Mexican Shoots Down Home Wrecker. Declares Will Not Be Taken Alive, Sheriff Nelson Trailing Fugitive

Enraged because his wife had deserted him, Gustafson Loh, a Mexican, shot and instantly killed Miguel Lomon because Lomon stole the Apple race about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Lomon was holding the three-year-old son of Loh in his arms when the shooting happened. Loh's wife, who had deserted him for Lomon, stood close by and witnessed the shooting. The bullet, which was fired at close range, from a 20-caliber rifle, entered the left breast of Lomon passing through his body and lodging in his right arm. Lomon was holding the child on his right arm when the shot was fired and the bullet grazed the infant's clothing. Lomon dropped dead while the frightened child went screaming to his mother. Nelson in Pursuit. After the deed, Loh flourished his rifle in the air and declared that he would never be taken alive. He stole a horse from a near by ranch and disappeared on the desert going in the direction of the San Pedro river where it is thought he will attempt to cross into Mexico. Sheriff Nelson was notified and in company with Coroner Linton and County Physician Wall left at once in an automobile belonging to and driven by Shad Sawyer. As soon as they reached the scene of the murder and started in the direction of the desert, they saw a man in the distance who they believed to be the fugitive and the sheriff will attempt to catch him. The body of the dead man was strapped to a horse and conveyed to the Apache ranch where a post-mortem examination was held by Dr. Wall. The bullet which was a steel jacket, still runs out completely shattered the man's head and lungs. Loh's wife could not give a very definite description of the affair. She said that she had left Loh about 10 days ago and had been living with Lomon at the Apache ranch since. She gave as her reason for leaving Loh that he was cruel to her and that her body was probably due to local conditions unknown to her. COMPETITION STOPS ONLY WITH DEATH

J. J. Hill Tells Stanley Board Homeily Truths, Would Make Corporations Put Up 100 Cents for Each Dollar Capital

Associated Press Special. WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—James J. Hill told the Stanley Steel Investigation committee today that he would not first class stocks with red and white until he would get into the steel business and professed that competition would be the rule long after the present law, were wiped out of the statute book. Hill's last day of testimony was replete with such utterances for which he is noted. He said stockholders of Great Northern Railroad were not "wearing any creases" because the United States Steel, "in its rights" had cancelled the Great Northern stock issue. Stanley suggested that Hill would be in a favorable position, whether or not the lease was cancelled, and could start a steel company of his own with the four hundred million tons of ore in the ground. "I'll be in a first class stock with red and white features in my stock, long before I ever consider going into the steel business," replied Hill. "I'll be in my next birthday and don't mind telling you that I have done about as the hard work I intend to do in this line."

Just before Hill was examined locally of Texas, called his attention to the suggestion of E. H. Gary and others to the effect that the day of competition was past and that the time had come for the government to regulate prices of commodities. Can't Kill Human Nature. HILL: You will have to tame human nature, and eliminate all selfish motives, before you will eliminate competition," Hill remarked. "There will be competition just as long as there is life, and I don't intend to stop it. He declared that if the federal government assumed control of business, there would be no federal government, but a monarchy. Asked if he believed the United States should undertake to regulate business, he replied: "I would lay down the law, right or wrong. I would limit the power corporations. I would see that every corporation that started in business, put all the money in it and I would not let anybody on account of the size of the corporation, I would not permit any watering of stock. I would see that the rate of every dollar did not take care of it."

"You tried a national combination one didn't just," Representative Bartlett asked, referring to the northern securities case. "The government didn't try you out and you are still doing a profitable business." "Yes and not making any complaint," Hill said.
