Many Bills Now Ready For Debate

Action Scheduled On Legislature Floor

By LESTER N. INSKIP Star Staff Correspondent PHOENIX, Jan. 28—Having devoted two and one-half weeks to committee meetings, the 26th Arizona Legislature now in its second regular session will move Thursday into floor debate on a floor of bills.

The Senate, with considerably more bills out of the committees to which they were assigned, already has a list of measures which could be placed on the calendar by the Rules Committee.

Its calendar may include such major bills as bringing medically indigent under the federal Kerr-Mills Act and making emergency appropriations to several departments and institutions.

House Speaker W. B. Barkley, D-Maricopa, said he would have no word on the House calendar until after majority caucus Wednesday afternoon.

"We now are having two types of caucuses," he explained. "The one Monday will be for discussion of bills while the one for Wednesday will be to decide which bills will be brought to the floor. I am sure, however, that we will have enough for a calendar."

Senate President Clarence L. Carpenter, noting that the Senate is far ahead of its schedule, said he felt that the emergency and supplemental appropriations should be cleared as quickly as possible to make way for the $22 million in capital outlay for various institutions including the University of Arizona at Tucson, Arizona State University at Tempe and Arizona State College at Flagstaff.

He attributed the speedy action by other committees to the fact the Appropriations Committee completed its hearings before the session started, thus releasing members of that committee for service on others.

As the bills introduced earlier were read for discussion on the floor, the Senate again received one placing state aid to schools at average daily membership basis. State funds covering are distributed on average daily attendance.

The bill which would cost an estimated $1 million more each year, has been before the lawmakers since last fiscal year.

Car Inspection Friends, Foes Give Views

PHOENIX, Jan. 28 (AP)—The pros and cons of the motor vehicle law were laid out during a public hearing Tuesday during a public hearing.

Sponsored by the House Rules Committee, the hearing was to give the legislature a chance to speak their piece on the proposed legislation to repeal the inspection law.

The inspection repealer has cleared House committees and may come out for a vote soon. Rep. Jack Gilbert, D-Cochise, was chairman for the hearing and explained that the legislature wanted to test the public reaction before moving one way or the other on the repealer.

A majority of the some 125 crammed into the House hearing room apparently favored the inspection law.

But the pro-inspection law forces in general represented by the Arizona Automobile Association, a member of the Tucson Chamber of Commerce Traffic Safety Committee, who said:

"There were speakers from the Arizona Gasoline Retailers Assn., the Arizona Federation of Women's Clubs, the Independent Garage Operators, and both county and state traffic safety committees.

All asked that the law be left on the books, although some admitted a few amendments might be needed to remove flaws.

Panama Will Call On OAS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Panama has decided to call for an emergency meeting of the Organization of American States to air its dispute with the United States over the Panama Canal, an informed Latin American source reported Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, a member of the Inter-American Peace Committee reported after Panama had called for a meeting of the committee for 10 a.m. Wednesday. He said it was understood Panama would submit a report which he said would seek convocation of the OAS.

No formal meeting of the peace committee was scheduled to begin after Panama reportedly turned down Tuesday night a new plan proposed by the committee to end the stalemate in the U.S.-Panama dispute. But the committee had agreed to meet Wednesday.

Red China Upbraided By Rusk

U.S. Policy Stated In Tokyo Speech

TOKYO, Jan. 28 (AP)—In a major policy address, Secretary of State Dean Rusk upbraided Red China Tuesday night, as a regime, "nothing but contempt for the peace of the world."

Then in a reference to French recognition of Peking, Rusk told reporters later that he was "not at all surprised" to hear on whether Red China believes it pays its bills in military.

Rusk made his points clear in a motion relayed to go along with U. S. policy in recognizing the Chinese Nationalist government in Taiwan.

"We will never abandon the Republic of China in Taiwan (Formosa), he declared. "We don't consider this a point against Red China."

"Peking has violated the Geneva agreements of 1954 on Indochina and the Geneva agreements of 1962 on Cuba. We will not support Peking's aggression in Southeast Asia."

"Peking attacked India and occupies a position from which it continues to threaten the subcontinent of South Asia. Peking is attempting to extend its tactics of terrorism and subversion into Latin America and Africa."

"In other words, Peking is demonstrating every day that it has nothing but contempt for the most elementary condition of peace, namely, leave your neighbors alone."

Rusk declared that free nations will not support the military of Peking and added that "when mainland China has a government which is prepared to respect the rights of its neighbors, we will be ready to make a new start in our relations with the mainland."

Rusk enlarged on these two points at the news conference. In reply to a question by the Associated Press, he said that the United States will not support the military of Peking and added that "when mainland China has a government which is prepared to respect the rights of its neighbors, we will be ready to make a new start in our relations with the mainland."

where it crossed the Iron Curtain or at what point it disappeared from the radar screen. He warned against calculating that it was only later and was not due to return until 5 p.m. At that time a ground search began, the spokesman added. It was only later, he explained, that the unknown plane seen to cross the Iron Curtain on radar was identified with the one that was missing.

The details were delayed until radar reports were received and analyzed, he added. Some time was also taken for consultation with Washington.

Shooting Report Unconfirmed USAF Plane, Three Men Vanish Into E. Germany

WIESBADEN, Germany, Wednesday, Jan. 28 (AP) A U. S. Air Force F-105 trainer with three officers aboard vanished Wednesday East of Germany Tuesday afternoon with two presumably hostile planes accompanying it. An unconfirmed report said the American plane was shot down.

The drama of the three planes was observed by U. S. experts as they scanned the sky. The F-105 was not authorized to fly into East Germany, an Air Force spokesman said, and it could not be tracked by radar. Asked if the crew might have been defected, the spokesman replied: "We don't consider that there is a slight possibility of that."

Hours after the F-105 disappeared there was no word from Communist East Germany to its fate.

The plane was tracked for 11 minutes, flying at 450 to 500 miles an hour, the spokesman said. But he did not disclose

Paris, Peking Already At Odds On '2 Chinas'

France proclaimed its intention to maintain relations with the regime of President Chiang Kai-shek despite a statement by Paris's Foreign Ministry in effect that it would not support the military of Peking and added that "when mainland China has a government which is prepared to respect the rights of its neighbors, we will be ready to make a new start in our relations with the mainland."

The Peking government denounced the two Chinas concept, and asserted that Mongolia's agreement to establish diplomatic relations with France was reached on the understanding that France would expel the representatives of the "old régime" group.

A French official spokesman commented that this may have been Peking's understanding, but not that of France. The spokesman said France is standing on the text of the brief communique which had agreed to establish diplomatic relations with the Peking government and without recognizing the Chinese Nationalist government in Taiwan.

Rusk said that the United States will not support the military of Peking and added that "when mainland China has a government which is prepared to respect the rights of its neighbors, we will be ready to make a new start in our relations with the mainland."

Sonora Officers Recovering After Gun Duel On Street

NOGALES, Mex., Jan. 28 (AP)—Two Nogales officers are recovering from wounds suffered in a gun duel. Both were treated at the municipal hospital.

Listed in satisfactory condition at a Nogales hospital were policeman Luis Silva, 49, and customs inspector David Castillo, 34. Both suffered leg wounds in the gunfight early Sunday morning.

A bystander, Victor Burrell, 22, also was shot in the leg and treated at the municipal hospital.

Police said the two officers were longtime enemies and apparently decided to shoot it out after meeting each other at a hotel night club.

The duel was staged in front of the Hotel Alhambra, a half block from the police station.

Right To Sloganless Auto License Plates Upheld

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—A state supreme court justice ruled Tuesday that New York motorists don't have to advertise the World's Fair on their 1964 license plates if they don't want to. He said they may insist on new plates without any slogans.

The decision by Judge Harold J. Teasler, that present state law is unconstitutional, is expected to have an immediate effect, pending a State Motor Vehicle Commission appeal.

Most 1964 plates already are in the hands of motorists, as bearing the slogan on the back of some new questions of the state's more than five million registered motor vehicles is Saturday.

Americans May Serve On Island

Several Countries Would Send Troops

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—American and British diplomats worked in a half dozen capitals Tuesday night to avoid an explosion on Cyprus. Signs mounted that U. S. troops soon may be assigned to help keep the peace there, views of the troubled island, have put their armed forces on alert since the Cyprus crisis.

Diplomatic sources said Washington and London were concentrating their efforts on keeping everyone calm.

U. S. Gen. Lyman L. Lemmon, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's supreme commander in Europe, flew from Paris to Ankara for urgent talks with the Turks and arranged to go on to Athens Wednesday. Diplomatic consultations were also in progress in Paris and Moscow.

Two senior British ministers—Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler and Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys—struggled to keep alive the defunct Cyprus conference in London.

Turkish Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin said his government has decided to withdraw from the negotiations that opened here Jan. 15. He explained the decision was taken in principle and hoped no date for the withdrawal, that left disappointed Cyprus leaders.

Sandys talked with Cypriot Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou, a former British conference figure. Sandys said, "The situation is very serious."

At stake is the future of the Mediterranean island, an old colony that Britain took in 1960, where animosities between the Greek and Turkish peoples broke out in bloody rioting last Christmas.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's cabinet met in emergency session. British military chiefs were brought in to explain the way thought in other trouble spots—particularly East Africa and Malaysia.

The British expert Professor Johnson to appreciate that they are in a tight corner and to provide some American military help, diplomatic sources said. There also are plans afoot to bring in contingents of West German, French, Italian and Canadian soldiers. Possibly each nation would provide 500 men.

A receiver leading U.S. officials said the United States is seriously considering sending a contingent of troops, but more information is needed before there is a final decision.

The duties of the contingents would be the same as those of the British troops at Christmas time, when the 2,500 British soldiers on the island kept the peace between the Greek and Turkish Cypriotes from fighting with each other.

The possibility of stationing U.S. troops on the island to help keep the peace was presumably the main mission of the President's report on Cyprus.

It was about 3 p.m., the spokesman said, when the plane was seen to cross the Iron Curtain on radar was identified with the one that was missing.

The details were delayed until radar reports were received and analyzed, he added. Some time was also taken for consultation with Washington.

The Air Force gave out no information on whether the plane was found to land or was shot down, or on the fate of those aboard. Weather was poor with a light snow in the uplands and a cold drizzle in the valleys.

Hours after the F-105 disappeared there was no word from Communist East Germany to its fate.

The plane was tracked for 11 minutes, flying at 450 to 500 miles an hour, the spokesman said. But he did not disclose
