

TEP power line

Tucson Electric Power recently settled on its preferred route, with a few alternative segments, for a proposed high-voltage transmission line to connect a substation on the south side to a new substation on the University of Arizona campus and a power plant near West Grant Road and Interstate 10.

