What have YOU given to win this war?"

That was the challenge issued to the people of the U. S. by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan of Water- lough, whose five sons, 20 to 28 years old, have been missing in action in the navy since July.

Speaking from New York in a broad- cast of "We, the People," the Sullivans avoided mention of their own great grief, which had a greater effort toward victory by the people as a whole.

They said the thought of the 21 minutes of silence "were the happy days when the men were home and not in action." Mrs. Sullivan said that if she could pull her heart out of her body she would, but she must brave the grief for the sake of the country.

"We're not going to stop, nobody's going to stop until the war is won," she said.

"What a wonderful thing it would be to have all the men back," she said. "We would have to be thankful for what we have and what we have given up, and we would have to be thankful for what we are fighting for."
