

The Walton Tribune

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 2019 Covering Walton County Like the Sunshine

Sports » B1

LCA comes to end of the line

Lions play final GISA regular season game

Business » C1

Cities loosen alcohol laws

Getting a drink locally is easier than it used to be

Opinions » A4

Grizzard in the Hall of Fame

A whole generation doesn't know Kathy Sue Loudermilk

The Word

The LORD does not look at the things people look at. People look at the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart.

— 1 Samuel 16:7

Sports

Champs!

The 12-and-under Central Walton Packers win the county championship. B2

» LCA boys basketball team stepping up in competition this year before going to GHSA in 2020-21. B2

Calendar

Who's cutest?

We're looking for the cutest kids and pets in Walton County for our upcoming calendar. C2

Deaths C8

Richard Reeves Felker

Atlanta

Mary Eugene 'Jean' Poole

Loganville

Payton Michael Purvis

Watkinsville

Voters get their say

Andrew Kenneson | The Tribune

Donald Stapp votes Tuesday morning in the Community Room in Social Circle. Voters in the city were choosing a mayor, deciding a City Council seat and picking two members of the city school board. Get results online at WaltonTribune.com.

» Social Circle, Walnut Grove voters choose mayor

» Get election returns online at WaltonTribune.com

From staff reports
news@waltontribune.com

Voters trickled into polling places in four Walton County cities on Tuesday to choose leaders in municipal elections.

Look for results online at WaltonTribune.com.

Social Circle and Walnut Grove led the way with mayor's races. Voters in those cities, plus Loganville and Monroe, were filling seats on the City Council as well, and two seats on the Social Circle Board of Education also were up for election.

One of the people voting early Tuesday was also on the ballot, Councilman Nathan Little. He was running for reelection to the District 7 seat in Monroe.

"I feel good. I just hope people turn out," he said at St. Alban's Episcopal Church. "I hope it all works out."

See Voters » Page A3

Stephen Milligan | The Tribune

Councilman Nathan Little casts his vote Tuesday in an otherwise empty polling place at St. Alban's Episcopal Church in Monroe.

Woman going on trial for vehicular homicide

Monroe | Driver's son dies in 2017 crash

By David Clemons
david.clemons@waltontribune.com

MONROE — A woman accused of killing her child by drunken driving nearly two years ago was to go on trial this week.

Jasmine Keyosha Chandler, 36, is on the docket for a trial in Walton County Superior Court before Judge Ken Wynne Jr.

Chandler faces two counts of first-degree homicide by vehicle, two counts of serious injury by vehicle, driving under the influence (less safe), reckless driving and disregarding a traffic control device.

She was driving on the day after Christmas 2017 when she allegedly ran a stop light at East Church Street and South Madison Avenue in Monroe, causing a crash that killed her 12-

year-old son, Sean Thomas.

A state trooper told The Walton Tribune at the time Chandler was driving north on South Madison

See Trial » Page A3

Chandler

Subscribe and save
Call 770.267.8373

Volume 120, No. 89 | $1

WEDNESDAY
THURSDAY

69° 46° 0%
the high the low precipitation

67° 47° 60%
the high the low precipitation

» get updates at WaltonTribune.com/weather

Local News

Veterans

Georgia State honors students who have served our country. A3

Inside your newspaper

BusinessC1 | FoodC9
CalendarA2 | OpinionsA4
ClassifiedsC3 | SportsB1

Next: A full report on Tuesday's elections, and a look ahead to the 2020 ballot. » Weekend