

Twenty Cents

FINAL
Edition

Good Morning
TOP of the
NEWS

CHANCE OF RAIN. Variable cloudiness with a 30 per cent chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers. Today's high of 95-100 will be similar to yesterday's high of 97, and tonight's low of 75-75 will be near yesterday's. Last year's extremes were 89 and 70, and the record for the extremes were 104 in 1965 and 66 in 1947.

Five persons were injured in a tornado yesterday in Indianapolis. See story Page 4A.

WEIRD HUNT IN VIETNAM. A New York Times exclusive reports that Navy divers are hunting for the body of a Vietnamese intelligence agent in a canvas bag off Nha Trang harbor. The body would be the key to a probe of Green Beret officers who face possible charges of murder. Page 5A.

3525 FLUSH REDS. Two North Vietnamese units are flushed by B-52s, then hunted by allied ground forces near the Cambodian frontier. A U.S. spokesman said he doubts Saigon is now the main enemy target. Page 4A.

DID TRUDEAU POKE HECKLER? Canada's Prime Minister Trudeau said a severe, and perhaps mortal, blow to opposition forces planning to oppose Caetano in next fall's elections by declaring most of their pre-electoral activities illegal. Page 4A.

PORTUGUESE POLITICS. The regime of Prime Minister Marcelo Caetano said a severe, and perhaps mortal, blow to opposition forces planning to oppose Caetano in next fall's elections by declaring most of their pre-electoral activities illegal. Page 4A.

ITALY HUNTS TRAIN TERRORISTS. Seven persons are being held in secret attacks on that country's railways since World War II. Police suspect German-speaking nationalists from the Alto Adige (Tyrol) district in the north. Page 2A.

NATIONAL

CHILD ARRESTS. They're far more prevalent than you imagined. One out of every six boys between 10 and 17 will be referred to juvenile court at the present rate, and one of 24 girls. Parade magazine.

TOWER TROUBLE. Dick Kellenger's problems are perhaps more mundane than landing men on the moon, but they often seem as complex. He's one of 27 air controllers at Newark Airport. Page 4C.

ASTRONAUTS PASS BLOOD TESTS. No abnormalities are found in the final blood test on the Apollo 11 moon mission. The astronauts will leave their quarantine as soon as given the approval of a committee in Atlanta — possibly sooner than scheduled release time on Monday. Page 4A.

CONTROVERSIAL SHERIFF. Sheriff Joseph L. Woods of Cook County, Ill., is top dog in law enforcement for a rough area. His unconventional methods of handling mounting problems are described by Michael S. Harris Page 8A.

PRESIDENTIAL VACATION. President Nixon, his family and a substantial number of White House staff members begin a $400,000 vacation in California. Nixon will combine work with play during his month stay at his new beach home. Page 5A.

NIXON POPULARITY TREND. The latest Gallup poll shows Nixon's popularity has recovered fully from mid-January losses he suffered in mid-July. The poll shows 65 per cent of Americans saying they approve of his performance in office. Page 7A.

AGREEMENT ON CRIME NEWS? Bernard G. Segal, president-elect of the American Bar Association, says creation of a committee of leading editors will help implement voluntary agreements in reporting of crime news. Page 8B.

Local

TRAFFIC FATALITIES. An elderly Tucson man is the latest traffic fatality in Pima County. Seven other persons lose their lives in highway accidents in Arizona boosting the state highway death toll to 415. Page 2A.

WINNING PHOTO. The best photograph in the Stars and Stripes photo contest has been selected with the entry of the seven-week competition. Name of the photographer and those of other sweepstakes winners on Page 10A.

Index

Bridge 12C Your Health 14C
Chances 10-11D Mostly Hers 14D
Crossword 12C Movies 9C
Editorial 12D Pub. Rec. 7B
Features 14C Radio-TV 7C
Horoscope 2C Sports 1-4B

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined by Nixon Friday came from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Arthur F. Burns, his top advisor.

The Post said the only vocal support for the program came from Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld and urban affairs adviser Patrck Moynihan.

• • •

James Reston Calls It 'Historic Document'

Nixon's Welfare Speech A Great Step Forward

Paris Money Move
Termed 'Internal'

Franc Devaluation
Stirs Fear On Left

Five-Hour
Talks End
Crisis

By RON RADCLIFF

City policemen are on the job today after a scheduled walkout yesterday afternoon from the five-hour meeting between city and county officials.

Mayor James Corbett, all members of the City Council and the Civil Service Commission, City Manager Roger O'Mara and members of the Fraternal Order of Police Wage and Hours Committee were able at least temporarily, to resolve the policemen's grievances.

Emerging from behind the closed doors of a conference room in City Hall shortly before 2 p.m., the group met waiting newsmen and delivered a prepared statement.

George Brozak, acting chairman of the Civil Service Commission, read the statement:

"The Civil Service Commission, as a result of today's discussions, has reached the following conclusions:

"We feel the police representatives agree there has been a showing of good faith. We feel they now also recognize the complexities inherent in some of their requests and that time is essential in coping with these complexities.

"Therefore, in view of the above, we will immediately undertake an evaluation of all positions in the city, and will complete it on or before October 13, 1969.

"The police department will be considered first in this evaluation. This means that police representatives will be brought in first for discussion of that department's problems.

"The full findings of the commission will be released as one report.

"Problems particular to any department will be weighed in this evaluation. As a preliminary finding, it is recognized that the police department has special problems which will be considered."

Corbett and O'Mara, when asked for any further statements, both said that the statement fully expressed the stand of the mayor and City Council.

The meeting, which began at 9 a.m., was prompted by the resignation Friday of at least 175 of the city's 300 policemen, who were having trouble to return to work as of 2:10 p.m. yesterday.

The agreement was reached less than 15 minutes after the group had been meeting.

(Continued On Page 2A, Col. 2)

Nixon Reportedly
Gave Talk On Relief
Despite Cabinet Rift

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proceeded with his proposed welfare reforms despite sometimes heated opposition and reservations expressed by most of his Cabinet, the Washington Post says.

The Post said in its Sunday edition the most vocal opposition to the welfare reforms outlined