Hoping my animal-loving friends can help me find a home for Zoey and Hazel.

These shepherds have been through homelessness, time on the run, and the loss of their original home.. but through it all, they've stuck together. If that doesn't speak to the fierce loyalty of these two, I don't know what will. Their owner became homeless and could no longer care for them. After spending time on the run, the amazing Line family took them in and is keeping them safe and cared for, but they can't keep them permanently and they need our help to find their forever family. They are spayed shepherd mixes, around 6 years old and up to date on shots. At around 40 pounds each, they're the perfect size.. they're smaller than you might expect so making room for two might be easier than you think. I spent a few hours with them today and can attest they are such fun, loyal, and loving girls. Zoey is Hazel's shadow, and watching them together makes it very clear they need to stay that way. They complement each other perfectly and their bond is truly special. They would give so much love and loyalty to the right dog lover who has the means and heart to take them both. They truly would make such amazing companions and they are free to a good loving home. Finding a home that can take both girls is harder than one, but their bond is worth that extra effort. If you or someone you know has room in your heart and home for two, please reach out for more information. Know someone who might be a good fit? Share this with them. There is currently an animal shelter crisis and shelters are full. You may not be able to donate or give these girls a home, but if you love animals and want to help, spreading the word could lead them to their forever people. Feel free to reach out to Teacher's Pet Rescue at 814-203-6532.
