Our Homeless Men Column

Why are we ignoring homeless men?

Dear Healthy Men: I see you — the face of homeless men, a face that is often unseen. This is not meant for human habitation, and my office is not meant for human habitation, and my office is not meant for human habitation, and my office is not meant for human habitation. I am writing this letter to bring awareness to the issue of homelessness and to highlight the experiences of homeless men.

This is especially true for single men and homeless men — men who are not building their home or providing for their families. Health care or a quiet place to rest. Consider supporting one of the nation's largest homeless organizations, which provides health care to the homeless community. You can choose from a variety of options, including those advertised through local media.

People living on the street or in shelters are exposed to infectious diseases, violence and weather extremes. This includes the medications necessary to combat the face of homelessness.
