

Dear President Biden,

Racism is harming people for their skin color. It is important to talk about racism because we need a change.

Racism means when you harm, hurt, or bully people because of their skin color or because of how they look. For example, it is racist when you don't choose someone at school to be your partner because of their race. I have experienced racism when my neighborhood wanted my family to move because we were hispanic.

Racism is important for us to learn about because we need to know what's wrong and what's right because there are things on the internet that some people/kids don't know are wrong. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example, a person could be making threats to someone to scare them. One way racism impacts people is that some people may be bullying a person and that person may hurt themselves.

We can fight racism by doing more protest and instead of the police hurting them they should help them. We can also do posters and get equal stuff for all people. As a president I think you should take racial crime very seriously. Also, as our president you should do more safety security for all communities.

In conclusion, Racism is when a race thinks that they are better than another race. As a leader, you need to help us do better as a community. Please help Buffalo by giving speeches about racism.

-Ameyla Santiago

Dear president Biden,

Racism is bad because group of people judge others. It is important to talk about racism because it's been happening for a long time.

Racism is when people treat other people badly because of their race. For example, it is racist when people harm people because of their skin color. I have seen racism when I heard about George Floyd.

Racism is important for us because if I did not know about it, I would be being racist and I won't know. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example, it impacts people because they get treated differently. One way racism impacts people certain groups feel sad because they are getting mistreated.

We can fight racism by standing up against racist people or groups. As a president I think you should make a law of racism for more control. Also, as our president you should encourage more safety and security. In conclusion, racism is something that has to stop. As our leader, you need to help everybody treat people fairly. Please help our community by helping to increase police officers in the streets. Sincerely,
Emmanuel Gomez Huertas.

Dear President Biden,

I would like to talk to you about racism. Racism is segregation of race. It is important to talk about racism because not having equal rights and being treated differently because of your skin's colour.

Racism means one race thinks they are better than another. For example it's racist when white people think they are better than black people. It is also racism when a black person was excluded by a group of white people.

Racism is important for us to learn about because there are things like access to resources that are affected by it. Racism impacts a lot of people. For example assumptions are made by people. One way racism impacts people is by racism causing people to be murdered.

We can fight racism by having more opportunities for black communities. As president, I think you should take racial crimes seriously. You should punish them more. Also as president you should give speeches about racism.

In conclusion Racism is a horrible occurrence. As our leader you need to sign laws about penalties for discrimination. Please help our community in Buffalo by trying to end racism.
Sincerely, Laila Ari Colorado.

Dear President Biden,

Racism is harming people for their skin color. It is important to talk about racism because it helps people get their emotions out.

Racism means white people being mean to black families. For example, it is racist when a group is talking about black people before meeting them. I have seen racism when I saw this tiktok of a white lady being mean to a black homeless person. ❤️

Racism is important for us to learn about because some people don't know about racism and they are doing it! If they knows about it they can stop it.

Racism impacts a lot of people, for example if a white lady talks bad about a black person and they can talk about it. One way racism impacts people is by not having resoucces like other people do.

We can fight racism by standing up for black families and people.

As President, I think you should stop people from being racist. Also, as President you should speak up for people of color and support them. In conclusion, racism is bad and mean. As our leader, you need to stop this and make this world a better place.

Please help our community in buffalo by desegregating schools, stores, and services.

Dear President Biden

Racism is hate toward black people. It is important to talk about racism or you could get in trouble. Racism means to hate people of a specific skin color. Example it is just when that EV-Yob- has done to the same people. All such racism which someone said means stop to harm people.

Racism important for us to talk about because who should talk about it so we can know racism. Racism impact a lot of people just example not everybody is equal. Right the way racism for people is making a bad people as an race. We all fight racism in better kind we need to do.

As a person, I think you should always be president you should be a good person.

Thank you for being a leader you need to please everyone in our country.

Sincerely,
Yehdi Gobezler

Dear president Biden,
Racism is disrespectful, bad and wrong.

It is important to talk about racism because people will understand what's wrong and good. Racism means not having equal rights or not sharing with different races, and harming different people. For example, it is racist when people treat others bad for their race. I have seen when one race thinks they are better than the other.

Racism is important for us to learn about because when we see something bad, like racism, we can help out to make them understand. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example hurting their feelings for not understanding their back story. One way racism impact people is when somebody says some thing bad to them, they feel like they are disgusting. We can fight racism by, by explaining to others.

about racism, being kind and respectful to all. We can also protest. As president, I think you should take racial crimes very seriously, and give speeches for rights. Also, as our president you should give all races equal resources and community support.

In conclusion racism is disrespectful and rude. As our leader you need to help people understand racism, to stop the bullies. Please help our community in Buffalo by stopping racism.

Dear President Biden, Racism is bad and disrespectful. It is important to talk about racism because a lot of people died and sacrifice there life to serve white people.

Racism means hating people for their skin color. For example it is racist when white people speak to one group differently. I have seen racism when I saw it in a movie.

Racism is important for us to learn about because it began many years ago and it is still going on to this day. Racism impacts a lot of people. For example we only had one black president. One way racism impacts people is by people getting hurt.

We can fight racism by showing respect (putting b1m sign). As president I think you should give speeches about racism. Also as our president you should have more safety and security for all communities.

In conclusion racism is favoritism and bad. As our leader you need to encourage diversity and fight racial discrimination.

Please help our community by listening to our letter.

Sincerely Andrew Smith may 1, 2021.

Dear President Biden,

Racism is harming people for their skin color. It is important to talk about racism because if we don't, white people are going to keep killing black people. Racism means being disrespectful to people that are black. When you segregate black from white and they don't have equal rights. For example, it is racist when you segregate black people from white people. I have seen racism when I was in my school bus. My bus driver screamed at a black person that was on his phone meanwhile a white person was screaming, but nothing happened to him. Racism is important for us to learn about because if we don't learn we might not understand what black people going through. Racism impacts a lot of people. For example it hurts our community of black people. One way racism impacts people is by being scared of police or making bad decisions. We can fight racism by black people have more stuff. As president, I think you should build more grocery stores because black people don't have access to them. Also, as our president you should have more security at places. In conclusion, racism is harmful. As our leader, you need to stop racism. Please help our community in Buffalo by not letting white people kill black people.

Sincerely

Omaliei Laboy

Dear president Biden,

Racism is when people treat others badly. It is important to talk about racism because we are trying to stop it.

Racism means being mean to others because of their skin and hating it. For example, it is racist when some people get different respect in conversations. I have seen racism when someone says they are better than the other race.

Racism is important for us to learn about because people are trying to stop the racism. Racism impacts a lot of people for example when someone is mean to others because of their skin.

We can fight racism by putting up signs that black lives matter and to stop racism. As president, I think you should talk to the people about racism and not be mean to others. Also, our president you should help stop racism.

In conclusion, racism hurts people's feeling. Our leader, you need to stop racism please help our community in Buffalo by giving a speech.

Dear Mr. President,

Racism is really disrespectful. It is important to talk about racism, means when somebody treats a person different from their race, like when somebody says in a hobby to be white the next to a black person. I have seen or experienced racism when I went at the mall and gifts and I got hit because I'm black. Racism is important for people to know because of the fact you can hurt people just by being racist. Racism impacts a lot of people the wrong way. People have no access to resources based on their race. White people get better treatment than black people. We can fight racism by making a law that if someone is racist they will go to jail.

As a President, I think you should help the black people and fight racism. Also as our President Bush, I help us get what we want that we are human. In conclusion racism is really bad. As our leader you need to help us fight racism. Please help our community in Luffkin by making a law a penalty if you are racist.
Sincerely, Anysha Jordan

Dear President Biden,

Racism is Bad. It is important to talk about racism because some people get hate about it. First, racism means people get hate for their skin tone. For example it is racist when people say we do not support Black people. I have seen racism when people get bullied for their skin color. Second, racism is important for us to learn about because some people get killed because of it. Racism impacts people like people getting shot or stabbed. We can fight racism by calling the cops when you see someone getting mistreated because of their skin color. As president, I think you should be encouraging of diversity also, as our president you should make more laws about people not getting bullied for their skin tone. In conclusion racism is harmful. As our leader you need to talk about racism to make it stop. Please help our community in Buffalo by making a new law to not bully black people or different people's skin tones.

Sincerely,

Azeyia Wallenberg.

Dear president Biden,

Racism is harming people for their skin color. It is important to talk about racism because people die because of racism.

Racism means not having equal rights. For example, it is racist when one race has better resources than another race. I have seen that some races have better resources and brag to the people that don't.

Racism is important for us to learn about because it can make problems in the community. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example some people are so racist they go out and kill other races.

One way racism impacts people is that it can put violence in them and it can hurt other people.

We can fight racism by being kind and respectful to all. As president, I think you should give more safety and security for all communities. Also, as our president you should take racial crime really seriously.

In conclusion, racism is the worst. As our leader, you need to stop racism because it's dangerous please help our community in burkalo by stopping racism.

Sincerely

Edhelys

Dear President Biden,
Racism is very bad for people of color.
It is important to talk about racism because we don't know what people go through.

Racism means making fun of people's skin color. For example, it is racism when you see someone, listen to what a person is saying, or what they are doing to the black person and ignore it. I have seen racism when I saw this person bullying a person of color. The person that was pushing him.

Racism is important for us to learn about because we can understand how long it's been going on and racism impacts a lot of people. For example, it could hurt a whole community of black people. One way racism impacts people is by making people of color scared of some police officers.

We can fight racism by putting more BLM signs. As president I think you should make laws about racism. Also, as our president you should put some undercover police officers and put more cameras to protect our community.

In conclusion, racism is awful. As our leader, you need to please make laws about racism.
Please help our community in BLM by not letting anyone come through without checking the people out. Sincerely, Jonathan Ojima.

Dear President Biden,

Racism is bad because you can make someone feel bad about themselves. It is important to talk about racism because you can make someone feel better. Racism means you think not nice at all to other people. It is bad because it is racist when you are very rude to people that are different from you. I have seen racism when I was in a office school my teacher said to a group of people you work alone and don't talk to me but she was very nice to the white group of kids. Racism is important for us to learn about because you could be mean to someone. Racism impacts a lot of people. For example, you can say mean stuff and end up in jail or worse stuff. One way racism impacts people is people like girls white people new materials and other things old materials. We can fight racism by not being mean to other people of color. As president I think you should help the people that lost their family in the COVID-19 shopping, also you should help you should give homeless people a place to live in.

In conclusion, I am sure you will find the information you need to help you to be successful.

Please help me to be successful.

Sincerely,
Eliot

Dear president Biden,
Racism is bad and horrible. It is important to talk about racism because racism is harming people for their skin color. Racism means not having equal rights, and it is not fair for black people. For example, it is racist when black people don't get treated good for their skin color. When people treat others badly because of race, that's racism. I have seen racism when in Tops, ten people, were killed, and some were injured.

Racism is important for us to learn about because if we don't know about racism we can hurt people's feelings. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example other's schools get more treatment than black schools. One way racism impacts people is if one race gets something better than another race. We can fight racism by protesting and fighting for equal rights.

As president, I think you should help us by letting others know that we are all equal. In conclusion, racism is really bad. As our leader you need to help us get justice.

Please help our community in Buffalo by making a law of paying if you're racist.

Sincerely,
Sara Santiago Ruiz ☺

Dear President Biden
Racism is harming people for their skin color.

Racism is saying bad words and talking about the color of a person. When people treat others badly because of race, or people talk bad words of people of other colors, that's racism.

It's good to learn about Racism, because Racism is bad for our community. When other people are racist and other people aren't, it's bad.

Being kind and respectful to all and explain to others about racism is important racial crime very seriously sign laws about penalties for discrimination.

sincerely, shariangeliz

Dear President Biden,

Racism is very offensive and rude to people who have dark skin. It is important to talk about racism because there needs to be a stop to people who are being treated unfairly.

Racism means harming people for their skin color and not getting the same amount of respect. For example, it is racist when light skin people have better resources than black skin people. I have seen white people and black people separated because of how they "act" or "look".

Racism is important for us to learn about because we can all explain what racism is and why it hurts their/our feelings. Racism impacts a lot of people, for example, speaking to different groups in a mean way, while the others get the respect they don't deserve. One way racism impacts people is different amounts of trust for different races.

We can fight racism by giving more opportunities to black skin people, like giving them more responsibilities. As president, I think you should take racial crimes more seriously than it is now.

Also, as our president you should give black people a chance to become mayor, judge, police, etc...

In conclusion, racism is just offensive. As our leader, you need to encourage diversity. Please help our community in Buffalo by signing laws about penalties for discrimination.

Sincerely,

Joseph Pattino

Dear President Biden;

Racism is not having equal rights. It is important to talk about racism because you can express your feelings.

Racism means harm people for their skin color. For example, it is racist when you do not respect others because of how they look like. I have seen for experienced racism when one racial group receives more better resources.

Racism is important for us about because we stand up for ourselves and others. With racism, people is different. We can fight racism by being kind and respectful to all. As president, you should have leaders of color, school board and etc. Also, our president should have policies about racism, being kind, respectful to all. In conclusion, let us all work together to make our community better. We can fight racism by being respectful to all.

Sincerely, Angel C.
