

Blistering Letter Repudiates Klux Oath of Allegiance

KU KLUX KLAN'S INVISIBLE EMPIRE OF HATE SCORED BY U. S. ARMY OFFICER

Was Conceived in Avarice, Sired by Ignorance and Damned in Greed and Now Being Nurtured in False Pretense, Says Prominent Southerner

Klanmen from whose eyes the scales of false romance and patriotic bombast had dropped. They saw the Klan as what it really was, a grotesque menace and anachronism in free America.

They bitterly repented having yielded to the lures and persuasions of its kilt-torn membership peddlers and wished the investigators all success in showing the vicious enterprise up. But when it was suggested that their inside knowledge of its workings gave them special fitness to aid in the fight against its further hideous spread, they held back from active participation in the attack. They were still Klanmen. They had taken the oaths of the order and felt that, bad as it was, the obligations thus assumed compelled them to keep the secrets they had learned.

To this attitude, however, there has been one exception. One member of the Klan, who also served its business managers as a successful organizer, was so outraged by the realities and potentialities which came under his observation in the source of his regular work as a salesman for Simmons and Clarke that he not only gave up his position as a "Kleagle" to the order, but in a blistering letter withdrew wholly from the order and notified its head that he repudiated its oath as conflicting with a higher obligation he has previously assumed as an officer in the Reserve Corps of the United States army.

Capt. Fry Branded Klan as Public Menace

This fiery rebel was Henry P. Fry, a Southerner of many generations descent, born and reared in East Tennessee, and making his home in Chattanooga. He is forty years old. He is a graduate of that old Southern institution, the Virginia Military Institute, was once commandant of cadets at Sewanee, in the University of the South, and was for a long time a captain in the Tennessee National Guard.

At the outbreak of the war he enlisted as a private in the regular army at Camp Meade, Md., was sent to Company A, 316th Infantry, made sergeant, and transferred to the enlisted men's training school at Camp Gordon, Ga. There he was commissioned a second lieutenant, sent to Camp Perry, O., made a first lieutenant, then sent to Camp Funston, Kan., and there under Gen. Leonard Wood, served through the rest of the war as a rifle specialist and instructor in infantry practice. He was recommended for a commission as major when the war ended and he was ordered home with a commission as Captain of Infantry Reserve Corps. Capt. Fry has been a newspaper man, publicist and salesman, and was making a business trip through East Tennessee last winter, when at Johnson City he met a Kleagle, who approached him through the common ground of Masonry, revealed his identity, and induced him first to join the Ku Klux Klan and later to become a Kleagle of the order.

The Captain's Letter

Capt. Fry's further experiences with the order are best set forth in his own letter of withdrawal from the Klan. It is dated at Chattanooga and addressed to William J. Simmons, Imperial Wizard and Emperor, Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., Atlanta, Georgia.

The letter in full follows:

"You are hereby notified that I have this day voluntarily withdrawn as a citizen of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., and shall no longer consider myself in any way connected with the organization. After five months of citizenship in the Invisible Empire, three months of which were spent as a Kleagle, I have reached the conclusion that your proposition is a historical fraud; that it is a money-making scheme run for the benefit of a few insiders; that it is engaged in an evil propaganda in promoting unwarranted religious and racial hatred against Jews, Roman Catholics, negroes and foreign-born American citizens; that your entire scheme is a dangerous public menace that will inevitably lead to bloodshed and, if successful, must result in revolution; and that, in the interest of decent Americanism, it should be suppressed by the federal and state authorities.

"I further notify you that I utterly repudiate and refuse to be bound in any way by any and all portions of the oath of allegiance to the Invisible Empire formerly taken by me, excepting that portion pledging allegiance to the Constitution of the United States and of my state, with which portion you have camouflaged the real support and meaning of the oath. The remainder of the oath conflicts with a higher obligation I have previously assumed as an officer of the Reserve Corps of the United States army.

"I therefore denounce said remaining portions of said oath as illegal, and detrimental to the fundamental principles which underlie the entire legal structure of this country. I further decline, any longer, to keep secret any part or parts of your schemes to establish in free America an Invisible Empire, fraudulent in its conception, vicious in its nature, political in its objects, and subject to the will of a self-constituted Emperor who seeks to exploit the American people for his own personal aggrandizement.

"In defiance of your threats of dis-honor, disgrace and death as contained in your ritual—written and copyrighted by yourself—I denounce your ritualistic work as an insult to all Christian people in America, as an attempt to hypocritically obtain money from the public under the cloak of sanctimonious piety, and I charge that the principal feature of your ceremony of 'naturalization' into the 'Invisible Empire' is a blasphemous and sacrilegious mockery of the holy rite of baptism, wherein, for political and financial purposes, you have polluted with your infamous parody those things that Christians, regardless of creed or dogma, hold most sacred.

"I further charge that when in your printed literature you claim that your organization is the 'genuine original Klan,' this statement is a fraud historically and a fraud in principle. While you have—without any right whatever—appropriated to yourself the name, regalia and certain nomenclature of the original Klan, your scheme is radically different in conception, in organization and in purpose. A careful study, which I have made, of the precept of the original under its observation in the source of his regular work as a salesman for Simmons and Clarke that he not only gave up his position as a 'Kleagle' to the order, but in a blistering letter withdrew wholly from the order and notified its head that he repudiated its oath as conflicting with a higher obligation he has previously assumed as an officer in the Reserve Corps of the United States army.

Ever since your scheme has been actively propagated, there has been a wave of crime in the Southern states, consisting to a large extent of 'private regulations of the public peace,' committed by men who have gone about their respective communities wearing disguises and taking into their own hands the functions of Prosecuting Attorney, witnesses, judge, jury, and executioner, in direct contravention to the bill of rights of the Federal and State Constitutions. Men have been dragged from their beds at night, forcibly abducted on the streets and in their homes, arrested without warrant on the public streets, conveyed to secluded places, there to be flogged, tarred and feathered. In two instances helpless women, after being stripped of their clothing, have been similarly maltreated.

Wore Klan's Regalia

"In nearly every reported case the perpetrators of these acts of lawlessness have worn disguises, described as 'masks and white robes,' which description corresponds convincingly with the official regalia of the 'Invisible Empire.' In three specific cases acts of lawlessness have been so openly and flagrant committed by members of the 'Ku Klux Klan' that you have been compelled to take official cognizance. In these three instances where very evident that the illegal oath and the secret teachings of your 'Invisible Empire' were construed by your dupes as granting a license to engage in secret regulation of the peace by means of anonymous warnings, threats, intimidations, abductions, the whip, and the use of tar and feathers.

"Having studied your scheme, both from the inside and the outside, I have no doubt whatever that practically all of these reported outrages were committed by members of your organization. If it were proved, however, that your 'citizens' were not prima facie responsible, at the same time there exists a moral responsibility, because when one group of people is permitted to go about in disguise it places the community at the mercy of any group that cares to adopt similar tactics.

Breeding Race Hatred

"At a time when peaceful relations are existing between the white and black races you are disrupting the industrial conditions of the South by your anti-negro propaganda and causing a state of unrest that can result only in dangerous and mischievous consequences. In your anti-Catholic and anti-Jewish propaganda your organization is scattering broadcast over the country wicked, malicious and inflammatory lies about American citizens of those religious beliefs that brand your movement as being far more vicious than the insidious German propaganda in this country prior to our entrance into the recent war. You are publishing, for example, the statement that the Jews are seeking to promote a race war between white people and negroes, and the intimation that the Catholic Church was responsible for the murder of President Abraham Lincoln. In public statements you and your paid 'speakers' give expression to worldly, sanctimonious and high-sounding platitudes, while secretly your propagandists, in a sneaking and contemptible manner, are spreading poisonous and vicious lies they dare not give voice to in public.

"Your 'Invisible Empire' is furthermore a money-making scheme! You yourself, an individual of little, if any, means prior to your becoming an 'Emperor,' have so far received from 'friends' a $25,000 residence completely furnished! Your connection with the organization is either bringing you large sums of money at present or the promise of same in the future. You are allowed to appropriate to your own use all of the $10 'donated' by any person whose application you personally solicit. All of the rituals and other printed publications of your organization are copyrighted in your name, and it is presumable that you have either received royalties for their use or a cash consideration for their sale.

"Your organization has recently bought Lanier University, of which college presidents are usually paid salaries. While orders for robes at $6.50 are given by your name, they are filled by the Gate City Manufacturing Company at a substantial profit, and the public has not been informed as to the disposition of this huge amount of funds. The Searchlight Publishing Company, headed by your Imperial Kleagle, is no doubt a revenue producer! Your Imperial Kleagle is also the head of the Clarke Realty Company, in whose operations I have no doubt you are also interested. These varied financial operations indicate to me that spreading religious and racial hatred is a lucrative business for you and your associates.

"Invisible Empire a Cancer"

"Your whole 'Invisible Empire' is a cancer in the body politic. It is like some foul and loathsome thing that grows and flourishes in the dark, away from the sight of honest men and women. It was conceived in avarice, sired in ignorance and damned in greed. It is now being nurtured in cunning and false promise and fed upon an unholy lust for gold by means of passion, hatred and the prejudice of religious and racial fanaticism. And day by day, with your oily assurance, you say that these devilish devices of discord are being developed in the name of 'pure Americanism.' If this is your idea of America, you haven't the slightest conception of what pure Americanism means.

"There is no place in America for an 'Invisible Empire' of hate and venom; and there is no provision in the laws of this country for an 'Emperor.' The 'Invisible Empire' should be made visible. It should be held up to the light so that honest men can see its ugly structure and analyze its nefarious potentialities, and then, having seen this monstrosity, the people should demand of their legally constituted forces of Government that Ku Kluxism and the Ku Klux Klan be outlawed and barred forever from operating in this free Republic.

"Yours truly,

"HENRY P. FRY."

That is how the Simmons-Clarke brand of Ku Kluxism impressed one man who came into close and intimate business contact with it.

In succeeding articles the grounds on which Capt. Fry based the various charges in his indictment will be taken up and examined in detail. The Star tomorrow morning will publish in detail how "Invisible Empire" salesmen used Army and Navy Club address in New York City for its membership campaign.

CONCERT IN PRISON

Newburg, Eng.—Inmates of Campbell Prison on the Isle of Wight were entertained by the Pleasant Sunday Afternoon association with a concert. "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" and "Dream of Paradise" were among the hymns.

THREE SPIES ESCAPE

Paris.—Police all over France are searching for Paul Courcier, German spy serving ten years at Lille prison, who escaped with two other spies. Duplicate keys and a rope ladder were used.

WOOD SPOILS LAWNS

Suva, Fiji.—City authorities are objecting to the practice the police have in leaving their firewood on the municipal lawns along the waterfront. The appearance of the lawns is being spoiled, they say.

Bally-Hoo

Make a noise about De Maupassant—he is a world-famous writer of short stories that have that pep and spice! Of course he was—prior to his death 28 years ago!

It isn't necessary, for advertising purposes, to make a noise about the fact that the spent the last year or so of his life in an insane asylum.

Viewing "The Orderly," you find both "pep and spice." You also find the role of Jeanne—the unhappy wife of a colonel who secretly loves a captain and is threatened with betrayal by a mere orderly—in the capable hands of Madame Nathalie Kovanko, the Russian actress.

An elderly colonel promises a dying friend to take care of her daughter. When the girl is old enough he suggests marriage and she consents, not for love but in gratitude.

Then she meets a handsome young captain. There are many secret meetings, but at each the omniscient Philippe, the colonel's orderly, is spying.

The orderly offers to carry her letters to her lover. Thus she pats herself in the lower. And the orderly, taking advantage of this, tells the faithless wife that he loves her, too, and if she repulses him he will betray her secret to the colonel.

The wife takes the easiest way out—death. A letter of confession reaches the colonel afterwards. Immediately he sends for his orderly.

"Tell me the name of my wife's lover," he demands.

The man hesitates.

"Quickly, his name!"

A second time the orderly hesitates—and is lost!

Now what do you suppose happens then? He shoots the traitor, making everybody as happy as possible under the circumstances.

LOIS WILSON AS LULU BETT IS INCARNATION OF NOVEL HEROINE

New York, Oct. 31.—William DeMille has completed his film version of Zona Gale's stage success, "Miss Lulu Bett." This is one of those worthwhile stories which readily lends itself to screen interpretation. The picture will not be released by Paramount until December and news of the manner in which DeMille and Clara Beranger, who wrote the scenario, handled the story is rather meager.

DeMille changed the ending of the story. He has Lulu flare up and break dishes and smash furniture in the home of her brother-in-law where she had served as hostess of burden.

The advance photos of characters country, cottage and palace, the world over.

That is why I think the story of "Lulu Bett" has greater merit than Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street." The appeal of the latter is only to those whose experiences have embraced drab life in a nine o'clock town. The appeal of the Gale story is universal.

One might criticize DeMille and Miss Beranger for changing the story of "Lulu Bett." However, the author did not have her stage and novel stories alike. In view of that the movie producers may be excused for attempts to paint the lily.

The supporting cast of "Miss Lulu Bett" seems to have been very happily chosen. Theodore Roberts is Dwight Deacon, the pompous dignitary and justice of the peace who makes his sister-in-law a drudge and is credited by the neighbors for supporting her.

Clarence Burton is Ninian Deacon who first brings romance into Lulu's life and then tragedy when he learns that the wife he believed dead is living.

Aulton Sills is Neil Cornish, the neighbor who defends Lulu, falls in love with her and eventually marries her.

Charles Ogle, one of the screen's best character actors, is the station agent.

The first published photo of Lois Wilson as she appears in the title role of the film version of "Miss Lulu Bett." She looks the part.

In the play are very interesting. They show that Lois Wilson is a true Lulu Bett. She looks just like an "old maid" that you might like in your block or on your street—one of those all-wool-and-a-yard-wide souls who has romance in her heart, the odor of dish water on her hands and knotted hair on her head.

Zona Gale located her story in a small town. It might as well have

Coiner of 'Race Suicide' Phrase Is Now Small Family Advocate

Madison, Wis., Oct. 31.—Big families of the older times are out of the question today.

This is the opinion of Prof. E. A. Ross, head of the University of Wisconsin sociology department, who 29 years ago, coined the expression, "race suicide."

"The nation today is gaining enough population by reduction in death rate, compared with the birth rate, to meet the situation which 20 years ago was considered alarming," says Prof. Ross.

That is why he now is in favor of small families.

"Nobody, 20 years ago, could have foreseen that life would be saved as we are saving it," Ross said. "Certain diseases that reaped a heavy death toll have been successfully combated. As a result, the death rate has fallen off one-quarter since 1912.

"Under the circumstances large families would make our population grow so fast that starvation would eventually result."

Prof. Ross' three sons are an indication as to what he thinks is the of more polished relatives in city and proper sized family.

Madame Nathalie Kovanko, Russian Actress, has the role of the much-loved wife in the screen version of De Maupassant's "The Orderly."
