

Uptick in migrant mothers, children

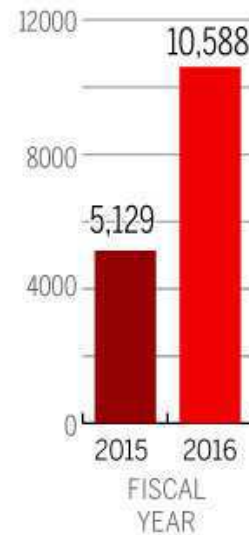

The first couple of months of the fiscal year are seeing a significant increase of families and unaccompanied minors coming through after a steep decline in 2015 compared to the previous year. Gang-related violence and some of the world's highest homicide rates, coupled with extreme poverty and family reunification are cited as reasons the migrants are fleeing their home countries.

South Border unaccompanied immigrant children apprehensions

Number of apprehensions by Sector

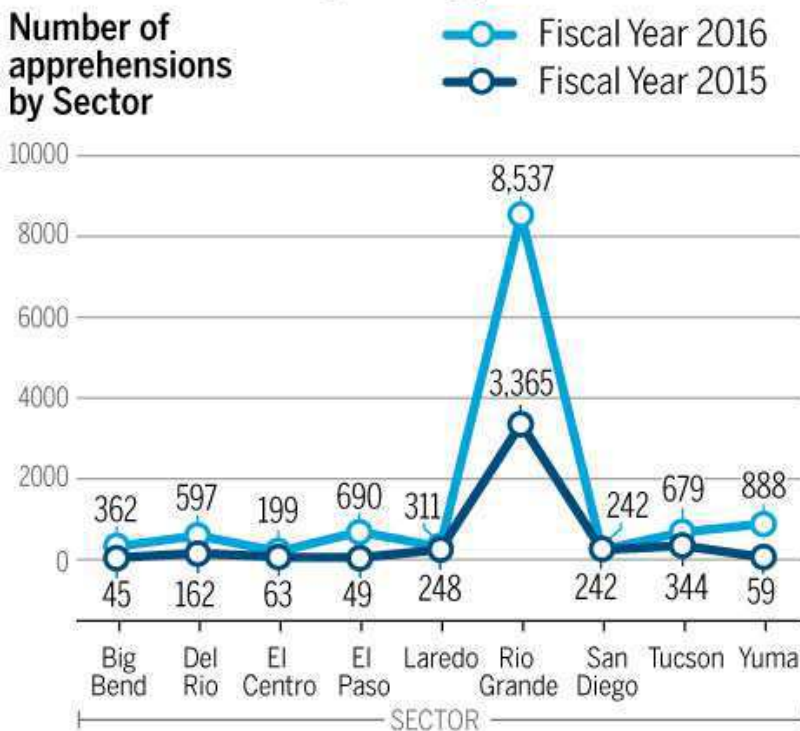

Southwest Border total number of apprehensions

South Border family unit apprehensions

Number of apprehensions by Sector

Southwest Border total number of apprehensions

