South Fork Forest Camp holds fire school

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

South Fork Forest Camp held its annual fire camp for its adults in custody last week, with a field training day held on May 14 to give the students a chance to practice skills in a hands-on environment.

Inmates at South Fork Forest Camp, jointly operated by the Oregon Department of Correction (DOC) and Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF), have been fighting fires since the camp was established in 1951, and ODF Assistant Camp Manager Dana Turner said that those in the program value the opportunity.

"It's a privilege to be at this camp, it's the only fenceless minimum-security camp in the state of Oregon and it's a privilege to be here," Turner said, "and I would say most of these guys want to be here."

Founded in response to the Tillamook Burn, the series of four fires that leveled the majority of what is now the Tillamook State Forest between 1933 and 1951, South Fork Forest Camp is located a little over a mile and a half off Highway 6, near milepost 28, and is home to 125 adults in custody.

Those at the camp all have less than five years remaining on their sentences and are selected for the program by a committee of staff members. All participants must have been incarcerated for at least six months by DOC, and they are selected based on a variety of criteria, including their behavior, victim profile and time left to serve.

All participants earn a wildland firefighter type II certification during the annual May camp, where they learn skills like mopping up a burned-over area, creating a fire line, laying hose and using fire shelters. With this certification, maintained in annual refresher courses, program participants are eligible for wildland firefighting positions in the public or private sector upon release, and Turner said that ODF had hired two ex-participants this year alone.

"So, Department of Forestry, we do hire ex-adults-in-custody who've been through South Fork, which is pretty cool," Turner said.

During the fire season, crews typically respond to fires within a three-hour drive, according to Turner, though they can also travel farther to larger conflagrations for up to 14 days. Much of the crews' work focuses on mop-up and line-cutting activities, but Turner said that last year they had several opportunities to participate in initial attacks as well.

Flynn Lovejoy, one of the firefighters who has been at South Fork for a little over a year, said that he had come from Snake River Correctional Facility in Eastern Oregon and was excited to be at South Fork. Lovejoy said that he thought the opportunity could provide an "awesome segue" back into society upon his release and that he enjoys being able to fight fires while in custody.

"It's incredible," Lovejoy said, "being able to go out and fight fires while I'm incarcerated in prison, it's super cool."

While not responding to fires during the summer months, crews spend their time maintaining recreational assets in the adjoining state forests, including by making signs in a workshop at the camp. In the winter months, their focus pivots to forest management, including thinning operations, prescribed burns and other reforestation efforts.

Firefighters in the program work 40 hours weekly and earn $112 monthly, plus an additional $20 for any day spent responding to a conflagration. They can also earn a wildland firefighter type I certification following their initial training by helping in the training of others and responding to a variety of different scenarios in the field.

At the field training day, ODF firefighters and seasoned program participants manned four stations spread across the camp's grounds to reinforce a week of classroom learning.

At one, trainees practiced clearing burned over areas of pieces of hot wood in a safe manner to prevent flare ups, while at another they got hands-on experience cutting a fire line with the various tools of the trade. Another station saw the fighters learn the proper way to unroll and reroll hose, while the final station consisted of drilling the use of emergency shelters, used when a fighter is overtaken by a conflagration.

Lewis takes reins at Tillamook City Hall

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

After an extensive nationwide search with the assistance of WBCP, Inc., a professional recruitment agency, the Tillamook City Council has chosen Sean Lewis to be the next City Manager of Tillamook.

Mr. Lewis was selected out of nearly 60 applicants and brings with him more than 16 years of experience in local government. Previously Mr. Lewis worked as a Deputy Director for Community Development for South Salt Lake, Utah; and was a County Planner in Summit County, Utah. Most recently, he served as the City Manager of Ephraim, Utah, where he was formerly the Planning and Zoning Administrator.

Lewis is a member of the American Institute of Certified Planners through the American Planning Association and a member of the International City/County Managers Association.

"The City was very fortunate to have a very broad and deep applicant pool to choose from. It was an extremely competitive recruitment," said Interim City Manager, Kevin Perkins. "Everyone at the City is excited to begin working with Sean."

I am humbled and excited to have been offered the opportunity to be the next City Manager of Tillamook City," said Lewis. "My family and I are looking forward to experiencing all that Tillamook and Oregon has to offer!"

Mayor, Aaron Burris, stated, "I am happy to welcome Sean to the team and look forward to working with him in this important role."

Lewis started with the City on May 12, 2025, and has agreed to a 2-year contract with the City. His initial salary will be $136,200.

Fournier pushes for Highway 6 fix

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Following a landslide in late 2024 that caused significant damage to Highway 6 near mile marker 35 in Washington County, Tillamook County Commissioner Paul Fournier is looking to build support for a permanent fix to address the two active slides in the area.

While Oregon Department of Transportation (ODOT) crews address issues as they arise and are examining longer-term solutions, Fournier said that he is concerned a major storm could knock the roadway out for months, a situation he feels the counties and ODOT should be prepared for.

"I'm just trying to raise the alarm because we will be devastated if that thing is closed for any length of time," Fournier said, "like our TLT, you know, we're relying on that, people who long-term visit will make that trip around, but overnight visitors won't."

Highway 6 was built during the great depression by workers from the Works Progress Administration, providing the first direct road link between Tillamook County and the Willamette Valley.

Unfortunately, the section of the 48-mile highway crossing through a pass in the coastal range, between mile markers 31 and 37, was constructed on unstable slopes, leading to damage to the road as early as the 1950s, according to Mindy McCull, a public information officer for ODOT. McCull said that the section of the road at the counties' border is on an unstable slope that is prone to landslides and ground movement that cause ongoing damage, including broken and sunken pavement.

Geotechnical experts from

Fournier surveys the edge of the slide at mile marker 34.8.

ODOT have monitored the area for years, according to McCull, and have identified two major landslides around mile marker 34.8, which move by a quarter or inch or more some weeks. During the summer months, ODOT crews repave the sections most damaged by the slides, which they then maintain as best they can through the winter months.

While no concrete plans or funding for longer-term fixes currently exist, a 2023 safety study, funded by a bill sponsored by State Senator Suzanne Weber, found that addressing 18 priority unstable slopes between mileposts 31 and 35 would cost between $38 and $49.4 million. McCull said that ODOT engineers were also looking at less expensive repair options, including new retaining walls or a possible road realignment away from the most unstable areas, with price tags ranging from $6 million to more than $20 million.

Even those smaller figures outstrip available resources, though,

Trash Bash Art Fest kicks off with Trash Art Slam

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Heart of Cartm's annual Trash Bash Art Festival kicked off with a gallery opening reception featuring a live art demonstration by three artists at White Clover Grange on May 15.

The three-day event continued with a Trash Tales storytelling event on May 16, and culminated with the annual Trashion Art Show on May 17. Heart of Cartm Executive Director welcomed attendees to the kickoff event on Thursday, saying that the weekend was an excellent opportunity to show off Heart of Cartm's mission.

"We are asking you to come out of hibernation to help us celebrate the creativity and resourcefulness that characterize this community all year long," Just said.

Heart of Cartm began in the late 1990s as a non-profit focused on reducing waste and managing it locally and ran the Manzanita Transfer Station for two decades until 2018. Reinvigorated by a new board in 2021, the organization opened a new workspace in Wheeler where they repurpose materials donated by community members or rescued from the roadside or rubbish piles into art, which is then sold.

The Trash Bash Art Festival, held each May, gives the group an opportunity to show off its members' skills in repurposing and to raise funds through fun events and art sales. At the opening reception, artists Shel Stout, Senny Siegel and Wenda Borge showcased their artistic talents in a Trash Art Slam, where each of the artists was given three hours to craft a piece out of donated materials. Artists spent the first hour choosing their materials, half an hour arranging them and an hour and a half assembling, with the help of an assistant, and audience members were welcomed to help or ask the artists questions about their process.

Attendees were also able to peruse more than 70 pieces of art that were on display in the grange, with many for sale, while enjoying donated hors d'oeuvres and drinks.

Nestucca High students leave mark with murals

Over the past nine years, students at Nestucca High School have painted some 30 murals around the school's common areas, with instruction and assistance from art teacher Syndney Leja.

Most recently, seniors Alyssa Manzonie and Daisy Camacho finished a series of 13 murals honoring each of the school's sports programs, as well as the school's mascot, in the hallway outside the school's locker rooms.

Leja said that she had been inspired to start the mural projects by the school's abundance of empty spaces and that they had become an asset for the school and a source of enduring pride for the artists.

"Lots of people in this community will come back to like the musical, a sports game for a cousin, a graduation for a friend," Leja said, "and every time they come, they always get really excited to see their murals again."

The mural push began after Leja arrived in the district in 2016 and noticed the lack of adornment on the high school's walls, which she quickly determined to address. "One thing that I noticed when I got here is that there were no murals anywhere, there was no art anywhere, there was nothing," Leja said. "So that was one thing I didn't like about it is it just felt like it was empty, and I felt like we could do something to make it a little bit nicer."

Leja began by partnering with motivated students and identifying a suitable location for the first projects—outside the school's upstairs bathroom—and got down to work. The first two murals, one a multicolored rendering of a bobcat's face and the other featuring a bobcat on the beach in Pacific City, were completed in 2018, getting the ball rolling.

Each year, Leja said that two to four murals are added, with upperclassmen who have taken multiple art classes working alone or in small groups together with Leja to complete them. "The kids that did it are like kids that wanted to have something they could leave publicly, kind of like a donation," Leja said.

Some of the murals are inspired by their location, like one in the special education room featuring multicolored puzzle pieces in honor of autism awareness and another in the computer lab featuring maps of circuit boards, while others are reflective of the students' interests, pop culture influences from their time at Nestucca or other aspects of the school or local community.

Students devote art class time to the projects, but also often stay after school or come in on the weekends to put in extra work. In the past, students have also been able to work on the murals during the school's summer intensive arts program, though that will not be available this year.

Work on the recently completed mural began during summer school during 2023, when Leja approached Manzonie to brainstorm ideas for the hallway connected the school's locker rooms and cafeteria, which was unadorned and "creepy" in the words of Manzonie.

They came up with the idea to create murals depicting each of the school's sports using the silhouette of a current athlete and got to work selecting images taken by the school's yearbook photographers to use as guides.

"We had talked about doing a mural and we came up with using actual kids from our school as the people that we would paint on the mural, which we haven't done before," Manzonie said.

After selecting the images, they used tracing paper to copy the silhouette from an image on the television in the art room, before transferring the tracing to the wall and painting it in. Manzonie, who was selected for a Horatio Alger Scholarship this year and recently traveled to Washington D.C. to accept, said that she got a lot of work done on the project in that first summer and then made intermittent progress throughout last school year and summer, before buckling down in the most recent trimester to complete the project before she graduates this spring.

When it came to selecting the models, Manzonie said that she made sure to only use each student one time and did not focus on highlighting the best players, instead looking for the best silhouettes and selecting some students who played more for the love of the game.

"It didn't have to be the star athlete, it could be like featuring any person," Manzonie said, "because some of these kids aren't like the best of the best, some of them just really enjoyed being part of something."

Leja said that she has plenty of spots identified for future murals to keep her students busy for years to come and that she is working to identify which students have the skills and drive to take on future projects. Leja said that positive feedback from the community and the happiness that she saw from the students validated the extra hours she put in to helping with the murals.

"It makes you happy to see these memories and it makes me feel good as the art teacher when I have people who I don't even know who they are, I've never talked to them, I've never met them, I don't know if they have a kid here but then they are like, 'Are you the art teacher?' And I'm like, 'Yeah.' And they go, 'You did all these murals?' And I'm like, 'Yeah.' And then they go, 'I love them, they're amazing, they make the school so special,'" Leja said. "So, it makes me feel like it's worth my time and energy and the weekends I put in."

Board of Forestry moves forward with non-public recruitment

At a special meeting on May 12, the Oregon Board of Forestry agreed on a timeline for the recruitment of a new state forester and a list of desired attributes, while signaling their intention to keep candidates' names confidential until finalists are announced.

The board will do this by assigning the early stages of the interview process to an interview panel with a designated individual, likely to be Board Chair Jim Kelly, making decisions on who will advance based on the panel's feedback.

The meeting followed one two weeks prior, at which board members discussed taking a non-public approach to the recruitment process to encourage candidates who might have concerns about their current employers finding out about their application.

Kylen Stevens, an executive recruiter from Oregon's Department of Administrative Services (DAS), is helping the board with the recruitment process and presented the timeline he had developed for the recruitment based on the board's feedback at the previous meeting.

Stevens said that the timeline called for the position to be posted on June 2 and remain active throughout the month. At that point, he or an employee from a recruiting firm will review applicants against lists of minimum qualifications and desired attributes to bring a list of potential interviewees to the designated decision maker, who will select candidates to interview.

Interviews with the panel would take place in July, per the timeline, with two rounds planned to narrow the field down and the designated individual deciding on who will advance, with finalists identified by late July. At that point, the finalists' names would become public and Stevens or another recruiter would perform background and reference checks before a final interview with the board of forestry in executive session, as well as with the governor or a representative from her office, before a job offer is made at some point in the first week of August.

Board members approved this timeline as well as the list of minimum qualifications and desired attributes for the position, which was based on the same list used in the last recruitment in 2021.

The board then turned to the topic of hiring a recruiting firm, but Board Member Ben Duemmling voiced concerns about the lack of a working website for Talent Advisory Group, the firm being discussed, and asked if they had any applicable experience in natural resource management recruitment. Several other board members echoed Duemmling's concerns and said they wanted to make sure the firm was well qualified before spending $80,000 in taxpayer money with them.

Stevens said that he did not know why the firm's website was inactive or about their past recruitments but clarified that they were the only recruitment firm that was prequalified with the state to conduct executive level recruitments for state agencies. Stevens said that for the board to select an alternate firm, they would have to go through a request-for-proposal process that would lengthen the recruitment time.

Kelly said that while he heard and shared the concerns, he believed that the board needed to hire an outside recruiting firm, as DAS had not done a satisfactory head, potentially from Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife. Other board members suggested past Board of Forestry Member Chandra Ferrari, a representative from academia, industry leaders and a representative from the forest trust land counties be considered for inclusion.

No decision was made or consensus reached on the panelists and the board will discuss the subject again and decide on the panel's makeup at their next meeting.

Finally, the topic of the designated individual came up, and Justice said that he had been planning to personally fill that role. Other board members did not object to this suggestion and a final decision to confirm Justice in the roll will also be made at the board's next meeting.

Tillamook FFA excels in State Career Development Events

The Tillamook FFA Chapter is proud to announce outstanding results at the recent Oregon FFA State Career Development Events (CDEs), with two teams earning the title of State Champions and qualifying to represent Oregon at the National FFA Convention in Indianapolis this fall.

The Dairy Cattle Evaluation CDE Team and the Milk Quality and Products CDE Team both claimed first place in their respective contests, securing a coveted invitation to the national stage. These contests were hosted at Oregon State University, where students demonstrated their skills in evaluating dairy cattle and assessing milk and dairy product quality - key components of Oregon's agricultural economy and Tillamook's local heritage. While the Dairy Cattle Evaluation team has seen recent success at the state level, the Milk Quality and Products team hasn't won the title since 2008. Under the direction of FFA Advisor and Coach Brooklyn Bush, the team placed at state multiple times in recent years and was finally able to bring home a blue banner.

"We're incredibly proud of the hard work and dedication these students have shown," said Hayden Bush, Tillamook FFA Advisor. "Many of them have been training and competing for years, and to see that effort rewarded at the state level is a testament to their commitment and the strength of our program." In addition to the state champions, Tillamook FFA also celebrated strong finishes in other contests:

- The Environmental and Natural Resources (ENR) CDE Team placed third in the state. This competition, held at the Oregon Garden in Silverton, challenged students to apply their knowledge of ecosystems, environmental science, and natural resource management.

- The Horse Evaluation CDE Team, also hosted at Oregon State University, earned an impressive third-place finish in a highly competitive field. Participants evaluated conformation and performance of various horse breeds and provided oral reasons to justify their rankings. "These students are learning real-world skills that go far beyond the classroom," said Bush. "Whether it's judging cattle and defending your choices, analyzing agricultural products, or solving environmental problems, they're gaining experience that will serve them well in college, careers, and life."

The Tillamook FFA Chapter would like to express immense gratitude to the community supporters, parents, and volunteers for helping make these achievements possible. The chapter looks forward to preparing its state champion teams for nationals and continuing its proud tradition of agricultural excellence.

About Tillamook FFA
Chartered in 1949, the Tillamook FFA Chapter is a proud part of the Oregon FFA Association and the National FFA Organization. Through classroom instruction, hands-on experiences, and leadership development, Tillamook FFA empowers students at Tillamook High School to explore careers in agriculture, build leadership skills, and serve their community. With 660 members, Tillamook FFA serves the largest and one of the most diverse chapters in the state.

TBCC CONNECTIONS

TBCC celebrates progress this season

By DR. PAUL JARRELL
TBCC PRESIDENT

With trees in full bloom around the TBCC campus, spring has officially arrived! The season has already brought a series of exciting events, including the Medical Assisting and Phlebotomy Ceremony on March 13, the All-Oregon Academic Team Luncheon in Salem in April, and the Open House and TBCC Foundation's Giving Circles event on April 26. Now, with graduation just around the corner and summer term registration opening soon, there's a renewed sense of momentum on campus. We're also looking forward to continued progress on the construction of the new Healthcare Education Building.

Registration for summer term opens on May 19, with classes set to begin on June 23. Applications for the Nursing program remain open through June 30. It's a significant moment for the Nursing program, as the first cohort prepares to celebrate its accomplishments at a pinning ceremony in June—a milestone that reflects TBCC's growth and progress in recent years. Meanwhile, the graduation ceremony for the TBCC Class of 2025 will be held on June 13 at the Tillamook County Fairgrounds, honoring the achievements of students across all programs.

At TBCC's Open House in April, the college highlighted a wide range of programs and services—and, for the first time, invited the community to tour the construction site of the new Healthcare Education Building. Executive Director of Facilities and Safety, Jason Lawrence, led guided tours through the first floor, showcasing the future community event space as well as the Nursing and EMT labs. If you missed the Open House, don't worry—more opportunities to tour the building will be available soon, so stay tuned!

Progress on the building continues steadily. The weatherproof exterior is currently being applied to protect the structure from the coastal climate, skylights have been installed, and construction on the second floor is well underway. The project remains on track to welcome students for classes in January 2026.

As we look ahead to the coming months, there's a sense of excitement and pride in the air at TBCC. From honoring student achievements to expanding opportunities through new facilities and academic programs, the college is moving forward with purpose and vision. Whether you're a student, prospective applicant, or community partner, now is a great time to engage with what's happening at TBCC. From academic milestones to campus developments, there's a lot to look forward to this season.

GARDENING MATTERS

Saving the butterflies

CARLA ALBRIGHT

In the past couple of months, I have seen print articles on the dire state of native butterflies. In fact, the number of butterflies in America is down 22% between 2000 and 2020. That's only 20 years.

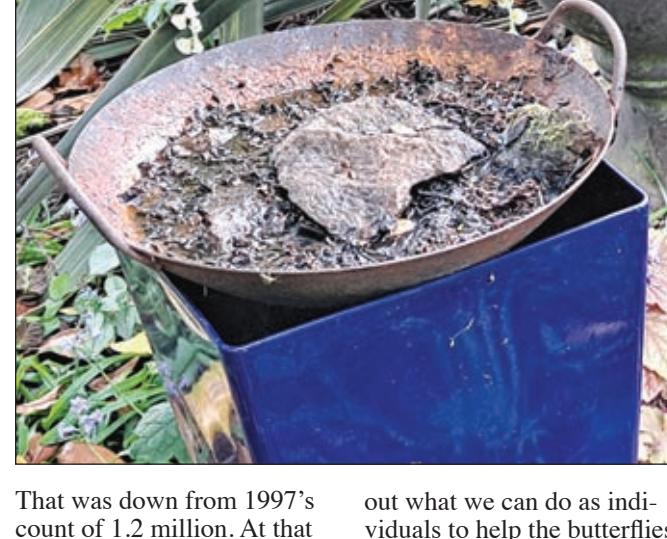

A report came from the journal "Science" and was the result of the first nationwide assessment and analysis. A team of scientists combined 35 citizen scientist monitoring programs and more than 76,000 surveys by scientists and amateur butterfly enthusiasts to obtain the data. They wound up counting 12.6 million butterflies over two decades. Which begs the question: how do you even start to count that many butterflies? Boggles the mind. But I digress.

As you might guess, the blame for the decline is laid firmly at the doorstep of climate change, the use of pesticides and a loss of habitat. But the decrease seems even more dramatic when we realize the lower 48 states reported an average yearly decline of 1.3% since the turn of the century.

A third of the species counted exhibited significant declines, with 114 falling more than 50%. Only 3% of the species showed gains. The United States has about 650 butterfly species, but 96 of those species were so sparse they didn't show in the data. Another 212 weren't found in large enough numbers to determine trends, according to the study author Collin Edwards of Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife. Nick Haddad, an entomologist from Michigan State University and a co-author of the study, stated that "... Butterflies have been declining the last 20 years, and we don't see any sign that that's going to end." Dire straits indeed.

Sadly, some of our favorite species are suffering the worst losses. The red admiral is down by 44% and the American lady by 58%. In March, the annual survey of the beloved monarch butterflies counted at an all-time low of fewer than 10,000.

That was down from 1997's count of 1.2 million. At that rate, we will lose half of all butterflies on the continent in the next 30 to 40 years.

Of course, the decline of butterflies is sad to those of us who love to see these beauties flitting through our gardens. They bring such joy and color to our lives. But they are not just pretty faces. Butterflies are crucial as pollinators for plants and food sources for birds and mammals. A loss in butterfly species would ripple through the food chain and cause havoc in the natural environment.

But the study also pointed out what we can do as individuals to help the butterflies of the United States.

First, we can reduce and even eliminate the use of pesticides in our gardens and our lawns. We must realize that insecticides affect all insect species, not just harmful ones. If we want butterflies and bees to pollinate our plants, we must make a habitat conducive for their success.

Using plants that draw butterflies is an easy way to attract them as well as add some color to our gardens.

FENCEPOSTS

A scheduled power outage occurred in Cape Meares on May 7, as the Tillamook PUD rerouted overhead power lines for bridge work on Bayocean Road. Kudos to the crew for restoring power three hours ahead of time. We appreciate all the PUD does to help us keep the lights on out here. Thanks, too, to the Cape Meares Emergency Volunteer Corps for immediately activating our local radio network to keep in touch and check on folks during the outage.

The Cape Meares Lake Committee (CMLC) has been making progress on several fronts. Members from the committee have met with representatives from Oregon Fish & Wildlife, the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ), and the Tillamook Estuaries Partnership to brainstorm resources and align expectations. CMLC Chair John Harland is borrowing equipment from DEQ to test and actively monitor the lake's water quality (temperature, bacterial growth, etc.). It is especially important to watch out for invasive species such as Eurasian Watermilfoil. Keeping an eye on wildlife, including birds, around the lake can provide insight into its health as well. CMLC is looking to expand its active membership and engage more community members in protecting Cape Meares Lake; if you are interested, visit <https://capemeares.org/cape-meares-lake-wetland/> for more details.

CAPE MEARES
ELLEN STEEN
ellensteen2@gmail.com

Spring Chinook salmon

fishing is in full swing. Most of the local fishermen peg mid-May as a good starting point for decent number of springers to be coming in. I heard reports of one salmon caught off the bank at the end of April, and a few fishermen were lucky in early May. Capt. Pete took our grandson Max and his girlfriend, Anna, out in the bay on Mother's Day weekend. Max hooked a springer shortly after they launched. He played it all the way to the boat...where it got off. Yes, there is always the one that gets away. Tight lines to all those out there trying their luck.

A neighbor came across a scary-looking fish on our beach the other day. It was a long, skinny fish with a fin like a sail on its back, dagger-like teeth and huge eyes. This was a longnose lancet fish; one had been seen on the beach in Seaside earlier this spring. Longnose lancet fish live in deep water but come near the ocean's surface at night to feed on salmon and other fish. We Steens have seen only three longnose lancet fish in the close to 40 years we have been walking the beach here.

We were eating dinner and looking out over the ocean when what should we see but...a kitesurfer. Or kite-boarder, I understand, is also acceptable nomenclature. In any case, this person was on a board in the surf, his multi-colored kite high above him. The large kite he was using captured the wind to propel him across the water on his board. At one point, the kitesurfer tried to use his board to jump a wave, but he fell on that move. We had seen kiteboarders on Cape Meares Lake and Tillamook Bay, but never kitesurfers on the ocean before. What an interesting sight!

A birthday shout-out to my beloved Capt. Pete, 84 years young today. May he live forever.

Remember that Tuesday, May 20 is Election Day in Oregon. Tillamook County Retired Educators and Teachers (TREAT) has announced its school board endorsements, for the Nestucca Valley School District. They endorse Irene Barajas, Seth Belsey and Marty Wisehart for the Board. According to a press release, "These candidates are united in their commitment to key priorities such as enhancing school safety, securing sustainable school funding, expanding career and technical training opportunities, and ensuring all students are protected from harassment and bullying."

Kiawanda Community Center serves Senior lunches at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesdays (May 20) and Wednesdays (May 21) for $3 (others may partake for $6). The address is 34600 Cape Kiawanda Drive in Pacific City.

Thanks to Cara Elder for word that Northwest Senior and Disabled Services is seeking additional volunteers for that Pacific City Mealsite. Their Meals on Wheels program, which reimburses for mileage, operates from 10-11 a.m. on Mondays and Thursdays, weekly. South Tillamook County Library's story time happens at 3:30 p.m. on second and fourth Wednesdays, (May 28 and June 11). All ages are welcome. These events promise "reading and singing and moving about." Our own Pacific City Branch is located on Camp Street (off Brooten Road) in Pacific City.

Linda Hamilton has served as Office Manager at Tillamook's Habitat for Humanity and their ReStore for as long as I can remember. Her sunny disposition, cheerful "can do" attitude and deep faith have been an asset to Tillamook Habitat- its Board, staff and partner families. Linda will retire at the end of May. An open house is planned from 3:30-5 p.m. on Friday, May 30 at Linda's office. The address is 4192 U.S. Highway 101 North in Tillamook. Congratulations to "Miss Linda."

Let's mark next month's calendar for Tillamook Serenity Club's 11th Annual

"Don't Get High Tea." The "afternoon of elegance" will include savory and sweet treats and specialty teas and will include a Silent Auction. It's planned for 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 22 at Pacific Restaurant. The address is 205 Main Avenue in Tillamook. Admission is $40.

Happy Memorial Day this coming Monday, May 26. I was reminded that it's barbecue season over Mother's Day weekend, when my son in law Adam Morrow (Nestucca's Class of 2002) prepared ribs on an outdoor contraption with all the trimmings for a tasty dinner. If outdoor eats are in your plans, proper food safety during barbecues can help to avoid tummy troubles later. Make sure to take safe food preparation precautions and avoid cross-contamination with plenty of hand washing. Take steps to keep foods at safe temperatures; cold foods should be kept on ice or refrigerated and left out no longer than an hour, and warm foods should be kept heated to at least 140° Fahrenheit until served. Keep all outdoor buffet dishes covered to prevent insects from depositing germs onto your delicious meal.

Happy birthday this week to: Althea Bankston, Briana Benton, Natalie Blackburn, Isabelle Bruce, Freedom Capps, Keith Carver, Adaleigh Gann, Austynn Gann, Cody Hagerty, Rachel Hagerty, Jim Huddleston, Nolan Kellow, Ben Owens, Tyler Peterson, Kay Sadler, Holly Sigman, Harlow Watters, Brinley Whiteman, Taylor Whiteman and Evylyn Woods.

The May 14 City Council Workshop covered a number of issues that concern Rockaway Beach residents, but none perhaps that have the impact of the three large community grants that were awarded funding. These grants went out to Meals for Seniors, Movies in the Park and the Neakahnie Coast Art & Music Cultural Foundation.

Meals for Seniors is a beloved part of our community. Traditionally supported in part by the Hope Chest thrift shops in Rockaway Beach and Nehalem, as well as by fundraisers such as this weekend's French Toast Breakfast (8 a.m.—noon Saturday, St. Mary by the Sea, 275 South Pacific), the City's grant will nearly double Meals for Seniors' purchasing power.

Meals for Seniors also manages and operates a family fund, providing assistance (including rent, utilities, food, gas and more) to families in need or crisis throughout the year. During the 2024 holiday season, they worked with Tillamook CARE to help 11 families with a total of 31 children, and with Neah-Kah-Nie School District to assist an additional 23 families with a total of 52 children.

More than just providing low-cost meals (with the promise that no one is turned away for inability to pay), Meals for Seniors offers a vibrant social gathering for Rockaway residents, full-time and part-time, which is often the only social activity that many will have during the week. The recent addition of head chef Denise Van Loon to the program has added appealing variety to their monthly menus, posted on social media and elsewhere.

The grant will help Meals for Seniors purchase food and to-go containers for the meal delivery service.

Movies in the Park is a new program spearheaded by Fulcrum Community Resources and the Rockaway Beach Business Association.

ture for NCRD's transition to special district status in 1994. Taking the name Fulcrum Community Resources in 2005, the organization will serve as the nonprofit sponsor for Rockaway's Movies in the Park.

The grant request includes a timeline for choosing films, setting dates, and arranging for volunteers to take place by mid-May, with the movie schedule set to be announced in June.

Finally, the Neakahnie Coast Art & Music Cultural Foundation (NCAM) received a grant to support the launch of a music technology club at Neah-Kah-Nie High School in support of the high school's Music Technology Program. To be headed by NKNHS music director Michael Simpson, the music technology program offers a way for students to gain expertise in the technological side of the music world.

The program is also expected to support Rockaway Beach residents, including current musicians and others who wish to explore music as a form of self-expression as well as a potential career.

One comment towards the end of the City Council Workshop mentioned other worthy grant applications which did not pass the planning commission or city council. Several councilors suggested setting up a workshop for Rockaway businesses and organizations to provide instruction in how to craft a successful grant application. I know from speaking with other Rockaway Beach business owners that this would be a very valuable and welcome service, and I look forward to covering it in detail if it comes to pass.

GARDENING

Coneflowers, asters, zinnias, lavender and black-eyed susans are all good choices to draw butterflies. And even better would be native plants like milkweed, yarrow, sage and penstemon which are all good for our native butterflies because they serve as nectar supply and host plants.

Butterflies generally get their water intake from nectar, but they also need a source for minerals. Last summer I made a butterfly puddler. It was easy to do by using a shallow dish and adding 1 part compost to 3 parts sand. I put in a few flat, landing rocks and keep it just barely moistened with water. Since butterflies – like most creatures – crave salt, sprinkle a little on the top and add some overripened fruit like bananas or oranges and put it in a sunny spot. You will have the perfect habitat for our winged friends. Every month, empty the puddler and clean it with biodegradable soap and refill with the sand and compost.

We can – and must – do what we can to save the butterflies in our area. It isn't hard nor even time consuming, so there is no excuse not to do what we can to help. It's what gardeners do.

OBITUARIES

Cheryl Marie Lytsell Knotts
Oct. 2, 1949 - Jan. 25, 2025

Cheryl Marie Lytsell Knotts passed away peacefully in Bay City, Oregon, on January 24, 2025, at the age of seventy-five.

Cheryl is survived by her children, Shawn David Pell of Bay City, Oregon, Bealinda Marie Pell of Oakland Park, Florida, Georgina (Jodie) Lynn McVay of Bay City, Oregon, her stepdaughter, Shawn Marie Loy of Vancouver, Washington, her sisters, Glennda Lytsell Shelton, and Kandy Lytsell Cunningham, and many nieces, nephews, grandchildren, and one great-grandchild all living throughout the Pacific Northwest, as well as one of her beloved cats, Nala. She is preceded in death by the love of her life, her husband of 22 years and a U.S. Navy veteran, Kenneth L. Knotts, her big brother, William (Bill) Lytsell, and her other beloved cat, Rosie.

Cheryl was born on October 2, 1949, in Tillamook, Oregon, to Glenn Edward Lytsell and Mary Jane Higby Lytsell. She graduated from Nestucca High School in 1967. After graduation, Cheryl left the Oregon Coast to get married, work, and raise a family in the Valley. After her children were grown, her husband's employment gave them the opportunity to travel to China, Mexico, London, and Australia. Eventually she returned to the Coast (Bay City), where she retired. She enjoyed various hobbies and crafts activities throughout her life such as sewing, watercolor painting, collecting seashells, cooking, and most of all, she loved gardening. Each year, she was ecstatic about planting colorful, fresh flowers and watching them bloom as much as she could.

Cheryl loved her family tremendously and was a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, great grandmother, and aunt. All will deeply miss her loving heart, contagious laugh, and playful sense of humor.

Cheryl was an active member of her church in Tillamook for over 10 years. She enjoyed God's word through her congregation, and she loved teaching children's bible study and book club. Serving the Lord was especially important to her.

A celebration of life memorial service will be held at 11am on Saturday, June 7th, 2025, at Life Change Christian Fellowship (LCCF) Church located at 3500 Alder Lane, Tillamook, Oregon, 97141. All loved ones, friends, and family are welcome to attend and celebrate Cheryl's life. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to Life Change Church at the address noted previously. Condolences can be sent to www.waudsfuneralhome.com/obituaries/obituary-listings. The family would like to thank Waud's Funeral Home for their excellent care and dedication.

Sara Gail (Hartzell) Hudspeth
May 6, 1940 - 2025

Sara Gail (Hartzell) Hudspeth was born May 6, 1940 to Orpha (Grubbs) Hartzell and Leonard Hartzell in Middletown, Ohio. Along with her older brother Gary, the family moved to sunny California after the war.

Gail, a happy, adventurous child, gave her parents a lot of reasons to keep a watchful eye out as they moved around various parts of southern California. She was active in Job's Daughters, synchronized swimming and the school's business club. As a teenager, once she met Warren Hudspeth, she was smitten. Gail and Warren married on April 25, 1959 and had 66 loving years and many adventures together.

Gail and Warren had 4 children; Patricia Callaghan (Joe), Steven (Denise), James (Sheri) and Robert (Katie). When the children were very small, the family moved from sunny California to the wilds of southern Oregon to raise their rambunctious family of 3 sons and one daughter. They built their house gradually as money and time allowed, and raised farm animals as well as children. Gail was especially fond of her milk cows and turned from a city girl into quite the homesteader. Her flower gardens at each subsequent home made them especially welcoming to her growing family and friends.

Gail was an active young parent, supporting her children's sports teams, 4-H clubs and other random shenanigans. No one was a more involved parent than Gail, and she was a fierce mama bear when any of her kids were being given a hard time. She often drove for hours to shuttle baseball teams and Job's Daughters to games and functions all around the area.

After most of the chicks fled the nest, Gail began her "second" career as a Mary Kay consultant. She loved helping people look

OBITUARIES

Larry Leroy Tanner
April 8, 1943 - April 20, 2025

building a life rooted in love, faith, and family.

Babe and Larry enjoyed four-wheeling in his Jeep and riding motorcycles together.

His family was the heart of his world. He never missed an opportunity to support his children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren in their endeavors—especially at their sporting events.

Larry was known for his unmatched work ethic, resilience, and dedication.

He worked for his parents' trucking business, did carpentry work, and later became vice president at Erickson Hardwood. He also drove log trucks for Fallon Logging, hay trucks for Wesler Farms, and owned and operated his own trucking business.

Larry was one of the founders and coaches of the Tillamook kids' wrestling program and was honored with a Coach of the Year award for his dedication.

A man of deep conviction, Larry and his beloved wife were baptized together on Easter Sunday, April 20, 2003—a moment of spiritual significance that their family has always cherished.

Over the course of his life, he built his own home on 40 acres, maintained a thriving cattle farm, and worked tirelessly as a truck driver. He was also an avid cyclist who participated in numerous sanctioned rides and remained deeply active in his church community.

In his final days, Larry expressed how blessed he felt by his family's love, and they, in turn, surrounded him with the same unwavering care.

Larry is survived by his wife, Babe Tanner, and four children: Debbie Cooley (Eric), Larry Joe Tanner (Lisa), Patsy Willhite (Albert), and Rob Tanner (Madeline).

He is also survived by eight grandchildren: Natasha Churchill (Cody), Trever Cooley (Kiana), Chelsey Bennett (Harv), Shelby Lind (Tieler), Blake Willhite (Amanda), Jake Willhite, Kellen Tanner, and Allison Tanner; Six great-grandchildren: Kamden and Easton Churchill, Sawyer and Piper Bennett, and Haylie and Jordynn Lewis; And his sister, Kathy Bellamy (Jim).

Larry was preceded in death by his parents, Alvin and Virginia Tanner, and his sister, Carol Hionis.

A Celebration of Life will be held on May 10, 2025, at 11 a.m. at Ocean Breeze Baptist Church, 2500 Neilsen Road, Tillamook, Oregon.

FENCEPOSTS

Congratulations to the winners of the Bay City Booster Club Mother's Day planter raffle. Every year the club holds a raffle featuring bright flowers in unique containers. This year two planters were offered, one with a variety of succulents and the other the more traditional planter of flowers. Our wonderful Mayor, Liane Welch was the first name drawn and she chose the succulents. Second name drawn was Howard (no last name available), both winners were thrilled, and the Boosters want to thank everyone who purchased tickets and those who made donations. The monies raised from this raffle go toward the hay rack planters that will be brightening up our town in the next few weeks.

The Booster club will be holding their monthly potluck meeting on Friday, May 23 beginning at 11:30, in the community hall. This is the last meeting before they take a meeting break for summer. This is a summer potluck style picnic, and everyone is invited to come and join in the fun and learn more about the club, they always welcome new members. The next Booster event will be their perennial rummage sale which will take place August 23, there's always lots of treasures and bargains to be found. Work will also be ongoing at the new park over the summer months, so if you like to weed or plant come and join in.

I attended the Bay Ocean Community Chorus performance that took place on May 10th. This was an incredible event, wonderful voices singing tunes related to birds, bees and Broadway. One of the highlights was the piano solo played by my neighbor Barbara Richmond. She played a jazzed-up version of Rimsky Korsakov's Flight of the Bumble Bee that was terrific, it seemed the piano was going to fly she played so fast and brilliantly. Well done to all those performers, it was a truly enjoyable event.

I expect most people have noticed that the old blue building on the highway side of the Fish Peddler has been removed. The building had greeted visitors and locals alike for many years as they pass by Bay City. The contractor had to be very cautious in the removal of this structure as it was quite unsafe, and it was also imperative not to disturb the ecosystem of the bay. Many have fond memories of this place, and they will live on in photos and hearts.

The free open art night is held every Wednesday from 6-8 p.m. at the Bay City Arts Center. Bring your own art supplies, craft projects, board games. All ages are welcome, and creative support is always on hand. For more information on all events at the center, visit their website, baycityartscenter.com.

Cheesemaker baseball headed to playoffs

By MIKE WEBER

For The Headlight Herald

Tillamook High's baseball capped a very successful regular season by qualifying for a postseason playoff berth for the fourth consecutive year.

The Cheesemakers (5-5 league, 13-8 overall) had a tough late season schedule though, as they recently faced the No. 2-ranked two-time defending state champion Scappoose High Indians (12-0 league, 19-5 overall) in a two-game series.

The Cheesemakers, guided by fourth-year Coach Matt Strang, had a great chance to get a huge win, but fell just short in a 4-3 home loss May 9, to the Cowapa League champion Indians. It marked the smallest margin of victory for the Indians this year. It was quite an amazing performance by the Cheesemakers too, especially after they lost 10-0 to the Indians May 7, in Scappoose.

"We played really good in the home game against Scappoose," said Strang. "When we play well, I think we can compete with any team in the state, but right now we're just too inconsistent."

The Indians scored four runs in the first inning for an early 4-0 advantage. The Mooks then played very solid defense for the remainder of the contest while holding the powerhouse Indians scoreless for six innings. The Mooks had the tying run on base in the sixth inning, giving them a chance to pull out a huge upset victory, but the rally just came up a little short.

"We scored one run at a time in our nice comeback effort, but we just couldn't quite get the fourth run," said Strang. "It was very close, and it was a really good game, that's for sure and we definitely had a good crowd."

Playing a grueling schedule with three games in five days, the Cheesemakers won 4-1 at home May 5 over the Astoria High Fishermen (2-8 league, 6-15 overall). Following that matchup, the Mooks had a bit of a slump, dropping three of four contests.

After the Scappoose series, the Mooks played two nonleague games. The Mooks won a May 13 home game 4-2 over the Cottage Grove High Lions (6-18). The Mooks then faced the very strong Class 3A No. 3-ranked Warrenton High Warriors (20-4) and lost 8-2 in Warrenton.

"Obviously, with the nonleague games, I wasn't going to use any of our best pitchers, so we utilized a lot of our substitute players, and it was good for them to get some valuable playing time," said Strang.

Depending on results from the last week of the season, Tillamook will either face a first-round road game in the state tournament or a home play-in game. The Mooks last advanced past the play-in round of the state playoffs in 2022.

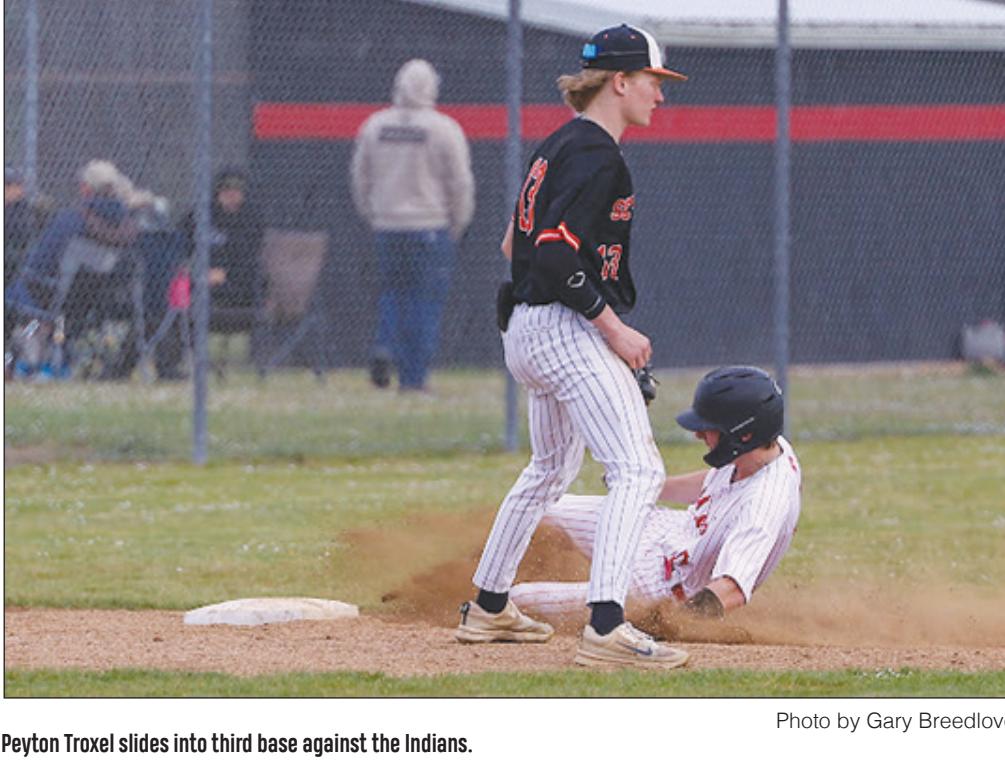

"This group of players is more talented than the teams that I've had the last two years," said Strang.

"At the start of the season, our expectations were really high. With the talent we have, I truly do believe that we're one of the top ten teams in the state. We're still pretty young and we have a little bit of immaturity qualities. We haven't quite figured out how to show up at the field and be ready to play up to our best potential."

At the time of writing, Tillamook was tied with the No. 12-ranked St. Helens High Lions (5-5 league, 10-12 overall) for second place in the Cowapa League, with two games remaining on the regular season schedule against Seaside (2-8 league, 7-14 overall), with the second on May 19. Results of the last two games were unavailable at the time of press.

"Obviously, we're hoping to get second place, but if that happens, we'll have to play a first round state playoff game on the road," said Strang. "It would be good to get second, because then we would have some time off to help our kids get healthy. We're a little banged up, but we don't have any serious injuries, and we just have a lot of guys with sore arms. If we get third place, we'll have a home Play-In round game, which would be a really cool thing for our community. I wouldn't be super upset if we did get third place."

The second place Cowapa League team clinches an automatic state playoff spot. The third-place team qualifies for a May 22 play-in round home matchup.

Join Friends of Netarts Bay for sustainable clamping on the bay

Space is limited, a shellfish license is required

Calling all bay admirers and clam lovers! Would you like to learn more about the different types of clams in Netarts Bay? Are you new to clamping and looking for some tips? Do you love to clamp but rather not go alone?

Join Friends of Netarts Bay, Estuary, Beach and Sea - WEBS, and the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife Saturday, May 31st for an informative day on the bay, learning about sustainable shellfish harvesting. "Not only will participants gain insights into sustainable clamping practices, they will also learn more about ODFW's research on bay clam populations and estuarine habitat studies" shares WEBS Stewardship Coordinator Marina Dreeben. In addition to discussing current research, participants will discuss the role of shellfish in bay health, the types of clams in the bay, and the best, most sustainable methods for harvesting wild shellfish. Both new and experienced clammers will have a chance to learn alongside ODFW and WEBS staff/volunteers. Clammers can count on gaining knowledge and collecting their limit with a fun group of community members.

This popular WEBS event fills up quickly but we do have last minute cancellations so feel free to sign up and add your name to the waitlist in case spots become available, or email info@netartsbaywebs.org to volunteer as a photographer, on-shore support,

Even Exchange

by Donna Pettman

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you exchange the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters.
