quick sub sandwich? Order whole wheat bread and extra veggies like spinach and bell peppers. Grab a bottle of milk to make it a meal.
- With so many options, you can make the most of eating well while eating out. Let MyPlate be your guide and try some new options. After all, to goal to eating well is finding the choices that work for you.

North County Pie Day auction benefits Tillamook agriculture

Two Tillamook area nonprofits are serving up locally-made deliciousness to raise funds for programs that support Tillamook agriculture. The 12th Annual North County Pie Day, taking place Saturday January 25th at 2:30pm and presented by Manzanita Grocery & Deli, features dozens of generously donated local fruit pies, custard pies, savory pies, vegan pies, gluten-free pies, and various pies-but-not-pies for auction and for feast.

Guests will also enjoy an all-you-can-eat pie and ice cream feast following the auction at the White Clover Grange in Nehalem (36585 Highway 53). This annual event is a joint fundraiser for Food Roots and the White Clover Grange. Proceeds benefit programs at both nonprofits that support the future of Tillamook agriculture through work with farmers and suppliers directly, as well as community members and students.

For just $10 in advance or at the door ($5 for children 12 and under) attendees will enjoy the exciting pie auction with the funny and entertaining Susan Tone, returning for her sixth year as auctioneer. Local bakers, chefs, and restaurants generously donated their time, efforts and pies in support of this event with impressive goods that can’t be found anywhere else.

Doors open at 2:00pm so come early for pie viewing and a good seat. There’s nothing better to get you through a winter’s afternoon than bidding on a delicious, locally made pie and then celebrating by eating as much pie and ice cream as you can, all while supporting two great community organizations.

Learn more and purchase advance tickets at foodrootsnw.org/pie

The presenting sponsor of North County Pie Day is Manzanita Grocery & Deli. This event’s other sponsors include Hans Tonjes, Real Estate

Broker; Mohler Co-Op Store; and Finnesterre.

If you are interested in volunteering at the event, baking a pie for the feast or auction, or sponsoring North County Pie Day, please contact Joel Caris at joel.caris@foodrootsnw.org or 503-705-7100 for more information.

About Food Roots

Food Roots (foodrootsnw.org) exists to grow a robust food system on the north Oregon coast through community engagement, education, food producer and entrepreneur support, and improved access to local food. We work throughout Tillamook County and conduct specific activities in North County, including providing garden-based lessons and farm field trips to Nehalem Elementary students, conducting free 6-week Seed to Supper gardening workshops for low-income adults, and providing matched savings accounts to local farmers and entrepreneurs, with $96,000 in capital provided to eight graduates in the Nehalem area so far and an additional $60,000 in matched and saved capital currently being accrued by five other local farmers and entrepreneurs based in and around the Nehalem area.

About White Clover Grange

The White Clover Grange (whiteclovergrange.org) maintains and preserves the historic Grange building located on Highway 53 and provides it as a venue for community events, workshops, educational activities, dances and other entertainment, and as a space for area nonprofits to use at a discounted rate. Among other purposes, the Grange has acted as a host for Seed to Supper gardening workshops, seed exchanges, farm film showings, farmer listening sessions, a variety of agricultural workshops, special dances, holiday bazaars, fundraisers, and other activities. White Clover Grange has partnered with multiple local nonprofits, including 4-H Youth Development, Food Roots, the Nehalem Valley Farm Trust, Fulcrum Community Resources, the Rinehart Clinic, Friends of Family Farmers, the Nehalem Bay Garden Club, OSU Extension, and others.

FENCEPOSTS

It was a dark and stormy night...yet more than 20 individuals showed up to hear Ciel Downing read from her work of prose and poetry at Art Accelerated earlier this month. And what a treat was in store for them! Ciel is a storyteller, and she skillfully wove tales from her childhood to adulthood with humor and poignancy. Ciel is taking up writing again after a 21-year hiatus; we look forward to hearing more from this talented Cape Mearesian.

The recent king tides and huge storm surge were an impressive sight here in Cape Meares. In fact, some folks were out taking pictures at the end of Bay-ocean Road...which is not a very safe place to be in weather and tides like that! A big, fast-moving wave rose up over the berm in the blink of an eye, knocking down a woman with a dog near 3rd St. NW and another woman standing on top of the berm where the ocean meets Bayocean Road. Randy and Spike Klobas and Brad and Arla Ayers of Cape Meares were all nearby, but not standing so close to the ocean. Spike moved off to the side and Randy and the Ayerses moved behind the latter's car. Still, the water swirled and ran up Bayocean Road, clear past the intersection with 4th St. NW. A big debris field came ashore with the wave, and the strong current continued to move the water well inland. The water was up to Randy's knees, swift and pushing a lot of driftwood to dodge, before the surge petered out.

As the water retreated, Randy ran to assist the woman with the dog. He helped her to her feet and asked if she were hurt. Perhaps bruised, she thought, but not seriously hurt. Then they both moved to help the other woman who had been knocked off the berm. She was still in the water, near a car, holding onto the fender. When asked if she was okay, she replied no; she had turned her ankle. Randy, one of our volunteer firemen and trained in injury assessment, didn't think her ankle was broken, but advised her to drive to the hospital to have it checked out (fortunately, it was her left ankle that was hurt; she could still drive). All in all, a very lucky scenario. Someone could have been hit by one of the large logs in the water, or trapped against or under a car. Respect Mother Nature!

This Saturday, Jan. 25, will be the first Cape Meares Community Association (CMCA) meeting of 2020. Come to the old schoolhouse at 10 a.m. to hear plans for this year's community functions, share your ideas and opinions, and meet some of your neighbors. Your input is solicited.

The first community potluck of 2020 is also on Jan. 25. Bring a dish for eight and your appetite to the community center at 6 p.m. This will be a good opportunity to share storm stories, beachcombing finds, family updates and general community news. See you there!

Hello Bay City. I know you were expecting the first of a two-part story about Pat Patterson. However the weather prevented me from visiting his home in Cloverdale to interview him. I was sorry that I wasn't able to sit down and visit with Pat this week to hear his memories of Bay City, Bay Ocean, and his years in the Coast Guard, but we have rescheduled, so I'll have the first installment next week. I believe that everyone has one good book about their life inside of them, and I can't wait to hear a chapter or two of Pat's life.

As always, the Bay City Art Center has a lot going on. Local artist Christene Wolf Teigen is showing her display of beautiful acrylic masterpieces. The artwork is available for viewing during regular BCAC events, and on Tuesdays and Fridays from 11 AM to 1 PM. You can also call (503)377-9620 for a viewing appointment.

On Thursday, the 16th, the Friends Of Bay City and Oyster Club held a joint meeting to work on the two-day Pearl and Oyster Music Festival, to be held on August 21-22, 2020. We have wonderful volunteers this year, and look forward to a bigger and better Pearl Festival. The vendor and resource fair packets are going out soon, but don't wait to reserve your space. Call me at now at (503)931-9721.

I went to Mana's Cafe for a cup of coffee and she was pulling cinnamon rolls out of the oven. They were so good that I went back the next day and had another one. Obviously I didn't start my diet on January 1, and it's all Mana's fault, LOL.

Call me with your news so I can include it in next week's Fenceposts.

Thanks to the Neskowin, Nestucca, Sand Lake Watersheds Council for writing with word of an upcoming Science Pub. Dorothy Horn, a Phd. Candidate at Portland State University, will discuss "Marine Debris and Micro-plastics in our Watersheds." She will present her research, which delves into the topic of how marine debris impacts our coastal ecosystems and marine organisms. She promises to provide positive ways we can each impact the problem. Pelican Pub will host the event, starting at 6 p.m. on Thursday, January 30 in Pacific City.

Do you live in Tillamook County and lack a safe, stable place to call home? Are you camping, living in a travel trailer, staying with family or friends or couch surfing? Do you know somebody who is? Project Homeless Connect runs from 2-5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, January 29 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. (In the gymnasium at 2411 5th Street in Tillamook.)

Participants are encouraged to arrive early for dental care (available starting at noon) or pet care (available starting at 10 a.m.). Other offerings (starting at 2 p.m.) include a free hot meal, donated clothing, tents, tarps and bedding, haircuts, toiletries and first aid supplies, flu shots and consults with a Registered Nurse, along with information for accessing ongoing assistance throughout the community.

Thanks again to Christine Harrison for forwarding a copy of the Art Accelerated January Newsletter to our Fencepost's inbox. She reminds readers that the non-profit sponsors an ArtWalk the fourth Saturday monthly, all year. This month the event is scheduled for 1-3 p.m. this Saturday, January 25. Go to artaccelerated.org for a list of participating locations, or start your walk at Art Accelerated Gallery, 1906 Third Street in Tillamook, where a free map-card will be distributed.

Don't forget that Art Accelerated offers classes for adults. Basic Drawing is slated for 10 a.m. until noon on Saturdays starting February 1 and running through March 1. Acrylic Painting from 6-8:00 p.m. on Thursdays starting January 30 through March 5. Either option is $45.

Registration may be secured at artaccelerated.org or in person at the gallery (address above). Adults who dabble in art are invited as well to an Open Studio at the gallery. Drop in between 1:30 and 3:30 any Tuesday for $5. Bring your own project and supplies.

Multi-modular exams, free health screenings for the two to six year olds in your orbit, happen Wednesday and Thursday Jan. 22-23 at Tillamook County Fairgrounds, which is located east of downtown Tillamook on Third Street. Call for an appointment: 503-815-2292.

Free programs at South Tillamook County Library this week include a showing of Dora and the Lost City of Gold for After School Club at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 22. A snowflake craft is in store when the group meets on January 29. Woven Wednesdays, a chance to make progress on our own needlecraft or sewing projects, are planned for 6 p.m. those same Wednesdays. Mother Goose on the Loose, story time for babies through age three with their caretakers, is slated for 10 a.m. on Saturdays. The library is located off of Brooten Road on Camp Street in Pacific City.

Happy birthday this week to: Emmet Clark, David Craven, Caleb Fitch, Pandora Ganes, Baird Hagerty, David Hale, Jason Hale, Nicole Hamilton, Morgan Aase, Middy Hurliman, Penny Love, Amy Moore, Margie Ann Park, Kathy Randall, Bill Shores, Carl Sordahl, Kristin Trost, Kayden Wagner, Kris Weiland, Zach Wettstein, Kady Wheeler, and Fred Whittlinger.

Hopefully, everyone has recovered from the holidays and winter weather. It is a good reminder that we need to be ready for whatever Mother Nature throws our way. In the next few months, the city will be putting an Emergency Management plan together to help in the event of a natural disaster.

There are a few other projects that the city is working on. One is for forming a Fire District. Councilman Paul Daniels is working with the Acting Fire Chief, Jay Marugg to coordinate this effort. Councilwoman Marlene Westerfield is heading up an effort to help citizens of Garibaldi rid their yards of debris by establishing our first Clean Up Day. Dumpsters will be provided for residents to drop off items they no longer need in an effort to beautify our town. We will post times when everything comes together. And the newly formed Tourism Committee will be holding their first meeting soon.

The city also has a program for reduced sewer rates for low income people over 65. In the past, we have had other members of the community donate

JUDY RIGGS
503-317-1533
gijudy97118@gmail.com

an amount either one time or monthly, but several of those donors have either moved away or are no longer with us. If you would like to donate to this program to help our local seniors, you may sign up at city hall. In order for this program to keep going it needs our support.

I am at City Hall on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. unless I am scheduled to attend a meeting elsewhere. Last week, I was able to meet with two members of the community to address their concerns, and we are working to resolve their issues.

The library will be sponsoring an art class tomorrow, Jan. 23, from 3:00 until 4:30 p.m. at the Garibaldi Library. "Art Classes with Valerie" will be supplying materials, scissors and glue to help you create inspirational collage cards to surprise your loved ones. Valentine's Day is right around the corner, and nothing says love like a gift from the heart. In February (February 20th, same time), Valerie will return with a sun catcher and beaded bookmark class. For more info, contact Norma at 503-322-2100.

The library is also offering another computer class on Feb. 7. These one-on-one classes are designed to help you navigate the confusing world of technology. No reason to feel bashful! I even took a class and now have more confidence with my tablet. The instructor put me at ease right away, and you all know there is no such thing as a dumb question! It's a great way to learn more about your smart phone and devices, and how to keep in touch with family and friends. For an appointment time, please call Norma at the number above.

Cheryl Gierga Hamilton has opened her Pacific Gypsy Boutique at a new location - 206 Garibaldi Avenue, (where Tim Dolan had his office). Hours are 10:30 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. She even has a spinner made by her famous grandpa, Joe Gierga! For more info, call Cheryl at 503-801-8744. Better yet, go check it out!

I have had several folks ask me how my brother, Mike, is doing with his battle with pancreatic cancer. He had to miss his chemo because his white blood cells took a drop from 3.0 to 1.8 before Christmas. But he was a bit relieved because it would have spoiled Christmas, which, by the way, was totally amazing! (Thank you to our daughter, who hosted for my family and Dale's family.) So, when Mike went in this week, his white blood cells went back up to 3.0. So he had his chemo. However, his CA19.9 went up four points, which wasn't so good. But, his attitude is phenomenal. He is my superman, and I am really proud of him.

The Mookule Club will be gathering their ukes and having a jam at 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 25 at the Tillamook Library. If you are new to this fun instrument, come at least 15 minutes earlier for a quick lesson. The Salty Strings Ukulele Group of Rockaway Beach jams every Wednesday, at the Rockaway Beach City Hall from 6-7:30. Both groups have loaner ukuleles, and welcome everybody.

The Meals for Seniors program is having their fundraiser, a roast beef dinner, on Saturday, Feb. 15. I will update you, but be sure to note this event on your calendar.

The Lions Club is still having Saturday Night Bingo from 6-10pm. They are located at 286 S. Anchor, and all are welcome. Just a little reminder that the Lions collect your hearing aids, glasses and cell phones that you no longer need or use. These items will be distributed in developing countries. Did you know that?

Are you looking for a place to volunteer? I have an idea for you! You can become a volunteer at the International Police Museum in Rockaway Beach. You will have the opportunity to meet folks from all over the world. Last year they had over 5,000 visitors. No police experience is necessary. They need volunteers for flexible weekend shifts. If you are interested; call 503 457 6056, download an application at <http://www.internationalpolitemuseum.org> or just drop by 212 N. Highway 101. Sounds like fun!
