Reinforcement rates of omicron and why people need to take this seriously

When you take a virus that’s much more transmissible and has an equal chance of causing hospitalization and severe symptoms, you’re talking about a virus that has many more opportunities for people to get exposed and get infected and then continue to wear masks, continue to sanitize your hands and then get the booster dose of vaccine.”

“...When we look at the latest data that just came out from London, so a country which is doing a lot of testing and surveillance...”

“...that underscores the recommendation that we keep our distance, continue to sanitize your hands and that we continue to wear masks.”

Vaccines: “...was impressed by the response to the vaccine. But I want to do that, too!”

Fallout: “...had a tapeworm living in his brain. Our patient was fortunate to have a good outcome.”
