Good Morning TOP of the NEWS

PICNIC WEATHER. The weatherman is forecasting little weather for picnickers in Tucson this weekend—generally fair and mild with little change in temperature. Today's high is expected to reach between 81 and 86 degrees, with a low of 65-66 degrees.

Global THIRTY-THREE NEW CARDINALS. Pope Paul VI has named four Americans as Princes of the Church in a list of 33 new cardinals. American prelates tapped for red hats were Archbishop Terence Cooke of New York, John Durand of Detroit, John Carberry of St. Louis and Bishop John Wright of Pittsburgh. Page 8A.

National DIRKSEN ON TARGET? In the wake of Sen. Dirksen's charge that Clifford B. Alexander Jr. was harassing businessmen in his capacity of chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, the White House indicated Alexander will be replaced "in due time." Page 8A.

Arizona LSD TEXT TABOO. A Civil Liberties Union spokesman in Phoenix has taken Gov. Williams to task for acting to suppress the issue of "confidential" because the magazine contains an article on how to make LSD in the privacy of one's own kitchen. Government control over what the public may read is feared by Ted Mote, ACLU director. Page 31A.

Local PASCUA'S PASSION PLAY. Continuing an ancient custom, the Yagui Indians of New Pascua Village are staging their annual Easter ceremonies, a blend of pagan and Christian rites. The climax comes Easter Sunday when the story of the Crucifixion is portrayed. Page 1B.

Critical Book Published Envoy Fired For Calling Japan's People Childlike

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government Friday fired a veteran ambassador who wrote in a recently published book that the Japanese are "childlike" and not much more attractive than pygmies and Hottentots.

Sen. Fulbright Explodes ABM Plan Called 'Political Gimmick'

WASHINGTON — Sen. J. W. Fulbright charged Friday that the Nixon administration had made "no serious scientific review" of the anti-ballistic missile program and that its Safeguard system was "purely a political gimmick."

U.S. Backs 'Race Tax' Court Test Negroes Seek Refund From 'Blockbusters'

By FRID P. GRABAM

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department threw its weight Friday behind the efforts of a group of Negroes who are seeking to make "blockbusting" real estate speculators in Chicago pay back high profits they made from Negro home purchasers.

At a press briefing Friday, Jerris Leonard, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division, called the overcharges a "race tax."

According to Leonard, some homes in the Lawndale area of Chicago were sought by speculators for as little as $12,500 and resold to Negroes for as much as $25,000.

Three-Day Rites In Capital Will Precede Burial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government will render a final salute to Dwight D. Eisenhower in a solemn three-day state funeral before a train carries the late President and war leader to his resting place in the Kansas plains.

Services To Country Noted Nixon, Truman, Johnson Mourn Leader's Passing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon and former presidents Dwight D. Truman and Lyndon B. Johnson led the nation in tribute to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who died Friday.

His death leaves an empty place in my heart as it will in the hearts of men and women everywhere. America will be a lonely land without him but America will always be a better nation—stronger, safer, more conscious of its heritage, more certain of its destiny—because he was with us when America needed him.

Monday Is Day Of Mourning

By JOSEPH E. MORRAT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Dwight David Eisenhower, soldier, president, and one of the revered figures of American history, died Friday at 11:26 p.m. in Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The funeral service will be Monday in the National Cathedral after the general's body has lain in state in the Capitol Rotunda. Burial will be Wednesday in a chapel of the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kan.

al of Walter Reed Hospital said, "after a long and heroic struggle."

The nation will pay final tribute to the general in a state funeral that will span three days in the nation's capital before the body is borne by slow train to his boyhood home in Abilene, Kan. There, near the Eisenhower library, he will be buried.

President Nixon, who was Eisenhower's vice president for eight years and who assumed some presidential duties during the President's illness, formally announced the death in a proclamation, designating next Monday a national day of mourning. Nixon said his mentor had earned for a quarter of a century "a moral authority seldom equaled in American history."

As long as free men cherish their freedom, the President said, "Dwight Eisenhower will stand with them, as he stood during war and peace; strong, confident, and courageous. Even in death he has left us a great spirit that will never die."

By presidential order, the American flag will fly at half-staff across the world for 30 days.

First word of the general's death came from Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Hughes Jr., commander of the Army hospital that had been Eisenhower's home since last spring. He notified his fifth, sixth, and seventh sons, all of whom were born during 1906 and was believed near death last August.

The loss that ultimately brought him down was congestive heart failure, diminishing the flow of blood through his weakened body.

His wife, Mamie Doud Eisenhower, and members of the immediate family were notified by Eisenhower's son, Fred, on his third-floor presidential suite.

The body was taken to the pathology building. A hearse later carried it to a hotel mortuary where it will remain overnight. A military honor guard saluted as the vehicle left the grounds.

President Nixon canceled all appointments for the next five days and went immediately from the White House to the hospital, with his wife and oldest daughter, Tricia.
