County progresses toward 65 percent vaccination goal Currently at 60.2 percent vaccinated

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Tillamook County Health Department relayed during a community update Tuesday, May 25, 18 COVID-19 cases from the last evaluation period, Sunday, May 9, through Saturday, May 22. The county shifts to Lower Risk, effective Thursday, May 27, to Thursday, June 3.

Oregon has new vaccination rate goals in place that will have an effect on risk level movement. Administrator Marlene Putman said statewide, the goal is to reach 70 percent of those age eligible to receive at least one dose of the vaccine. The state is currently at 64 percent, as of May 24. When the state reaches the 70 percent goal, risk levels will end.

Tillamook County is looking to reach the county goal of 65 percent, Putman added. Tillamook County is at 60.2 percent, as of May 25.

“When counties reach that, they can move to and remain in that Lower Risk category,” Putman said. “Counties moved as early as May 21. We’re not there yet.”

Businesses – not including health care facilities, schools, long term care facilities or when using public transportation – are provided with a choice to verify vaccination history in order to relax mandates for fully vaccinated people or can choose to keep with the mask mandate for everyone, Putman added.

“If they’re choosing to relax the mask mandates for fully vaccinated people, there’s some requirements that have to be met,” Putman said.

These requirements include having a policy for checking for proof of vaccination status for individuals, requesting proof of vaccination status from each individual, and reviewing each individual’s proof of vaccination before entry into those facilities. If you are fully vaccinated and wish to continue to wear a mask, you may do so, even if the business does not require it.

“People are still getting sick with COVID-19,” Putman said. “If you’re feeling ill, stay home, reach out to your provider, give us a call if you have questions. Testing is available at no cost.”

Putman said from Tuesday, May 18, to Monday, May 24, there were five new COVID-19 cases in the county. The health department is currently monitoring 12 people. Oregon Health Authority announced Thursday, May 27, a 77-year-old man from Tillamook County who tested positive on April 24 and died on April 28 at Providence St. Vincent Medical Center. He had underlying conditions.

The health center’s emergency preparedness coordinator, Ed Colson mentioned a recent announcement of the chance to win the lottery. The state will pick 42 winners: One person in the state will win $1 million, one person in each county will receive $10,000 and five 12 to 17 year olds will receive $100,000 Oregon College Savings Plan scholarships.

The Oregon Lottery and Oregon Health Authority will pick winners June 28. All Oregonians who have received at least one dose of the vaccine by June 27 are entered to win, Colson said.

As of May 25, 13,342 Tillamook County residents have received one dose, which is 60.2 percent of the population, and 50.9 percent of the age eligible population are considered fully vaccinated.

Nestucca Rural Fire Protection District and the South Tillamook County Emergency Volunteer Corps have been holding vaccine clinics at the fire station in Hebo. They are now willing to make ‘business calls’ for those who cannot leave work to get a vaccine and will administer the Johnson & Johnson vaccine at your business. If interested, email margejozsa@gmail.com to make arrangements.

Cascade Falls Quilting offers unique quilts

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Cascade Falls Quilting, located in Tillamook, offers a large selection of quilts for sale for special occasions, such as graduation, a wedding or anniversary. Quilt maker Gloria Guyer also helps local nonprofits by supplying quilts for fundraising raffles.

Guyer was born and raised in Pennsylvania. She started quilting at 17 years old. She got her first machine in Virginia and then moved to Coeur d’Alene, Idaho. She was then offered to quilt in Waldport.

“I’ve been quilting in Tillamook for six years and been quilting for 50 years,” Guyer said.

Guyer makes her quilts from her home in Tillamook. She said prices for quilts vary—it can be anywhere from $450 to $1,500. Quilts on her Etsy store, jimandglo, range from $300 to $950 generally.

“I never charge for time,” Guyer said.

Guyer has shown her work at Garibaldi Maritime Museum and donates a quilt to the museum each year. One of her favorite quilts is a postage stamp quilt, composed of 3,721 pieces. You can find it on the Etsy store under “Triple Irish Chain With Roses sale.”

Another favorite of Guyer’s is an authentic Welsh white whole cloth quilt, designed by a U.K. artist. There are thousands of stitches in the whole clothes. St. Mary by the Sea recently took all the white whole cloth quilts for an auction so they are currently sold out on Etsy.

Guyer said she is currently quilting to be ready for graduates. She usually has 50 quilts on hand in her home shop. The quilts are made mainly for king and queen-sized beds.

Lay away is an option, Guyer said, as well as PayPal on Etsy. If you are buying from the shop, you will need cash. Shop Cascade Falls Quilting on Etsy at jimandglo or call Gloria Guyer at 208-649-7147 to make an appointment to see quilts in her home office, located near the Tillamook County Library on Third Street.

County approves COVID-19 vaccine equity plan to submit to OHA

Hilary Dorsey
Staff Writer

Tillamook County Board of Commissioners approved a COVID-19 vaccine equity plan during a meeting Wednesday, May 26. The equity plan accompanies the county’s ability to move and stay in the Lower Risk category once 65 percent of age eligible residents receive at least one dose of the vaccine; the county is at 60.4 percent, as of May 26. The equity plan will be submitted to the Oregon Health Authority (OHA).

Administrator Marlene Putman said the state’s goal is to reach 70 percent of age eligible residents receiving at least one dose of the vaccine. When this goal is met, risk level assignments will end. The county’s goal is to reach 65 percent of age eligible residents vaccinated with at least one dose.

The county goal is accompanied by the equity plan, Putman said. The equity plan includes an additional goal of an 80 percent vaccination rate for Black, Indigenous and people of color. The health department hopes to reach this goal by the end of August.

“To achieve these goals, the state is providing us with the incentive of if we achieve that 65 percent target, and have our equity plan in place, we can stay at Lower Risk for our county,” Putman said.

Tillamook County is now at lower risk, as of May 27, but reaching the 65 percent target would allow the county to remain in the risk level.

Putman said the equity plan addresses many of the actions that have already been taken in Tillamook County to reach out to people.

“We want to make the vaccine accessible and are trying everything we can to make it accessible to everyone,” Putman said.

Removing barriers to vaccine access is required in the equity plan, such as adding geographically accessible vaccine sites for those who work nontraditional hours, transportation barriers, and more.

The health department and county have reviewed regional data, as well as specific data for the county. The vaccination rate for white people is 41.5 percent, according to the health department. The lowest rate for vaccine is Latino/Hispanic at 23.1 percent. In this plan, the health department estimates 15 percent of the county’s population as Latino.

June Dairy Parade returns to normal

The 64th annual June Dairy Parade will feel a little more normal this year.

When recent updates to state and federal COVID-19 guidelines removed the requirement for masks outdoors, it removed one of the largest barriers to allowing Tillamook to celebrate June Dairy Month with a traditional parade. Now, instead of an inside-out model as previously planned, the Tillamook Area Chamber of Commerce will revert back to “normal” with a regular parade, in which parade entries drive down the street, while spectators line the route to view the procession.

“Although we had planned for another inside-out parade, we decided to change back to normal now that guidelines from the Center for Disease Control and Oregon Health Authority allow us to,” said Justin Aufdermauer, Chamber executive director. “We want to see things get back to normal as soon as possible, and the community deserves this. It’s going to be a tight turnaround, but we’re going to give it everything we have.”

The parade route will follow its usual path down Main Avenue, around the Rodeo Steakhouse, down Pacific Avenue, then along Third Street to end at Goodspeed Park.

OSU experts: Vaccinations will require creativity, collaboration

Zack Demars
Country Media

Public health officials will need to be creative to keep pushing the state's COVID-19 vaccination rate, according to a panel of Oregon State University experts.

Just under 65% of Oregon eligible population has received a dose of the COVID-19 vaccine, inching towards the state's 70% goal, which will lift most pandemic restrictions in the state, according to state data.

But according to Chunheui Chi, an OSU public health professor, the state needs to see a lot more vaccinations to tamp down the pandemic.

"Let's just forget any so-called magic number for so-called herd immunity. The ideal is we want to vaccinate as many people as possible, because we have continued to face new variants that are more contagious," Chi said during a panel this week.

The panel weighed in on the state's new incentive for getting vaccinated: A $1 million prize for one vaccinated Oregonian, plus $10,000 for one vaccinated resident in each county.

Those dollar amounts could be effective in increasing vaccinations — for some.

"Anything we put funding into, the signaling behind that is the thing behind that thing we are investing in is important," said Aimee Huff, a business professor who studies consumer behavior.

"So I think the implicit signaling in the fact that we're investing as a state in this financial incentive to encourage vaccination, there's signaling there that says that this is really something important and worthwhile."

For others though, the state's lottery reward remains in accessible.

Oralia Mendez, a community health worker program instructor, said some are worried about winning or being a part of the lottery program because there might be a language barrier or they might be asked to show ID or proof of citizenship (though state officials have said any Oregon resident is eligible).

"Those are things our communities see as barriers to being part of that lottery space," Mendez said.

Instead, Mendez said other incentives might work better for hard-to-reach groups.

"One of the incentives we're talking about is having maybe a food truck, where they get a vaccine, a shot for a taco," Mendez said. "More tailoring towards our communities. So really talking to them, 'What would work for you, what kinds of things do you need?'"

For other groups, the barriers to accessing a vaccine can simply be timing, according to Dusti Linnell, who works with the university's extension service, in Lincoln County.

"What we have seen was, where people are saying they probably won't get vaccinated, really when you think that won't be resistance or hesitation, but really what we're seeing is it's a denial of access. For people who live in Lincoln County who are Latino, Hispanic and Indigenous they mostly work in tourism or agriculture where their hours are very long," Linnell said.

In those cases, pop-up vaccination clinics at businesses can help get employees vaccinated, as can bands or other activities at sites to attract interest.

What's more, many rural areas need better access to interpretation services to reduce barriers, Linnell said.

"We've been hearing consistently from our communities, especially where I serve on the coast, that the access to interpretation's a major barrier, they don't feel like they can trust the locations because there are not people who can speak their language," Linnell said.

And Brett Tyler, an OSU scientist who's been tracking the virus' variants, said those variants still create risk.

Unchecked spread could create additional variants that are more contagious or more deadly, Tyler said. That's why he advocates for as much vaccination as the state can accomplish, and cautious behavior in the meantime.

"I think there's a very significant risk to people who are not vaccinated and who are taking off their mask. I think that also flows through to concerns about children," Tyler said.

Merkley convenes forest management hearing

Zack Demars
Country Media

Oregon Sen. Jeff Merkley hopes to use his post on a powerful senate committee to increase funding for wildfire prevention efforts.

The Democratic senator this week convened a hearing of an appropriations subcommittee he chairs on the topic of funding forest management. Merkley and the subcommittee questioned U.S. Forest Service Chief Vicki Christiansen about the agency's fire prevention work.

"The 2020 fire year became a call to action. We saw the most acres burned on the Forest Service lands since the Big Burn of 1910. In many places, forests will not come back on their own, which impacts the potential for carbon storage and limits the land's capacity to mitigate climate change," Christiansen told the committee.

In all, Christiansen told senators her agency needs more money for fuel management programs and to provide higher pay for wildland firefighters.

"Despite the pandemic, the Forest Service sustained our hazardous fuels production work, but we know it's not enough. We need a paradigm shift," she said.

In comments to reporters after the hearing, Merkley laid out his vision for providing those funds through congress.

"Forests of course are absolutely the heart of Oregon's identity. We value the forests. They're headwaters of our clean drinking water, they're the genesis of our salmon runs, they're the backbone of our recreation in our rural economies," Merkley said. "And the Forest Service and the professionals that staff it are critical to our state, our people, our economy."

One key program Merkley noted to promote resilient forests was the Collaborative Forest Landscape Restoration Program, which brings together timber, environmental and other stakeholders in certain forests to collaborate on forest management.

"These collaborative have been just an amazing opportunity for folks who'd (been) considered rivals or almost enemies to come together and work out a plan. And the result is the plans stay out of court, because the stakeholders were there from the beginning talking to each to each other," Merkley said.

He's hoping to get congress to approve $80 million for the program in the next budget year, doubling its appropriation.

Merkley also wants the federal government to spend more money on taking care of its forests, by thinning, mowing and burning forests to reduce the risk of the most intense wildfires.

He says there are 2.3 million acres of forests in Oregon which have received environmental review for that kind of cleanup — but that haven't gotten it yet.

"And yet, we don't have the money to do the treatment," Merkley said.

The senator wants to see more funding available to support that work, especially in President Joe Biden's soon-to-be-released jobs and infrastructure package.

Beyond those large programs, Merkley said he's also supporting other wildfire efforts, like funding for Oregon land and water conservation projects, removing a cap on wildfire suppression spending and establishing year-round firefighting teams to do fire prevention in the off-season.

In all, the senator said forest management will only continue to be more important as the climate continues to change.

"We really have to pay attention to forest management, so that's why I called this first hearing, 'The Future of Forest Management,' and asked the type of questions and pursued these types of programs," Merkley said.

The complete subcommittee hearing is available on the senate's website at <https://www.appropriations.senate.gov/hearings/rethinking-resiliency-budgeting-for-the-future-of-forest-management>

The Chamber received the necessary Oregon Department of Transportation permits to use that route.

“Once we saw the change in the OHA guidance, we immediately reached out to ODOT and the City of Tillamook. Both have been great to work with and have already issued permits to use our traditional parade route, which has space for plenty of parade-goers, whether locals coming to watch their children’s dance groups perform, or visitors stopping by to learn about Tillamook’s dairy industry,” Aufdermauer said. “We see this as an opportunity to share the June Dairy Parade with many more people than we could last year.”

Although most of the parade will resemble pre-COVID-19 celebrations, this year will feature a couple of small changes: Entries will not be judged or receive trophies, and there will be no grand or honorary grand marshal.

“Because we only have one month to reorganize the parade, we decided to forego judging entries and marshaling for this year,” Aufdermauer said. “However, we will still host the children’s coloring contest, complete with prizes for the winning artists.”

The parade, which is sponsored by the Tillamook County Creamery Association, will run from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on June 26. This year’s theme is “As the World Churns.”

“We are grateful for TCCA’s continued support of the parade, and we are doing everything we can to bring the community the best parade possible this year. Now it’s up to the community to get their entries in and get ready to show off for everyone,” Aufdermauer said.

The deadline for parade entries has been extended to June 11. Those who have already submitted a parade entry, will be contacted by a Chamber representative to adjust their entry as necessary to fit the traditional parade model.

The Chamber encourages anyone else who is interested in signing up to do so online at JuneDairyParade.com. Printable coloring sheets for the children’s coloring contest are also available on that website.

“We are especially excited for the opportunity to include horses and marching bands, which found last year’s inside-out model more difficult to participate in,” Aufdermauer said. “As we return to normal, we really hope to grow the number of entries this year to make this June Dairy Parade our biggest and most enjoyable yet.”

Many thanks to the Cape Meares clean-up crew! Nearly a dozen hard-working individuals showed up on May 22 to clean up the landscaping around the Barbara Bennett Community Center. Whacking, pruning, weeding, raking, hauling...they did it all, including taking five truckloads to the dump. And with terrific results; the place looks great! Hats off and a big thank-you to Patti and Mike Smith, Kathy and Kevin Burke, Mary Jane and Rod Pelson, Sue Beckman, Karen Walz, Deborah Neal, Charles Ansorge, and Dave Freitas.

The Cook family has owned a vacation beach cabin on 4th St NW in Cape Meares for more than 50 years. It was put to especially good use this past year as a fulltime home for Clara and Paul Cook while they built a new house in Newberg. The couple is pleased to report that their new home is finished, and they moved in a couple of weeks ago. The entire Cook family will now revert to using the Cape Meares cabin as they did before last year. While Clara and Paul are excited to be in their new home in Newberg, they will miss waking up each day to the sound of the ocean. Clara commented that it was very nice to be able to live in quiet Cape Meares during these challenging times of the pandemic. We wish the Cooks well in their new abode in Newberg!

Robert "Olli" Ollikainen has been involved with the Coastal Observation and Seabird Survey Team (COASST), sponsored by the University of Washington (UW), since the early 2000s. Olli has headed up a local group of individuals who survey beach mile 286 on Bayocean Spit at least once a month, looking for dead birds. If they find a bird, they tag it; measure the wing, bill and tarsus; identify it; take photos of it; and send the information to UW. Information received from these citizen volunteers is tabulated and stored at UW, building a baseline of normalcy against which scientists can measure. Wendy Burroughs, a retired environmental educator from Tucson, Arizona, who moved to Cape Meares last year, was invited to join the Beached Bird survey team by neighbor BJ Byron. COASST is not doing in-person training during the pandemic, so in the interim, Olli is doing the hands-on training for measuring the bill, leg, and wing; correctly tagging the bird; taking good photos; and using COASST's guide to identify the species. As Wendy gets up to speed, she and her team of younger COASSTers will take over one of the two surveys done each month (COASST requires one survey per month; Olli's group has been doing a little extra). Olli foresees transitioning the survey effort to Wendy and her team, enabling the work that has been done on mile 286 to continue. It is one of the longest running and data-producing sites in the COASST programs. Hats off to current volunteers Olli and Carolyn Ollikainen, Wendy Burroughs, Dave Audet, Wendy Kunkel, Gwen Starrett, Keith Johanson, and Pam Robenolt. Thanks to them as well as to previous volunteers for their contribution to science.

I traveled last weekend to Central Oregon for a visit with daughter Elise and family. Word reached us in time to attend a softball tournament in Redmond that included Nestucca girls! We braved the chilly morning to watch the Bobcats beat North Douglas County; I think the score was 9-5. It was fun to see Sally Aylsworth, Denise and Katie Lane, the former Amy Royster, Mylie Samek, Julie and Travis Love there. So sweet to see the team and their fans halfway across the State.

Meanwhile, Neskowin Farmer's Market opened for the season last Saturday. The Market is open from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. weekly on Saturdays, through October 2. They're located on the east side of U.S. Highway 101 at the corner of Summit Lane (across from Neskowin Beach Wayside, a recent location). There is something for everyone there, including live music. For more information, go to neskowinfarmersmarket.com.

Thanks to Christine Harrison for word that Art Accelerated is partnering with Visit Tillamook (a visitor's guide) to update their county art listings. Recent versions have been very out of date- missing galleries, artists, art events, for example. If you represent a south Tillamook County business that shows local art, now is the time to update Visit Tillamook. Go to tillamook-coast.com for inspiration, then contact Chelsea Yarnell by email to cyannel22@gmail.com to submit a listing.

Don't forget that the local Chamber of Commerce has set a goal to raise $3,500 by July 1 to cover a July 4th fireworks display and to provide some cleanup and advertising. Our help is needed. Please send donations to P.O. Box 1078, Pacific City, Oregon 97135.

Remember that Tillamook County Community Health Centers have partnered with Community Action Resource Enterprise (CARE) to bring a needle exchange to Tillamook County. The "Harm Reduction Needle Exchange" provides safe injection needles, wound care supplies, Naloxone training and kits twice a month going forward. The free and anonymous services are offered from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. on the first and third Wednesdays, monthly in the lower parking lot of CARE, 2310 First Street in Tilla-

Legislature needs to fund schools

Serving as an educational assistant in our Special Education department at Tillamook High School gives me the opportunity to work with many amazing students. I see firsthand the importance that programs such as Special Education have in the lives of students who need them.

Through my work, I've also seen how absolutely critical adequate funding is to ensure we provide the support these students deserve to achieve success. When budgets have been cut in the past, students paid the price. Unfortunately, proposals before the Oregon Legislature risk repeating these mistakes by underfunding our schools.

The State School Fund provides the resources for the daily operations of our school district and districts across the state. District business managers confirm that the State School Fund needs to be funded at $9.6 billion to maintain current service levels. Anything less will translate to cuts in our schools. For the Tillamook School District, the underfunding the Legislature is considering is the equivalent of cutting 6 teachers or 7 school days from our school year.

It's easy to look at a budget and see just numbers, but these are numbers that have real consequences in the everyday lives of our students. Especially after the year of disruptions our education system and our students have experienced, we know we need more resources – not less – to keep our students on track after this pandemic.

That's why I'm pushing legislators to only support a budget that funds the State School Fund at $9.6 billion. Their current proposal of hundreds of millions of dollars less will shortchange our students – especially those most in need of support.

Sincerely,

Misty M Talerico

Response to Deen's letter

In reply to Robert Deen's letter: As a member of the Tillamook County Library Foundation Board I had no say in the decision to make the county library system fine-free.

The Library Foundation does not run the libraries in any way; we simply support them by providing funds for such projects as the library's book club kits, programs at the libraries, and lately, building a park beside the main library in Tillamook.

However, I heartily support going fine-free. The inability to pay fines may or may not be a race issue, but it is certainly one of economic situation. As an educator and small town resident living between two trailer parks, I know many children who never have 25 cents to pay for anything. These children are painfully aware of their situation; they don't need us to nickel and dime them into shame.

Do children care that they owe the library money? Yes. One of my students cried all day on the days of the monthly Bookmobile visit. The Bookmobile attendant (long since retired) always asked her to bring back the book she'd borrowed last year.

GUEST COLUMN

Bridging the gap

A Beach Cleanup at Tierra Del Mar scheduled on June 1, is sponsored by Tillamook County Republicans and Democrats and promises to bridge the gap.

Following the tumultuous 2020 election cycle, the two leaders of Tillamook's Republican and Democratic Central Committees put their heads together to share their concerns for how negatively divisiveness impacts our society, our communities and our ability to work together to solve the very real problems we face. Tillamook County Republican Central Committee (TCRCC) Chair Mike Sears and Tillamook County Democratic Central Committee (TCDCC) Chair Fred Bassett reached out to Tillamook County Commissioner Mary Faith Bell for an idea on a project that both parties could work on together for the betterment of the county.

Commissioner Bell suggested a beach cleanup event for the South Tillamook County community of Tierra Del Mar, which has had its share of difficulties during the past year. With that idea, the Bridge the Gap Beach Cleanup was born. It will occur beginning at 10 a.m., on Tuesday, June 1, the day immediately following the busy Memorial Day Weekend.

Both Bassett and Sears expressed concerns over how the divisiveness and angry rhetoric of the past several months have overshadowed the fact that residents of Tillamook County have a long history of working together - regardless of political differences - whenever there's a clear need. With any threat, like the fires last fall or the county's perpetual floods, community members come out to support those most in danger or most affected.

"People work side-by-side to clear debris, sandbag buildings or deliver food to those in need," Bassett said, "and no one asks or cares how the person working next to you voted."

The Bridge the Gap Beach Cleanup is intended to re-invigorate that spirit and to remind the community at large of the fact that this energy of common concern and action is an integral part of what makes Tillamook County the special place it is.

Everyone, regardless of political persuasion, is invited to participate. Bags will be provided and Sears has committed to haul the refuse to the transfer station. Tillamook County will waive the transfer station fees for refuse from the cleanup. Those attending are urged to bring gloves and to wear appropriate clothing for the unpredictable Oregon Coast weather.

Parking for those participating will be available along Sand Lake Road at the south end of Tierra Del Mar, past the last residence. A central gathering and information station will be designated by an American Flag in that area of Sand Lake Road. This is also the area where disposal bags will be collected. Participants are urged to not block driveways or trespass on private property to approach the beach.

For more information, please contact TCDCC Chair Fred Bassett at 503-812-9141, or TCRCC Chair Mike Sears at 503-965-7736. Information about the event is posted on the TCRCC website at tillamookgop.org, and on the TCDCC website at tillcodems.org.

Join the fun and help Tillamook County Republicans and Democrats "bridge the gap."

Or, he would offer, she could pay for it. Well, she could do neither. Her mother was gone, her father in jail, her grandmother overwhelmed, and the house - where the book probably was - locked up by the police. Worst case scenario, but true. There were other, more minor, embarrassments.

With the use of technology, keeping track of books is easier than in previous years for both the libraries and their patrons. I appreciate the e-mail reminders I get from the library when my books are almost due, and the notices telling me my on-hold books have arrived. I appreciate the books and other services our libraries offer and the friendly librarians. I love going to the South Tillamook County Branch Library in Pacific City (closest to my house) and seeing (before Covid) the group of students who hung out there after school almost every day because it is a warm and friendly place.

I'm pleased our library administrators are doing all they can to keep our libraries welcoming and friendly. Not charging fines for overdue books is an excellent step in this direction.

I support fines free at the library

I just read the craziest letter in your paper. It says, TCL declared a Fines Free policy! I say Hallelujah to that. The crazy part is we are being task with finding a racist in their midst. Also, we are told, because there are less than 1% black TC library patrons, Fines Free is not needed. This comment links race to the Fines Free policy and is an example of the racial bias in US culture.

I use the library a lot and support the new policy. I accept and appreciate the gift. I understand Fines Free is about money not race. It is embracing library patrons with a salute. Hooray!

TALES FROM THE LIBRARY

Bill Landau

How do you choose which book to read next?

Many people chase after their favorite authors. Others rely on friends for recommendations. Some listen to what titles are getting the most media buzz. And some people, like myself, do a combination of all those...but I also LOVE to browse the new books shelves and see what jumps out at me.

Of course, graphic artists know that an exceptional book cover is always one of the best ways to grab a reader's attention. A striking image is sometimes enough to make someone pick up a book. The title is important, too. You would not believe how much thought goes into the title of a book. Many authors have been surprised to find the publisher changed their title at the last minute in the hope of increased sales. One part of the new book browsing ritual that tends to work for me is to read the first few lines of a book, just to see if it intrigues me. Just like the cover graphic and the title, the first line or two can make or break a potential reader's impression of the book.

"Call me Ishmael," has long been considered an iconic first line, from Herman Melville's epic novel, Moby Dick. Charles Dickens started his famous Tale of Two Cities with, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times..." Alice Walker started The Color Purple with "You better not never tell nobody but God." And the first Harry Potter book began with, "Mr. and Mrs. Dursley of number four, Privet Drive, were proud to say that they were perfectly normal, thank you very much."

It doesn't always work, but you can very often get a feel for a book by simply reading those beginning few lines. It's all about first impressions and it allows the author the chance to grab you from the get-go.

Now, indulge me as I try to draw a correlation between using first impressions of a book to fostering a child's love of reading by making sure they have a good first impression about literature in their lives. How a parent or mentor exposes a youngster to the wonders of the library and the joy of books can shape their world in a magnificent way. If a child's first introduction to literature is a negative one, chances are books will not be something important in their lives. But if "the first few lines" of a child's exposure to books are enticing, exciting and interesting, you might just have a lifetime reader on your hands.

My parents provided an excellent example for me. In addition to being sure they took me to the library on a regular basis when I was young, they also showed me by example what it was like to be a reader. My mom was a voracious consumer of literature and always had a stack of library books on the end table by her recliner. She loved a good story and once she found an author she liked, she would read every book that person wrote.

My father preferred historical non-fiction...civil war, U.S. history, epic stories of world leaders, etc...and he supplemented those with his never-ending subscription to National Geographic. My five brothers and I knew that we could always cut up any magazine in the house...EXCEPT National Geographic. That was the holy grail of publications in our home.

Now, back to how to pick out your next book! If all of the above fails, there is still one sure-fired way to find a great book that we have not mentioned. Ask your friendly, neighborhood librarian! That's what we are here for and we are confident we can help you become a happy, satisfied reader.

I am in contact with our lovely mayor, Sue Wilson, and will update you about the fireworks on July 4th as soon as she knows. Meanwhile, we can plan on a fabulous 4th, with family, picnics and shopping, whether the fireworks happen or not. As I have mentioned in the past, our city truly embraces the fourth with open arms. It is a fabulous holiday no matter what. But, keep your fingers and toes crossed.

We have lots of birthdays this month. I have a special happy birthday for Hal McMahan, who is turning 90 this month. The rest of the birthday folks include Julie Bell, Rosanna Recto, Kathy Kammerer, Jordon Wolfe, Jill Mulvey and Gordon McCraw. I am sure there are many more, so happy birthday to all that I missed!

R&R Espresso had a fundraiser for Heidi and Gary Stevenson, who recently lost their home to a house fire in the Lake Lytle area. They were able to raise $2,500 to help them through this tragedy. Thanks to all involved which I am sure includes their staff. And thank you to R&R Espresso for doing this for our neighbors. If you would like to help Heidi and Gary, you can donate to their Go Fund Me at <https://gofund.me/cad85bc9>. I love how the folks in Rockaway are willing to help there own!

Have you ever seen a Marilyn Elkins photo? Well, now you can! They are just phenomenal, and now they are for sale at the Little Crow. Be sure to pop in and see them. You will be blown away with how beautiful they are.

Free Fishing Day is almost here. It is always the first weekend in June, which means that this year it is June 5th and 6th, (Saturday and Sunday.) Be sure to verify just before you go, as things seem to change daily with Covid Restrictions, but if it is on, what a great adventure you could have with your loved ones.

The Oregon beaches are nesting grounds for the snowy plover and at times seasonal beach restrictions are in place while they nest. You may be asked to keep yourself and your pups, horses, bikes and kites on the wet sand. You may also be asked not to have beach fires. You may not see the signs warning you about them, but they are there. These restrictions have the plover populations rebounding. Yay for us and a bigger yay for the plovers!

While on the subject, if you see a baby seal on the beach, it is most likely left on the beach while their mums are out foraging for food. They are not abandoned. And most importantly, stay at least 50 yards from them and encourage others to do the same. And for heavens sake, keep your dogs away from them. The mums spend most of the time looking for food, and come ashore periodically to nurse their pups, and will stay away if people are around. If you see someone harassing one of these little fellows or if the pup appears to be in distress, call the Oregon State Police at 1 800 452 7888. If that doesn't get the point across, maybe the amount of the fine if you bother these guys will. Violations are punishable by a $10,000 fine. Okay, that should be a great deterrent.

There has been much concern lately about people leaving unattended fires on the beach. I called our city hall, and the number to call in this situation is 503 815 1911. Be sure to jot this down somewhere. It will definitely make it easier to report if you come across this situation in the future.

The RB Little Store has amazing burgers. I promised my husband I would mention them again. He stops there as often as he can. They are located at 1720 HWY 101. While there, check out their sandwiches and specials of the day. YUM!

HOT OFF THE PRESS! Mayor Sue Wilson just contacted me! It's a YES! "LET THE FIREWORKS BEGIN!" WHOOP WHOOP!!

"In early June the world of leaf and flowers explodes, and every sunset is different." Keep taking pictures folks. It will help get you through those cold winter months. And maybe too, you will be as good as Marilyn someday! That's Rockaway Beach, "Sugar Coated!"

OREGON COAST BANK LENDING ACTUALLY INCREASED DURING THE PANDEMIC. NOW IT'S INCREASING EVEN MORE.

This is what $800 million looks like.

Over the years Oregon Coast Bank has received considerable media recognition for lending more than $800 million to Tillamook and Lincoln County families and businesses. But when the pandemic and economic shutdowns began to severely impact our communities, many people wondered if our bank's lending would slow down.

Today, more than 15 months later, the answer is clear. Oregon Coast Bank's lending actually increased during the pandemic – sharply. The total amount lent grew significantly as did the number of families and businesses receiving funds. Oregon Coast Bank completed hundreds of SBA Paycheck Protection Program loans and also helped those businesses file the necessary paperwork to take advantage of their loan's forgiveness clause.

So now that our economy seems to be finally reopening, people are again asking the same questions: will loans be available? At Oregon Coast Bank the answer is a strong "yes".

If your family is ready to remodel or buy a new home we can help. If you're purchasing a vehicle, need an educational loan, consolidating debt, or need money for just about any reason, give us a call.

For businesses we're providing financing for computer systems, new inventory, fishing vessels, commercial vehicles, logging equipment, buildings, rental properties, new construction and more. We also offer lines of credit. Simply put, if your business needs funding, we're here to help.

Better yet, at Oregon Coast Bank you'll enjoy the process. You'll notice that during business hours our phones are always answered by a real person. Someone right here in Tillamook or Lincoln County who will take the time to listen, understand your needs, and offer realistic solutions as quickly as possible. But don't just take our word for it, ask any Oregon Coast Bank customer how they feel they are treated. Then call us, we're making loans every day.

Greetings Bay City and Hallelujah! My spring cleaning marathon is complete! Every inch of the interior, including cupboards, drawers, closets, and every inch of the exterior, garage, storage unit, and vehicles are clean and organized. Don't worry everyone, although Kin worked the entire time beside me, he is still standing. However, he did cut out this Sally Forth comic strip from the Oregonian: (Daughter talking to her elderly mother) "How do you feel Mom?" (Mother) "Well, I got both shots, so that's a relief. Otherwise, I clean house, watch some British mysteries, clean house, make myself something to eat, and plan what I want to clean tomorrow". (Daughter) "Just how much do you clean Mom?" (Mother) "This place just seems to get bigger and bigger. Every time I think I'm finished, its like it gives birth to another room". Kin and I had a good laugh at that story, and a good laugh at us. Our morning coffee with the newspaper is our favorite time of the day. We spend a lot of time telling each other what we're reading and what we think of it. So when we're done, we feel like we've read the news twice. In June we will celebrate 56 years of marriage. I give him all the credit for our togetherness. I married a Marine. It doesn't get any better than that.

Good news from Bay City. On Tuesday, June 1st, the city is opening the office for business Monday-Friday from 10 AM to 4 PM. Please note that masks are still required, and only one person or family is allowed in one at a time. I don't know about you, but I've missed the staff. I think the citizens think of it as one of their gathering places, right along with Mana's, Downies, and the post office.

I missed the last city council meeting on May 11th due to my other commitments, but I have received word that they extended the "State of Emergency" to June 30th. In other city business, mark your calendar for tonight's (June 2nd) preparedness meeting at 6 PM at city hall. The Scouts' moto is "Be Prepared"; Wise words for all of us to follow.

I hope you all had a safe and meaningful Memorial Weekend. We spent Memorial Day laying flowers on our family graves, including those of our son Matt (1967-2018) and our brother-in-law, Infield University Hall of Fame Member, Steve Davis. All of them so loved and missed. We took time to remember my uncle, Roland King, a World War II veteran, who left the safety of his foxhole to save his fellow soldiers by crawling through enemy fire to take out a machine gun with a hand grenade. He was a star athlete at Lebanon High School and had a great arm. (Fast forward) He survived the war, married Auntie Pat, joined his father-in-law's insurance agency, which eventually became King Insurance. His son, Jeff, is the third generation at the helm. Uncle Roland, like most of the men who returned home from the war, came back with a much different perspective than they went in with; that life is not about serving oneself. They came home wanting to serve God, family, and country. No one did that better than Roland King of Lebanon, Oregon.

Thank you for reading the Fencepost, and I'll see you next week.

Tom (Charles Thomas) Butterfield, Jr. 77, Tillamook, formerly of Tigard, Ore. died peacefully on April 28, 2021. He was born on Oct. 25, 1943 in Portland, Ore. to Irma Del Moore and Charles Thomas Butterfield, Sr. After graduating from Tigard High School, Judy married Jack Finnell Sr on October 7, 1950. They owned the Pirates Cove in Garibaldi from 1956-1988. Jack Sr passed away in 1989 so Judy and her mom Ruth moved to Bend to be near her brothers, Don, Sid, and Gene Hall. Not one to be idle she waitressed at Jake's Truck Stop 2 or 3 days a week. In her spare time, she was always ready for a pinochle game or crocheting an afghan for a new grandkid or friends.

Judy moved back to Tillamook in 2009 to be closer to her family. She reconnected with old friends and could be found playing pinochle at the Elks on Monday, Five Rivers on Tuesday, Senior Center on Friday and then finishing the week with Bingo at the Eagles. Her love of baking always gave her an excuse to bring goodies to these card games. As a lifelong member of the Tillamook Pioneers, she loved going to the county fair on Pioneer Day, sitting in their booth and then watching the Pig n Fords. She looked forward to seeing old friends and the fair food!

Judy leaves behind six children, Jo Averill (Don), Jill McLane, Joyce Collins, Jon Finnell (Donna), Jeri Finnell and Jay Finnell (Missy). She had 21 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren and 4 great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by her oldest son, Jack Jr.

At Judy's request there will be no service. A private gathering will be held at a later date. In lieu of flowers, donations to Tillamook Hospice, Tillamook Serenity Club, or the Tillamook Pioneers Assn. would be appreciated.

They worked as a partnership until retiring in September 1998. Donna's wishes were to be cremated and scattered on the family farm. Her warmth and sense of humor will be dearly missed. Services will be held at the Hemlock Nazarene Church, June 19th at 2 p.m.

Find local farm stands with Oregon's Bounty website, guide

Strawberries, asparagus, rhubarb, mushrooms, salad greens — along with bedding plants, flowering baskets, and fresh-cut flowers — are just a few favorites of Oregon's agricultural bounty in late spring. But outside of the local farmers market, where can you buy these things directly from a farm or ranch?

"Everyone knows where their local farmers market is. But what about roadside farm stands, u-pick fields, and on-farm events out in rural areas? That's where Oregon's Bounty comes in," said Anne Marie Moss, Oregon Farm Bureau communications director.

Oregon's Bounty at Or-regonFB.org/oregonsbounty is a searchable directory of 260 family farms and ranches that sell food and foliage directly to the public. The website allows visitors to do keyword searches for specific agriculture products — such as blueberries, cucumbers, honey, or eggs — and/or search for farms within a specific region of the state.

You can also get a free printed copy of the Oregon's Bounty Farm Stand Guide by emailing a request with your mailing address to annemarie@oregonfb.org.

Some farms may have specific instructions for pandemic safety, and it's important to check a farm's website or social media before venturing out.

"Oregonians love farm-fresh food. Thanks to the diversity of agriculture in this great state, we can buy an enormous variety of seasonal fruits, vegetables, flowers, foliage, meat, and nuts directly from the families who grew it," said Moss.

"Each of the farms listed in Oregon's Bounty are owned and operated by Farm Bureau members who are proud to share what they've raised with the public," said Moss. "Spring is a great time to take a trip into the beautiful countryside and experience Oregon agriculture firsthand."

OBITUARIES

Lonnie Bill Wall

Aug. 28, 1951 - May 18, 2021

Today we hang our hats in honor of our Conductor, or as others like to call him, 'The Captain'.

The ever poised and infallible Lonnie "Lon" Bill Wall passed away on Tuesday, May 18th, 2021. He was 69 years old.

Born August 28, 1951, Lon developed his tireless work ethic early in life. Whether healthy or otherwise, Lon never liked to sit still, working up to his last day. For over 40 years Lon was his own employer, owning and operating Corvair Underground alongside his partner and wife Linda Wall, as well as employing their sons in their youth. During his 'retirement' he enjoyed volunteering for the Oregon Coast Scenic Railroad and Sumpter Railroad as well as his son's restaurant, Garibaldi Portside Bistro.

Lon was also a creative and innovative man, meticulously constructing museum-grade train models while listening to Oingo Boingo and Gilbert and Sullivan.

His entire life story is one of true heroics, a tale of nine lives and unbreakable fortitude, surviving years of significant health issues with nothing but grace, gratefulness, and sheer stubbornness.

Lon was one of the last great outlaws, never conforming, always himself, strong in his convictions and quiet in his peace with God. More than just a man, Lon was a truth-seeker, a light of positivity, a calm kindness, and a true friend. He was a daily example of how to live in your faith, yet not be boastful in your way of thinking.

Loving husband. Father figure. Proud grandfather. Chaser of trains. Corvair savior. Fountain for deep, unforgettable wisdom. Lon is survived by his wife and soul mate Linda Wall, his mother Betty Wall, his sons Dennis and Curtis Cavitt, niece Heather Robbins, his daughter-in-law Amanda Cavitt, his grandchildren Kyler, Kayla, Brandon, Chasen, and Kitt Cavitt, as well as his son Phil Wall. He is also survived by his siblings Kent, Brent, & Shawn Wall.

Lon's signature conductor hat will continue to represent boundless optimism and relentless perseverance and will remain on display at Garibaldi Portside Bistro for the foreseeable future.

You will forever be our Captain & Conductor. Rest in Peace, Lon Wall. 8.28.51-5.18.21

A Viewing was held on Wednesday, May 26, in Attrell's Chapel in Newberg with Burial Services followed in the Noble Cemetery.

A Celebration of Life will be held on Sunday, June 6th, 1 p.m at the Garibaldi Portside Bistro. To RSVP for the Celebration of Life please email: lon@portsidebistro.com

Mooks basketball takes down Cowapa League rival Astoria

Staff

The Tillamook Cheesemakers boys basketball squad is happy to be out on the court in the abbreviated COVID restricted season with eyes on making it to the State Tournament. The OSAA will select only eight 4A teams to compete in the elite tournament.

The Mooks are off to a good start going 1 and 1 on their first two games and beat the Fishermen last Thursday night at home in a tight match going to the final seconds by a score of 52-47.

Track Veek-Petersen led all Mook scoring with 26 on the home win.

Astoria is loaded with six seniors and has a few more games under their belt, the loss to the Cheesemakers brought the Fishermen's record to 1-4 on the year.

The Fishermen were successful in slowing down the tempo to try and keep the Mooks fas-paced scoring threat from inside and long range to a minimum.

The Mooks got into foul trouble in the first half with Aidan Johnson, Isaac Hornbeak and Veek-Petersen all acquiring three could in the first half. With Veek-Perersen, a known scoring threat on the bench most of the second quarter, the Fishermen were able to take a one point lead into halftime.

In the second half the Fishermen double teamed the Mooks other scoring thread, Marshall Allen and Veek-Petersen, but Colton Seals seeped up in the fourth quarter and hit two three-pointers in row to put the Mooks back on top by two points.

Veek-Perersen controlled the ball well the last tow minutes, got fouled and made a clutch free-throw to secure the home win.

This game that could've gone either way. Astoria was leading the Mooks by eight points with five minutes left in the fourth quarter. Tillamook dug deep and found a way to get the win.

THS vs Salem Academy

In the Mooks first game of the abbreviated season they took on Salem Academy but came away with an overtime loss 81-87. This loss was particularly hard for the Mooks as they were up by six with two minutes left in the game. Salem Academy hit three outside shots late in the game and one three-pointer to put the game into overtime.

This was the first time in the history of the high school basketball program at Tillamook that two players scored over 30 points in the game.

Stats

Trask Veek-Petersen 32 points
Marshall Allen 31 points
17 rebounds
Colton Seals 9 points
Keeping Lewis 4
Jacob Torres 3
Isaac Hornbeak 2

The Mooks take on Seaside on the road on Tuesday and will return home with a match-up against Valley Catholic on Thursday. These two league games will be very important to the Mooks State Tournament bit.

NOTICE OF HEARING BEFORE GARIBALDI CITY COUNCIL
On June 16, 2021, the City Council for the City of Garibaldi will conduct an "on the record" hearing at 6:30 p.m. to consider a land use decision that was remanded by the Land Use Board of Appeals (LUBA). The applicable case is CU-2020-01, a Conditional Use application from Coastal Housing Solutions, LLC, represented by Paul Daniels, for the construction of 66 apartments on a 3.62-acre parcel zoned C-1 and R-1. The site is located on the north side of East Garibaldi Avenue, approximately midway between Nelson Lane and Martin Smith Lane. The property address is 501 East Garibaldi Avenue. The City Council will accept written and oral testimony from interested parties solely directed at evidence in the existing record, in order to address the basis for LUBA's remand. The remand directed the City to adopt a decision that sets out and addresses the applicable criteria, and "explains the justification for the decision based on the criteria, standards and facts set forth" as required by ORS 227.173(3). The applicable criteria are found in the Garibaldi Municipal Code: Chapter 18.15, Medium Density Residential Zone; Chapter 18.25 Commercial Zone; Chapter 18.110 Multifamily or Apartment Siting Criteria; Chapter 18.125 Automobile Parking Standards, Chapter 18.185 Conditional Uses, Chapter 18.80 Hillside Overlay Zone; and applicable Garibaldi Comprehensive Plan goals/policies III Community Development Pattern and VI -Housing. The City Council will not accept new evidence. It will only consider testimony that is directed at whether the application, based on evidence already in the record, complies with the applicable criteria. Failure of an issue to be raised in the hearing, in person or by letter, or a failure to provide sufficient specificity to afford decision makers an opportunity to respond to the issue precludes an appeal based on that issue.

Public Notices

The City plans to hold the hearing in person, with limits on the number of people who may be physically present at the meeting. Interested parties are encouraged to monitor the City's website for additional information about how the meeting will be conducted. A copy of the application, all documents and evidence relied upon by the applicant and applicable criteria are available for inspection at no cost at Garibaldi City Hall, 107 Sixth Street, Garibaldi, OR 97118. The staff report will also be available to review at City Hall at no cost, at least 7-days prior to the hearing. For more information, copies of materials at a reasonable cost, or to submit written testimony in advance of the hearing, contact Lori Longfellow, Garibaldi Assistant City Manager/Finance Officer, at Lori@ci.garibaldi.or.us or 503-322-3327.

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN ACTIVITIES and SOURCES OF FINANCING *
For FY 2020-2021, the City will be maintaining an expanded annual budget primarily to account for anticipated revenues and expenditures in association with Federal funding following the 2015 winter storm event. This is tentative funding. The annual budget also reflects increases in Cash on Hand and Reserves/Contingencies. The overall budget strategy for the past several years has been conservative spending in order to build the Contingency as seen above. The primary change in budget occurring this year is the implementation of the new water fees which is anticipated to increase water service charges by approximately 44.7% in the first year (water rates were last set in 2005) and 3.2% annually thereafter.

Sand Lake Restoration Project
Notice of Opportunity to Object
The Hebo Ranger District has prepared a final environmental assessment (FEA) and draft decision notice and finding of no significant impact (draft DN/FONSI) for the Sand Lake Restoration Project. The Sand Lake Restoration Project is located on the Hebo Ranger District of the Siuslaw National Forest and includes approximately 7,150 acres on National Forest Systems lands north of Pacific City on the Oregon coast. The project was proposed to promote the development of late-successional forest, improve the quality and diversity of important habitat, and provide timber products. The draft decision intends to proceed with a portion of the activities proposed in Alternative 2 of the FEA, called Alternative 2 Phase 1, which includes approximately 2,330 acres of commercial harvest activities; non-commercial treatments such as tree felling in riparian reserves and snag creation; parabolic dune restoration; botany and invasive plant treatments; changes to the transportation system; and aquatic restoration activities including the replacement of two culverts to restore the stream migration corridor for fish passage. The draft DN/FONSI is based on meeting the purpose and need of the project, while balancing the authorization of work for those activities that are covered by consultation against those that are not. The environmental consequences of the alternatives considered in the Sand Lake Restoration Project FEA and how each alternative complied with applicable law, regulation, and policy was evaluated in making the draft decision, as well as considering multiple views and social values that are important to the community. The Sand Lake Restoration Project FEA, draft DN/FONSI, and other relevant documents are available on the Siuslaw National Forest

STATEMENT OF CHANGES IN ACTIVITIES and SOURCES OF FINANCING **
The General Fund Budget is based on a $9.3 billion State School Fund. This funding level falls short of what is needed just to provide the current service level, which is estimated to be closer to $9.6 billion. Fortunately, the District has sufficient reserves and no cuts will be made. The estimated shortfall of about $1.7 million will be funded thru the General Fund Reserves. The General Fund Budget includes adding a second Pre-Kinder classroom at Wilson School (1.0 FTE Teacher and 1.0 FTE Educational Assistant) and two 1.0 FTE Nurses. The District received additional assistance via the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief Funds (ESSER) to provide relief to districts as they prevent, prepare for, and respond to COVID-19. This budget includes about $1.1 million in ESSER funding that will cover the cost of the Virtual Education Program (1.0 FTE Director and five 1.0 FTE teachers), and the addition of five 1.0 FTE custodians. The Student Investment Fund (SIA) is anticipated to be fully funded in the 2021-2022 school year and this budget includes the addition of thirteen (13) positions to be funded via the $905k increase in SIA funding.
