Tillamook County Pioneer Museum hosts 17th annual Festival of Trees

For the Herald

Next month, the Tillamook County Pioneer Museum will host its largest annual event. The 17th annual Festival of Trees gala will be held at the museum from 5:30-8 p.m. Dec. 10.

Hors d'oeuvres and beverages will be served and live music will set the holiday mood before the silent auction begins. Tickets are $35 in advance, and all community members are invited to attend. This event will celebrate the holiday season, raise money for the pioneer museum's programs and spotlight Tillamook County's exceptional community partnerships.

The Festival of Trees will feature decorated trees, wreaths and centerpieces donated by local businesses, organizations and community members. Additionally, a wide array of gift baskets, gift cards, and other exciting items will be on display at the museum for one week starting Dec. 3 for people to bid. The silent auction will conclude the night of the gala with the winners being announced at the party. All proceeds raised from the auction will benefit the pioneer museum and will help fund some much-needed building maintenance and the 2022 temporary exhibit, which will be announced soon.

"This year's event is particularly special," said Jaykob Wood, executive director of the museum. "We were not able to host Festival of Trees in 2020, due to COVID-19, which understandably, was quite disappointing for people who attend every year. We hope that this year's event will make up for the one we lost and that lots of folks will join us for a warm evening."

Tickets for the Festival of Trees are now available at the pioneer museum's front desk or over the phone at 503-842-4553. Tickets are $35 in advance or $40 at the door.

"This is my first Festival of Trees," said

Wood. "I can't claim to know what to expect, but based on what I've been told, tickets sell out quickly. If you're interested in attending, I'd get them while you can. I think it will be really memorable."

COVID-19 update: Case counts, testing, vaccine information

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Tillamook County Health Department reported 43 COVID-19 cases over the last week, from Nov. 7 through Nov. 13.

"Our 14-day case count was 105," Emergency Preparedness Coordinator Ed Colson detailed during a community update Tuesday, Nov. 16. "That's from the end of October, the 31st, through Nov. 13."

The total cases this month from Nov. 1 through Nov. 14 are 124. There have been a total of 2,124 cases since March 2020.

"Our COVID-19 related deaths stand still at 42," Colson said. "That is 35 confirmed not vaccinated, one not having a vaccine record in the Alert database, and six were fully vaccinated."

Colson said there is one confirmed outbreak in the county and 12 pending investigation. Oregon Health Authority confirmed an outbreak as of Wednesday, Nov. 17, at Tillamook County Creamery Association with 22 cases.

COVID-19 testing is available at the health center's acute care clinic from 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Make an appointment by calling 503-842-3900. Rinehart Clinic and Adventist Health also have testing available.

"For those fully vaccinated in the county, for the total population for Tillamook County who are considered vaccinated is 60.92 percent," Colson said. "We're almost to 61 percent, as of Nov. 14."

Booster vaccines are available in Tillamook County, Colson added. Pfizer and Moderna are recommended six months after completing the two-dose series. Those eligible for Moderna and Pfizer boosters include individuals 65 years and older, people living in a long-term care facility, people 50-64 with underlying medical conditions, and people ages 18-64 with underlying medical conditions or who are at a higher risk of exposure due to where they live or work, such as grocery store employees and health care workers. The Johnson & Johnson boosters are recommended for those two months after receiving their single shot for people 18 and older.

"Individuals eligible for a booster can receive the same or different COVID-19 vaccine as a booster dose depending on advice from a health care provider, individual preference, availability or convenience," Colson said.

The pediatric Pfizer vaccine is authorized for ages 5-11 in Oregon and available in Tillamook County. It is provided at the walk-in clinic, local pharmacies and through health care providers.

"For the rest of the month of November, the health department will be at the fairgrounds at the 4-H dorms to have a walk-in clinic for vaccines," Colson said. "The flu vaccine, the pneumonia vaccine and all three COVID-19 vaccines are available."

Vaccines are available from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and from 1-5 p.m. Wednesdays.

Adventist Health Tillamook, Rinehart Clinic and local pharmacies also have vaccines available.

Artists complete mural at Fairview Grange

Youth Art Center announces workshops

For the Herald

Fairview Grange in Tillamook- just down from the Tillamook County Fairgrounds on 3rd street - this last summer and into the fall volunteers, students, staff, Grange board members and family completed the first part of new projects and renovations being done with the help of the Oregon Coast Children's Theatre & Center for the Arts, which will make their new administration office at the Grange in the old Box Office.

The over 100-year-old building just received coats of new paint and repairs to doors, windows and the front area of the building over the summer and into the fall.

Other repairs will continue this winter and into spring of 2022. Tillamook Rotary is donating a new handicapped ramp for the building and many other projects and events are planned for this historic building with a long history for the region.

"A Gathering at the Grange," a new mural, was finished in September. The mural was designed by Eric Sappington of Oceanside and paid for by the foundation supporters of the Children's Theatre & Art Center. Student artists, staff and volunteers did work on the mural.

Special thanks goes to student artists Simone Ferguson and Abigail Gingerich, along with. Reo Russell who worked as Sappington's assistant, along with other staff and volunteers.

Workshops

The Children's Theatre & Youth Art Center hosted its first workshops which is their "15th Holiday Free Family Arts Workshops" - the first was on Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Grange. The second will be on Dec. 11. and runs from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Families will be spread out at their own table. Patrons will be asked to wear masks and other sanitation procedures will also be in place. For families and children that don't want to do in-person instruction, "Holiday Art Kits" will also be available for pick up.

The workshops are free with limited spaces; please contact ahead of the event if you want to pick up some of the free kits. Patrons will have a choice to build greeting cards, mobiles and other holiday decorations and get to pick items from a smorgasbord of art supplies. This is a great family holiday event. Allow for 45 minutes to one hour for most projects or items can be taken home to finish.

Fairview Grange is located at the end of 3rd street at 5520 East 3rd St. Tillamook.

Anchor Pictures will soon be releasing "Old-Growth Murder," a cold-case murder investigation documentary from the Oregon coast.

Director Tom Olsen Jr. has been researching the project over the past decade and producing it since 2015. Olsen is planning for a free public screening in Tillamook County this coming winter, with online distribution in the coming months.

On Thanksgiving Day, 1987, residents of Neskowin discovered the body of Alain Malessard, a French citizen, in the Neskowin Creek Campground. The U.S. Forest Service campground had been closed for the season. Malessard, who was bicycling across North America, had been murdered at the campsite. An investigation occurred and suspects

Garibaldi implements action plan to address financial weaknesses, deficiencies

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Garibaldi has developed an action plan to address deficiencies in the city's finances related to the fiscal year 2018-2019 audit. An action plan was presented during a city council meeting Monday, Nov. 15. Problems include material weaknesses, deficiencies and internal controls.

Mayor Tim Hall said the city's wellbeing depends on its financial health. After some financial irregularities he saw in 2019, he had called for a financial report to be called to the city before he came on council.

"The information being presented tonight - I assure you - that there will be steps put in place working with the city council to ensure that such financial mismanagement and deception do not happen ever again," Hall said. Linda Bade, a volunteer city resident and former auditor, presented the financial review and action plan. Last month, Bade had presented a preview of the fiscal year 2018-2019 audit to the council. The audit arrived in May but council did not seem to receive it. Independent auditing firm Accuity Certified Public Accountants performed the audit.

"There's a new requirement from the Secretary of State's Office," Bade said. "They want a plan."

Bade said she drafted a plan that goes to the heart of the comments from the auditor. The plan includes having the council involved and having controls in place the right way.

The action plan required by the Oregon Secretary of State's Office requires an action plan in response to financial statement audit findings of either material weakness or significant deficiency. The action plan was drafted for the council's comments, review, approval and signature. The action plan states the city council will provide oversight by monitoring city manager and staff activities through staff reports, approving policies and procedures, and reviewing financial reports such as budgets and monthly financials.

Bade will assist City Manager Juliet Hyams in an assessment of all policies and procedures related to the financial affairs of the city and its accounting system. This review will include looking at staff descriptions to ensure all financial and accounting processes are accounted for, assigned and have been reviewed and updated as necessary.

Internal controls are an issue. Internal controls are policies and procedures designed to prevent and/or detect and correct errors, omissions or misstatements. A deficiency in internal controls exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees to prevent or detect and correct misstatements.

The audit for 2019 came out May 26 of this year, Bade added.

Bade said the auditor noted the council's monitoring and review of the city's financial processes were not effective. The action plan includes having an organized process and a monthly review of financial statements. The council will look at policies and procedures over financial processes that are the starting point for all activities. As they are drafted, financial reports will be put before the council for review and approval.

The auditor also noted that obtaining a complete and accurate final general ledger was problematic, Bade said. The auditor noted the city lacks personnel in the accounting department. The action plan reports changes in staffing. At the time of the audit, the city did not have a city manager and the finance officer was the only lead, covering multiple duties. Since then, the city has hired Hyams, who began in July.

The finance officer at the time left employment with the city in September. The city hired a new finance officer this month.

Work will begin in December to review, create or update policies and procedures and is expected to take six to 12 months to complete. City management plans to begin including financial reports or financial information for discussion in the city council meeting for December and moving forward.

Murder

were identified, but no one was ever charged. The story of the murder gradually disappeared.

"Old-Growth Murder" retraces Malessard's five-month journey across North America, which originated in Montreal, Quebec, in May of 1987.

"He was only 27 and had loved cycling from a very early age," Olsen said. "He was an adventurer who had saved for a number of years to afford this year-long journey."

Olsen interviewed a number of family and friends, as well as Oregon authorities that handled the investigation. Interviews took place in Oregon, British Columbia, Alberta and France.

"In 2015, I began filming interviews and then started editing it a few years ago,"

Olsen said. "The two-part documentary is nearly 160 minutes."

The film includes extensive interviews with previously unseen crime scene material, family photos, home movies and a decade worth of artifacts. The climax of the film is the 1993 visit to Oregon by Malessard's parents to meet with investigators and visit the now closed campground where their son was murdered.

Although the investigation remains open, Olsen said the audience will surely wonder why, with today's advanced forensics, digital investigative tools, DNA testing, and headlines of decades old unsolved homicide cases being closed, this murder is still unsolved in 2021.

Olsen has been making documentaries for the past two decades. He is a professor in the Digital Media Arts program at Clark College in Vancouver, Wash.

In July 2021, "Old-Growth Murder" was the winner of two Impact DOCS Awards of Excellence in both "research" and for a "documentary feature." Impact DOCS recognizes film, television, videography and new media professionals who demonstrate achievement in craft and creativity, and those who produce standout entertainment or contribute to profound social change.

Olsen said he screened the documentary at the Tillamook County Sheriff's Office in the spring. He hopes the documentary will generate interest in reopening the case and drawing people forward who might have information.

CHAMBER CHATTER

Giving thanks for the little moments

Justin Aufdermauer
Executive Director

A few days ago, as I was driving into the office for the workday, I noticed that I was having a particularly wonderful day. I had gotten to drop my daughter off at school before heading to the Chamber, where I was greeted by an upbeat and hardworking team.

As I was reflecting on the day, I realized that there really wasn't anything different or special about it. I do all those things every day without so much as a second thought. So what made that day so much better?

for them — a fitting message to carry with us into Thanksgiving, I think.

For me, little moments happen when I notice that my daughters are healthy and happy, or when I get to wave to my neighbors. I also notice little moments happening whenever the Chamber staff is all together in the office working on a big project, and there's a magnificent feeling of fun, focus and teamwork.

It's a little moment for me to know that Chamber membership is at an all-time high, which means I get the honor of working with nearly 300 businesses, organizations and individuals to build a strong community where we all can thrive. Our long membership roster also leads to many other little moments when I get to celebrate the wins with our members for successful grant applications or busy shopping days.

I see little moments as I watch as relationships strengthen between local government and the community, as we join together to tackle community needs, even when there's not a quick and easy answer.

So what little moments make you thankful? And how can you pay more attention to those small things that make life sweet?

I've found that when I pay attention the little moments that make me smile or lift me up, days get better. And no matter the blessings or traumas someone has experienced in life, I know everyone has little moments worth noticing.

This holiday season, I hope you'll join me in enjoying those little moments, whatever they may be for you.

Derrick Josi's new book worth the read

I've just read Derrick Josi's wonderful book, "An Industry Worth Fighting For". Derrick Josi is a local dairy farmer and a very good writer.

In a brisk, well-written 201 pages, Mr. Josi details the operation of a modern dairy farm. He very effectively counters the slanted viewpoints of the bleeding heart activists who seem to equate dairy farming with the Holocaust. He also includes a thumbnail description of Facebook that somewhat explains how Facebook contributes to the morass of mis-information that assails us on a daily basis. Facebook strives to tell you what you want to hear.

I worked in the cheese factory for thirty years and was involved in every aspect of what happens to the milk after the farm. I had only a dim picture of how the milk got to the factory. I am grateful for the education. Thank you Mr. Josi!

(Book available on Amazon a kindle and paperback. I believe it will be in the library soon. For Kindle Unlimited users it is available for free.)

A thank you to our TSD#9 School Board

Following health care guidelines has made it possible for most of the children in our community to remain in school. In our family, our 2nd through 7th grade grandchildren have safely and enthusiastically returned to learning in their school buildings. They are back with their friends and teachers. They have quickly adapted to healthy practices, just as was the case 40 years ago, when it was OUR children who reminded US (and their grandparents) to wear their seatbelts! It is the resilient new generation setting the example for us today.

During this time of Covid, I have been so proud of you and our community members who have supported your efforts to keep us safe. Please don't be discouraged at the anxiety of the few who are undermining your effective handling of this health threat. Anxiety and fear cause people to lash out. We know that in most situations, the complaints can drown out the compliments. Your leadership, as in all teaching, coaching and parenting should be focusing on the positive. I just wanted you to hear loud and clear what a good job your district personnel have done in very difficult times. I hope you will share this with them.

TALES FROM THE LIBRARY

Bill Landau
Tillamook County Library

For those of us who are regular readers, we can't really imagine life without books. There are so many benefits that I can only assume the non-readers either think they don't have the time, or perhaps they simply have not been told what makes books so great. So here is my shot at what makes reading so wonderful. Also, because non-readers are probably not reading this library column, perhaps you should snip it from the paper and slip it into the hands of someone you would like to turn into a reader!

First of all, reading reduces stress...unless you are reading a Stephen King book or some other thriller! The tension you feel reading a book that is keeping you on the edge of your seat normally gets resolved in the end, so it won't leave you hyped-up when you finish. But most books are a gateway into a mind escape, where you can immerse yourself in a story that often takes away the anxiety that daily life and work can bring. It gives your brain something else to think about and if you have a really good book to read, you will find yourself looking forward to the time when you can sit, relax, and just read.

My second reason to read is it allows you to escape to locations you have never visited...or, it can also allow you to revisit places you are familiar with. I just read a great story that took place in Paris and I just loved hearing all the details about the cafes, the art galleries, and the hilly cobblestone streets of Montmartre. Having been there myself decades ago, the book brought back such wonderful details that I probably never would have thought of again had it not been for the author's descriptions. I also recently finished a dramatic book that took place in the Russian Ural Mountains...a place I will surely never visit, and now I don't have to because I have experienced it in my reading.

A third reason to read is it can boost your empathy for people who are different from ourselves. I particularly love a good biography for this sort of insight into what it is like inside another person's head. I have learned so much about different races, countries, customs, and beliefs that I never would have realized on my own.

Reading is also a great mood booster, and it does wonders for your imagination. Finishing a book provides a feeling of accomplishment and gets my brain in a space that is so different than my real-world obligations. Reading has become my "happy time".

Lastly, reading does amazing things for your "noggin". As we age, our brains need this stimulation to stay healthy. Engaging in a book not only helps you improve your memory skills and empathy, but research has shown that it makes us feel better and more positive about life in general. Not only that, but reading has been proven to help with depression and reduce the chances of developing Alzheimer's later in life.

In conclusion, what we have here is a win-win situation! Now all that is left is to get out the scissors, snip out this column, and get it into the hands of someone you know who could benefit from an escape into a book.

FENCEPOSTS

An atmospheric river hit the northern Oregon coast hard over Veterans Day weekend. Cape Meares didn't escape it. A neighbor who keeps close track of precipitation and dumps her rain gauge at 8 o'clock each morning tallied 1.5" on Nov. 11, 3.5" on Nov. 12, and 1.25" on Nov. 13; over six inches in three days! Cub reporter Rod Pelson made a trip into Tillamook on the middle day of the rainstorm, and reported a river of water where the lake's south arm crosses Bayocean Road and also near the Cape Meares boat ramp. Water in Cape Meares Lake was flowing at a high volume over the eastern outlet into Tillamook Bay. The access road from 3rd to 5th streets, just north of Chris Spence's house, had water flowing down it. Rod commented that Chris Spence got the new culvert under his driveway installed just in time, and that it is working well. Tillamook itself had its usual closures: Highway 6 where it goes under the railroad trestle and Highway 101 north of Hoquarton Slough. On the beach, the creek that empties from the sandbank just west of Pacific Ave. carved a steep cliff in the sand on its path to the ocean. Rod offers this anonymous quotation: "The beach: bare, open, empty, and devoid of yesterday's scribbling." Hope you survived the wet and wild weather; more is sure to come this winter.

There was a close call in Cape Meares during the atmospheric river. The driver of a car leaving Cape Meares at 11:30 p.m. on Nov. 11 perhaps couldn't see that water covered the road between the boat ramp and the swampy area across from it. Her car left the road and was quickly swept into the lake! Fortunately, she was able to call the couple she had been visiting in Cape Meares, and they came to her aid. The man who swam out to rescue her likely saved her life. As he got her to shore, another Cape Meares resident stopped to help and was able to warm her with blankets from his van until the police arrived. Two of our Cape Meares volunteer firefighters responded as well. The car, which had sunk, was not able to be retrieved until Saturday. Remember, folks, it takes only six inches of fast water to make your car's tires lose traction; be careful out there.

On a sad note, earlier that same day, Nov. 11, Ron Randolph died unexpectedly in his Cape Meares residence. Our community extends its condolences to Ron's family members and friends. Several topics of interest to the Cape Meares community were discussed at a Cape Meares Community Association (CMCA) meeting on Nov. 13. Among them: The community center will be getting a new coat of paint; there will be a staggered-time potluck on Dec. 11; and the logging above Cape Meares that resulted in Coleman Creek running muddy has been temporarily paused and a committee established for further investigation. Visit www.capemeares.org for the full meeting minutes and a copy of the presentation given by Wendy Burroughs regarding the Coleman Creek Watershed.

Have a Happy Thanksgiving!

Hebo Women's Book Club met for November last week. Melanie Merriyman hosted the Zoom call and Nancy Whitehead led our discussion of "Tightrope" by Nicholas Kristof. Besides the three of us, attendees included Rachel Petit, Madlen Silkwood and Joan Wilke. The best seller was a thought provoking criticism of the U.S. Government policy as it's impacted the working class since the 1970s. I have not yet read the book, but am anxious to do so.

Last Saturday I attended a first event since the Covid-19 pandemic at Kiawanda Community Center. KCC sponsored a flea market that included more than a dozen safely distanced vendors, wearing facemasks. I found nice cotton fabric selling for $2 a yard for some holiday sewing and half a dozen new in the package stitchery kits for $2 each that I'll sell for a profit on eBay. It felt good to be out and about again, to find bargains and to chat with neighbors.

Speaking of local gatherings, Bear Creek Artichokes will host a Holiday Party from 12-3:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 20. Free wine tasting is promised.

KCC will host another vendor event when their annual holiday bazaar resumes from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 4. Attendees can choose from vegetable soup or beef stew for lunch. "Captain Santa" will have candy for the kiddos. His dory boat will be moored under the portico between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Kiawanda Community Center is located at 34600 Cape Kiawanda Drive in Pacific City. St. Joseph's Catholic Church (near downtown Cloverdale) will host a 62nd annual bazaar, also from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday, December 4. The Alter Society, who prepare months in advance for the fundraiser, have planned a to-go menu, in order to reassign the space previously used for diners for gift basket displays. Shop early for the best selection.

Cloverdale Sanitary District invites public comments on a proposed $6-9.00 increase for monthly service at a public hearing. One is planned for 7 p.m. on Wednesday, December 8 at the Cloverdale Sanitary District Office, 34540 U.S. Highway 101 in Cloverdale. Another is slated for 7 p.m. on Wednesday, January 12 at the same address.

The Library Thrift Store will close for the season the week before Christmas. In the meantime, they're open from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays through Saturday, December 18. They aren't accepting any donations at this time. The thrift store provides funds for South Tillamook County Library building and grounds. They'll reopen in March. Remember that Tillamook Seventh-Day Adventist Church is taking registrations through November 30 for their "Hope for the Holidays" program. The service will be held from 6-7:30 p.m. on Monday, December 6 at the church. The address is 2610 First Street, in Tillamook. It is planned for community members who are struggling with grief and loss as the holiday season approaches. There will be live music, and inspiring speaker and helpful coping resources. Masks are required. Visit AdventistHealthTillamook.org to register. A live stream will be available at AHTillamook on Facebook for those who are unable to attend in person.

Tides of Change (formerly Tillamook Women's Resource Center) is seeking donations for their holiday store through December 17. Besides a wish list on Amazon, the nonprofit welcomes donations of new toys, ear phones, make up and nail items, perfume or cologne, gift cards (for local food, coffee, clothing etc.) teen items or board games. Donations may be dropped off between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at 1902 Second Street, in Tillamook. For more information call 503-842-9486.

Happy Thanksgiving dear readers. Happy birthday this week to: Sally Aylsworth, Megan Craven, Dillon Fitch, Jerid Inman, Jesse Peterson, Ken Richwine, Amy Seymour, Aiden Smith, Kimberly Streeter, Richard Swanson, Vance Trent, Stewart Trost and James Wilkinson.

I have had several people ask me about my brother's battle with pancreatic cancer. Well, the news isn't good. His CA19.9 has doubled to 4079. All his other tests are normal or close to normal. The Cat Scan he recently had showed nothing significant. He has now been switched to Folfox chemo (platinum based) and he is very hopeful that it will work. He does have pain in his abdomen all the time now and the CT scan did show some trace ascites in his abdomen right where he feels the pain. Mike says, in the past, it usually takes three treatments to show a significant reduction in his CA19.9's. So, with his positive thinking and everyone's prayers, we can turn this around. He is so amazing. I believe in February, it will be 10 years with this battle that had such a bleak diagnosis. Keep praying for a miraculous miracle!

I am so excited and I don't know where to begin! Well, I will just start! The Rockaway Beach Christmas Tree Lighting and Rockaway Beach Merchants Holiday Sales is the day after Thanksgiving, Friday, November 26th at 5:45pm at the Rockaway Beach Wayside. This event is being hosted by the City of Rockaway Beach and the Rockaway Beach Merchants Association. And I want to thank them for bringing this event back. It is such a great way to start the busy Christmas Season without big box stores and the hustle and bustle of the malls and the big city.

There will be refreshments for our guests and caroling lead by the Salty Strings Ukulele Group. Yes, you read that right! Several of our members will be playing music for you to listen to, and sing with. Our music is like adding tinsel to a Christmas tree. Christmas cheer, Rockaway style.

Many of the local shops will also be open late and they are offering the 'ultimate shopping experience' with big discounts after the tree

Virgil Dean (Bird) Keller
Dec. 1, 1932 - Aug. 30, 2021
Alice Roberta (Babe) Creech Keller
Dec. 30, 1932 - Aug 31, 2021

Alice Roberta Creech Keller

Alice Roberta (Babe) Creech Keller, 88, of Garibaldi, Oregon, passed away peacefully at home with family around her on August 31, 2021. She was born in Porter, Oklahoma, on December 30, 1932, to Hilary Lewis Creech and Alice Juanita (Givens) Creech. Alice graduated from Rhema Bible Training Bible Center in 1975, and was ordained into ministry in Claremore, Oklahoma in 1978. Alice and her husband Virgil then moved back to Garibaldi to co-pastor Garibaldi Faith Fellowship Center; and were successful in ministry and blessed untold lives for many years.

On August 21, 1953, Alice married Virgil Dean (Bird) Keller. She loved her husband dearly. The look on her face and the shine in her eyes told her heart. They celebrated their 68th wedding anniversary.

Family was much of their love story... together they raised their five children: son David Keller (wife Barbara), daughter Roberta Rurak (husband Steve), son Robin Keller (wife Janet), son Guy Keller (wife Carolyn), daughter Juanita Ballard (husband Scott). From their five children there are many grandchildren, great grandchildren, and great great grandchildren.

Alice was predeceased by both of her parents, and by her son David Keller, June 4, 2014, in McMinnville, and by her grandson Michael Ault, 1998 in Tillamook.

In the early 1950's Alice moved to Garibaldi. Along with being a wife and growing her large family, she enjoyed continuing education at TBCC where she also worked as a secretary at one point. She was an avid writer, Bible scholar and teacher. She also wrote songs to the Lord, played the harmonica and the guitar, and sang her heart out to God. Alice enjoyed gardening, knitting, crocheting, and collecting antiques.

In November of 2020 Alice also knew that change was near. She wanted to tend to a very important part of her life, God's church. She and her husband called Pastor Billy and Sherry Creech and asked them to come for a visit. During that two-day visit, Pastors Virgil and Roberta asked them if they would take their ministry under their own name and care. The Saturday after Thanksgiving they prayed over them and released their ministry, their church building, and their blessing upon the Creech's and His Gathering Ministries for the continuation and love of God's Church in Garibaldi, Oregon.

In 1953 Virgil joined the Army. He was dismissed because of his feet. He moved to Garibaldi and began work for O-W Plywood as a sheet turner. In 1967 he and his family moved to McMinnville where he worked for White City Plywood as a Foreman. They moved back to Garibaldi in 1969 and Virgil worked as quality control at O-W Plywood. He worked there until the final blast of the O-W Plywood Mill whistle in 1974. Through the years Virgil worked in the woods logging, on the ocean and the rivers commercial fishing and sport fishing. Virgil was a very avid fisherman! He also loved to turtle, elk, deer, and duck hunt. He loved to tap dance, play his harmonica, or fire up the tambourine and sing songs he'd make up. With all the jobs and hobbies Virgil had... his greatest love was Jesus and the church they built together. Virgil served as Pastor of Garibaldi Faith Fellowship Center for many years.

In November of 2020 Virgil knew that change was near. He wanted to tend to a very important part of his life, God's church. He and his wife called Pastor Billy and Sherry Creech and asked them to come for a visit. During that two-day visit, Pastors Virgil and Roberta asked them if they would take their ministry under their own name and care. Virgil Dean (Bird) Keller, 88, of Garibaldi, Oregon, passed away peacefully at home with family around him on August 30, 2021. Virgil was born in Veedersburg, Indiana, on December 1, 1932, to Guy William Keller and Cora Edna (Lighty) Keller. He graduated from Rhema Bible Training Bible Center in 1975, and was ordained into ministry in Claremore, Oklahoma in 1978. Virgil and his wife Alice Roberta (Babe) Keller then moved back to Garibaldi to co-pastor Garibaldi Faith Fellowship Center; and were successful as Fishers of Men for many years.

In 1953 when Virgil saw Alice walking down the street he said, "That's the woman I'm going to marry." And he did, on August 21, 1953. He always bought Alice (he called her Babe) flowers just because, he sang to her, he danced for her, and loved her dearly. Together they wrote their love story for 68 years.

A huge part of their love story was their family... together they raised their five children: son David Keller (wife Barbara), daughter Roberta Rurak (husband Steve), son Robin Keller (wife Janet), son Guy Keller (wife Carolyn), daughter Juanita Ballard (husband Scott). From their five children they were blessed with many grandchildren, great grandchildren, and great great grandchildren.

Virgil was predeceased by both of his parents, by all of his siblings; brothers (3), and sisters (3+), by his son David Keller, June 4, 2014, in McMinnville, and by his grandson Michael Ault, 1998 in Tillamook.

Roland 'Skip' Lichter

Jan. 21, 1942 - Nov. 10, 2021

Roland "Skip" Lichter passed away on Wednesday November 10th at his home in Garibaldi Oregon where he was living his best days with his life partner and love, Gail Dever.

Skip was born on Jan 21st 1942 to Roy and Freida Lichter in Chicago IL. He was the oldest of six and spent summers in Rib Lake, WI and Antioch, IL on the Chain of Lakes with family. He enjoyed boating, aviation and all things history related.

From a young age Skip was fascinated with mechanical things and had a long career as a master heavy equipment mechanic at Thelen Sand and Gravel. He held a private pilot's license and enjoyed traveling with family. After retiring from Thelen, Skip relocated to North Freedom, WI to spend more time pursuing his passion.

Everyone who knew Skip understood his passion for trains. Skip spent over 50 years volunteering his time to the restoration and preservation of steam locomotives and other historical railroad equipment at train museums in the mid-west. In the early 1980's Skip had the opportunity to purchase the Polson #2 steam locomotive with several other train enthusiasts. The #2 actively ran at a Wisconsin based railway museum until 2000. In 2001 Skip began extensive restoration of the #2 that spanned the next 13 years. In 2017 the #2 was relocated to the Oregon Coast Scenic Railroad in Garibaldi OR where it is actively used for passenger runs between Garibaldi and Rockaway Beach.

Skip is survived by his life partner and love, Gail Devers, the mother of his children, Sharon Lichter, son Dan Lichter (Nora), Jill Keeker (Todd), Sue Barker (Chad), grandsons Drew, Ethan and Justin, brothers Jim Lichter (Patti), Bill Lichter, many nieces and nephews and hundreds of friends in the train world family. He is preceded in death by his parents Roy and Freida, and brothers Robert, Raymond, and Thomas.

A celebration of life will be held Dec 11 2021 at Redlin Ertz Funeral Home, 401 Madison Ave, Baraboo, WI. Visitation will be at 1:00 and memorial service at 3:00. We would like to encourage everyone to consider bringing a picture, memory or story of their time with Skip to share. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to the "Polson #2 Preservation Fund", care of the Oregon Coast Scenic Railroad (OCSR) to support the continuing preservation of the Polson #2 and continue Skip's legacy.

GARDENING MATTERS

2021 Gift Guide part 1

GARDENING MATTERS
CARLA ALBRIGHT

Hard to believe that we are approaching the gift-giving season already this year. Which means it is also time for my gift suggestions for your gardening family or friends or maybe just for yourself. My late November gift column traditionally gives ideas for long range gifts, while my early December column will give ideas for local and last-minute gardening gifts. So let's get started.

As always, I have to have a few books on my list. This year, I have selected a book for novice gardeners called "Gardening Basics for Dummies, 2nd edition." Written by professional horticulturist Steven A. Frowine and approved by the National Gardening Association, this book is straightforward but also written in a friendly manner so it is easy to read and understand. Coming from the "For Dummies" series, you know this will become a staple in your library of how-to books. It includes chapters on soil, tools, choosing the right plants, gardening with children and much more. List price is $25.

Another book I want to put on my personal Christmas list is about - what else? - succulents. Actually, there are two in this category. The first is Misa Matsuyama's "The Gardeners' Guide to Succulents; A Handbook of Over 125 Exquisite Varieties of Succulents and Cacti" from 2020. This is one of those hard-back books that is not only informative but lovely to look at. Runs about $17. Another good succulent book is "Essential Succulents; A Beginner's Guide" by Ken Shelf. Although it was published in 2018, this book is Amazon's Number 1 Best Seller in Ornamental Plant Gardening. The author is the owner of a garden and lifestyle shop in San Francisco and has been teaching about succulents for over a decade. Since he also creates specialty centerpieces and arrangements, he brings his creativity to this book. If succulents are your gardener's new hobby like they are mine, this is a great book to get them started on the information they need to know. List price is $19.

Of course, not everyone is addicted to succulents the way I am. But honestly, any obscure type of gardening will have a myriad of books to show you how to do it.

For example, I am determined to learn more about mushrooms in 2022, and found several possibilities to help me. Timber Press has a field guide called "Mushrooms of the Pacific Northwest" by Steve Trudell and Joe Ammirati that was published in 2009. Lots of good photos and descriptions will make it easier to ID the 460 types of mushrooms found in the Pacific Northwest woods. List price on this one is $28. A more recent publication from just last month is Darcy Field's "Foraging Guide for Pacific Northwest Mushrooms." This is a guide to PNW mushrooms - edible, inedible, and even poisonous - that will help you recognize and identify over 40 mushroom species. Darcy tells of the edibility, the season, and locations to forage for them, too. I am still not sure I will feel comfortable picking my own mushrooms, but I do want to learn more about them. Paperback version is $22 but it is also available through Amazon Kindle, which would make it nice to be able to access from your phone while hiking.

Another older book (published in 2008) is Rodale Press's "Perennial Combinations; Stunning Combinations that Make Your Garden Look Fantastic Right from the Start" by C. Colston Burrell. This paperback offers page after page of beautiful perennial gardens combined with a numbered photo key and plant list. Even though this was published 13 years ago, the ideas and variety of combinations make this one of those timeless gardening books. Amazon has a paperback for a little over $24.

And for the vegetable gardeners out there I can recommend Timber Press's "Guide to Vegetable Gardening in the Pacific Northwest" by Lorene Edwards Forkner. This is written in a format that goes month-by-month so you can easily follow what you should be doing and when. And you don't have to start in January...you can start in whatever month you chose. This book will help you choose the plants you want and tells how to get the best harvest from them. Published in 2013, this book lists for $13.

A final book for your list is "Flora; Inside the Secret World of Plants" published by the Smithsonian. This could easily be a coffee table book because it is so pretty. But it also has lots of great information about the Wonderful Word of Plants. The hardcover sells for only $27 online.

That should give you a good start on book shopping for your gardeners' Christmas lists. This is not the year to procrastinate, though, as we are already being warned of shortages and long shipping dates.

Wishing all my readers a very happy and safe Thanksgiving. Despite a global pandemic, we really do have a lot to be thankful for.

FENCEPOSTS

Greetings Bay City! I feel a little disjointed after several weeks away from my desk. Vacations are difficult for me; it takes a week for me to relax and start to enjoy myself, and by then it's time to go home. But I wasn't idle; I have been busy gathering news.

The city hall office "team", led by City Manager Leane Welch, is running like a well-oiled machine. They have filled the one and only office vacancy, and with the hard-working City Council, it's good news all around, and great things are happening for our community. The initial park improvement plan for the

Al Griffin Memorial Park has been presented to the council for discussion, and suggestions were made, as another step in the ongoing process to develop the final plan. In other business, at the last emergency management meeting, Roy Markee was asked to take the lead to build the second emergency container. Lucky for us, Roy said yes! The construction starts Tuesday, December 7th at 8:00 AM at 3rd and High streets. Roy's invitation reads "Should you have a desire to drive some nails, pack some lumber, or just provide moral support, please join us as we hope for a dry day." Well good luck with that! But volunteers are a hardy bunch, although wet weather and power tools don't go well together.

Mark your calendar for the Tillamook County Library annual salmon fry release that is happening on Wednesday, November 24th at Patterson Creek in Al

Griffin Memorial Park. This annual event is a fun learning experience for the whole family. Both the Garibaldi and Bay City libraries will close at 3:00 PM that day so they can travel to the release site.

The "Event of the Month" is happening at the Bay City Arts Center on Saturday, December 4th, with a live performance by Amanda Stanaway to celebrate the release of her CD titled "The Lost Album", music that she wrote and lost eight years ago, and recently found and recorded. The aptly named "Lost Album Performance" will be from 7:00 to 9:00 PM. Hurry to reserve your ticket early, as seating is limited. Tickets are a suggested donation of $25-$30 per person.

The Bay City Methodist Church has had a very busy month. First, they held an on-line silent auction to help support their outreach programs. Then their time was spent gathering and purchasing all the items for a traditional Thanksgiving dinner, and filling Thanksgiving food baskets for families in need. But wait, there's more. Members have signed up for the responsibility of fulfilling a child's Christmas wish list. I know I've said it before, but it's true, the Methodist congregation is well known for sharing their faith, not only with words, but they also share their faith with actions.

City council has only one vacancy left. Do you know what a cog in a wheel is? It is a very small part of a wheel, but the most important one, because without it, the big wheel doesn't turn. You may not know your city councilor's names, but if they were not doing their job, the city wheels would stop, and the city you live in wouldn't be very livable. Call today and volunteer.

Thank you for reading the Fencepost, and I will see you next week.

tracing if a student gets covid. They all wear masks with amazingly little complaint. We now learn all their names right away as we take roll on every bus ride for contact tracing purposes.

Kids are kinder and more polite than at any time during the past. They seem so happy to get to be together again and to go to school. I heard little kids saying they can't wait to get their shots.

They are kinder to one another as well. I heard a 4th grader say they had a headache and would everyone please be a little quieter today on the ride home...and they were.

In the past most middle/high school students pretty much had no interaction with the driver. These days they nearly all wish me a good evening as they get off the bus.

I want to thank first the kids for their kindness on the school bus, then their parents who are clearly providing an example, and last (but certainly not least), the teachers, principals, and other school staff who are working so hard to make it possible for the kids to go to school.

Finally, I thank the school bus drivers and support staff who show up bright and early every day to make transportation possible for these kids. You are all heroes in my opinion.

We need solutions as well as data

The updates from TMHH on the virus are great. It's been a race between the creamery and the hospital with highest counts for several weeks. The Creamery seems the winner/ loser for out breaks. I drive by the daily and visitor lines are quite long to get service (inside / out side). I am not sure how the virus trail can be detected within the county and outside the county with the creamery being the most visited place within the county. I believe one of the most employed company within the county. The data collected by the county should provide a solution rather than a statistic. Any readers have an idea to help with the problem?

lighting. You will find lots of unique gifts for all the folks on your Christmas list and you will be shopping locally and helping our local businesses at the same time.

At the wayside, you and yours will enjoy cookies and hot chocolate, compliments of The Rockaway Beach Merchants Association. Your children will have an opportunity to fill out and mail their letters to Santa too. They will be asked to fill out a note asking if they have been naughty or nice and list five gifts they would like for Christmas. At the wayside, you will find a 'Letters for Santa' post box and it will remain there until December 14th. These letters will then be sent to Santa at the North Pole and will be answered by an elf or Santa himself. You know, Christmas miracles still exist.

The Christmas tree, as always, will be beautifully lit but it will be in need of ornaments. Be sure to design waterproof ornaments with twist ties to attach to the tree. What an awesome Thanksgiving tradition it would be to make ornaments for our community tree with your loved ones and trim the tree, Rockaway style!

There will also be canned food donation baskets located at the event for the North County Food Bank. This time of the year it is always good to help others. What a good opportunity to do just that.

I don't know a whole lot about this event but you will be able to pick up your Christmas Decorating Contest Entry Forms. Our neighborhoods could use some lights and garland on these ho-ho-ho long winter solstice nights. Hopefully I get updated on this event...

At the 'lighting' your family will get to witness the arrival of Santa Claus, straight from the North Pole, on the "Rockaway Beach Christmas Tree Lighting Excursion" train at 6pm. The Tree Lighting begins at 6:30. As you can tell by my lengthy column, it will be a charming and festive evening. It is reminiscent of a small town America celebration with lots of community involvement. Your children will someday have found memories of their childhood in Rockaway Beach, Oregon. Be sure to bring your cameras and take lots of pictures. The childhood years go by fast.

The Lions Club can always use your help with Christmas Baskets for the less fortunate in our community. Money, food and toys are needed. It feels so good to help others in your home town. Stop by the Lions Club with your donations or give your favorite Lion a call. These wonderful folks are everywhere.

The Salty Strings Ukulele Group meet at our City Hall every Tuesday from 1-3pm. Bring your tablet and a mask. We ask that all be vaccinated. All instruments are welcome too! We are just a group of folks making music together!

Free Fishing weekend is Friday and Saturday, November 26th and 27th. That includes clamming. Sounds good to me! Wait! Stop! Hold the presses! I have a library update! The Rockaway Beach Library will have new hours starting the week of November 29, 2021. Hours will be Tuesday - Friday 10am- 1pm and 1:30pm - 6pm; and Saturday 1:30pm - 6:00pm. The Friends of the Rockaway Beach Library will be having their Christmas Sale starting at 11am on Nov. 30th. The sale will continue until the end of December during Library open hours. You can shop for Christmas Decorations, gifts, and even books! All proceeds go the Friends of the Rockaway Beach Library, a nonprofit organization that owns and maintains the library building. More library info next week!

Now, are you as excited about Thanksgiving as I am? What a perfect warmhearted doorway to our Christmas Season. We are truly blessed in Rockaway Beach...

I forgot another birthday! Happy birthday Steve Tackett. Dale and I will see you soon...

FROM THE AIR MUSEUM

Come see the changes at the Air Museum

Christian Gurling
Museum Curator

TILLAMOOK COAST HISTORY ALLIANCE

Emblematic of the Fall season that upon us, here at the Tillamook Air Museum, things too are changing! We pride ourselves in near constant dynamism here at the Museum and as such, have several new developments and additions to share with YOU, our community. First, to our ever-expanding collection of historic aircraft! In September of this year, the Museum took possession of a B-52 Stratofortress cockpit. The B-52 was a Cold War strategic Air Force bomber that is still in production by Boeing and has been flying for well over 60 years! On loan from Scroggins Aviation Mockup & Effects, the Museum's B-52 was built in Wichita, Kansas and delivered to the United States Air Force on September 23, 1960. Over the years, the airplane served the United States with pride in several wings of the Air Force's Strategic Air Command. In 1964, the airplane was christened the "City of Bangor" (Maine) when stationed with the 397th Bombardment Wing at Dow Air Force Base in Bangor. In subsequent years, the airplane served at Air Force bases throughout the country including Louisiana, Guam, Texas, California, North Dakota, and Washington. Notable in the airplane's service is its history in the first Gulf War. Here it flew 14 combat missions over enemy territory, based out of both Moron, Spain and Fairford, England. One such mission during the war on February 23, 1991 saw the B-52 perform a high altitude (38,000 ft) bombing run over Northern Kuwait and target Iraqi minefields in preparation of American troops on the ground. On this particular mission the airplane carried 52 Mk. 82 bombs (500lbs. each!) with which to destroy these minefields. Shortly after the Gulf War, in November of 1991, the airplane was retired to the Aircraft Storage & Disposition Center at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Tucson, Arizona where it was cut into five pieces to satisfy terms of disarmament agreements that had been made between the United States and the Soviet Union. This battle-hardened veteran currently on display at the Museum and is under active restoration and revitalization by Museum staff. Be sure to stop by and see it soon and check out our progress on the piece!

With the holidays fast approaching, the Museum is looking ahead to Christmas time and to its annual appearance of Santa & the Grinch. This year's event will take place on Saturday, December 11th from 10am-2pm and is FREE with two non-perishable food items. There will be goodie bags to take home, and an opportunity to snap some wonderful holiday photos! In addition, the Tillamook County Health Center and its "mobile clinic" will be on site offering Covid-19 vaccines for anyone 5 and older and booster shots. This fun-filled day only happens once a year, so don't miss this year's event!

The Museum is happy to report that its Café has been rented! For those that are hungry, this is the place to be! Operating the space is FAT HEAD BBQ, serving an array of distinctive items including pulled pork sandwiches, chicken sandwiches, burgers, fries, and much more! Check out their menu on their website at FatHeadbbq.com and call them at 503-815-1786 to place your order today! Currently, FAT HEAD is open Wednesday-Sunday, 11am-4pm.

TBCC CONNECTIONS

Honoring Mildred Davy

Dr. Ross Tomlin
TBCC President

The TBCC Foundation has honored Mildred Davy every fall since 2000 with a luncheon in her name to recognize all of the scholarship recipients at the college. And then COVID hit. For the past two fall terms, we have been unable to hold the special luncheon ceremony. This year, the Foundation board decided to do something different to recognize all the people who make scholarships possible, starting with Mildred.

For many years, Mildred was the voice of Tillamook as the radio host of "It's a Woman's World," which aired on KTIL and she was a huge advocate for higher education. In 2002, the first endowed scholarship was awarded in her name to Lori Collingsworth. The endowment was started with $19,000 but has now grown to over $168,000 and has helped 43 TBCC students over the years!

This year to honor Mildred, the Foundation celebrated Mildred Davy Day on November 17. A special program aired during the college's regularly scheduled Tillamook Today segment on KTIL at 9:30 am. The program honored Mildred and shared stories from three scholarship recipients who each had a different story of why they came to be at TBCC. There was a common thread throughout each student story: it was a scholarship that paved the way for them. The program also shared stories of Mildred's impact as shared by Van Moe and Chris Weber who were two long-term friends of Mildred's. The program even included some of Mildred's previously recorded clips from her own radio show. Also on Mildred Davy Day, the TBCC Foundation Board distributed yellow roses to local businesses to recognize Mildred and thank donors. Mildred loved yellow roses and was well known for her rose garden. And finally, a video was shared on the TBCC website of three TBCC students who are recipients of Foundation scholarships. The Mildred Davy Day events and activities were made possible due to a generous donation from TLC, a Division of Fibre Federal Credit Union and Near Space Corporation.

Access to scholarships is vital for students to obtain a college education. The TBCC Foundation provides over 40 scholarship opportunities each year that total around $90,000. In 2021-22, we helped 65 students and awarded just under $95,000. Many of these students need these funds to be able to pursue and continue their education and the scholarships have had a large, positive impact on their lives. In addition to Foundation scholarships the College offers the Career-to-Career scholarship that has supported 102 students since 2017.

So thank you Mildred Davy for all you did to promote education in Tillamook County and thanks to all the wonderful donors over the years that have helped hundreds of TBCC students to change their lives and reach their dreams. Your gifts will live on forever and have a continuing positive impact on so many lives.

Trees2Sea Montessori opens in Tillamook

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Trees2Sea Montessori opened Monday, Nov. 8, in Tillamook.

The Montessori school is a recorded preschool program in Tillamook for children ages 3-5 that aides children in discovering a joy and love for learning. The senses; language, which assists children in increasing their vocabulary; mathematics, which aids children in developing order and logic; and other, such as various art and cultural activities.

The school in Tillamook includes a station for washing dishes, learning how to tie shoe laces, wash hands, water plants, art, cursive the school has more children enrolled. Hansen said she could have up to six children in the morning and then up to six in the afternoon.

Programs are in the morning session from 8:15 a.m. to noon or in the afternoon session from 1-4:45 p.m. Programs can be two days a week - Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday - or four days a week, Monday through Thursday. Tuition is $210 per month for two days per week or $380 for four days per week.

Daily activities include group time, which includes singing songs, group lesson, sharing; work cycle/lessons, which children can choose to work with materials from practical life, sensorial, language, math, geography and art areas; walk/outside time or alternative activity inside; and group reading time/quiet activities. A healthy snack is provided during the work cycle each day.

Hansen lives in Tillamook with her husband.

Maria Montessori founded Montessori education in 1906. Montessori was an Italian physician who observed that children could learn and thrive by having a prepared environment that meets their specific developmental needs.

Amy Hansen, owner and teacher/guide, has been working in the field of early childhood education for 14 years. She has worked at many play-based preschools and several Montessori schools such as The Montessori Learning Center in Utah and Child's view and Chickadee Montessori in Oregon.

"I attended Portland State University where I completed my Bachelor of Science degree in 2017, majoring in child and family studies and minoring in psychology," Hansen said. "After completing my degree, I worked at a play-based preschool for a year as the lead toddler teacher but I felt like something was missing. That is when I decided that I wanted to go back to working at Montessori-based schools where children were allowed to have more independence and autonomy when it came to their learning."

Learning areas for Montessori education include practical life, which helps to build skills used in everyday life; sensorial, which helps children to gather information and learn by using their writing and more.

Hansen said she decided to obtain her Montessori certification, and in May 2020, completed her AMI Montessori primary certification with the Southwest Institute of Montessori Studies.

Winter kayaking: The natural cure for cabin fever

Dan Haag

Trails & Outdoor Recreation
Coordinator at Tillamook
Coast Visitors Association

Despite the recent tumultuous weather, fall and winter kayaking in the county is an excellent recreational prospect, with the right conditions. There are numerous mild days when Mother Nature calms down and takes a breather before returning to tumultuous storms. In between, think about grabbing a paddle and slipping into a kayak.

Julie Chick's life has revolved around kayaking: she's the former owner of Nehalem Bay Outdoor Company. She also previously worked as an Outdoor Education and Outreach Coordinator with Tillamook Estuaries Partnership (TEP) and is still an avid Nehalem paddler. While she encourages kayakers to explore our waterways during the winter months, she stresses that safety is paramount to any trip no matter what date is on the calendar. First order of business is wearing a Personal Flotation Device, or PFD. "Find a good one and wear it," Chick says. "If you don't want to wear it, then you don't have the right PFD, because you should love your PFD."

Being safe also includes knowing what wind and tide can do on any given day, meaning paddlers should check local tide tables and weather conditions before setting out. "In our area, you need to pay attention to tide and wind," she says. "You can have a November day with extremely high tides and gale force winds, or a November day with relatively typical tides, sunny, clear and perfectly 'kayakable.'" She adds that checking wind and conditions and familiarizing yourself with how those affect the waterway you are paddling is key to a safe and fun experience.

When discussing the differences between summer and winter paddling, Chick notes that conditions for each season on the Oregon Coast can often be very similar. This is especially true when it comes to water temperatures. You may have picked a warm, sunny day to paddle, but the water is usually bone-chilling. In that regard, Chick stresses that dressing with water temperature in mind is a top priority. Cotton shirts and denim jeans won't suffice.

"If you end up in the water and can't get back in your boat or back to shore, you better be dressed for forty-something degree water," she says. "Hypothermia happens fast." Chick adds that a good dry suit not only keeps kayakers warm and cozy, but gives them peace of mind knowing that it will buy them a lot of time if they end up in the water.

The November King Tides and flooding this year also highlight the need to be aware of debris and obstacles in the water after such storms have passed through. With safety in mind, kayakers have a multitude of reasons to enjoy winter paddling.

Aside from the recent rough weather, Chick says that most winter days offer fuller rivers with flat, glassy paddling surfaces. These conditions combine to give kayakers a sense of serenity and solitude that's hard to duplicate during the busy summer months. "It's a lot quieter and a lot less people," Chick says. She adds that with salmon season over, there isn't the potential for kayaker versus fishing boat conflicts, which can be an issue in late summer and early fall. Photographers find plenty of reasons to point-and-shoot, and winter offers a chance for some excellent picture-taking.

"The light this time of year is at a lower angle, so you get crisper, cleaner pictures, especially if you get out there a little earlier," Chick says.

There are many places to paddle year-round that offer a bevy of options. Overall, there are five estuaries in Tillamook County: Nehalem, Tillamook Bay, Nestucca, Sand Lake, and Netarts. They boast distinct characteristics and TEP has published "water trail" guides for each. With so many options for paddlers to consider, winter kayaking is the perfect way to get outside, shake off the winter blahs, and see coastal waterways from a different perspective.

Hi, I'm Tober, the grey kitty, and my sister is Pumpkin, the white and black kitty. We had a rough start with medical issues but we are improving. We each had an eye lid that didn't want to open but that's better now. I'll be scheduled to have some skin removed to help me out. Pumpkin has one brown eye and one blue eye. Cool, huh?

We need a person that wants to take special care of us because we will be prone to URI (upper respiratory infections). That may improve as we age.

We will reward you with kisses after we eat and lots of love and cuddles. Nothing better than napping on you. We are also great entertainers and have lots and lots of energy.

Are you that special someone looking for two special kitties?"
