

Featured pet

Quinn, male, 3-year-old Siberian Husky. He was found with a muzzle full of porcupine quills. An animal control officer took him to the emergency vet, then brought him to the shelter. Quinn could not eat and became malnourished since his mouth was full of quills. The officer then came to the shelter and fed him every hour through the night. He's sweet and quiet, housebroken, likes children and other dogs.

Featured pet:

Athena is a 1-1/2 year old female shepherd mix. She is smart, active and loves to run and play. She would do best in a home with older children. She knows basic commands, is good with other dogs, but would need to meet them first before being adopted.
