

BLACKOUT PLANS DISCUSSED HERE

Ample Notice Assured The Public, City Manager Tells Gathering

The mayor and council last night adopted an ordinance designating the city manager as co-ordinator for the Municipal Civilian Defense Council and vested in him the legal right to order a blackout or any other emergency precaution he deems necessary.

In order to provide for occasions when the manager might not be available, the ordinance authorized him to name deputy co-ordinators as necessary, delegating his powers to the deputies.

The ordinance complied with arrangements with army authorities at the Tucson air base whereby the civilian enforcement of blackout or other emergency orders will be referred to the manager. The provision for deputies was included so that when the manager anticipates his absence from the city, or becomes ill, he may designate a particular person with whom the army can work.
