Board of Forestry finalizes HCP

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

In a 4-3 vote on March 7, the Oregon Board of Forestry approved finalization of a habitat conservation plan for western Oregon state forests that will regulate management of those forests for the next 70 years.

Serious cuts in projected harvest levels under the plan drew intense criticism from officials from counties and special districts that rely on revenues from the state forest and timber industry representatives. But following a recommendation of approval from State Forester Cal Mukumoto, four board members voted for approval of the plan, saying they did not believe higher harvests could be achieved in compliance with federal statute, while three voted against.

At the beginning of the meeting, Mukumoto officially recommended that staff from the Oregon Department of Forestry (ODF) move forward on finalizing the habitat conservation plan (HCP) and obtaining incidental take permits associated with it.

Mukumoto acknowledged the concerns about the plan's economic impacts and noted that ODF has operated on limited budgets for many years. He said that staff at ODF would work to minimize the economic impacts in the forest management plans that will set harvest levels for ten-year periods during the HCP, using dynamic forest management techniques. He also said that the state forests division was looking at ways to reduce its budget by increasing efficiency to account for lower revenues.

The HCP will govern around 640,000 acres of state forests west of the crest of the cascades that over the past two decades have averaged around 225 million board feet (mmbf) in annual harvests. The plan will establish habitat conservation areas to protect 17 species protected under the National Endangered Species Act (ESA) by establishing habitat conservation areas removed from harvest. Those restrictions are projected to lead to harvest levels between 165 mmbf and 182.5 mmbf.

After Mukumoto finished his presentation, the board welcomed public comment, which was evenly split between support for and opposition to the plan.

Opponents warned of financial ruin in the forest trust land counties, citing studies that showed that between 10 and 15 jobs are generated by each million board feet of timber harvested.

Proponents said that the plan was a fair compromise between conservational efforts and the economic health of the counties, noting that they would have favored options with stronger protections for the endangered species.

The board then began debate on whether to accept Mukumoto's recommendation.

Board Member Carla Chambers kicked off the discussion and voiced her opposition to the plan, pointing to the potential impact on wildfire risk in the state. Chambers said that the history of reduced harvests on federal forest lands in Oregon dating back to the 1980s showed those reductions led to increases in fire risk.

Chambers noted that the increase in fires has led to a con-

Citizens, city leaders and a large contingent of service members gathered on March 5, at the Old Mill Convention Center to recognize and celebrate Garibaldi's designation as a Coast Guard City.

At the ceremony, Rear Admiral Charles E. Fosse, the commander of Coast Guard District 13, Mayor Katie Findling and a representative from Senator Jeff Merkley's office delivered remarks before a bagpipe rendition of Semper Paratus, the Coast Guard's theme song.

The ceremony marked the culmination of a multi-year process that began in 2022 and was spearheaded by former City Councilor Laurie Wandell, who also spoke at the ceremony.

Fosse spoke first and spoke glowingly of the relationship between the city and the Coast Guard, which began with the opening of the first lifesaving station in 1908. Since then, service members have come to expect a strong level of support from the community, Fosse said.

Garibaldi joined 33 other cities that had previously received the

Manzanita council approves city hall construction contract

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Manzanita's city council unanimously approved a guaranteed maximum price contract for just under $4.6 million with Cove Built, LLC. to construct a new city hall and police station at Underhill Plaza on March 6.

City Manager Leila Aman also updated the council on the city's selection to receive $2.7 million from the state legislature to build infrastructure to enable housing development.

The $2.7 million award is part of the state's efforts to address the affordable housing crisis and will be used to construct water and stormwater infrastructure necessary to build the Manzanita Highlands project, according to Aman. That project aims to bring 128 apartments into Manzanita's housing pool that would be available to renters for less than the market rate.

Aman said that staff from State Representative David Gomberg's office had approached the city in November to ask if they had any projects that were shovel ready. The request came with a four-day deadline and Aman said that the city had already identified the project and worked up a preliminary plan, allowing them to submit a proposal in the allotted time.

At the council meeting, the award was so recent that Aman was unable to offer any specifics on the project's timeline but she said that she was extremely excited about receiving the funding.

Aman and Jesse Steiger, who is serving as project manager for the city hall and police station project, gave a presentation about the guaranteed maximum price contract.

Aman began by giving a brief history of the project, which began in 1995 when the city council approved the formation of a city hall fund to pay for the eventual construction. Small contributions were made to the fund over the next 20 years but no further steps were taken until 2017 when the council approved the purchase of the Underhill Plaza site.

Following the purchase, the project's progress sped up. In 2019 the city sought a bond from voters to pay for the construction of a new city hall at the site but did not receive approval.

The setback led the city council to pass a resolution in 2020 confirming their intention to construct a new facility at the site and directed the city staff to find funding sources to support that decision.

Following that decision, an extensive public feedback process was conducted, yielding a preliminary plan in 2021, at which point the council approved the hiring of a project team. The team held more public outreach to help develop a schematic design, while concurrently identifying several potential funding sources for the project.

By budget season in 2023, the team had completed the schematic design process and determined that applying for a loan from Business Oregon's Special Public Works Fund would be the best funding mechanism. During the budget process the council approved the loan application and greenlit the team to move into the final design phase before beginning construction.

For the rest of 2023, the project team worked to finalize the designs for the project, which they presented to the council in November.

The new city hall and police station will be housed in separate buildings, as the police station will serve as the city's emergency operations center, requiring more expensive construction to ensure its survival in a Cascadia subduction zone event.

Councilors approved the design as well as the remediation of hazardous materials concerns at two buildings at the site to be followed by their demolition, which occurred in January.

In December, council gave final approval to Aman to borrow up to $5.1 million from Business Oregon for the project. The loan will accrue interest at a 2% rate and funds will be issued on an as-needed basis during construction, with the total loan package going up for sale on the commercial market once the project is complete.

The project's total budget is just over $6 million and to date the city has spent $826,000. Aman said that she only anticipates needing to borrow $4.1 million from Business Oregon, with the remainder of the funding coming from $265,000 already appropriated in this year's budget, $282,000 from grants and $638,000 from the sale of the old city hall.

Steiger told the council about the guaranteed maximum price (GMP) contract submitted by Cove Built, which had already been selected as the construction manager general contractor for the project.

The GMP is a fixed price that accounts for the cost of constructing the facility and turning over a fully functioning building to the city. The GMP was finalized after Cove Built put the different parts of the project out to bid and selected subcontractors to complete the work.

The $4,589,943.67 contract could see price changes if unknown conditions exist at the site, codes or permitting requirements change, or the city changes the design, with any additional costs coming from an owner's contingency of $325,000. The project could also come in under budget, in which case the savings would be realized by the city as less money would be borrowed.

The GMP also includes a substantial completion date of May 16, 2025, at which point the building needs to be usable. Steiger clarified that usable meant that a certificate of occupancy and proper permits have been obtained but noted that a punch list of final work would remain.

Steiger said that during the construction process, the project's financial books would be open for review by the project's architect, Steiger and Aman, and that any changes would require approval from all three.

Aman said that she was committed to spending just $4.1 million, even though she has been authorized to borrow up to $5.1 million, and that she would come to the council for approval should that change.

Sand Lake Road reopens to traffic

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

A 175-section of Sand Lake Road reopened to vehicular traffic on March 6, following a washout caused by storms in early December 2023.

Work to repair the slide just south of the unincorporated community of Tierra Del Mar began on February 12 of this year, with Geostabilization International leading the $700,000 repair.

Following the slide, one lane of the road remained intact but unsafe for traffic, leading to the decision to expedite the repair of that one lane on a temporary basis while a complete fix is engineered and implemented.

To stabilize the remaining slope, workers drilled 30-foot-long screws into the dirt beneath the remaining lane to serve as anchor points for a drain mat and rebar mat, which in turn serve as the base for a shotcrete wall. Once that work was complete, concrete barriers were installed along the abrupt edge and temporary signals were purchased and placed to regulate the flow of traffic. The signals are solar-powered and will operate on a time delay. Funding for the work initially came from the public works contingency fund, although reimbursement is being sought from the Oregon Department of Transportation and Federal Highway Administration (FHA). State and federal funding were freed up to pay for projects like the road repair when both levels of government declared a state of emergency in the wake of the storm. Now that the temporary fix has been implemented, allowing Tierra Del Mar residents to access the nearest post office and grocery store without a 45-minute detour, focus will turn to the permanent solution. Engineers from Haley Aldrich and Dowl are working on conceptual designs for the project that will be submitted to the FHA, which will use those designs to field bids for final engineering and construction. The contractors are currently exploring two options for the permanent fix with projected price tags of $1.9 and $2.7 million.

designation, which recognizes cities that extend special consideration to service members to make them and their families feel at home. Garibaldi was chosen in recognition of several initiatives they have taken to help honor the Coast Guard in the city, including the restoration of the 1936 boat house that sits on the bay, preserving the history of the guard at the Garibaldi Maritime Museum and recognizing an annual Coast Guard Appreciation Day, with parade. The selection process required review by congressional authorities as well as approval by the Coast Guard.

Shakeup in county commissioner races

STAFF REPORT
Country Media, Inc.

Just days before the March 12 filing deadline for countywide races, a shakeup occurred on March 7, with Thomas Fiorelli withdrawing from the race for position one. Bruce Lovelin also opted on the same day to run in the position one election, rather than that for position two. Lovelin had filed to run for position two against Paul Fournier and Darcy Jones on February 29, but switched to seeking position one, where he will face off against incumbent Erin Skaar and Jeff Spink. Fiorelli, who had entered the race for position one in early February, told the Headlight Herald in an email that he had decided to focus on serving the clients of his consulting business, which include the North Coast Recreation District and City of Rockaway Beach. "My commitment to my clients and the importance of my work demands my full attention," Fiorelli wrote. "I am grateful for the support I've received, and it is with a heavy heart that I make this decision."

FORESTRY

comitant rise in the price of electricity and insurance in recent years, discouraging new business activity across the state. It has also driven up the cost of fire fighting for ODF, which she said has spent $94.5 million on fire-fighting in the past five years. Adopting the new HCP would only further exacerbate the problem, while simultaneously reducing the department's budget to fight fires, causing serious concern, Chambers said. Chambers also voiced her concerns about the economic impact of the plan, which she said would cause a $3.08 billion loss in revenues over its 70-year implementation period. "There is no financial plan for this HCP," Chambers said.

Chambers urged the board not to adopt the HCP and said that ODF could negotiate a minimum harvest level as part of a reworking of the plan. "It is time to do better for the people of Oregon on an HCP, I do not support this plan," Chambers said. Board Member Liz Agpaoa concurred with Chambers and said that claims that reworking the HCP would lead to a multi-year delay in its implementation were unfounded. Agpaoa pointed to additional technical assistance that could be paid for with federal money under provisions of the 2018 farm bill and help to expedite a reworking of the plan.

Other members of the board then chimed in to voice their disagreement, starting with Brenda McComb who said that she did not believe managing the forest would achieve conservation of endangered species. McComb said that she felt the HCP did a good job of providing the necessary protections for the species to persist and said that she planned to support its passage.

Board Member Ben Deumling then said that he was sensitive to the financial concerns raised by the plan and committed to achieving a balance between financial and conservation goals, a stated goal of the process.

However, Deumling said that after reviewing the plan and information provided by ODF staff he was convinced that a plan with higher harvest levels could not meet conservation requirements under federal law. "The problem is I don't think more time will get us a better scenario," Deumling said, "that's hard for me to say because I wish at the bottom of my heart there was a scenario, but I don't think the risk is worth it."

Board Member Chandra Ferrari echoed Deumling's sentiment, saying that it was the board's responsibility to make a decision based on common sense, which would comply with applicable laws, and that it was time to move forward. "I think we do everybody a disservice to suggest that there are other alternatives available under the ESA," Ferrari said.

Board Chair Jim Kelly expressed a similar sentiment, saying that the board needed to look at the big picture when making a decision and consider the impacts on the whole state.

Kelly noted that state forests have produced an outsized percent of timber harvests since reductions to federal timber harvests in the 1980s, with state forests now accounting for 10% of harvests though they only comprise 3% of forest land in the state. Kelly said that this was out of balance and that "most Oregonians don't want our state forests to be managed like a commercial tree farm."

Further, Kelly argued that the risk of delaying the process was not worth the potential reward of higher harvests. He also noted that Governor Tina Kotek has been working with affected counties on replacement funding, committing to make them whole, and said that he could only support passage with that in mind.

"I believe it is time we send a clear message that this board intends to get this over the finish line," Kelly said.

Board Member Joe Justice disagreed with Kelly's assessment and argued that the choice before the board was whether the proposed HCP was better than continuing under the current take-avoidance scheme employed by the department. Justice said that a 2020 projection that estimated state forests could achieve between 175 and 212 mmbf of harvest with take avoidance clearly demonstrated that it was not.

Justice said that the process had begun with the twin goals of creating operational certainty around conservation measures and preserving the economic viability of the groups relying on forest revenues and that the proposed plan did not achieve the latter. "One thing I am certain of is that this HCP does not achieve the goal of financial viability," Justice said.

Justice argued that it was incumbent on the board to return to the federal services that have partnered in the plan's development and try to achieve higher harvest levels.

After finishing his comments, Justice made a motion that ODF staff engage with the board, counties and federal authorities to moderate the plan to meet conservation requirements while also achieving a harvest level of 225 mmbf. The motion failed, with Justice, Agpaoa and Chambers voting aye, while the other members voted against.

Chambers followed with a motion of her own, moving that consideration of the HCP be postponed until Mukumoto could identify a financial plan that ensured the department would be able to meet the requirements of the HCP. Chambers argued that proposed conversations with the legislature were not a plan but McComb said that she was concerned about delaying the decision and Justice argued that the motion would essentially mean continuing with a take-avoidance approach.

The motion failed, with Chambers, Agpaoa and Justice voting in favor, while the other members opposed.

Agpaoa then made a motion that the board delay approval until it could receive a legal opinion on whether the adoption would be in violation of a law requiring the department have sufficient income to support the 2010 forest management plan. Again, the motion failed, with the same members voting in favor and against as the previous two motions.

Finally, Deumling made a motion to adopt Mukumoto's recommendation to approve the finalization of the HCP and obtain incidental take permits from applicable federal agencies. The motion passed by a 4-3 vote, with Justice, Deumling, Ferrari and McComb voting in favor, while Agpaoa, Chambers and Justice voted against.

$13M for Oregon Coast housing investments

The Legislature's Emergency Housing Stability and Production Package will stimulate housing development across Oregon, including the Oregon Coast

The Oregon House of Representatives has passed the Emergency Housing Stability and Production Package. Key housing infrastructure investments proposed by State Rep. David Gomberg (D-Otis) were included in the legislation.

The legislation delivers over $13 million in funding to Oregon coastal communities. "This housing crisis isn't just a Portland problem," Gomberg said. "We need new housing in all corners of this state, and infrastructure investments like these are going to help small communities like mine tackle the big projects they'll need to start building."

Coastal housing investments in the package include:

- $640,000 to the City of Toledo for water, sewer and stormwater infrastructure improvements, as well as a traffic study and road improvements along Sturdevant Road to support a new apartment complex.
- $900,000 to Tillamook Family Counseling Center, Inc. for Tillamook transitional recovery housing purchase.
- $274,057 to the City of Tillamook for improvements for Jones-Knudson Apartments.
- $1,900,000 to the City of Florence for water, sewer and wastewater infrastructure for four blocks of city-owned property to be developed.
- $3,000,000 to the City of Lincoln City for a booster pump station for Spring Lake housing development.
- $2,709,000 to the City of Manzanita for water and stormwater infrastructure for residential housing development.
- $900,000 to the City of North Bend for stormwater and sewer collection system upgrades for Gloria Dei site development and water, sewer and stormwater infrastructure improvements for Maple Leaf development.

• $3,000,000 to the City of Siletz for wastewater treatment plant upgrades.

"Cities like mine need these kinds of investments to meaningfully contribute to closing the gap in our state's housing production shortfall," Siletz Mayor Will Worman said. "Simply put, funding for critical infrastructure projects like our wastewater treatment facilities allows us to not only unlock new lands for housing development, but to do so without unduly burdening existing ratepayers."

As of March 4, the Emergency Housing Stability and Production Package was awaiting signature by Governor Kotek.

FOR TILLAMOOK COUNTY COMMISSIONER

EMPOWERING TILLAMOOK: A new vision for our county

Hello, I'm excited to announce my candidacy for Tillamook County Commissioner. Our county stands at a crucial juncture, grappling with diminishing timber revenue while seeking additional taxes. The threat to your private property rights is real. County-imposed roadblocks and regulatory overreach is on the rise.

Addressing the affordable housing crisis is a priority. Subsidizing and grants for low-income housing may not be the most effective solution. Instead, we must focus on reducing regulations, cutting red tape, and lowering fees to empower citizens, developers and builders to construct affordable homes.

It's time to remind our county government that they work for us. I have comprehensive plans to reform county governance and ensure the concerns of citizens and business owners are heard. With 24 years of experience as a business owner in our county, I understand the challenges we face. I am committed to fostering an environment that supports economic development and sustainable growth.

In the upcoming weeks, I will share more details about my plans. I encourage you to get involved and share your thoughts. I am here to listen, and together, we can work towards a more prosperous future for Tillamook County. Your input is crucial. I want to hear from you!

TBCC Connections – March 2024

A Campus in the Making

PAUL JARRELL, PH.D.
Tillamook Bay Community College President

In May 2022, a $14.4 million bond was approved by Tillamook County voters, allowing Tillamook Bay Community College (TBCC) to construct a new Healthcare Education Building. With another $8 million from the Oregon Legislature and a $1.4 million bond premium, $23.8 million in bond dollars are available for this project.

With much input from community members, TBCC employees, and Board members, we have completed our design and recently solicited interest in contractor bids. The 28,000-square-foot building will include a state-of-the-art teaching lab for our new Nursing program as well as a new lab for Emergency Medical Services, allowing for the growth and expansion of that program. Additional classrooms and study spaces will be present to enhance the learning experience for TBCC students. In addition to teaching spaces, the new building will house needed administrative office space and a 360-seat Community Event room, complete with a warming kitchen. We are all very excited to see this building “come to life”. Ground-breaking is scheduled for late spring.

With this new project comes an opportunity to transform TBCC and our community. The new building will be located just south of our current building. Our driveway will be relocated to Brookfield Ave. entrance so we can create a plaza in between the two buildings. With the Main Building, the Healthcare Education Building, a campus plaza, the new Center for Industrial Technology Building, and the Partners for Rural Innovation Building, the TBCC campus is transformed. Please check the TBCC website for floor-plans and drawings of the new building and campus.

In addition to all the happenings here at TBCC regarding our new facilities, we have had advances this winter in our student offerings. We have had one of the largest enrollments for winter term. These strong enrollments are the result of new programming in Career Technical Education and Apprenticeship, a new Nursing program, and strong enrollment in dual credit and general education courses.

I feel very lucky to be given the opportunity to lead TBCC and strengthen our connection with the community. We are YOUR college.

TBCC will be hosting an Open House on April 13th, 2–5 p.m. to showcase our programs and discuss progress on our campus in the making. I do hope you will stop by. More details will be coming.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A thank you for Coast Guard City support

Pomp and circumstance is how I describe the recent Coast Guard City designation ceremony last week. A splendid celebration indeed with the presence of Rear Admiral Fosse, staff and a blue ocean of uniforms from our Tillamook Station Coast Guardsmen. Steve Denning did an amazing job as Master of Ceremony and Mayor Findling accepted the prestigious designation proclamation on behalf of the city. I would like to again thank our sponsors, Bill Pitino, Greg’s Marine Service for the memorably festive venue and delicious reception. John Northrup, ex-coastie and manager of Tillamook Starbucks provided much needed coffee and cocoa for a very chilly morning, and Charles Miska from the Beach Beagle for all of our printing needs. The delicious pastry offerings for the reception came from Brittney Bakes and Portside Bistro. I would also like to thank the Old Mill Event Center, Garibaldi Maritime Museum, Garibaldi Cultural Heritage Initiative, the City of Garibaldi, and the Garibaldi Library for their contributions to Coast Guard Week.

*Respectfully,
Laurie Wandell

Gardening matters: It’s a stretch

Along the lines of “don’t do as I do, do as I say,” I was working in the garden in late February and woke up the next morning very stiff and sore. I had been using the weed whacker and the pruning saw without doing any sort of warm up or cool down. Thus, sore muscles. I vowed to myself to warm up and do some stretches before I start with tools. And to cool down and stretch after working as well.

Ater doing a little research and finding some easy exercises for gardeners of all ages, I pared it down to six gentle exercises to try before and after gardening.

But before we start with the exercises, I suggest taking a walk through your garden or yard to warm up a bit. While out there, you can assess tasks that need to be done and figure out how much time each will take. It may take two or three passes before you feel your muscles are warmed enough to exercise. You could also just march in place to warm up.

Find a solid chair (inside or out) and do some chair squats. All you need to do is stand in front of a chair with your feet placed shoulder-width apart and slowly squat down, sit and stand up using only your legs. I find placing my arms crossed over my chest helps me to remember not to use my arms. But for the first few tries, you may need to push up from the chair with your arms. This is not considered cheating, it is considered smart to be aware of your body. Eight or so repetitions of these will help your hamstrings and quadriceps.

Next try some wall push-ups. This involves standing by a wall (again, inside or out) with your feet shoulder-width apart. Straighten your arms and place your palms on the wall. Bend your arms so you are doing a sort of push-up and push yourself away from the wall. Eight repetitions of these are good, too. This exercise uses your abs, triceps and shoulders.

As one who has fallen in the garden when not paying attention, I know keeping our balance is crucial so try walking heel-to-toe along a path. Or you could stand next to a chair and practice standing on one leg and then the other leg, using the chair to balance. Stand for a count of 30 seconds to start with if you can. And work up to standing on each leg for a whole minute. Not as easy as it sounds.

To help with arm and shoulder movement, take a broom or rake and do some side bends. Again, standing with your feet shoulder-width apart, hold the rake over your head (hands should be shoulder-width apart here, too). Slowly and gently bend from the waist, side to side. Do four repetitions on each side, coming back to a standing position each time.

Still using your rake or broom, stand straight and twist at the waist with the rake in front of you at chest height. Four repetitions on each side, here as well, returning to center between sides. Now place the rake behind you, placing your hands so they are comfortable, usually a little further apart. Bend forward from the waist so the rake is parallel with your flat back.

Doing some stretching after you garden helps eliminate those sore muscles, too. Cooling down slowly is best. First is the shoulder stretch that will target your shoulders and upper body muscles. Assume the should-width stance and lift your right arm overhead, bending your elbow so your hand touches the back of your neck. Lift your left arm and place our left hand on your right elbow. Gently push to deepen the stretch and hold it for 30 seconds. Remember to breathe. Switch arms and repeat to stretch out your left side.

Now return to your chair and sit with your legs extended out in front of you to stretch your lower back, hamstrings and calf muscles.

Reach forward and try to touch your toes or ankles, keeping your back straight. If you can’t comfortably touch your toes, just sit closer to the edge of the chair, sitting with your toes pointing upward, then slowly stretch them to point forward. Hold this stretch for 30 seconds, too, breathing deeply. You should feel a gentle release in your lower back and legs.

Ideally, if you do these exercises before and after each gardening session, pretty soon they will come as second nature and will get easier and easier to do. But do listen to your body and only do what is comfortable for you. The days of “no pain, no gain” are long over, so by starting with light movements such as these, your gardening will be more pleasurable.

At least the morning after will be.

Neither snow nor rain...but wait, these aren't mail carriers. These are hardy Cape Meares villagers, responding to a call to pick up beach trash on March 1. The temperature was in the frigid 30s and snow fell on their wool caps, but 11 tough souls braved the elements and brought back bags of garbage for our local park ranger to pick up. Many thanks to Guy Kyle, Stacy Mason, Bev Stein, BJ Byron, Randy and Spike Klobas, Sean Kohles, Pam Robenolt, Kathy and Kevin Burke and their new neighbor Dave for getting this debris off the beach.

While that group was hard at work, Capt. Pete and I were up at the Beachcombers and Glass Float Expo in Ocean Shores, Wash. We saw many intriguing entries: an octopus carved from an intricate piece of driftwood; two "masters" tables with all kinds of floats (glass and otherwise), light bulbs, bottles and more; a glass float with a big barnacle on top that served as a hummingbird feeder; and two "Christmas trees," one made entirely of fishing lures and the other a collection of sea glass and limpets glued onto painted driftwood tree "arms" and topped with a starfish shell. The latter won the "People's Choice"

The best news to come out of Salem recently involves the passage of Senate Bill 1576. This bill, unanimously passed by both houses, amends Oregon's recreational immunity laws to protect local governments who were adversely affected by the liability case in Newport last summer. That case was responsible for the closure of paths to and from recreational areas, including but not limited to beach access from cities and towns.

SB 1576 allows local governments to opt into existing laws on recreational immunity, as well as adding running, walking and cycling to the affected activities. The change takes effect immediately and will be in place through January 2, 2026.

Closer to home, the DarkSky Project came up several times in last year's discussions about best ways to use our transient lodging tax (TLT) to encourage tourism. The premise is simple: adopt a few minor changes to how we illuminate roads, businesses and homes to focus light downward where it contributes to safety, rather than up into the night sky.

This attracted my attention, because one specific visit I made to Rockaway Beach before moving here in 2017 was to get a better view of the Perseid meteor showers during the first days of August. We reached out to one of my oldest friends, who had a beach getaway here in town, so we headed from our brightly-lit neighborhood in Northeast Portland for a chance to see the celestial fireworks.

It was much darker here, though I mainly remember how cold my friend's backyard was that August. We saw dozens of flashes streaking across the night sky before returning indoors for warmth. Within a few months, my friend mentioned that his little house where we'd stayed was for sale, so we became full-time residents, at least in part due to the night sky here.

I took a look at the DarkSky International Web site (<https://darksky.org>) to get a sense of what they are promoting. They speak of benefits to wildlife and human health, saving money and energy, and making the gathered healthcare professionals from the medical, dental, vision, foot care and other fields to deliver health care to the underinsured and those in need the last Sunday in February. From putting fillings in teeth to counseling individuals to checking blood pressure to cutting hair, providers in Tillamook gave free and vital help to those in need in our area. A resource fair featuring 41 locally available services and programs helped participants understand and access services. It was also an opportunity for these resource providers to network in order to better serve Tillamook County residents. Cape Meares resident Karen Walz was one of the professionals offering services; in her case, she treated individuals who needed physical therapy. Karen said it was a very worthwhile endeavor and she would participate again, if called upon. We here in Cape Meares love the ocean, but we also love our trees. Steve and Ann Quinn are extending that forest feel by planting 200 trees on the two acres they own off 12st St. NW.

The land is dominated by a wandering year-round creek and the existing woods, mostly scattered spruce and alder nearing the end of their lives, never were cleaned up or managed after timber harvests 50 or more years ago. The new seedlings are a mix of western redcedar and coast redwood, and are part of an effort to reforest that part of Cape Meares. The Quinns have established a woodland management plan for their family that will enable their land to remain a woodland wildlife corridor for generations to come. Thanks for being such good stewards of our environment, Steve and Ann.

night sky more visible—obviously something that resonated with me.

The key tenets are their five responsible lighting practices, which are easily adopted and sensible. Lighting, they say, should be useful, targeted, low level, controlled and warm-colored.

Useful and targeted in particular have some interesting ramifications for public safety and private security. The idea is to put light specifically where it's needed, such as on walkways and paths to help night-time safety but to use some kind of shielding such as shades or panels to focus the light on the ground to ensure safe passage for walkers or vehicles.

Controlled lighting, in their definition, involves timers or motion detectors "to ensure that light is available when needed, dimmed when possible, and turned off when not needed." At our home, we have already been following this recommendation, having installed some motion-sensing security lights but also a dusk-sensing timer for our lights on the porch and the side of the house.

That dusk-sensing timer has become a favorite part of our evenings here. It turns our outdoor lights on when daylight wanes, and then turns them off at a time we can set. We originally did this for our convenience, but it's encouraging to note that it's a specific recommendation for DarkSky's responsible outdoor lighting.

Two questions came up in the discussion around adopting DarkSky principles citywide: how to fund it, and how it could be used to attract visitors. Because the conversation came up during last year's Tillamook County Visitors Association sessions on using TLT revenue, the connection was obvious: apply for a grant to upgrade exterior lighting to DarkSky recommendations.

As far as attracting visitors, several residents proposed adding one or more night sky viewing festivals to the city calendar. Our Kite Festival is a popular annual attraction, so commenters raised the question about developing and promoting some kind of night-sky festival, with DarkSky compliant lighting as an additional draw.

I'm not saying that everyone who comes to Rockaway Beach to watch a meteor shower will make it their full-time home, as we did. But it's an interesting idea that could help bring additional guests, diners and shoppers to our community.

At the time of this writing (Thursday), the U.S. Coast Guard Station Tillamook Bay's "Enlisted Person of the Year," ceremony has just wrapped up at the Garibaldi Maritime Museum. In addition to enlisted members of Station Tillamook Bay, Mayor Katie, councilors, city staff, as well as other area officials and elementary school students were able to attend, which brought an additional touch of joy to the festivities.

Enlisted Person of the Year, SN Matthew C. Nero, brought out the emotions by first presenting flowers to his wife, then reading a personal, well-thought-out speech that reportedly elicited several wet eyes.

Before that, on Tuesday, The U.S. Coast Guard Cities designation was finally, officially designated, after setbacks on the federal level.

As one who was under the weather and babysitting, I had to watch the ceremony online.

I think the first thing that grabs you is the Coast Guard's attention to detail, bringing their "A" game with respect to tradition, service and ceremony. Whether it's in front of the White House, or an event center in a rustic fishing village of 840 residents, their level of respect remains constant.

And bagpipes make everything more ceremonial.

A video of the designation ceremony can be found shared on both the City of Garibaldi and Visit Garibaldi's Facebook page, as well as other locations on the Internet.

Shoutout to the Garibaldi Cultural Heritage Initiative and the Garibaldi Business Association for helping the City of Garibaldi and U.S. Coast Guard coordinate activities and shed a bright light on the ceremonies.

Special Note: I would be remiss if I didn't give a big Lions Club roar to 100-year-old Pat Patterson, as March 7 was Pat Patterson Day. That man is living it up more now than I did in my youth. Good on you, Pat.

The logging trucks and RVs on U.S. 101 will have some competition for "King of the Road." As announced on the Port of Garibaldi Facebook page, the parking between the Port office and the helipad will be temporarily closed to create a rock loading area for the ongoing South Jetty rehabilitation project. Those rocks will be trucked in, making for some incredible sights on the road.

Part of the parking due north of the Port office will also be temporarily closed to make for a truck entrance to the temporary rock storage area.

Fear not, pier goers. The new crabbing pier next to the helipad will still be accessible to the public. Follow the designated section of S. 7th Street that goes east-west from the ambulance garage, through the Bistro parking, and to the marina on Mooring Dr. Follow it to near the ambulance garage and go straight south to the pier. For those who drive it – make sure you park in the lot north of the rock loading area – or wherever you can find a designated parking lot.

If you're like me and you walk from the new crabbing pier over to the old one, the closure plumb sucks. But, when the project is done, what it will provide for the seafaring industry should make it more than worthwhile.

And it's not every day you get to watch a larger-than-life construction project take place.

She's literally a literary constant. She's everybody's favorite local librarian, June Ekborg:

"After a fun-filled week of events in town, are you looking for a reason to get out and about? Stop by the Garibaldi Branch Library and pick up "A Stained Glass Odyssey" brochure. In it, you'll find a guide to the pieces hanging in library branches throughout the county. Hint: The best time to see Garibaldi's is first thing in the morning when we open at 10 a.m. On sunny mornings, the piece absolutely glows. While you're here, check out the many resources we have that may inspire your creativity."

Lastly, for those asking about when our newborn niece will enter the world, an hour after I submitted my last post, Katie got the call to go back down to Eugene. Our big baby niece entered the world that evening. Baby and mama are both doing well.

Again, thank you all for your continued kindness and support.

(And I will finish that GGS interview).

Nestucca baseball and softball start season

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Upperclassmen
lead baseball

The Nestucca High Bobcats baseball and softball teams both played their OSAA Class 2A/1A season opening contest's Monday on the road at Taft High School, with results unavailable at time of press.

Both teams play their home openers Wednesday at Nestucca High School versus the Amity High Warriors at 4 p.m.

A year ago, the Bobcats came ever-so-close to reaching the baseball state playoffs for the first time since 2019. The Bobcats (9-6 league, 12-11 overall) had momentum after winning four of their last five games and they faced the Vernonia High Loggers (7-8 league, 14-13 overall) in a Special District 1 play-off game.

The Bobcats came up short in a 4-1 loss May 11, 2023, at Pacific University in Forest Grove, which marked the end of their season. With the victory, the Loggers advanced to the state playoffs and they sent the Bobcats home with a season-ending defeat.

The Bobcats, guided by third-year Coach John Sousa, started practice February 26, feeling confident. They have high hopes of reaching the state playoffs this year and avoiding the disappointment that they experienced last season.

"I'm more excited about this year than I have been about than any other year," said Sousa. "The group of seniors on the team were freshmen when I started as the head coach. Even though we lost two seniors, I don't think we really lost anything in terms of something that would prevent us from being very competitive again. I think we're going to have one of the most competitive teams that we've had in recent years. We're really hoping that this crew comes together and does well."

Nestucca finished in third place in the six-team Special District 1 standings last year behind the second place Clatskanie High Tigers (11-4 SD1, 13-10 overall) and the league champion Knappa High Loggers (14-1 SD1, 17-7 overall).

The trio of senior pitchers Kenneth Blackburn, Zac Collins and Keith Marshall will help provide leadership for Nestucca. A talented group of six juniors, Brysen McDonald, Nolen Hurlimann, Fabian Tovar Medina, Jack Manning, Emmett Clark and Brenton Schiminesky, give the Bobcats the experience needed to help the team be successful.

"Our three seniors can pitch well, they can hit very good and all three of them are starters," said Sousa. "Nolen (catcher) and Eli Love (sophomore pitcher) were both All-League players last year. Having guys coming back like that who competed at a high level is something that is going to make us that much more competitive this year. Zac, Kenneth and Keith always play outstanding defense and I'm also looking forward to seeing Eli on the mound for the next three years."

Following Wednesday's home opener versus Amity (12-12 in 2023), the Bobcats have nearly a week off and will play their next game March 19 at home versus the Sheridan High Spartans (2-20 in 2023). Nestucca begins its 21-game league schedule on April 2, at home versus Clatskanie. The Bobcats won two of three games against the Tigers last year, including a doubleheader home sweep 11-8 and 13-3 on April 21, 2023.

"We are coming in with the mindset that we want to win our league title this year and that's what we're shooting for," said Sousa. "We know that there's going to be some other competitive teams in our league too, but we're just hoping that we can show everybody what we can do."

There were three teams added to the league this year, as St. Paul, Willamina and Perrydale joined the league which grew from six to nine teams.

Softball looks to build on success

The Bobcats (12-7 in 2023) started practice February 26 without five players, Hailee Knight, Kyla Hurliman, Taylor Knight, Piper Armstrong and Rylee Armstrong, who were competing on Nestucca's girls basketball team at the state tournament in Pendleton.

The Bobcats, guided by first-year Coach Megan Deam, were able to resume practice with their entire lineup of 11 players last week in preparation for their 26-game league schedule. Following Wednesday's nonleague contest versus Amity (10-11), the Bobcats have nearly a week off before playing their next game March 19 at home versus the Sheridan High Spartans (4-18 in 2023).

"We had kind of a slow start to practice because we didn't really have all of our players, but we finally got everybody out here now for the first time," said Deam, who is hoping to lead Nestucca to the state playoffs for the first time since 2022. "It's going to be interesting to see how things go since we're starting the season with a minimum amount of practice time, but that's okay. We're excited about this year for sure, we're going to have fun and we're hoping to start out by winning our nonleague games in the beginning of the season."

The Bobcats lost three graduated seniors a year ago, but they have four seniors, Hailee Knight, Yureli Garcia, Melanie Velasquez and Hurliman, returning this year who will provide leadership for the team. Freshman Piper Armstrong will help lead the defense as their top hurler in the pitching circle.

"I feel very confident with Piper as our starting pitcher because she's been pitching for quite a few years, while playing on 12U through 14U softball teams in Nestucca," said Deam. "I've had the opportunity to do some private coaching lessons with her previously too. Even though she is young, Piper has a lot of speed and she has some experience under her belt, so I'm super excited to see her out on the field playing softball."

Nestucca begins its 21-game SD1 schedule April 2 at home versus the Clatskanie High Tigers (17-8 in 2023). The Bobcats split two games with the Tigers last season with both teams winning at home.

Cheesemaker baseball and softball preview

MIKE WEBER

For The Headlight Herald

Baseball team aims for state tourney

After starting practice on February 26, the Tillamook High Cheesemakers baseball and softball teams both concluded preseason preparations and they opened their season this week with nonleague games.

The Cheesemakers' baseball team plays its 2024 season opener in a 4:30 p.m. road game Friday versus the Dayton High Pirates (11-12 in 2023). Tillamook won 9-2 over Dayton in a nonleague game last year.

After qualifying for a 2023 Play-In round game for a second consecutive season, the Cheesemakers baseball team is hoping to continue enjoying success on the field again this year.

The Mooks (9-13 in 2023) had hoped to reach the state playoffs for a second straight year but they fell just short of their goal following an 11-8 Play-In round road loss to the Junction City High Tigers (13-11) on May 19, 2023. The Mooks had a slump at the end of the season during which they lost four of their last five games, which made it difficult to establish momentum for the postseason.

Tillamook, 5-7 in league play last season and guided by coach Matt Strang, finished tied for second place in the six-team Cowapa League standings last year with the Astoria Fishermen (5-7 league, 10-14 overall). The defending state champion Scappoose High Indians won the league title with 12-0 record and were 27-2 overall.

"The end of the season was a bit of a disappointment, especially because we had nine seniors who had lots of success the previous year as juniors," said Strang. "We just had tough matchup against a good Junction City team and we couldn't pull out a win to make it to the state playoffs."

The Mooks will rely on sophomore shortstop/pitcher Jakoby Goss and sophomore third baseman/pitcher Josh Manns to help lead a much younger and less experienced squad this year. Goss and Manns both earned Cowapa League All-League Awards last season and they're the only returning starters from a year ago.

"We only have two seniors and three juniors and most of our starting lineup consists of sophomores," said Strang. "The sophomores are a very talented group and many of them probably could've played on the varsity last year. I wanted them to develop and get more playing time so they were on the junior varsity team as freshmen. Now those guys are a year older and we also have a really strong freshman group too. They took second place last year in the eighth grade JBO level, so they're very good players."

Following Friday's season opener, the Mooks play their next game March 18, on the road versus the defending 3A champion Banks High Braves (27-3 in 2023) at Hillsboro Hops Stadium. Banks won 4-0 over Tillamook in a non-league matchup last year in Hillsboro.

"The future looks really bright for our team and I think we're going to surprise some people this year," said Strang. "I think a lot of people are counting us out because we're so young, but we have a really solid group. I'm not predicting that we'll win a state championship, but I think we will surprise some other teams."

The Mooks continue a grueling schedule in which they'll play three games in four days. Tillamook plays its home opener March 19 at 4 p.m. against the Warrenton High Warriors (20-7 in 2023), a state playoff team last year. They'll follow with a March 21 4 p.m. home game versus the Newport High Cubs (17-9 in 2023). Tillamook begins a 12-game Cowapa schedule April 2 at home versus Astoria.

"I want our players to have some success this season so that they'll be excited for the future," said Strang. "We have a really talented and young team that is capable of competing well in our league and I think we'll do just fine this year."

Softball looks for rebound season

The Cheesemakers took fourth place last year in the Cowapa League, which was one of the toughest leagues in the state with three teams (St. Helens, Astoria, Scappoose) all in the top-10 of the OSAA 4A softball rankings.

A young Tillamook squad with only two seniors, Gabi Garcia and Tori Pesterfield, struggled at times last season and endured a tough 14-game losing streak. Tillamook (3-9 league, 5-16 overall) snapped the streak with an 11-5 win over the Seaside High Seagulls (1-11 league, 9-16 on May 4, 2023).

The Mooks, guided by Coach Chelsea Miller, have an experienced squad, led by seniors Savannah Crawford, Jaedyn Haertel, Dannika Goss, Kylie Burden, Aracely Viramontes Morales and Makinley Nielsen, who earned a Cowapa League designated player award last season. Viramontes Morales won a Cowapa All League Award and junior Hannah Obrist won an Honorable Mention Award. Tillamook has a total of 26 players between the varsity and junior varsity squads.

"Something that is really exciting this year is that all of our Cowapa teams have JV squads, which is something that hasn't happened in recent years, so we're excited that the junior varsity team will play lots of games," said Miller. "It's nice having six seniors and we're hoping that they will take on the leadership role and really get things done and set a good example for the future of the team."

The Mooks defense will be led by the pitching duo of Nielsen and sophomore Meghan Erickson. Although she was suffering from an elbow injury last year, Nielsen played and was a designated hitter. Nielsen won a Cowapa League All League Award as the designated player.

"Makinley filled her role real nicely last year as our designated hitter and she did a fantastic job and it was her way of contributing to the team," said Miller. "We lost a senior pitcher (Pesterfield) last year and so Meghan will fill that additional pitching role for us this year. Astoria, St. Helens and Scappoose are going to be very good again, but I think we'll have a chance to compete for a playoff spot and anything is possible."

After starting the season March 11, against the Gaston High Greyhounds (results unavailable), Tillamook plays a nonleague game Thursday at 4 p.m. at home versus the North Marion High Huskies (1-18 in 2023), followed by a 4:30 p.m. nonleague road matchup against the Banks High Braves (12-12 in 2023).

The Mooks play a March 19, 3:30 p.m. nonleague road game against the Warrenton High Warriors. Tillamook starts a 12-game Cowapa League schedule April 2, on the road versus the defending league champion Astoria High Fishermen (9-3 league, 19-7 overall in 2023). A highlight for the Mooks last year was a 2-1 win over the Fishermen on May 15, 2023, at Astoria High School.

WELL-DEFINED

"Hi, my name is Smokey because of my beautiful Smokey grey coat. Remember my story? I'm two years old. A couple of months ago, I was all alone, outside with no shelter, soaked, cold, terrified, and pregnant. A home owner let me come in so that I could have a warm, dry place to have my babies. They've all found their forever homes, so that's good. However, I knew that it was a bad situation and I couldn't stay there, but I had no place to go. Then, some nice United Paws ladies rescued me and took me in. I was feeling pretty crummy. I was dehydrated and seriously 'plugged up.' They made sure that I had good food and plenty of water. The laxative was good, too. They also loved on me and assured me that I was safe. Now, I even come out of my cubby to greet new people and get some pets. I really love that. At home, you'll see me run to greet you when you enter the room. We'd be great together. Let's make this happen. (I'd really love to have Chewy or Scooby come along with me, too.) How? Just fill out and submit the application(s). Let's all go home together!"
