

The latest technology for stroke care, when every second counts

Charles W. Bowkley III, M.D.
Board-certified interventional neuroradiologist

When providing the best and fastest stroke care in the state, every second counts.

About 2 million brain cells die every minute a clogged vessel prevents adequate blood flow to your brain. That's why we have interventional radiology physicians on call, 24 hours a day, ready to employ the latest advances in medical technology to clear the clot – sometimes within minutes of diagnosis. Our interventional radiologists are an integral part of Wyoming Medical Center's Primary Stroke Center, the only stroke center in Wyoming that is certified by the Joint Commission. They use the latest technology to get you back to your life as soon as possible. Everything we do, including providing the state's best stroke care, is built around you.
