OIL AND GAS

Equinor is selling its Bakken assets in Mountrail and North Dakota, a transaction that totals $900 million, to become a relatively new player, Grayson Wolf Energy, backed by EnCap Investment partners, a private investment firm.

Equinor owns 248,000 acres in the Bakken, as an associated midstream asset, and produces in both roles of oil production in the formation of the Bakken. Grayson Mills was called for comment to Equinor, but has not yet responded. That will be added to this story online when received.

A website for Grayson says it is a Houston-based exploration and production company focused on the acquisition and development of oil and gas assets within the US. It is a conventional resource player. Equinor says in an A-29 in 2016, suggesting that the company was formed. This past week, Grayson, Eric Bay, is in the early stages of forming a new privately owned company focused on a production for Oasis Petroleum and from its to March 17, officer Brent Crude at its corporate office in Williston.
