37th Home and Garden show a rousing success

The Tillamook Headlight Herald's 37th annual Home and Garden show took place last weekend at the Tillamook County Fairgrounds, giving attendees the chance to stock up on home and garden supplies, meet candidates for local office, learn about bees, trees and recycling, and observe demonstrations by area first responders.

Tillamook County Solid Waste

cosponsored the show, with the Tillamook Beekeepers Association holding its annual Bee Days event throughout the weekend and local fire departments and LifeFlight giving demonstrations on Saturday.

There were also raffles from the beekeepers and Kiwanis Club of Tillamook, among others, tasty food from Pacific Restaurant and Fryer and Ice, and oodles of flowers, trees, fruits and vegetables.

Tillamook council set to raise sewer rates 35%

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Following extensive discussions at their recent meetings, Tillamook city council asked City Manager Sean Lewis to bring a sewer rate increase of 35% for consideration at their next meeting, which would see the base rate for residential customers increase from $92.68 monthly to $125.12.

The resolution asking for the resolution passed 5-1, with Councilor Hope Bouchard voting against, and will instruct Lewis to begin preparing a general bond obligation question to put before voters in November 2027, with the goal of removing the need for double-digit percentage increases in the rate in the next two years.

Council also delayed a decision on increasing the city's water rates, asking that Lewis gather more information on what increase, if any, is necessary this year to maintain access to a Business Oregon line of credit that the city secured last year but is not currently using.

Lewis began the sewer rate increase discussion by telling council about inquiries he had made into Councilor Justin Aufdermauer's suggestion that the city seek voter approval of a general obligation bond to support the $45 million in infrastructure projects needed by the system over the next 25 years.

Based on discussions with three different bonding agencies, Lewis said that a general obligation bond for the city would come in with an interest rate around 5%, meaning that a $40 million bond with a 20-year term would require $2.9 million in annual debt service. Given the city's assessed property value of $536,157,875, Lewis said the debt service would require homeowners pay $5.41 per thousand dollars of assessed value, or between $1,300 and $1,500 annually for a home valued at $300,000.

Lewis said that based on his back-of-the-napkin math, a 40% increase in rates this year, followed by 12.5% increases in the next two years and increases pegged to inflation for the next 20 years, the total annual cost to end consumers would be less than $800.

Regardless the long-term approach, Lewis said that each of the bonding agencies he had spoken with, as well as direct lenders and bond counsel, had stressed that the water rate increases were necessary to put the utility in a place to access a

County to help USACE with Tillamook Bay dredging permitting

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

At their meeting on April 22, Tillamook County commissioners gave Tillamook County Director of Community Development Sarah Absher permission to take the lead on permitting a United States Army Corps of Engineers project to dredge the channel between the Port of Garibaldi and the tip of Bayocean Spit.

The project will take place after the completion of the rehabilitation of the south jetty at the entrance to the bay this summer and aim to increase navigability and the flow of water through the channel between the jetties.

Port of Garibaldi General Manager Mike Saindon appeared at the meeting alongside Absher and explained that lots of sediment was flowing down the Miami River and being deposited in the channel, leading to daily incidents of boats running around while trying to enter the port's boat basin.

Saindon said that dredging was a challenge at ports statewide, with all 23 public ports in the state facing issues with trying to fund dredging projects, as costs have in some cases quadrupled since 2019, with the port's dredging needs for its boat basin alone jumping in price from $500,000 to $2 million.

Saindon said that the United States Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) had agreed to do the larger project several years ago but only recently secured funding to support the inflated costs.

However, USACE staff will not go through the necessary state and county permitting processes, Absher said, a common occurrence with corps projects. Given the project's importance to the local economy, Absher said that she felt it would be appropriate for her to take the lead on permitting.

The main concern as relates to permitting the project, Absher said, is identifying a suitable location for the dredged material to be deposited. To do so, Absher is work-

Wheeler council accepts emergency resilience hub

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

At their April 21 meeting, Wheeler city council unanimously voted to accept two 40-foot Conex boxes containing emergency supplies from Oregon's Office of Resilience and Emergency Management, which will be installed at Wheeler's Upper Park.

The containers will house food and medical supplies and communications equipment and be attached to a propane generator and solar array, allowing them to serve as an assembly point during emergency situations and support small communities' needs for one to two months.

Wheeler had previously applied to the Office of Resilience and Emergency Management (OREM), a subdivision of the Oregon Department of Human Services, for resilience hub placement in 2024, but that application was not selected.

Kevin Lindsey, OREM's operations chief who spoke at the council meeting, said that the office had received 700 applications in that initial round of resilience hub funding requests and that none of the hubs ended up on the coast.

However, last year, the office found $3.2 million in unused funds in its budget and decided to use that money to expand the program further, with a focus on the coast. Lindsey said that Tillamook County had been selected to receive six resilience hub sites in this round of funding, all of which will be in place by the end of the year, bringing the county's total to seven, including one already onsite at the Port of Tillamook Bay.

Emergency Volunteer Corps of Nehalem Bay President Trish Johnson also spoke at the meeting, saying that after the city's initial grant was rejected, representatives from her organization, the cities of Wheeler, Nehalem, Rockaway Beach and Manzanita, the Nehalem Bay Health District and the two local firefighting entities had come together to discuss possible sites for hubs. Tillamook County Commissioner Mary Faith Bell and Emergency Manager Randy Thorpe also joined the group, and over the past year, they identified the Upper Park and a site in Manzanita as good candidates to receive

Cyclists raise Parkinson's awareness

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Phoenix. The congress brings people with Parkinson's disease from around the world together with researchers and doctors in the field every three years, and World Parkinson Congress Ambassador Marlene Kendrick said that it is an eye-opening experience.

"That's what going to the big conference can mean, seeing what the future could be from the benefits you get from all the people doing research," Kendrick said. In addition to learning about the latest research into topics like artificial intelligence's potential benefits to ways to build a healthy lifestyle, the conference also offers its 4,500 attendees the chance to network and see the range of different outcomes the disease can produce.

This is the second congress where some attendees have arrived in teams by bike, with a team traveling across Europe to 2023's congress in Barcelona. This year, three teams are pedaling to Phoenix, the west coast team, which departed from Seattle, the Route 66 team, coming from Chicago, and Team Utah.

started with 11 riders in Seattle and will pick up 16 more in San Francisco and Los Angeles, around half of whom have Parkinson's Disease, before arriving in Phoenix to a big celebration.

After stopping in Longview, Washington, on the 18th, the cyclists made their way to Highway 101 on the 19th, and proceeded to Garibaldi, with a rest stop staffed by volunteers led by Kendrick at the Neah Kah Nie overlook in north county.

Representative Cyrus Javadi Responds to False and Defamatory Voters' Pamphlet Statement

Representative Cyrus Javadi today condemned a false and defamatory statement submitted against him for Oregon's voters' pamphlet, calling it a dishonest attempt to mislead voters with personal attacks and knowingly distorted claims about his record.

"This is not hard-hitting politics. It is reckless and dishonest," said Javadi. "Voters can handle real disagreements. What they should not have to deal with is a candidate trying to win by making things up and smearing an opponent with ugly falsehoods."

The statement includes several claims that are false or materially misleading.

One claim says Javadi "blamed constituents for wanting a say" on transportation funding. Javadi voted for the transportation bill, but he is not on the record making any such statement. That accusation is false.

Another claim says Javadi "allowed age-inappropriate sexual content in public schools." The vote in question involved a bill preventing books from being removed based on the identity of authors or characters. Nothing in that bill allowed inappropriate sexual content into schools. The statement twists a vote about viewpoint and identity-based censorship into something it plainly was not.

The statement also attacks Javadi for "boosting Planned Parenthood funding." The actual vote restored cuts for basic health care services. Voters are free to disagree with that vote, but disagreement does not justify misrepresentation.

Most seriously, the statement says Javadi "voted to let abortion clinics leave babies born alive to die." That claim is false. The vote at issue during the 2026 session was a procedural vote to pull a bill to the floor for debate. It was not a vote on the substance of the bill. The measure also was never heard or voted on in committee. Describing that procedural vote as support for letting babies die is not opinion. It is a defamatory falsehood.

"This kind of politics is corrosive," Javadi said. "It lowers the standard of public debate and treats voters like they are too gullible to notice the difference between a real record and a manufactured smear."

Javadi said campaigns should be free to make their case on policy, values, and vision, but not by inventing facts.

"If someone wants to argue that I am too moderate, too independent, or wrong on the issues, that is their right," Javadi said. "But if they want to tell voters I said things I never said or cast votes I never cast, then they are no longer engaging in debate. They are engaging in deception."

Javadi has filed a complaint asking Oregon election officials to review the statement and determine whether it violates Oregon law governing false and defamatory material in the voters' pamphlet.

"Public office is serious business," Javadi said. "The voters' pamphlet should not become a dumping ground for nasty, false campaign trash. Oregon voters deserve better than this."

Honl focuses on north coast families in state house run

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

Christian Honl

After a long and successful career at Intel, Christian Honl is looking to use his experience solving problems through relationship and coalition building to the north coast's benefit in Salem, by representing house district 32.

Honl, who is running as a Republican, said that he would focus on creating an environment that was conducive to the success of families, focusing on three pillars, good jobs, housing and safety, and tackling issues by connecting with lawmakers on both sides of the aisle.

"It starts with building relationships, getting to know them, finding the common ground and then building a coalition to help you with your arguments," Honl said. "And in Salem, sometimes you can run into a brick wall, and through my professional career, I've had the opportunity to learn how to break through that."

Honl is a fifth-generation Oregonian born and raised in Astoria, before attending the University of Washington and studying electrical engineering. Honl then started a 30-year career at Intel in Hillsboro, including 15 as a director of engineering and six as a senior marketing planner, overseeing a team of more than 100 around the world and managing a $500 million business. "In that, I had to work with several organizations that had their own agenda, had their own things they wanted to do, and I had to learn how to influence people who didn't agree with you," Honl said of how he believed those experiences would translate to the legislature.

After retiring at a relatively young age in 2022, Honl moved back to Astoria to help care for his mother and became involved with the Clatsop Care Health District, serving on the board. Honl has also volunteered on several campaigns over the past decade and ran unsuccessfully for the school board in Hillsboro. Honl said that he is inspired to serve the community by a sense of wanting to give back after Astorians stepped up to help his father, a doctor who suffered a traumatic brain injury during the Vietnam War, after he was disabled.

Honl said that he had been motivated to run for a seat in the state house when the house he moved into when returning to the coast was valued at over $700,000, making him wonder how a young family could ever afford to build a life in the area. Honl said that thinking about the needs of such a family had informed his campaign platform, built on three legs, good taxes to determine if they were reaching their aims and trying to raise the revenue threshold for inclusion in the state's corporate activity tax from $1 million.

As for housing, Honl said that he would take a dual-pronged approach to spur increased development, taking aim at long permitting times and trying to render more land buildable, mentioning identifying ways to allow development in wetlands or potentially subdividing smaller farms for housing.

"There have to be some improvements or some fixes to zoning so that we can build more supply for houses, not just apartment buildings," Honl said.

To strengthen the final leg of the stool supporting young families, public safety, Honl said that law enforcement needed to be allowed to do its job and that the state government needed to prioritize making sure drug treatment facilities are easily and quickly accessible for those who need them. Honl also said that he felt the state had too many programs that facilitate the lifestyle of homeless residents and that he would look to reevaluate them. "We need to be compassionate about trying to help lift them up instead of doing programs and things that keep them where they are," Honl said.

Honl also took Representative Cyrus Javadi to task over his vote in favor of the 2025 bill increasing the state's gas tax and other road-related fees to fund the Oregon Department of Transportation. Honl said that he had been disappointed by the lack of concessions extracted by Javadi in return for his vote and that he believed Republican proposals to meet funding needs through reallocating funds at the agency would work.

Regarding education, Honl said that funding did not seem to be the problem, as the state funds its schools at a per-student level that falls around 25 out of the 50 states, and that he believed graduation requirements needed to be reinstated and curricula returned to a focus on fundamental skills.

Honl also said that he thought reforming the state's public employee retirement system could help with the issue but that he was still investigating the issue to determine the appropriate approach.

Overall, Honl said that he wanted voters to know that he was not looking at holding office as an opportunity for a second career, but rather to serve the community, and that he would be committed to finding solutions that worked for constituents above all.

"I don't like the politician who just says a bunch of platitudes or whatever," Honl said. "I like to go in, learn, talk to people and then be able to share stories and formulate things. I want people to understand I am here to represent you. I'm not here for special interests or for myself. I don't have to do this job, I want to do this job to give back."

Shopping Time

I happened to be having lunch in downtown Tillamook a couple of weeks ago and I passed by a window that had lots of plants in it. Well, gardener that I am, I couldn't pass by without stopping to check it out.

"Sweet Begonias" is tucked in the corner of the Pacific Restaurant with access from the restaurant but also from Henson Plaza on Second Street. It has been in business since August of last year and I feel very remiss in not finding it sooner. As I walked in, owner Robin Finnel was busy watering plants but took some time to talk to me about what inspired her to open her own houseplant shop with wife Eva Finnel.

"I have always loved houseplants," Robin told me. "And so, it seemed natural to share that love with other people. Eva loves plants, too, but she is more interested in the outdoor type." When I asked Robin what her favorite houseplant was she immediately and without hesitation said, "Begonias." That is why the shop is named as it is. But Robin also loves the Hoyas and Monstera as well. I had to admit that I, too, love begonias and the dramatic Monstera.

The shop is open on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 4 to 7 p.m. and on Friday from 12 to 7. Saturdays Robin is there from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The shop also holds a Plant Bingo on the second Tuesday of each month at the restaurant, with doors opening at 5 p.m. and game play starting at 6. everyone going home with a plant.

Robin will also be a new vendor in the annual Master Gardener Plant Sale taking place on May 2, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the FFA/4H Pavilion at the Tillamook County Fairgrounds. This is the big fundraiser that the Tillamook County Master Gardener Association holds each year in early May, and it allows the local Master Gardeners to maintain their Learning Garden as well as offer scholarships to Tillamook Bay Community College.

Plant Sale Chair Sarah Ostermiller has been busy for four months in planning and organizing the popular sale. "We will have upwards of 800 tomato plants for sale, and they have been carefully chosen to do well on the North Oregon Coast," Sarah told me recently. "We have a new cover on our hoop house at the Learning Garden and that has resulted in much healthier plants than we offered last year. We were able to keep the plants much happier in warmer temperatures and we also adjusted our potting mix. Both have resulted in better-quality products."

The sale will also offer vegetable starts like cucumber, squash and herbs as well as some pollinator-friendly perennials and annuals. All have been grown locally. And don't forget the "garage sale" that features lightly used garden tools, yard art, and equipment at garage sale prices.

There are also independent vendors that come with their specialties, and once again, the Tillamook FFA will bring their hanging baskets for sale. Local nursery JAndy Acres will be attending again this year and will be bringing a selection of perennials. Robin Finnel will bring her houseplants from Sweet Begonias, and The Sharpinator will be sharpening garden tools and knives while you shop. The Lone Wolf Forge and Alder-Valley Native Plants will return this year, too. The Master Gardeners will also set up a "Creators' Table" with everything from books from local authors to jewelry.

I was very excited to learn that two of our new class of Apprentices will be featuring their own booth at the sale. Trimaine Clark will be offering his specialty salsa from his business "Little L. Salsa Garden." Trimaine has assured me he will have a variety of salsas ranging from mild to very hot. Also, at that booth will be K.O. Clark with her handcrafted garden-themed jewelry. K.O. calls her business "Sowreap Gal." Her jewelry is fun and unique and helps you make a statement.

The annual Master Gardener Plant Sale is a must-visit for all local and regional gardeners. But come early! The doors open at 9 a.m. sharp, but by that time, the line snakes around the pavilion and into the parking lot.

“Without the local community, we wouldn't be here. We chose Oregon Coast Bank.”

Duane Hobbs JR has been fishing the Oregon Coast for decades. So when Nestucca Valley Sporting Goods(NVSG)—a fixture in the community for over three decades—came up for sale, it felt less like a business decision and more like a calling. "I just fell in love with the store when I first visited 10 years ago," says JR. "I'm over here, might as well open up a fishing shop." He acquired and reopened NVSG in 2025, stepping into a legacy that local fishermen had been counting on long before he ever owned it.

The property has a long standing history. An original photo, featuring a dirt Highway 101, showcases its first life as a gas station and service center. The location has always been a place where neighbors helped neighbors. The vintage Model A cars still parked out front are a quiet nod to that history. Originally converted into a sporting goods store by Lori and Pat Gefre, the spot has been a community hub for generations.

That spirit carries on today through two businesses under one roof. Alongside the sporting goods store, JR's wife Vy has reopened Little Nestucca Deli, which has been a part of the property for nearly 16 years. With renovations and a fresh energy, Vy brought the deli back to life as a welcoming spot for locals, outdoor enthusiasts, and passersby alike to enjoy warm, homemade food.

Since reopening, the response from the community has affirmed everything the couple hoped for. "It's been warm and welcoming," says JR. "Much needed and encouraging."

When it came time to choose a bank, JR wanted something that felt just as local as the business itself. A prior relationship with the Gefre's brought him to Oregon Coast Bank, and the fit made sense. "We wanted something close so we didn't have to go far. There aren't many options on the Coast, but Oregon Coast Bank is a good one."

For a business rooted in community, banking locally is a necessary part of the equation. NVSG looks forward to welcoming more outdoorsmen through their doors whether they're booking a guided salmon or steelhead trip, gearing up for a day on the water, or just stopping in for a hot sandwich from the deli.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I support Kathy Baker

I support Kathy Baker for Tillamook Bay Fire and Rescue Rural Fire District (TBRFD) Board position. Kathy has been a Bay City Councilor for ten years and Council President for the last seven years. She is very thoughtful and thorough when considering issues that impact the citizens of Bay City. She comes to each meeting prepared and ready to discuss important policies, budget impacts and projects for the city.

Kathy has been immersed in the new fire district formation as part of the steering committee, including studying the feasibility of options to sustain fire and rescue services for our community. Kathy has been a resident of Bay City for over 30 years, has been a local business owner and currently works in the insurance business. You can count on Kathy to represent the new TBRFD with the same tenacity, professionalism and respect she puts to work for Bay City citizens.

I also support Ballot Measure 186 to form the TBRFD between Bay City Fire Department and Tillamook Fire District to serve our community with a sustainable future.

*Liane Welch
Mayor of Bay City*

Consider Bell

This is my first ever Letter to the Editor, so I'll make it snappy. Our right to vote is precious, it's how we communicate to our American neighbors. This right is equally important to exercise locally on May 19 as it is nationally on November 3rd. And please consider voting for Mary Faith Bell. I've learned how much she accomplished for so many of our underserved neighbors here in the county. What's more, she's calmly getting it done. What a refreshing approach to government these days.

*Sincerely,
Sandra Wilder
Tillamook*

Support for Tillamook Bay Fire and Rescue

I have lived in this community for four decades. During that time, I have had to rely on emergency services several times. You don't know how great these people are until you need them. When my husband needed assistance, the Bay City Fire Department was always there. One time a friend was visiting and had a seizure; the fire department was immediately on the scene, helping in the most professional manner imaginable.

Every time I've driven by an accident along the highway, I see the firefighters responding and know they are doing the best they can and helping those in need.

They are efficient, effective and caring. We couldn't wish for a better group of professionals.

I am pleased that the county commissioners recognize the need to support these important people and agreed to place this on the ballot.

As a former business owner, I recognize that things cost much more than they used to. We need to support our emergency responders in any way we can, and paying a little more on my property taxes is the least I can do to support this well-thought-out effort to form a new fire district with Tillamook and Bay City.

Please vote by May 19, and please vote yes for Tillamook Bay Fire and Rescue.

*Sincerely,
Helen Wright
Bay City*

Bell is my choice

I'm writing this to express my support for Mary Faith Bell for County Commissioner, Position 3. Since she was first elected, Mary Faith has shown that she has the temperament, acumen, curiosity and communication skills for the position. Even when she wasn't an incumbent and first running for the position, she was clear about her passion to protect and grow local jobs, emergency planning, public safety, infrastructure, housing, literacy, education, healthcare and fiscal responsibility.

Anything her constituents asked of her, she would listen, evaluate and act. Her background and curiosity enabled her to educate herself about the issues facing Tillamook and since she gained the position, she has collaboratively, competently and consistently delivered solutions for our community.

This is in stark contrast to her opponent who doesn't have the time to attend city council meetings on Zoom or who can speak with any definitive clarity on any substantive issues facing us. You have to ask yourself, if you were hiring for a position, would you prefer to have someone who devotes some time and energy to doing their homework about the job or someone who jumps in and hopes for the best after they get hired? I may be going out on a limb here, but "trust me bro" is not a good basis for governance.

*ML Hilton
Tillamook*

Support for Bell

As a county resident and citizen volunteer, I have worked with Commissioner Bell on economic development and affordable housing issues for a number of years. I have always been impressed with her knowledge, focus and creativity in addressing these important issues in Tillamook County. The county will benefit from Commissioner Bell's continuing strong leadership in the years ahead.

*Ed Gallagher

We Support Mary Faith Bell

To the editor: Tillamook County Commissioner Mary Faith Bell is an exemplary public servant – deeply informed, collaborative, compassionate, experienced and dedicated.

Mary Faith has our enthusiastic support as she seeks reelection to a position on the County Commission.

We have observed and benefited from Commissioner Bell's extensive understanding of critical issues in Tillamook County, including the importance of rural health and senior care and community level emergency preparedness.

Mary Faith has been a strong proponent for developing a nursing program at Tillamook Bay Community College, where she also serves on the board of education. Given her perspective on local health care issues Mary Faith understands that creating opportunities for local students to pursue health care careers close to home is critical to staffing local health care facilities. Her support for the Nehalem Bay Health District is very much appreciated.

The commissioner has also been a strong advocate for preparedness and resiliency efforts in the county, including the work of the Emergency Volunteer Corps of Nehalem Bay.

It is essential that our county commission continue to have the service of dedicated, informed and engaged leaders like Commissioner Mary Faith Bell.

Please join us in supporting her in the May 19 primary election. She deserves to be reelected. We are lucky to have her in an important position of leadership in Tillamook County.

*Sincerely,
Trish and Marc Johnson

Where are the clear thinkers like William F. Buckley Jr.?

By today's standards of thinking about the federal government, one could argue that the south believed it should have been allowed to resist federal authority—just as modern states and cities sometimes resist federal policies. Some claim the south wanted the right to reject federal actions they opposed, including those affecting slavery.

Today, we see examples of states and cities asserting independence from federal enforcement in certain areas. In Oregon's case, some sanctuary policies have effectively created a form of separation from federal law in practice, if not in formal terms.

To some observers, this raises the question: has Oregon achieved a degree of autonomy that the south sought but failed to secure? Historically:

- Southern states argued they had the right to govern themselves and even leave the Union.

- They believed the federal government should not interfere with slavery.

- This conflict over state versus federal power intensified tensions.

The Civil War ultimately happened because:

- The north and south strongly disagreed over slavery.

- The south wanted to protect slavery and its way of life.

- The north wanted to stop slavery from spreading.
- When compromise failed, Southern states seceded, leading to war.

Do you see similarities between past conflicts over federal authority and current "sanctuary" or state-level resistance policies?

The framers of the constitution are no longer here to weigh in, but we are. The real question is whether these modern divisions strengthen our federal system—or whether they put us on a path that could ultimately weaken or fracture our representative democracy of 50 connected states.

Correction: County Clerk discusses SAVE Act, election integrity

In an article in the April 21 edition, it was mistakenly stated that barcodes on ballots were scanned as part of the vote counting process.

In fact, barcodes on the rear of ballot return envelopes are scanned, while the enclosed ballots themselves remain secret.

Change is in the wind. Kathy Burke will be stepping down as head of the Cape Meares Emergency Volunteer Corps (CMEVC) after ten years of service, and Amelia Hirsch will be taking the helm. Amelia and her husband, Jeff Sery, recently moved here fulltime and are eager to get more involved in the community. Amelia's parents, Marge and John Hirsch, have been Cape Meares vacation home owners for years and have always actively participated in community life here. We welcome the next generation's involvement.

We owe a great debt of gratitude to Kathy Burke. She raised the bar for emergency prep along the Oregon coast. She redrew neighborhood maps, recruited neighborhood captains, established a regular emergency prep meeting schedule, started full-on annual drills, spearheaded the successful drive to obtain a CONEX communications hub, added new community supply sheds, raised funds to stock the sheds, wrote protocols for post-disaster activities (sanitation, water, communication, medical response team, food, mental health, pets, and shelter), represented Cape Meares in regional T-4 meetings, built bridges with emergency volunteer corps in other coastal cities and with the state... all while being accessible, efficient and, most important of all, good-humored. Kathy is the first person to say she had a lot of help all during that time, particularly from Charles Ansoorge, Pam Robenolt, Pete Steen and Miriam Fulz (a special shout-out to Miriam on the CONEX box and PRO, a state-sponsored resiliency plan). Kathy will remain in her position as neighborhood captain of the South Beach neighborhood and as the lead for the sanitation group. Cape Meares can never thank you enough, Kathy Burke.

Simon Freeman, the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department (OPRD) park ranger for our beach, reported that a crane is being installed in his OPRD truck. Now he can take bigger pieces of debris, such as the huge tangle of rope and crab floats we recently came across, off the beach. In addition to taking hazardous waste or big trash off the beach, Simon and other OPRD personnel will continue to patrol the seashore to ensure folks are following the snowy plover regulations (restricted areas from March 15 to September 15).

A neighbor sent a photo of a vicious-looking fish, dead on our beach... yes, another longnose lancetfish. You may recall my mentioning this sea serpent in past columns. The fish is long and skinny, looking somewhat like an eel, with a mouthful of sharp fangs. It has huge eyes, all the better to see with in the depths of the ocean, where the light is dim. At night, longnose lancetfish come up to the surface to feed; they are a salmon's worst nightmare. Leave those salmon to us fisherfolk, you

One recent bluebird day found the Ollikainens headed off in their Danube blue Corvair toward the Pelican Pub at Pacific City. Olli has restored his 1966 Corvair over many years and is part of a Corvair driving club. Tooling down the coast in that car... livin' the dream, Carolyn and Olli.

The Library Thrift shop will hold a plant sale (in their parking lot) from 11 a.m. through 4 p.m. on Saturday, May 9 (the day before Mother's Day). The address is 6335 Ferry Street (across from The Grateful Bread Bakery Café) in Pacific City. On offer will be house plants, garden accessories, raspberries and perennials, along with garden and herb starts ready to plant in your prepared beds, pots, garden or yard. Proceeds benefit South Tillamook County Library's Winkelman Library Building and grounds. Fencepost readers appreciate both Sonya Kazen and Teresa Smith writing with news of this splendid fundraiser.

Each spring, Nestucca High School, orchestra, choir, and drama buffs practice night after night for the annual Spring Musical. They're performing "Anastasia" in three showings this week. We can choose between 11 a.m. on Wednesday, April 29, 7 p.m. on Friday, May 1, and 7 p.m. on Saturday, May 2. Reserved seats cost $12 each; general admission is $10 for adults, $8 for students, and senior citizens. Be sure to bring extra cash for fun concessions sold at intermission. For more information or to purchase tickets, call Nestucca High School, 503-392-3194.

Speaking of Nestucca High School, their yearbook staff is seeking advertisers. Prices range between $35 for a business card sized ad, to $120 for a full-page spread.

Our support helps fund the 2025-26 yearbook; Ad design is available at no additional cost. And graduation organizers are seeking donations of raffle items for graduation night. They welcome gift cards, merchandise, experiences, or other items to celebrate the Class of 2026. Raffle proceeds benefit next year's yearbook, among other worthy goals. There was road work on main street this week. I became aware of it when I came into town for my mail. ODOT was restriping the roadway to eliminate the bike lanes - I think. That is what Val Schuman said was happening. But she was not sure because no one had briefed her either. It sounded like the work was going on until Friday.

Indeed, that is true. Val emailed someone in ODOT and got a very timely response that included detail on what changes are being made. ODOT related that the Contractor is correcting several items including removal and adjustment of permanent parking signs that were installed in conflict with driveway access. The re-striping work will increase the width of parking by approximately one foot to improve usability. The striping is not a new change but rather re-establishing the intended design following corrective work. There was paving work at intersections as well.

We will all be seeing these changes as we drive through our downtown area over the weekend.

The city council did meet this week, virtually again. And the council will meet again this Monday, virtually, to appoint members to the budget committee. That committee meets on May 4 and 5 to review the annual fiscal budget for the city. The money is very tight. With every audit that is completed the ending fund balances are "updated" with audited amounts. Management presented council with an analysis of the financial expected, or estimated, fund balances, and learned that the general fund is in a deficit condition - in the red as they say.

lindabade2023@gmail.com

How do these things happen? It is a combination of errors over a lengthy period of time. If you start with estimates that are overzealous, then you spend the money as if it were there, you create a deficit. Over estimating revenues and underestimating expenses. If you do not have financial reports to review and monitor, then you cannot identify areas of overspending and take actions to correct. That can also create a deficit. Right now, that is a lot happening in our city.

The city does have financial reports, and it is monitoring spending. The city continues to take steps to bring the revenue estimates more in line with what the city actually gets as well as to use better estimates of expenses. Many of these problems were explained during the last budget process. All that said, the city does have three more audits to be completed before it reaches better financial standing.

Back to the council's business meeting. There were a number of administrative-type items addressed. Raising System Development Charges - those fees charged for connecting water and sewer - has been discussed before. The city's rates have not been raised in many years. In 2024, council was told that had the rates been routinely raised over time they would have been 45% higher. This comes back to council in May. The condition of city hall and the cost to remedy the problems were discussed at length. They will be further discussed on Monday, April 27th at 5:50 pm.

The council's May meeting will be at the Grade School in person.

Our Garibaldi Emergency Volunteers will be holding that Water, Sanitation and Hygiene class on May 16th from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Nehalem Bay Fire District offices located at 36375 Hwy 101 N. There is a "lab" session after that to assist with storage tips for equipment that is offered for sale. You can register for the event at EVCNB.org. There is a $20 fee. I will see you there.

Spice Club: this quarter the Garibaldi Library Spice is cardamom! I had to look this one up - it is used in Indian cuisine, especially from the southern areas of the country. Currently the bulk of cardamom is grown in Guatemala, an interesting piece of trivia. This month, June is giving us two recipes with this spice - one sweet, a cinnamon bun, and one savory, fish tacos. And take note - there will be a meeting on July 9th for spice club members to meet and talk about this yummy spice and what we did with it. They did meet last month to talk about berbere and what dishes they made and how they came out. It was a Thursday and I was "doing taxes" - but that is over and I will be able to join the club! I picked my spice up this week and there were still some left.

OBITUARIES / OPINION

Frances Louise Bush

February 16, 1947 – January 27, 2026

on Kings Blvd. Fran was social and adventurous. When the Fred Meyer store was under construction, Fran snuck over and wrote her initials in the freshly poured cement sidewalk.

On the 29th of March in 1969 during Spring Break, Mike and Fran were in California and decided to elope and marry in Virginia City, Nevada. This secret wedding conducted by the Washoe County Justice of the Peace was attended by their friends Susan McFarland and Kenneth Reed. In June of 1969, Frances graduated from Oregon State University with her teaching certificate.

In 1970, Mike and Fran settled on the Oregon coast and lived in a small cottage on the hill above Pacific City where they had a daughter, Trista in May of 1973. In 1974, Fran started teaching first grade at Garibaldi Grade School. The couple purchased ¾ acre lot in Bay City, Oregon and built a home that was finished in 1975. In April of 1979, son Tyler was born at Tillamook Hospital.

Fran taught first grade for 32 years at Garibaldi Grade School. Fran was a caring teacher who was known to take children in need to the doctor or dentist and who would make food for children who did not have enough. Fran dutifully toted her cardboard box of papers home every night to grade papers. She was always easy to locate in grocery stores with her large metal key chain and all the clanking keys to the grade school.

Staying active and fit was always important to Fran. She hiked, camped, and biked with Mike in the summers. Fran often attended exercise classes at Tillamook YMCA and swam laps in the pool there. Fran kept up with Jazzercise and aerobics. She loved the Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons work outs.

Fran was a long-time member of the Tillamook Sweet Adelines. She attended singing practice every Wednesday night at Tillamook High School, and attended competitions throughout the Northwest. Fran sang alto and even starred in one Sweet Adelines show playing the famous Carmen Miranda.

In 2011, Fran retired from teaching and Mike and Fran moved full time to the Indian Ford home near Sisters Oregon where they enjoyed cross country skiing, hiking, and biking. In her continued service to others, Fran became secretary of the Sister Garden Club, and the Indian Ford HOA. She volunteered at Sister's grade school and for the Sisters Folk Festival. Mike and Fran were season ticket holders for OSU football and baseball for many years and made close friends with the regulars in section two at Goss Stadium. Additionally, Fran loved to knit. And every friend and family member received a beautifully made hat or scarf. Enjoying their retirement thoroughly, Fran and Mike spent time with adored grandchildren Beau and Avery and Jack.

In October of 2021, Mike and Fran sold their cherished Indian Ford home and moved to Corvallis to be closer to family. August 1st, of 2023 Mike passed away.

Fran is survived by son Tyler, and his wife Cory, daughter Trista and her partner Adam. She is also survived by her grandchildren Beau, Avery and Jack as well as her sisters Judy Watson, Kathy Noble, Nancy Stevens and Gail Redberg.

A celebration of life and picnic will be held at Adair County Park near Corvallis, Oregon on Sunday May 3rd from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.. Attendees are encouraged to bring their own drinks and stories to share!

The State of the City event held at Bay City Hall on April 18 was a great success, with over 100 people attending, enjoying food from our local eateries and hearing from our mayor on the accomplishments made in the past year, and plans for the coming year. Local volunteers from various community groups were on hand to share information with attendees. A new program, called Neighbors Helping Neighbors, Bay City Utility Assistance Program, was announced at the event. This program is designed to assist folks who are having difficulties paying their water and sewer bills. Contributions may be made directly to the City of Bay City and can be either one-time contributions or regular monthly contributions (in increments of $5.00) added to your monthly utility bill. Funding is solely through the contributions of community members and is held separately from other funds. At the State of the City event, the Bay City Boosters Club kicked off the efforts with a $500 contribution. This was quickly followed by a $100 contribution from the Bay City Methodist Church and a $136.12 contribution from a spare change drive held by the Tillamook County Democrats. This program is being administered through a cooperative effort with CARE. For more information, please contact city hall.

Saturday, May 2, from 10-2 the Arts Center will be holding their plant sale, a great place to pick up garden starts. The plant sale will continue the next day, Sunday, May 3 during the famous Pancake Breakfast from 9-12, with fluffy cakes, delicious toppings, sausage, eggs, and coffee and tea. This all sounds like a great weekend of events at the Arts Center.

It's movie time at the Tillamook Main library, with many space related films to be shown in May, beginning with Galaxy Quest on May 6. Times are from 6-8 p.m. each Wednesday, check their web site/Facebook for calendar of events.

The Bay City Booster club are trying to get maintenance such as weeding and pruning completed at the new Welcome Park, but it seems the weather doesn't want to cooperate with their plans. If there are any contractors who would be interested in helping the club build the covered pergola planned for the park, please contact me at the above e-mail address. They could really use your help, but there is a tight budget.

Power-Friendly Tree Planting Tips

- Avoid planting trees directly under power lines (maintaining a distance of at least 25 feet away).
- Larger trees should be planted 30 feet or more away from lines.
- Don't forget about the 10-foot clear zone on the ground in the area around and near utility facilities.

Visit the Tillamook PUD website at www.tpod.org/safety/power-friendly-trees/ or call (503) 842-2535 for information on planting trees. We have a list of power-friendly trees that are appropriate for our area.

Nestucca band makes state competition

STAFF REPORT

For the fifth time, Nestucca High School's band is going to state, after taking first place at the Northwest League Band Festival earlier this month.

That competition took place at Jewell High School, where 13 bands competed in the festival, which was started by Nestucca's Kathleen Serven in 2015.

Nestucca's band comprises 31 students, representing around 20% of the school's student population, and they played Mozart's Symphony No. 15, Frank Tichelli's Shenandoah, David Shaffer's Mount Hood Portrait and David Gillingham's Drums are for Rwanda.

Garibaldi council pushes for temporary city hall

WILL CHAPPELL
Headlight Editor

With a path forward on remediating mold issues in city hall uncertain, Garibaldi city council asked City Manager Jake Boone to begin preparations to rent a 40-foot trailer to house city staff at their April 20 meeting.

Council also discussed the city's financial situation in light of a recently completed audit for fiscal year 2022-2023, that showed that the city general fund and public safety reserve had been overspent in that year.

Garibaldi's city hall has been closed since January 29, after concerns from employees about mold were confirmed in several areas, including the air downstairs, the upstairs women's restroom and a disused jail cell.

At April's meeting, Boone told council that he was working to determine how much remediating the mold would cost, explaining that the mold was not just surface level and would require significant effort to remove. Boone said that the project promised to be expensive, with one company already giving an estimate of $78,000 for the remediation work and another estimating $12,000 for needed upgrades to the building's HVAC system. Boone said that staff was still soliciting additional bids, hoping to find ways to minimize the cost of repairs and work it into next year's budget.

Boone said that he believed the council could meet in person next month at the Garibaldi Grade School but that he had been unable to identify a suitable, long-term home for council meetings in the city.

Mayor Linda Bade said that she was not a fan of the idea of spending $100,000 while several years of audits are outstanding and brought up the possibility of moving staff into a trailer so that they could be available to citizens. Bade said that a resident had offered to rent the city a 400-square-foot trailer for $800 a month, with an installation cost of around $5,000 and removal cost about $2,000.

Bade said that the council had heard many complaints from residents about city hall being closed and asked Boone why staff could not use offices in the building, as reports on the mold situation indicated the city's offices were free from spores.

Boone said that mold spores were mobile and that once you opened a door, they would spread, meaning that he had designated areas one door away from a contaminated area as off-limits because of the health and legal risks posed.

Given that information, Bade said she was in favor of getting staff in a trailer as soon as possible, with Councilors Cheryl Gierga and Norman Shattuck agreeing.

Finance Director Becca Harth noted that any repair or rental would have to be paid for using general fund dollars, after an emergency repair fund had been emptied repairing $15,000 in damage caused by a vehicle running into the building late last year. Harth added that adding more expenditures to the budget so late in the fiscal year made her nervous.

Councilors asked that a special meeting be scheduled for May 11, and that Boone work to determine the costs and potential funding for a remediation project as well as trailer rental, so that they can decide which option to pursue.

Boone also briefly addressed the audit situation, saying that the audit recently completed for fiscal year 2022-2023, had shown that city staff at the time had overestimated revenues and underestimated expenses, budgeting and spending based on anticipated grants that were either not awarded or not even applied for. Boone said that pattern had happened lots of times and that he wasn't sure if it had been an issue of ignorance or malfeasance.

Harth said that the general fund and public safety reserve funds were in the negative as of that most recent audit, and that the general fund's end balance had been just $10,000.

THS track teams stand out

BY MIKE WEBER
For The Headlight Herald

The Tillamook High Cheesemakers Class 4A boys and girls track & field team has enjoyed tremendous success this year as they've recorded several meet wins and numerous top four team finishes at recent events.

The large, 70-member Cheesemakers squad, guided by second-year Coach Bob Cronnelly, competed in seven April meets, including the Meet of Champions on April 25. The boys and girls both won an April 2 Cowapa League dual at Astoria. At the April 4 Estacada Invitational, the boys' squad took fourth place out of 20 teams and the girls won the meet.

"Our boys' squad is good this year and the girls' team is very good," said Cronnelly. "Our coaching staff (Ryan Smith, Meg Angier, Patrick Zweifel, Rikki Reid, Alex Gibson) is hoping for a strong, high placing team finish and also individually too at the district championship and state championship meets."

The five-team Cowapa District meet is May 20-21 at St. Helens. The OnPoint Community Credit Union OSAA state meet is May 29-30 at the University of Oregon in Eugene.

The Mooks will compete in their final home meet this year Friday in the second annual Cheddar Invitational Track and Field meet, which is the largest home meet of the season at Tillamook.

"When I took over as head coach last year, I set goals of making sure kids are safe, having fun and getting better," said Cronnelly. "I'm happy to report that those things are happening each and every day. My awesome coaching staff is unified in these missions, and my athletes believe in the things that they are being taught."

The successful season continued for the Mooks in an April 8 dual meet at Seaside when both the boys' and girls' teams won. The boys' squad followed with a win in a 16-team event in mid-April at St. Helens. The Mooks girls won by a landslide score, taking first place out of 18 teams. On April 15, the girls won a dual at Scappoose and the boys lost to Scappoose. The Mooks then followed with win by the girls' squad at North Marion High School April 17 in a 12-team event and the boys took second place.

"My job would be literally impossible without my phenomenal assistant coaches, who are some of the most competent track and field experts this county has ever seen," said Cronnelly. "We could not be more proud of our team this year. The level of dominance our girls team displays meet after meet is unbelievable. We have a team that I'm hoping will with lots of medals and maybe even a trophy for team performance at the state meet."

The boys team included

top ten ranked athletes Enoch Wilson (400 meters), Diego Velazquez Villa (1,500, 3,000 meters), Max Abrogoua (110-meter hurdles), Soren Johnson (discus), Nate Matthews (javelin), Griffyn Boomer (high jump, triple jump). Johnson, Ryan Sheets and Velazquez Villa are returning state qualifiers.

The girls' team includes top ten ranked athletes Adrian Vogel (100 meters, 200 meters, 400 meters, high jump), Lauren Phillips (100-meter hurdles), Ruthanna Wilson (100-meter hurdles, 300 hurdles), high jump, long jump), Rylee Huerta (shot put and discus). Juniors Huerta and Brooke Bush are returning state qualifiers.

Tillamook's top ten ranked 4 x 400 relay team includes Adrian Vogel, Bush, Vivian Vogel and Wilson. More than once this season, the Mooks 4 x 100 relay team included three sisters in freshman Kendall Vogel, junior Adrian Vogel and senior Vivian Vogel. A trio of Wilson family members are also represented on the team. Enoch Wilson and freshman Moses Wilson compete on the boys' squad and sister Ruthanna competes on the girls' team.

"How good our girls are should not detract from our boys' level of success either," said Cronnelly. "They have consistently given stellar performances this season. The boys have a shot at placing well at the district championships and I expect several of them to qualify for the state meet by placing in the top two at districts."

Seniors on the Mooks track and field team who provide leadership include Maile Murphy and Abrogoua and junior Drew Boomer, who have provided support for the younger athletes and to the coaching staff as well. The Mooks have a total of 19 seniors.

"We've been a young team for as long as I've worked at Tillamook High School," said Cronnelly.

"I'm happy to report that is finally not the case. I believe between transfer students, foreign exchange students and seniors who have been on our team for four years, that this is a very experienced group."

Team captains who also provide leadership include Phillips, Claire Travis, Brooke Bush, Huerta, Jessica Brown, Hayden Ebel, Ryan Sheets, Johnson and Velazquez Villa. The team captains help the coaches make sure that things run smoothly at the meets.

"If we pull off something amazing and win a district or state championship, I won't think of it as mine," said Cronnelly. "I'm just going to be glad I get to watch the kids be happy and be proud of themselves."

Mooks younger athletes who are fulfilling high expectations this season include freshmen Kendall Vogel and Marilyn Abrogoua and sophomores Matthews and Ales Gutierrez Valencia.

The Mook Golf Course Unveils 'Mini Mook' 18-Hole Miniature Golf Experience & New Island Hole

The Mook Golf Course, located at 7300 Alderbrook Rd., Tillamook, Oregon, is proud to announce the grand opening of its long-awaited Mini Mook, a brand-new 18-hole, all-natural miniature golf course designed to bring families, kids and golfers of all ages together for a fun and memorable experience.

The grand opening celebration will take place on Saturday, May 2nd, with a special ceremony at 10 a.m. In place of a traditional ribbon cutting, guests will witness a unique kickoff moment as the course's signature 360-degree water feature is turned on, creating a dramatic and playful splash to mark the occasion.

Mini Mook offers a one-of-a-kind mini golf experience inspired by the natural beauty and character of The Mook. The entire course is thoughtfully designed around a central 360-degree water feature, creating a visually striking and immersive layout. One of the most unique elements of the course comes into play early in the round—after putting on Hole 4, players cross a bridge over the water feature before continuing to Hole 5, adding both movement and interaction to the experience.

Course highlights include:

- A hollow log obstacle
- A shot through a massive boulder
- A unique sand bunker positioned in the middle of a green

- The signature "Hill Hole" (Hole 15), modeled after the iconic feature on the main course

- A central 360-degree water feature that anchors the entire layout

A standout feature of Mini Mook is the water feature itself, which was brought to life through a unique collaboration of craftsmanship and creativity. Constructed by some of the best decorative concrete artists from around the country, the feature reflects both artistry and innovation.

Co-owner Patrick Zweifel, owner of OCF Decorative Concrete, partnered with a fellow craftsman from Montana to host a hands-on training event, bringing together more than 20 concrete artists from across the country. In an impressive feat, the majority of the water feature was completed in just four days.

Those four days, however, came with a true Oregon Coast challenge.

"During the build, we saw over 11 inches of rain in just four days," said Zweifel. "Thankfully we had a large tent covering the work area, but it definitely gave visiting artists a real taste of what it means to work on the Oregon Coast."

Built to encourage young players and families to engage with the game of golf, Mini Mook blends creativity, craftsmanship, and playfulness into an accessible outdoor attraction.

To accommodate guests, Mini Mook will feature a convenient "Putt Hutt" located at the course entrance during busy weekends, where visitors can purchase rounds and enjoy concessions. During slower periods, guests can check in and pay at The Mook pro shop before starting their round.

The course was designed by Mark and Mike Lehman, with Mike Lehman playing a key role throughout construction, including shaping and grading the greens and providing hands-on consultation from start to finish.

Zweifel shared the long-term vision behind the project: "Since purchasing The Mook three years ago, it's been our vision to create a miniature golf course that brings people together. Community is at the center of everything we do, and Mini Mook creates a space where families can spend quality time, have fun, and introduce kids to the game of golf."

To celebrate the opening, Mini Mook will offer a special grand opening rate of just $10 per round.

In addition to the Mini Mook debut, The Mook is also excited to introduce a new "Island Hole" on the main course, along with significant course updates:

- A redesigned routing between holes 12 and 13

- Guarded by bunkers front-right and back-right
- Framed by water along the back, left and right sides of the green complex
- Accented with landscaped island features surrounding the putting surface

While often referred to as an "island hole," the design is more nuanced, using water to frame and define the green rather than fully encircle it—creating both visual drama and strategic play.

While the yardage is short, precision is critical. Strategic landing areas exist at the front and left, and a drop zone is available for shots lost in the marsh.

Zweifel also noted the importance of the new layout improvements:

"The previous routing between holes 12 and 13 created both flow issues and safety concerns. This redesign eliminates those challenges while introducing a truly unique island-style green that adds both beauty and difficulty. It's the kind of hole that sticks with you and makes the overall experience at The Mook more memorable."

"These additions represent a major step forward for The Mook," the team added. "Mini Mook brings a fun, family-friendly way to experience golf, while the new Island Hole adds challenge, beauty, and a truly unique playing environment for our golfers."

For more information, visit www.themook.com.

- Newly reconstructed tee boxes (formerly Hole 12), now enhanced with ornamental grasses
- A reimagined par 5 dogleg left finishing at the former 13th green (now Hole 12)
- The brand-new Island Hole (Par 3) featuring yardages of 99, 128 and 137 yards

The Island Hole offers a striking and immersive playing experience. Golfers tee off from a marshland setting accessed by a custom-built boardwalk, surrounded by towering spruce roots that create a dramatic, almost prehistoric atmosphere. The green is:

- Severely undulating

Tillamook Police to Participate in 'Every 15 Minutes' Program at Tillamook High School

On April 30, 2026, the Tillamook Police Department will assist with a mock traffic crash in the turnaround area in front of Tillamook High School, located at 2605 12th Street. This event is part of the nationally recognized Every 15 Minutes Program. 12th Street will be briefly closed during this mock traffic crash.

The Every 15 Minutes program is a two-day event (April 30 and May 1) focused on high school juniors and seniors. It is designed to challenge students to think critically about the consequences of impaired and distracted driving, including driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs. The program also emphasizes personal safety, responsible decision-making, and the lasting impact those decisions can have on family, friends, and the community.

"Programs like Every 15 Minutes are powerful because they bring reality into focus for young drivers," said Chief Nick Troxel. "Our goal is not to scare students, but to help them understand that one decision can have lifelong consequences—not just for themselves, but for everyone around them."

On the first day, pre-selected students are respectfully removed from class every 15 minutes to represent the national average of individuals injured or killed in impaired driving-related crashes. The day includes classroom instruction led by uniformed police officers and culminates in a mock traffic crash in front of the school, starting at 2:10 p.m., involving a simulated impaired driver and a simulated fatality.

The mock crash will involve the full range of emergency response personnel who would respond to a real incident, including police, fire, ambulance, the medical examiner's office, funeral home representatives, and towing services. The simulation will last approximately 30 minutes near the end of the school day. 12th Street will be closed during this time.

"By involving our community partners and showing the full emergency response, students gain a deeper understanding of how many lives are affected by a single incident," Troxel said. "We hope this experience encourages them to make safe, responsible choices behind the wheel."

Because of the brief closure of 12th Street, traffic in front of the school is expected to be heavier than usual between. Motorists are encouraged to use alternate routes during this time (2-3 p.m.).

On the second day (May 1st), a concluding assembly will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the Tillamook High School auditorium. This assembly is open to the public.

This program is made possible through the partnership of the Tillamook Police Department, Tillamook County Sheriff's Office, Tillamook School District #9, individuals, businesses, and numerous other community organizations.

For additional information, please contact Chief Nick Troxel.

- This year's applicants collectively requested over $349,000 in funding. Given the high number of projects and limited program budget, the decision-making process was highly competitive.

Tillamook PUD is pleased to provide support to these outstanding organizations and looks forward to the positive impact each project will have on the community.

The Tillamook PUD Community Support Grant Program was developed in 2003 to assist local not-for-profit organizations in funding projects that promote economic growth and enhance community livability in Tillamook County. The Board of Directors budgets funds for the program annually; the amount budgeted for the program in 2026 was $100,000.

Tillamook Medical Minute:

Understanding and Managing Asthma in Our Community

DR. MICHAEL HALFERTY
Emergency Medicine Physician at Adventist Health Medical
---Office--- Plaza

Asthma is a common but serious chronic condition that affects people of all ages, from young children to older adults. In our community, many families live with asthma every day. Sometimes quietly, sometimes with sudden urgency. Increasing awareness about asthma, how it's managed, and how we can support one another is an important step toward helping everyone breathe a little easier.

Asthma is a condition in which the airways become inflamed and narrow, making it difficult to breathe. Symptoms often include coughing, wheezing, chest tightness, and shortness of breath. For some, symptoms are mild and occasional. For others, asthma can interfere with daily activities, sleep, school, or work. Asthma attacks can be frightening and, in severe cases, life threatening if not treated promptly.

While asthma has no cure, it can be effectively managed with the right care and awareness. A key part of asthma management is understanding personal triggers. Common triggers include respiratory infections, smoke, pollen, mold, pet dander, cold air, exercise and strong odors. In rural and coastal communities, factors like wildfire smoke, damp weather, and seasonal allergens can play an especially significant role.

Daily management usually involves controller medications, such as inhaled corticosteroids, which reduce inflammation in the airways, and rescue inhalers, which provide quick relief during flare ups. Using these medications exactly as prescribed is essential, even when symptoms are not present. Many asthma related emergencies happen when maintenance medications are skipped or when warning signs are ignored.

Having an asthma action plan is one of the most effective tools for staying ahead of symptoms. Developed with a healthcare provider, this plan outlines daily care, how to recognize worsening symptoms, and when to seek urgent help. For parents, caregivers, schools, and workplaces, knowing an individual's action plan can make a critical difference during an asthma episode.

Prevention also plays a role. Simple steps such as reducing indoor dust, keeping living areas well ventilated, avoiding smoking and secondhand smoke, and staying current on vaccines can help decrease asthma flare ups. Physical activity remains important, too. With proper management and warm up strategies, many people with asthma can exercise safely and enjoy active lifestyles.

Finally, asthma awareness means recognizing that this condition affects real people in our neighborhood. Children trying to keep up on the playground, adults balancing work and family, and seniors managing multiple health concerns. Supporting asthma awareness means reducing stigma, encouraging proactive care and ensuring access to healthcare resources close to home.

When asthma is well controlled, people can live full, active, and healthy lives. By staying informed, listening to those with lived experience, and working together to promote prevention and timely care, our community can help ensure that no one struggles to breathe alone.

RATE INCREASE

bond. "The message is still the same," Lewis said, "no matter what we do, we would have to raise rates almost as much as we are to meet the debt obligation that a bond would provide."

Lewis concluded by saying that staff were presenting two options to council, one a 30% increase to take effect July 1, which would require 14.5% increases in each of the next two years, and the other a 40% increase to be followed by two 12.5% increases.

Aufdermauer kicked off the council discussion, questioning Lewis's figures and saying that his calculations suggested that by 2045-2046, total rate increases would add more than $2,000 in annual burden to customers. Aufdermauer said that he still favored seeking approval for a general obligation bond but that he understood the need to address the immediate issues with the system and was prepared to support a 30% increase in rates this year.

Bouchard said that she agreed with the need for the 30% increase and that she was open to further exploring a general obligation bond, adding that she hoped to gain a better understanding of the discrepancy between Aufdermauer and Lewis's numbers. Bouchard added that she was concerned about the impacts the large rate increases in the coming years would have on rate payers and that she felt property owners would be better able to afford the increased expenses of a bond.

Lewis said that he was happy to start the bond process with a target of having the question on the November 2027 ballot and that he thought it would give the city plenty of time to prepare a campaign. Lewis stressed that his concern had always been stopping the bleeding at the wastewater utility, which has seen six large line failures in the last four months without funds allocated to pay for them.

Aufdermauer then made a motion that the council request Lewis bring a resolution with a 35% sewer increase to their meeting on May 4, and include direction that he begin preparations to seek a bond and a commitment not to raise rates until said bond had been voted on in the resolution. The resolution passed by a vote of 5-1, with Bouchard voting against.

Pivoting to water rates, Lewis reminded council that last year's rate increase of 18% had been made to secure a $7.2 million loan from Business Oregon to support the city's water transmission line project and that it had been recommended that the raise be matched for five consecutive years to support debt service on the loan.

Lewis then gave more detail on the transmission line project, the first phase of which recently began at the Port of Tillamook Bay. That first phase will see 16,562 linear feet of 30-inch transmission line placed, rerouting the line from its current path under the Tillamook Airport runway, as well as 3,600 feet of 12- and 16-inch distribution lines, with a projected cost of $14.8 million, taking the line to the intersection of Long Prairie Road and Highway 101. The project's second phase will extend the line from there another 12,000 feet to the city, while also adding 10,000 feet of distribution line, with a preliminary cost estimate of $15 million.

The project's first phase is funded, with $10 million coming from the American Rescue Plan Act and $4 million from a federal earmark secured by Senator Jeff Merkley this year, but aside from the $7.2-million loan, there is no funding yet identified for the second phase. Lewis said that staff were in favor of having the option to access that loan to support phase two and was subsequently recommending the 18% rate increase.

Lewis also addressed rumors swirling in the community that the transmission line project had something to do with data centers, saying that the city had had no discussions with anybody about data centers and that the project was purely aimed at improving the system's resiliency. Lewis concluded by saying that staff were planning to pursue another federal earmark next year to support the project's second phase.

Councilor Brian Reynolds asked if it was possible that the rate increase could be lower since the city was not currently servicing the loan. Aufdermauer agreed, as did other councilors, and Lewis said that he would consult with officials at Business Oregon before the council's next meeting to see if the city could maintain access to the loan with a smaller rate increase.

ing with state officials from the Departments of Fish and Wildlife and Land Conservation and Development, as well as others, to complete analyses of shellfish beds and fish migration in the area to find a site that will qualify under the state's environmental regulations.

After that, Absher will need to go through a comprehensive plan amendment process to allow the identified site to serve as a dredged materials dump site, requiring multiple public hearings. In addition to requesting permission to lead the process, Absher asked that commissioners give her authorization to waive $4,500 in permitting fees for the project, as the county will likely end up serving as the applicant.

Speaking to the underlying situation, Saindon said that Tillamook Bay had been designated a self-scouring bay in 1913, making it ineligible for regular federal funding for dredging.

But in the century plus since that designation, massive sediment deposits during the Tillamook Burn and changes to the flow of water into and out of the bay during the collapse of Bayocean spit in the 1950s have significantly lessened the self-scouring capabilities of the channel. That has led crossing the bar to become a dangerous undertaking, as its location shifts, preventing the Coast Guard from being able to mark or recommend a safe channel into and out of the bay.

Saindon said that dredging between the port and base of the jetties would increase flows in the federal channel, starting to alleviate the issue, before a planned future project dredges between the jetties to create a stepped channel, hopefully restoring full self-scouring functionality to the bay's entrance. Saindon said that the

was also discussing potential projects to help decrease sediment deposit around the port with USACE staff as well.

At the meeting, commissioners also approved an adopt-a-park agreement with the Netarts Enhancement Committee, paving the way for the group to upgrade the Netarts boat basin with a nature park. The project is being spearheaded by local Roger Miller, who has committed matching funds for the project up to $35,000 and is working to find grant opportunities and donations to support the rest of the $121,000 budget.

The project will see the area to the south of the boat ramp enhanced with native plants, a new sidewalk and kiosk added, and a covered picnic table placed on the north side of the ramp. Miller appeared at the meeting and told commissioners that he already had a commitment from 25 community members to help with ongoing maintenance of the park as needed once construction is complete.

Commissioners also approved pass through grants from the state government to Community Action Resource Enterprises (CARE) and Helping Hands to fund services designated for participants in the county's deflection program. Helping Hands received $25,000 to pay for the cost of one bed in their emergency shelter, while CARE received $103,000 for a designated bed in their nightly shelter and to provide transportation for people participating in the program.

Tillamook's deflection program began last year and relies on law enforcement officers and members of local community health and nonprofit organizations reaching out to those experiencing substance use disorders and helping them to connect with treatment options. The program has helped more than 30 people since its inception.

the hubs, and in late March, OREM staff surveyed the sites and confirmed their suitability.

The resilience hub is valued at $260,000 and will be installed at the southeast corner of Upper Park. Two private citizens and the EVCNB have already pledged a total of $60,000 to pay for the addition of power to the site and installation, the cost of which is estimated at just $20,000. The city has also received a donation of $600 to pay for the boxes' maintenance.

OREM staff will conduct periodic inspections of the temperature- and humidity-controlled boxes, while EVCNB volunteers will take the lead on their more regular maintenance and be trained by OREM staff to deploy the hub in emergencies.

Lindsey said that EVCNB's strong track record and willingness to participate had played a major role in his office's decision to site the boxes in Wheeler, as they were looking for localities that would take care and make good use of the hubs. Lindsey said that his office's goal was to expand the program further in the future as more funding becomes available, with a goal of having a hub on each section of the coast that will become an island if a major earthquake knocks out bridges and culverts.

In addition to caches of food, water and medical supplies, the hub will also feature emergency radio gear to speak with OREM officials in Salem, a Starlink receiver and security cameras, as well as space for citizens to store their own emergency supplies.

In the event of a major emergency, the hub will serve as a gathering and staging area, allowing state officials to coordinate the evacuation of residents and delivery of additional supplies, as needed.
