

More 100-degree days in desert west of Tucson

Heat is the leading cause of death for migrants in Southern Arizona, according to the Pima County Office of the Medical Examiner. Summer 2020 saw a spike in 100-degree days near Sells and Ajo, which corresponded with a record-setting spike in migrant deaths.

