

Arizona Daily Star

VOLUME XXVIII—Number 80

TUCSON, ARIZONA, TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1896.

PRICE FIVE CENTS

The Arizona National Bank,

Capital, $100,000 Surplus and Profit, $7,300
 BARON M. JACOBI, President. LORNE M. JACOBI, 3d Vice President.
 FRED FISHMAN, Vice President. R. W. WOOD, Cashier.
 Transacts a general banking business. Makes telegraphic transfers. Draws foreign and domestic bills of exchange. Accounts of individuals, firms and corporations solicited.

THE Consolidated National Bank, OF TUCSON.

Capital Paid Up, $50,000.
 M. P. FREEMAN, President.
 W. C. DAVIS, Vice-President.
 H. B. TENNEY, Cashier.
 Collections made on all accessible points and returns promptly remitted.
 Money transferred by telegraph and bills of exchange drawn upon principal cities of the United States and Europe.

Phoenix National Bank.

The Only United States Depository in Arizona.
 Paid Up Capital, $100,000
 U. S. Bonds to Secure Deposits, 50,000.
 Depository for the Territorial Funds.
 The Only Steel Lined Vault and Steel Safety Deposit Boxes in Arizona.
 GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS
 Phoenix, Arizona.

Dear, Windows, Blinds, Shingles, Sash, Mouldings, Cement, Plaster, Lime, Hair, Etc., Acmeon Giant Powder Co.

Tucson Lumber Comp'y

Mill and Mining Timber a Specialty.
 P. O. BOX 134. TUCSON, A. T.

Thomas Hughes Hardware Co

Heavy Hardware, Agricultural Implements, Wagons, Oils and Paints.

Plumbing and Sheet Iron Work, Buckeye Mowing Machines and Rakes.
 Best Wind Mills in the World

W. T. GIBSON. H. D. UNDERWOOD

Underwood & Gibbon.

General Insurance Agents

Representing a line of Foreign, Eastern and Pacific Coast Companies.

Also Deal in Real Estate, Will Negotiate Mines, Congress St; One Door West Arizona National Bank; Tucson;

Celebrated Whitman Hay Balers and Deering Mowers.
 W. J. CORRETT, Tucson.

RESTS WITH THE PRESIDENT

Congress Has Done All It Can Do For Cuba.

Passage by the House by an Overwhelming Majority of the Congressional Resolutions—Will Be Brought to the Attention of the President Today.

Washington, April 6.—The House today adopted the resolutions regarding the Cuban revolution and passed the river and harbor bill under a suspension of the rules.

Eighteen Republicans and nine Democrats voted against the report on the Cuban revolution. After a most determined opposition of those opposed to the recognition of the independence of the United States, the report was adopted by a vote of 238 to 157.

Resolved, that in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the United States of America should maintain neutrality between the contending powers, according to each of the rights of belligerence in part and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further that the friendly office of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Resolved, that in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the United States of America should maintain neutrality between the contending powers, according to each of the rights of belligerence in part and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further that the friendly office of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Resolved, that in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the United States of America should maintain neutrality between the contending powers, according to each of the rights of belligerence in part and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further that the friendly office of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Resolved, that in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the United States of America should maintain neutrality between the contending powers, according to each of the rights of belligerence in part and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further that the friendly office of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

Resolved, that in the opinion of congress a condition of public war exists between the government of Spain and the United States of America should maintain neutrality between the contending powers, according to each of the rights of belligerence in part and territory of the United States.

Resolved, further that the friendly office of the United States should be offered by the president to the Spanish government for the recognition of the independence of Cuba.

of the arrangement was raised from $200,000 to $500,000. Annual payments for the second decade were raised from $200,000 to $500,000 and annual payments by which the remainder of the debt is to be lifted remain at $750,000.

Wm. Butler's Case.
 New York, April 6.—The hearing of arguments for a new trial for Marie Barbot, the Italian woman who murdered her lover, will take place today.

She has been waiting for the United States $4,000 a year, and two months have been constantly at her side, and the law a person on the omnibus to reach must be washed day and night.

South Carolina Democrats.
 Columbia, S. C., April 6.—State Chairman Irby has issued a call for the State Democratic Convention to be held here beginning on Tuesday next.

State of a Married.
 The United States Court has set today as the time for the foreclosure sale of the Grand Rapids and I-land Railway.

Fatally Wounded by a Snow Plow.
 New York, April 6.—Charles F. O'Leary, 20 years old of Philadelphia who during a snow storm about ten miles north of New York, was struck under which he was carried for nearly a mile to a block of his injury at the Grand Central Hotel.

The State Is Ready to Accept.
 St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—Francis Schuster, a traveling salesman, is now at the head of the movement to accept the new tariff.

Did a Horrible Death.
 Panama, Pa., April 6.—David E. Morgan, a man named from Cincinnati, met a horrible death at Stanton yesterday.

Married Her Old Uncle.
 London, N. Y., April 6.—Miss Lottie Hayslip, 22 years old, has married her uncle, Donald McKinney, aged 70.

Way Resists War of His Job.
 Panama, Pa., April 6.—A city councilman opposing Mayor Hayslip presented his resignation, announcing that as a result of office and his new in the approaching bond election an economical time for the citizens to elect his successor.

The Metal Market.
 San Francisco, April 6.—Copper 68 1/2. Tin 100. Lead 100. Zinc 100. Iron 100.

Names Are Not Known.
 Missouri killed a Vienna bank clerk lately who, in counting a pile of bank notes, mistook the figures with his.

A Convict Escaped from the Prison in Lumbago county, Ohio, and concealed himself in a swamp. The newspapers were so anxious and believing there that the convict had from them and surrendered himself to the sheriff.

Highest of all in Leaving. — Least U. S. Gov't Repos.

HARRISON-DIMMICK.

It Is Better to Be Married Than To Be President.

The Wedding Yesterday of General Benjamin Harrison and Mrs. Mary Lord Dimmick—A Relation by Marriage Changed for Another by Marriage.

New York, April 6.—The marriage of Mrs. Mary Lord Dimmick to General Benjamin Harrison was announced at St. Thomas church this afternoon.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

General Benjamin Harrison was born in North Bend, Ohio, in August 1833 and is his 63d year.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

Mrs. Harrison, who is a small but very graceful woman of rather dark complexion and of very bright and alert appearance is related in her early years to the late Mrs. John P. Parker.

After the death of her first husband who lived with her mother and father and Mrs. Lord's father, Dr. Booth, until her mother's death in 1850 when she came to New York City to live with her sister, Mrs. John P. Parker.

today. Mrs. Booth-Tucker began work for the Salvation Army about before she could talk. She was consecrated to the cause soon after birth, and has always been in the work. As a girl of sixteen she was placed in charge of the Training Home and remained in that place until she married Commissioner Tucker. She was then twenty years old. She went to India with Commissioner Booth-Tucker but remained there only a few months. She was married to England at the point of death. The climate nearly killed her for nearly nine years. Mrs. Booth-Tucker has remained her husband as foreign secretary.

Commissioner Booth-Tucker's son has been a stirring one. He was a judge of the ruling class in India. When he came out for the Salvation Army he found his English mother and took to their side the path of the nation.

This consists of a urban, a east and a west side. The right of high estate English birth, whose name was well known at lower India, going about in new look and here have sought the native population at the start. Within four months Tucker, who was by that time a major, had a respectable following. In a year the Salvation Army had a large following.

Commissioner and Mrs. Booth-Tucker were highly accomplished persons. Both Tucker and his wife were, most of them fluently, besides many of the language of India. He had visited nearly every civilized country on the globe and is personally acquainted with all the languages and many of the officers of the forty nine countries in which the Salvation Army has obtained a foothold, and in which it maintains a national organization. Mrs. Booth-Tucker was a woman of high accomplishments long before she was married.

This speaks almost as many languages as he has spoken and besides is a fine singer and musician. The commissioner of the Salvation Army has stated in some quarters that Mrs. Booth-Tucker will try to reconcile Bullington and lead the nation.

Two Brothers Were Two Sisters.
 Worcester, O., April 6.—At the suburban town of Harbuck last night two brothers were married to two sisters. Vernon H. Hopp was made the wife of Vernon H. Hopp and Edna Hopp the wife of Vernon H. Hopp.

THE RED TAIL.
 In a South E. County of Lanyon, but now on the Friendly Islands on a mission for the Marine of shore, writes to his brother that he is getting along pretty well. It was a great task to master the language of the natives of the island, but he has accomplished the work. He expects to return home next year. Several great herons were visited the island during the winter. Mr. Booth says he made the Bulletin register in that for of land and with much interest.

THE NEW COMMANDER.
 A Mass meeting held in honor of the Booth Tuckers.

New York, April 6.—Gen. and Mrs. Booth-Tucker, who have recently arrived in the city to take charge of the Salvation Army in America, spoke at a meeting of Mrs. Booth-Tucker, Booth will receive a testimonial of loyalty from their Salvation cohorts.

The shape of a great monument erected by Carnegie Music Hall and the shape of a great monument erected by Carnegie Music Hall and the shape of a great monument erected by Carnegie Music Hall.

Mr. Booth-Tucker has been chief of the foreign office, and changing from one country to another. Mrs. Booth-Tucker's address are marked enough to insure that the Booth-Tuckers are tried of this wandering life, and have been endeavoring to get the American command.

Great things are expected of Mr. Booth-Tucker, and she is tall as her brother, Bullington, who is a six footer. Her features are regular, and, though strong in every lineament, none is so pronounced as in her nose. Her complexion is soft and clear. She has the robust, aggressive air of a thoroughly healthy Englishwoman. As a platform and drawing-room speaker she is said to be incomparable. She has no equal anywhere outside of America anyway. There will be many of course who will hold that she is not as powerful as Mrs. Bullington Booth, but a comparison will be hard to make, because Mrs. Bullington Booth's most successful public appearances have had to do with the raising of money for the army. Mrs. Emma goes more for social service. That is her especial forte.

Mrs. Booth-Tucker is only about thirty-one years old. She has been married almost three years and has five children. One of these is not yet two months old, and it is because of Mrs. Booth-Tucker's condition that the trip to America was delayed. Four of the children are her own. The other is a little boy that she adopted a few years ago. Mrs. Booth-Tucker has always been fond of children. She has reared and raised scores of them, some of whom are officers in the Salvation Army.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

Several English writers have endeavored to prove that the Indians are the discoverers of the New World. Most of the arguments are drawn from a story Mrs. Booth-Tucker has recorded in a pamphlet in the Jews, but were, in fact, common to the early days of the human race.

No. 1 Youling Powder
 ABSOLUTELY PURE