RE: Full House Resorts Actions

Dear Mr. Mullen,

On behalf of our client, Full House Resorts (“Full House”), we thank Executive Director Greg Small, the staff, and the Commissioners for reviewing and considering the filings made by Full House subsequent to the November 17th meeting of the Indiana Gaming Commission (the “Commission”). Full House never intended for such action to delay economic development or be construed as malicious; rather, Full House sought clarity regarding the matters addressed in the filings through the only statutory, legal, and transparent means available.

We reviewed the recording of the December 21st Commission meeting and, in particular, the messages delivered by Executive Director Small, Chairman McMains, and the other commissioners. Although we disagree with the characterizations that were made regarding the motives and merits of our claims, the comments by the Chairman and the other commissioners made clear that, even if the process were reopened or repeated, the outcome is unlikely to be different. Full House’s top priority is for the Commission to continue to view the company as having the highest levels of character and integrity. Consequently, in response to the Chairman’s direct request that it reconsider its actions, Full House has done so. I will be taking steps to formally withdraw and dismiss the administrative and legal actions immediately.

Please do not hesitate to reach out with any questions or for additional discussion on these matters.

Sincerely,

/s/ Paul D. Vink
