

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan. Park Commissioner Dick Street

Park Dedicated to Sullivan Brothers

The Waterloo Board of Park Commissioners has named a park at the corner of Maxwell St. and Stratford Ave. after the famed five Sullivan brothers of Waterloo who lost their lives in World War II.

The move to name the tract after the Sullivans followed a study by the commissioners to pick an appropriate name for what was previously called Maxwell Park.

The name Sullivan was unanimously agreed upon to commemorate the heroic sacrifice of the five Sullivan brothers, George, Francis, Eugene, Madison and Albert, who were killed when their ship, the USS Juneau, was sunk in the Pacific by the Japanese.

WATERLOO veterans' organizations are considering incorporating a bronze plaque with the existing Sullivan

Park identification sign listing the facts of the tragedy.

The park sign was recently constructed and erected by park department crews. The sign sets within a stone planter that will be planted with evergreens and flowers.

Recently the entire turf areas in the 9.2-acre park were thoroughly reconditioned. Some areas have been improved and a number of new trees planted.

A WATER LINE has been extended into the park to provide drinking fountains and a second baseball diamond with a new all-steel backstop was recently constructed. A basketball court currently is in the planning stage.

The parents of the Sullivan brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Sullivan, live at 2028 E. 4th St.
