Get back in the game with Advantage

At 17, Kelly Cloninger has played most positions on the baseball diamond. But when he dislocated his shoulder while diving for a pop fly, he wondered if his playing days were numbered. The shoulder popped out of joint two more times before doctors discovered extensive damage to the front and back of the shoulder. Luckily, Kelly went to see Dr. Lee Stowell of Advantage Orthopedics and Neurosurgery.

Dr. Stowell is fellowship-trained in shoulder surgery and has worked with professional sports teams. He repaired Kelly's shoulder and, after therapy, Kelly has returned to the sport he loves. "The shoulder feels great," Kelly said. "I can't even tell there was ever anything wrong with it."

From fixing dislocated shoulders to full joint replacements, the orthopedic specialists at Advantage Orthopedics and Neurosurgery will get you back in the game. Everything we do, including providing the best bone and joint doctors, is built around you.
