Aid Bill Not Among Five Reported Out
By LESTER N. INSKIP
Star Staff Correspondent
PHOENIX, Feb. 3.—Legislative interest centered Tuesday in the Senate Education Committee, which, in its first meeting of the session, turned out five bills which conspicuously did not include major school aid proposals.

In the House, the Rules Committee held its first meeting of the 31-week old session and will meet again Wednesday to consider a committee-of-the-whole calendar for Thursday.

Speaker W. I. (Taz) Cook (D-Cochise) of the House said there has been no real effort in a Rules Committee meeting up to this time, but that a number of bills have started moving. This, he says, will result in the first meeting of the Judiciary Committee, last to consider bills—except for public-employee bills—are placed on the calendar.

The Senate President, Clarence Carpenter (D-Gila) said that body will have an extraordinary long calendar on Friday. He anticipates from 30 to 40 bills, most being of a technical nature.

Carpenter, referring to the fact that the Education Committee did not include at this time as major school legislation, said he believes the committee will act some time next week.

He devoted knowledge of a rumor that the Senate will wait for the House version of school aid legislation.

Used out by the Senate Education Committee, which is headed by A. E. Spikes (D-Cochise) in chairman, were Senate bills:

38. Authorizing the state board of vocational education to accept gifts.
39. Authorizing the employment of state teachers in the three divisions of higher learning. It cannot be introduced, however, until submission of a constitutional amendment to Arizona voters.

40. Giving individual school districts a choice in selection of textbooks from a list of not exceeding three furnished by the State Board of Education. No choice is given now.
41. Transferring to the Board of Regents 13 acres of state land adjoining its experimental farm in Yuma County.

42. Changing the name of the Board of Regents from the Board of Regents of the University and State Colleges to the "Board of Regents of the Universities and State Colleges." The latter name results from changing the name of Arizona State College at Yuma to Arizona State University. There are also ASU, the University of Arizona at Tucson, and state college at Flagstaff.

In reporting out the foreign teacher employment bill, there was an understanding in the committee that it will be amended to include employment of alien physicians and technicians in state and county hospitals.

Running into all opposition were Senate Bills 43 providing for state-wide driver education in high schools, and 44, taking eighty more than one million dollars from the Arizona Power Authority and placing it in the general fund. Neither was indefinitely postponed, but bills were indicated.

Duller Begins Talks With European Allies

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Secretary of State Dulles flew to Europe today to try to arrange with U. S. allies for a big four meeting with Russia in the German city.
Dulles said he and President Eisenhower are convinced that "any personal and intimate talks" with top officials at London, Paris and Bonn will open the door to a common policy toward the Soviet threat.

Dulles and his advisers left shortly after Dulles had ended a 40-minute consultation with the hawkish party (NATO) meetings here April 24, and before the May 27 date set by Russia for handling East Berlin over to the German Committee.

No Change Seen In Helio Plan

Plans to bring the Helio Aircraft Co. plant here were approved Tuesday by the Tucson Chamber of Commerce.

Helio manufacturers a light plane called the Courier designed for use in areas where airports facilities are limited.

Tucsonians have invested more than $200,000 in a trust fund to help Helio strengthen its position for the proposed move.

The helio firm said only that they will leave the matter under consideration.

A Soviet spokesman at the head of the Berlin blockade said today it was only "a trivial affair."
